OAS IN CUBA CRACKDOWN

WASHINGTON, Sunday (AP) — Foreign ministers of the American republics by a 15-4 vote early today slapped diplomatic and economic sanctions on Communist Cuba, denounced the Fidel Castro regime for aggression against Venezuela, and threatened to use armed force if the Havana government continues its subversive activities against hemisphere nations.

The historic decision of the hemisphere's foreign ministers, meeting in their ninth consultative session, was voted shortly after midnight Saturday at a plenary session in the Organization of American States' headquarters building.

It was one of the toughest actions taken collectively by American nations since Castro came into power Jan. 1, 1959. It will be formally signed at 11 a.m. today.

It went far beyond the declaration of the eighth conference of foreign ministers, held at Punta del Este, Uruguay, in January, 1962, which declared the Castro regime incompatible with the inter-American system.

An attempt was made at the seventh conference, held in August, 1960 at San Jose, Costa Rica, to outlaw the Castro regime but the pressure there was so strong against denunciation of Cuba that a watered-down declaration resulted. It attacked instead, a threat of Soviet Russia to rain rockets on the United States if it committed aggression against Cuba, but did not even mention Cuba by name.

Today's action represented a mandatory call—without a time limit — on all American republics not to maintain diplomatic or consular relations with Cuba so long as that country is under Communist domination. It also orders a suspension of all trade with Cuba except for foods, medicines and medical supplies required for humanitarian reasons, and forbids all sea transportation between Latin America and Cuba.

How Mexico and the other countries which opposed sanctions will respond to the majority decision remains to be seen. Bolivia announced it would comply and Uruguay is expected to follow suit. Chile might do so after its September presidential elections if an anti-Communist government is elected there.

The conference voted to "condemn energetically the present government of Cuba for its acts of aggression and of intervention" against Venezuela, which brought the complaint against the Castro regime to the Organization of American States last year.

The declaration also contained a provision authorizing any American republic, singly or in groups, to use armed force against Cuba if the Castro regime continues its aggression against hemisphere nations.

Aimed chiefly at Great Britain and France, which have been selling transport equipment to Cuba, was a provision urging non-hemisphere states outside the Communist bloc to "examine the possibility" of sup-

Boy, 10, Safe; Kept His Spirits and Pants Up

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP)—A 10-year-old boy, whose biggest worry was keeping his pants up, was found Saturday by two rangers after being missing for one week in a lonely, remote area of Yosemite National Park.

The discovery came as a massive search was being disbanded and the rangers were heading back to their camp.

John Ireland Jr., an unfrightened city boy from Los Angeles, walked in circles for seven days and lived off his own fat, doctors at Lewis Memorial Hospital said. He lost so much weight he had to hold up his trousers with his hand.

Rangers Gil Hall and Jim Riley found the youngster only three miles from the Harden Lake campsite 7,000 feet up near Tuolumne Meadow from which he had wandered last Saturday, July 18. He walked three miles back to camp with the rangers and then was driven 35 miles to the hospital, where doctors said he was in good condition.

* * * *

HE DISAPPEARED about 10 minutes after he and his family had arrived for the first wilderness campout of their lives.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ireland, and their 12-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, were ready to return to Los Angeles when news came about 4 p.m. that John was found.

The discovery, about one-half mile from a road, ended a search in which nearly 350 men had participated.

In addition, a helicopter with a loudspeaker hovered over the area all week calling for the boy.

* * * *

"IT'S AMAZING," said one doctor. "He ate nothing but water. The boy is talking—you'd hardly know he had taken a hike."

Jack Nolan, a Yosemite management aide, said young Ireland apparently could have lasted an additional five days. The boy curled up at night in a protected spot that shielded him. Temperatures ranged in the high 30s.

"Now that he's been found, we don't have to go home," his father said at the hospital. "We're all going to stay and go fishing."

L.B. Man Lost Over Park Falls

Kenneth W. Gelston, 22, of Long Beach, a summer employe at Glacier National Park, Mont., was missing and presumed dead Saturday after tumbling about 70 feet over St. Mary Falls on the east side of the northern Rocky Mountain park.

Searchers worked until dark in a rugged gorge below the falls searching for his body.

This was Gelston's fifth season as an employe of Glacier Park, Inc. He was an auditor at Rising Sun Motor Inn. Park officials said he was at the top of his first year law school class at Stanford University.

The youth, a graduate of Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn., was at Stanford on a law scholarship. He had been elected to the University's Law Review last month.

* * * *

PARK SUPT. Keith Neison said Gelston and a companion were hiking at the top of the falls. Gelston apparently went to the edge to look over the cliff or to get a drink. The companion heard a scream and Gelston had disappeared.

Gelston was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gelston of 1916 San Anseline Ave.

He is survived by three sisters, one a waitress at the East Glacier Lodge. The other two, Sally, 14, and Kay, 6, are at the Long Beach home. The Gelston family moved here from Dolan, South Dakota, a year ago.

Laughing Gypsies to Bury King

Serbian Gypsies from all over the nation are converging today on Los Angeles to laugh at the funeral of their king.

Tall, handlebar-mustached George Adams, king since 1940 to the nation's 75,000 Serbian Gypsies, died Friday at 62.

As the word spread through the Gypsy world, his followers began the trek to Southern California to pay homage to their monarch and elect his successor.

Although funeral arrangements for the Romany monarch were not completed Saturday, a stepgrandson said he would receive the last rites of the Catholic Church and be buried at rites in accordance with Gypsy custom.

* * * *

MOURNERS will laugh, not cry, at Adams' funeral, said John Stevens. He added, "We will probably have a procession through the streets with a brass band and throw money in the casket to speed him to heaven."

Adams' death, after an illness of several months, was the signal for ancient mourning rites in Gypsy colonies throughout the nation, tribe spokesmen said.

Traditionally, at the death of their monarch, women remove their long gold earrings and other jewelry and leave their hair uncombed. Men do not shave and no one washes with soap.

Adams' father, Mark, had been elected king in 1931 at a national encampment of Serbian Gypsies in San Pedro. The elder Adams died in 1940 in Los Angeles, and George, eldest of his three sons, succeeded him.

* * * *

ADAMS' leadership was contended in a 1957 Superior Court suit brought by his fromer brother-in-law, Thomas Merino, but the suit was dropped after an amicable settlement out-of-court.

Multimillionaire George H. Capron paid a return visit to Orange County Saturday — and it almost cost him a lot of money.

Capron, evicted from his home in a divorce action, staying with friends in Long Beach, and "really busted," as he told a Los Angeles judge last week, went to his real estate office in Huntington Beach "to buy a little piece of land."

Capron told Huntington Beach police that his wallet turned up missing when he reached for money to close the land deal.

Tracing his journey — and stops — police asked Seal Beach authorities to check the rest room in a service station at Marine Avenue and Pacific Coast Highway, where Capron had stopped.

On the white tile floor, Capron's black leather wallet was found: In it were a cashier's check for $166,038, and $23,476 cash.

GUEST OF L.B. FRIENDS

Multimillionaire Capron 'Homeless'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Multimillionaire George H. Capron, the former baseball player turned real estate magnate, has hit on hard times—again.

His wife got $16 million of his estimated $30 million estate last week and, as Capron puts it:

"I don't even have a home to go to now."

* * * *

THE DIVORCE settlement, believed to be one of the largest ever, gave Mrs. Ednah Race Capron, 74, their Newport Beach home, a $180,000 apartment house and 860 acres of land in a valuable residential development near Laguna Beach.

Capron, who'll be 78 Monday, is staying with friends, the C. W. Artmans, of 6515 Seaside Walk in Long Beach while he plans the next move in a fabulous financial career.

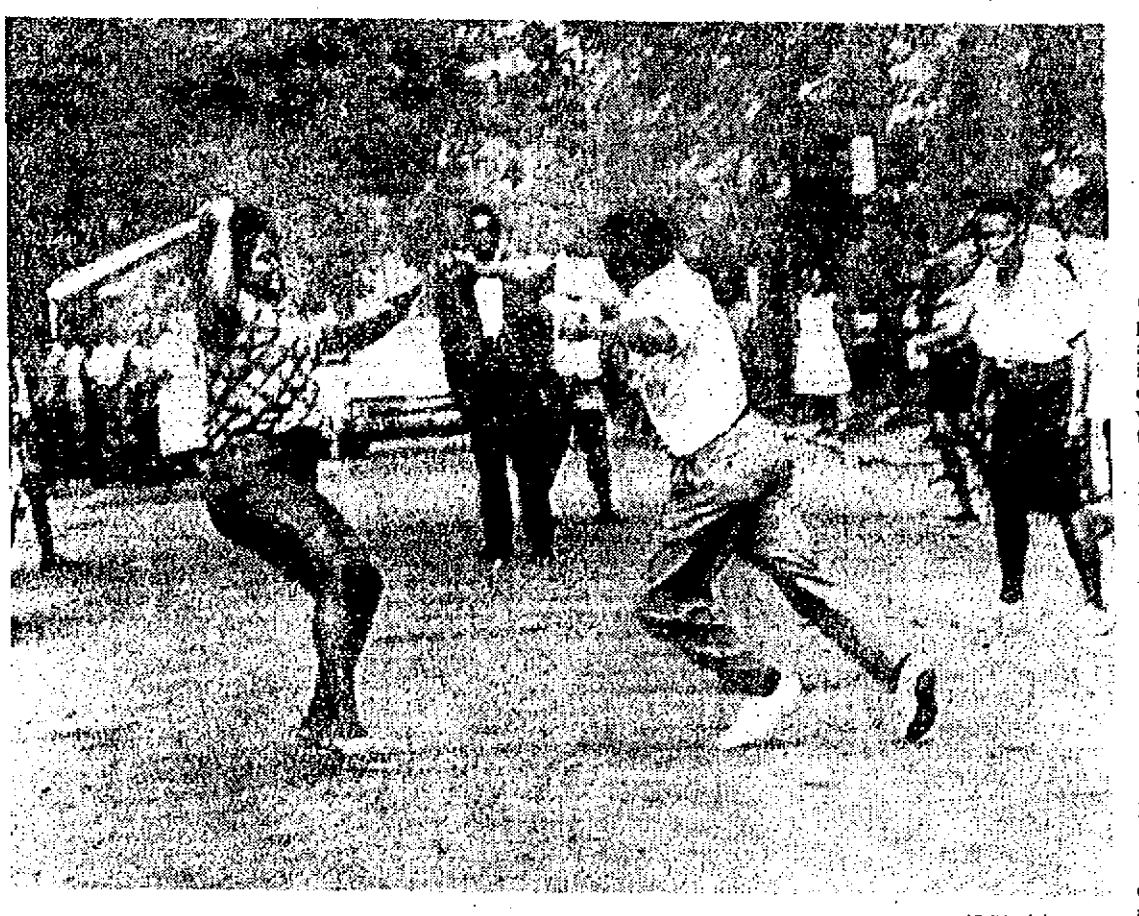

* * * *

BORN IN Minneapolis, Capron grew up in a poor but hard-working family, then won an athletic scholarship to Saltuck Military Academy in Minnesota.

He quit school at 15 to play professional baseball for minor leagues in the South, then returned to the University of Minnesota

Mobs Defy Curfew in Rampage

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—One white man was reported killed Saturday night as new racial riots erupted in defiance of a curfew ordered in an effort to prevent renewal of violence that began Friday night.

Police said the man reportedly was knocked down in mid-street by a looter who left him to be run over by an automobile.

* * * *

ANOTHER death was reported in a riot area but it was not known immediately whether that death was connected with the violence.

Groups of Negroes in automobiles sped from one part of the city to another, hurling stones, smashing windows and looting stores in a hit-and-run manner.

The worst outbreak was on the west side of the city, a neat, residential area into which Negroes have been moving recently.

It was subdued by about 100 state troopers rushed to the scene by bus. They fired tear gas and one policeman fired a shot into the air.

* * * *

THIS section is about a mile and a half from Joseph Avenue, a Negro tenement section where the rioting began Friday night.

When the temporary truce settled during daylight Saturday, police counted more than 90 persons injured and more than 100 in jail on the felony charge of rioting.

Only an occasional rock or bottle was tossed Saturday night in the Joseph Avenue section, where police cleared the streets at the curfew deadline.

HUNDREDS of police patrolled the area at the start of the night but the number was cut sharply as rein-

Crews Gain on Big Fire

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Tired firefighting crews Saturday brought a five-day brush - and - timber fire that has blackened more than 17,000 acres so close to containment that some crews were expected to be released during the night.

"We fully expect to have the fire contained by 6 a.m. Sunday," a spokesman for the California Division of Forestry said.

He said some state crews would probably be released Saturday night and that the U.S. Forest Service was establishing a rest camp at nearby Norton Air Force Base where some of its crews could be kept on a standby basis for several days in event of flareups.

There were a few hot spots to be mopped up along the fireline before full containment could be announced.

Winds that had hampered firefighters for several days did not become as strong Saturday.

Blast Razes Home, Burns Woman, 27

A 27-year-old Compton woman, Mrs. Clarice Stokes, of 2640 W. Caldwell St., was burned seriously Saturday night when an explosion destroyed her home.

The woman, admitted to Las Campanas Hospital with second and third-degree burns, told police she disconnected a gas line to her stove, connected a garden hose to the outlet and placed the hose in the living room to await death.

The blast rocked the area and exploded debris over a 100-foot-square area.

Ranger-7 Poised for Trip to Moon

The 806-pound camera-laden craft is designed to snap 4,000 closeup photos of the unknown lunar surface before it crashes on the moon.

Communist Held, N.Y. Parade Isn't

NEW YORK (AP) — Police broke up an intended anti-police parade in strife-torn Harlem Saturday, dispersed the intended marchers and arrested their Communist ringleader.

The leader, William Epton, a Negro and avowed Communist, was bundled into a police car shortly after he arrived at the starting point at Lenox Avenue and 116th Street.

He protested that his followers only intended a peaceful walk but a Negro policeman told him:

"You are under arrest."

Instead of the thousands of paraders that Epton had predicted only about 300 marchers and spectators were on hand at the scheduled 4 p.m. starting time.

* * * *

A HEAVY DETAIL of helmeted police waded in- to them, shoving them from the intersection and shouting to them to go home.

The parade was intended to stress Negro charges of police brutality — a recurring complaint since rioting broke out in Harlem a week ago.

The disorders were sparked by the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy by a white policeman who said the boy was coming at him with a knife.

Police who broke up the parade also arrested Conrad J. Lynn, Epton's attorney.

Bandit Kills Store Clerk

A "blackface" bandit Saturday night shot and killed a San Pedro clerk in the robbery of McCowan's Market, 157 N. Bandini St.

A man described as a Mexican, 5 feet 3, who had covered his face with black shoe polish, shot three times at Neal Pilato, about 47 years old, of 860 W. Third St., San Pedro, according to sheriff's investigators. Pilato was pronounced dead on arrival at San Pedro Community Hospital.

Marine Jet Plows Into House, 3 Die

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—A jet fighter plowed through a house where two spinster sisters were entertaining guests Saturday, killing three persons.

Dead were the pilot of the plane and the two spinsters, Miss I. V. Cassidy, 61, and her sister Estelle, 58.

A friend, Miss Idell Pickens, 58, was critically burned. She was found in the yard crying for help.

A third sister was shopping at a grocery store when the Marine fighter rammed the house, and a Baptist minister visiting the sisters had left only a few minutes before the crash.

The FIE Fury was making an approach to land at the Naval air station a mile from here when it ripped through the small frame house from one end to another, leveling it and setting the wreckage afire.

Chunks of the plane bounded across the lawn and into the street.

James Moss said he and a companion saw one of the women in the burning house and tried to rescue her. She was alive, he said, when they reached her but her clothing was afire. They tried to pull her out but she was trapped in the wreckage.

L.A.C. Says:
This Is Inflation in This Country

A friend of many years brought to me his income-tax form for 1925 which he found among his papers. He was a salesman and 1925 was a good year for him. His net earnings for the year were $6,000. His federal income tax was $5.46. By comparison, he had the 1964 tax estimate for his 30-year-old son, whose income will be just about $6,000 for the year. On this $6,000 the son will pay $377—an increase of 70 times. In each case, the family was composed of the man, wife and two children. This does not include Social Security taxes as there were none in 1925—but they total over $350 for the average worker and employer in 1964.

These comparisons caused me to look at the cost-of-living index. In 1925 the inflation trend was in full force which resulted four years later in the great 1929-39 depression. By comparison, in 1925 the cost-of-living index stood at 124 of the 1939 level of 100. In 1964 it stands at 222. If all increased taxes and living-cost increases are considered, it would take over $12,000 income today to equal $6,000 40 years ago.

After the 1929 crash, the cost of living dropped rapidly and by 1939 it stood at 100—considered a normal year. But then it started up and today it is 222. This means it takes $13,000 to equal what $6,000 would buy only 25 years ago. The pension or insurance dollar of 1939 is worth 45 cents today. It is being eroded each year. Another inflation spurt can quickly reduce it further. It is tragic to all who must live on fixed incomes.

The 1925 federal income-tax form allowed exemption of $3,500 for the man and wife plus $400 for each child. That is $3,900 exemption for a family of four. Today it is $2,400. The itemized deductions are about the same for the 1925 father and his 1964 son. But the tax on the net was 1.5% in 1925. It is over 14 times as much today.

In 1925, the federal debt was $21 billion compared to $324 billion today. This year we will pay interest on this debt equal to 50% of the total debt 40 years ago. Of course, a large part of the increased debt is due to the cost of World War II and the Korean War. But we have increased the debt by $50 billion the past 10 peacetime years. Each year we add to it and the cost of interest.

In 1925, the federal government expenditures totaled $2.8 billion. This year the federal expenditures will total an estimated $122.1 billion. This includes about $98 billion for the general budget and $24 billion for Social Security and other similar programs. But it means total federal spending is up 430% for a period when population has increased about 67%. In other words, federal expenditures have increased six times more than population.

The older man was concerned because he was past his earning years. On his accumulated savings and Social Security he now has a total income of slightly less than the income he had in 1925. But his $6,000 now will buy less than half of what it bought in 1925. He gets along with comforts. But he points out that only 15% of over-65-year-old-man-and-wife families have this much income. Half of them have less than $2,000 a year. These people really know what inflation has done—and fear what it may be in the future.

The young man has not been concerned because he has grown up during this inflation. He lives on his $6,000 which is about the average income for those now employed. But, when his father showed him how his living standards had been reduced by inflation, the young man started to get worried. If it could cut the value of the dollar in half in 25 years—what will it be when he reaches his father's present age? The young family is now more interested in their government's deficits and the mounting debt that has largely been responsible for depreciation of the dollar's buying power.—L.A.C.

BUMPS AND GRINDS with a difference keep Judette Banket, 24, of San Francisco busy day times in the auto-body shop of which she is part owner. At night she poses for the house artist in a barroom. Her hometown is Hamtramck, Mich., a Detroit suburb.

She Makes Bodies Pay: Cars' and Hers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Judette Banket has a double interest in bodies—car bodies and her own.

She makes both pay off.

Daytime, the 24-year-old music major graduate of Wayne State University, Detroit, works with a partner in a car-body shop.

At night she poses nude in a bar for a house artist and patrons.

Of her day job:

"My father gave me an old Lincoln when I was 17. When the generator pooped out, I took it out, determined that the shaft was bent and replaced it. That taught me a girl can live in what used to be a man's world."

Of her night work:

"After the first shock value has worn off, there is more to be found of grace, beauty line and form in a body than many people assume. People are civilized. They see what they are looking for. I think most of them see something beautiful."

Driver Held After L.B. Woman Dies in Crash

A Long Beach woman was killed and two persons were in serious condition at Pacific Hospital Saturday following a three-car collision at Pacific Coast Highway and Magnolia Avenue.

Dead is Ruth Marcum, 49, of 2260 Eucalyptus Ave., a passenger in a fiberglass sports car which shattered when a pickup truck crashed into it at 4:20 p.m. She is Long Beach's 38th traffic fatality this year.

Warren Buckboro, 50, of 505 Marine St., driver of the sports car, was pronounced in serious condition.

* * * *

HELD on felony-manslaughter charges is Raymond Pheil, 51, of 10806 Cord St., Downey. Investigating officers Paul Chastain and Al Covarubias, said Pheil's pickup truck, eastbound on PCH, ran a red light, just missed a city bus and crashed into the sports car which was southbound on Magnolia.

Pheil's wife, Isolle, 41, is also in serious condition. Also injured was Mrs. Margaret Adams, 45, a passenger in a third car which was struck by the careening sports car. Her husband, William, 54, of 3224 Oregon Ave., the driver, was uninjured.

Thant Visits Homeland; 1st in 3½ Years

RANGOON, Burma (UPI)—United Nations Secretary General Thant returned to his homeland Saturday for the first time in 3½ years and said force is not the answer to the problems of Communist-beset Southeast Asia.

Thant said on his arrival at Rangoon Airport that a political solution should be found to end the fighting in South Viet Nam and Laos. He added that he was speaking as a private citizen since neither dispute has been placed before the United Nations.

The secretary general also said he expected France to play an increasingly active role in all aspect of U.N. affairs. Thant conferred with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris earlier this week.

Demo Candidate Conference Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 350 Democratic candidates for the House and Senate have been invited to a three-day conference featuring a meeting with President Johnson at the White House.

The Democratic National Committee announced Saturday that its 1964 Congressional Candidates Conference will be held here Aug. 6.

The candidates, including incumbents, will take part in discussions with cabinet officers, agency heads and White House aides.

Dangerous Texas Oil Fire Halted

KILGORE, Tex. (UPI)—An oil well fire that threatened to turn downtown Kilgore into an inferno was tapped out at 8:35 p.m. EDT Saturday.

The fire had raged out of control for several hours in a half-block section that contains 15 producing wells.

Flames boiled up as high as 100 feet at the height of the fire and thick, black smoke was seen as far as five miles away.

Eleven firemen were hospitalized from exhaustion and smoke inhalation but none of the injuries was serious.

* * * *

UNITS FROM Kilgore, Longview and Overton fought the fire with a water and foam spray but the best they could do was keep the rig from collapsing and setting the whole block on fire.

It was a special unit from the Texas Eastman Co., an oil well servicing firm, that finally put out the blaze with a special chemical powder mixed with water and sprayed under high pressure.

There was no estimate of damage.

Maribel, Who Fought Mystery Illness, Dies

SAN LUIS, Sonora, Mex. (UPI)—Maribel Olea, the two-year-old tyke who drew nationwide attention while she battled an unknown ailment for months in a Los Angeles hospital, died early Saturday.

The tot became ill Friday and was treated at a doctor's office. Her mother, Mrs. Blanca Olea, 34, took her home, but the girl's condition grew worse and she died about 1:30 a.m. at the office of another doctor. Cause of death was not determined.

Maribel's medical history started last Oct. 15, when she was brought to Yuma suffering a massive infection from what was believed to be an insect or reptile bite. She was transferred to Los Angeles where she underwent extensive treatment at Children's Hospital.

During the course of her stay there, is was estimated that as many as 200 staff doctors had worked to save her life. After the infection was halted, she had to undergo repeated skin grafts to repair the damage caused by the unknown infection.

She was released from the hospital last May and doctors called her recovery a "medical miracle."

Funeral service was held at noon Saturday.

Mrs. Olea is a waitress in this border town south of Yuma. The father is dead.

Goldwater to Huddle on Staff Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater and the men who will be top hands in the Republican's bid for the presidency sit down Monday to go over organizational plans.

On hand will be Dean Burch, the young new chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Denison Kitchel, the Arizona senator's campaign director, as well as staff aides.

One of the major tasks to be decided is the filling of a dozen top staff spots within the national committee.

* * * *

"THIS IS where you take a look at what you've done and start gluing it together," an aide to Goldwater said of the campaign-talk gathering.

Here, too, more than likely, will be given the first look at the numerous requests from state Republican chairmen and others who want Goldwater for campaign appearances.

The GOP nominee continued Saturday working at his apartment, as he has since returning from the nominating convention at San Francisco.

It was assumed the staff appointments to be made probably will come before Goldwater leaves Thursday for a week of rest in California.

* * * *

HE IS scheduled to fly to Bohemia Grove, north of San Francisco, Thursday, then Saturday go to Newport Beach to join Mrs. Goldwater. They have vacationed there for several years.

By the time Goldwater returns to Washington around Aug. 6, he will have less than two weeks before kicking off his campaign.

The formal kickoff of the nominee is to come at Prescott, Ariz., sometime the week of Aug. 16-22, although the exact date is still to be nailed down. This will be about a week before the Democrats hold their national convention in Atlantic City, N. J.

"Lucky Prescott" is where Goldwater has kicked off each of his successful political campaigns.

"I'LL SIT DOWN IF YOU WILL!" Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, a surprise spectator at the USA-USSR track meet Saturday at the Los Angeles Coliseum, created near bedlam when autograph seekers crowded around his party in the stands. Kennedy, in shirtsleeves and eating ice cream, finally had to ask the crowd to "down in back" so that others could see. (See story on Sports Page E-1.)

Freeman Says Barry War Threat

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said Saturday that Sen. Barry Goldwater's political philosophy would make him a "trigger-happy" President.

Attacking Goldwater for a "lack of faith" in America, Freeman told a Democratic fund-raising rally that the Republican presidential nominee was actually a threat to world peace.

"The last thing this nation can afford in this nuclear age is the election of a trigger-happy President," Freeman said.

The real answer to the problem of finding peace, Freeman said, was not "bluster and bluff," but the proven ways followed by the Democratic administrations.

He urged his audience to reject "extremism of the right or the left," and continue to support the "traditional and time proven American system of government."

* * * *

TURNING to farm matters, Freeman said that under a Democratic administration agriculture exports in 1964 soared to an all-time high of $6.2 billion—a 20% increase over last year. Net income per farm was up 17% since 1960, and employment at an all time high.

In contrast to the "positive" Democratic program, Freeman said the only thing Goldwater had to offer was an acceptance speech that showed "once again that what GOP really stands for is grouchy old pessimists."

At their San Francisco convention, Freeman said the Republicans showed contempt for simple "courtesy and decency."

"We witnessed and heard an absence of tolerance . . . a lack of respect for the right of opposition to be heard fairly," Freeman said.

According to Freeman, what the demonstrations showed was that the Republicans lacked respect for the "American spirit of fair play." There was awesome disregard for the responsibilities of power, Freeman said.

LBJ Confident His Economies Pay Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson is firmly confident that his economy-in-government program is paying rich dividends — not only in reduced federal spending, but with an improved relationship with business, labor and the public.

And he intends to keep pushing his economy program with a slogan for the nation: Prosperity with stability.

It is possible to report these and other views of the chief executive from conversations with White House sources who requested no direct attribution.

* * * *

JOHNSON realizes that some people may attempt to laugh off some of the smaller savings achieved in government. But he believes these small economies mount up rapidly and serve to instill greater confidence in government and the national economy by business, labor unions and consumers.

The President at times become preoccupied by the steady stream of statistical government reports—from the Budget Bureau, his Council of Economic Advisers, the Treasury and the Commerce Department. He is seldom without sheets of late figures in his hands or close by on his desk.

For example, the chief executive was particularly pleased Saturday to hear from the Budget Bureau that in the three months ended June 30, management and improvement programs within the government produced "verified savings" of more than $100 million on an annual basis.

He met late Saturday with Budget Director Kermit Gordon to discuss guidelines for the future.

As the President devoted most of Saturday to working in his office with staff members and going over his beloved economic reports, these other Johnson positions were described authentically by White House officials:

—He has not yet made up a list from which he will select a vice-presidential choice. When he has discussed this with his staff and intimates, his position has been that what he wants in a running mate is a man with some extensive political experience, background training and wisdom sufficient to enable him to take over the presidency if it became necessary.

The President declined to describe what he considered an ideal running mate when asked for such an appraisal at a news conference Friday.

Louisiana's Rep. Hebert Leads Voting

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— F. Edward Hebert, dean of the Louisiana delegation in the House of Representatives, appeared headed for a first primary victory Saturday in his bid for a 13th straight term in Congress.

Hebert, of New Orleans, ran up 5,845 votes to a combined 2,294 for his three opponents in the first 39 of 257 precincts reported.

He was one of four incumbent congressmen challenged by fellow Democrats in the primaries.

Rep. Gillis Long of Alexandria appeared headed for a neck-and-neck fight with his distant cousin, Speedy O. Long of Jena, in their 8th District race.

Sixth District Congressman James Morrison of Hammond took a commanding lead over his six opponents in their southeast Louisiana primary.

President, Reporters Talk, Walk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson had reporters in for coffee and conversation Saturday — almost a regular occurrence when he remains in Washington over the weekend—then swung around the south lawn of the White House to the delight of tourists.

Johnson chatted informally with reporters for about an hour in his White House office. The First Lady, seated slightly behind the President in his big oval office, made one of her rare appearances at such a session.

* * * *

JOHNSON held a televised news conference Friday, so few reporters expected any activity at the White House Saturday. However, Johnson's reputation is such that 35 to 40 were on hand when Press Secretary George Reedy invited them into the President's office.

As the session ended, Johnson said, "I'm going for a walk around the block, if you want to come along."

Most of the reporters did, and much of the time Lady Bird had trouble finding a place beside her husband in the crush around the President. Before the walk was over, she was trailing behind, conducting her own informal session with female reporters.

* * * *

WALKING around the driveway, Johnson swung down to the southeast gate and shook hands with the few tourists that spotted him. He stayed there about 10 minutes, as the tourists swarmed about the gate.

Then the President and First Lady, accompanied by reporters, strolled back up to the White House.

Klan Leader Declares for Goldwater

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia's top Ku Klux Klan official joined other dissident Democrats Saturday in support of Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidency.

Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta became the first Klan leader to announce endorsement of the Republican nominee, whose convention victory followed a floor fight in which the Klan was the target of an unsuccessful censure effort.

Craig, 32, emphasized that his decision to support Goldwater was based not on personality but the issues between the major parties. He is a candidate for the state Senate in the Sept. 9 Democratic primary.

"I'm going to be a Goldwater Democrat," Craig said. "It is not necessarily Goldwater himself; it is just that the people are going to have a choice of voting for states rights and constitutional government or for going down the road to socialism.

"With Goldwater, we've got a chance to regain states rights."

LIGHTBURN FOR PRESIDENT!

Backroom Grocery Campaign Launched

JANE LEW, W. Va., (UPI) —Joseph B. Lightburn, new presidential nominee of the Constitution Party of the United States, plans to conduct his campaign from the backroom of his grocery in this rural community.

Lightburn, who wrested the nomination from Bert Ellis of Houston, Tex., at the party's national convention in Houston on Friday, had supported Alabama Gov. George Wallace until Wallace pulled his hat from the ring.

While the 60 delegates held meetings on how to get Lightburn into the White House, his family was busy cleaning up the back room.

LIGHTBURN'S SON, Joseph Jr., 34, said he was planning to help by running a mimeograph machine. "I'm the only one who can run it," he said.

The younger Lightburn said he and his father would spend about eight hours a day clerking in the store during the campaign. "It will be primarily a mailing campaign," he said.

He said the only other active campaigner in this north-central West Virginia community of 500 would be his mother, Mrs. Susan Lightburn, 64. "But we have other workers in several West Virginia cities," he added.

St. Louis Smog Worse Than L.A.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service reported Saturday that at least three other major U.S. cities have smog just as bad and in some cases worse than that in Los Angeles and it is growing more severe.

The latest compilation of air pollution statistics in eight cities shows that St. Louis, Mo., had the heaviest concentration of smog during the last six months.

SMOG, caused by photochemical reaction, is measured in "oxidants," which are oxidizing agents present in the air. The higher the number of parts of oxidants per 100 million parts of air, the worse it gets. When the concentration of oxidants reaches 15, residents of an area will frequently experience smarting of the eyes, vegetation can be affected, and a heavy, unpleasant haze usually hangs over the city.

At the Taft Sanitary Engineering Center here, the U.S. Public Health Service correlates and analyzes data from eight continuous air monitoring program (camp) stations in the country. They are located in Los Angeles, Chicago, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, San Francisco, St. Louis, New York and here.

In Cincinnati the past week, the oxidant content of the air measured as high as 34 parts per 100 million parts of air.

Through the first six months of this year, Washington, Philadelphia and St. Louis have shown smog conditions about equal to that of Los Angeles. St. Louis was the highest with a peak concentration of 44, while Los Angeles had 34 and Philadelphia 32.

WASHINGTON, the nation's capital which lacks the heavy industry commonly associated with smog, had a reading of 29, or 14 over the point where eye irritation begins.

The figures caused smiles of justification to light the faces of many air pollution engineers who claimed for years that smog was a problem not only native to Los Angeles but to other cities throughout the country. With these new studies, they have the evidence to back their claims.

"It's a rather concrete demonstration of what air pollution engineers have claimed for years," said Raymond Smith, chief of the air quality section of the Division of Air Pollution, P.H.S., here.

Park Chief May Take 'Save Redwoods' Fight to Court

ARCATA, Calif. (UPI) — The possibility of a court battle between the State Park Commission and the State Division of Highways loomed Saturday over the routing of a freeway through Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park.

"The issue most surely will go into the courts if the division of highways makes any effort to proceed with the beach route or enlarge the present route at Prairie Creek," state parks chief Charles A. DeTurk told an assembly committee.

And DeTurk said it was "not inconceivable" that such a case would be decided in favor of the parks.

DeTurk made his remarks before the assembly interim committee on natural resources, planning and public works which held a public hearing here on the broad problem of the relationship of freeways to park values.

• • • •

MUCH OF the discussion was focused on the widening and proposed re-routing of U.S. 101 in the vicinity of the Prairie Creek redwoods.

Four possible routes have been suggested — along the beach, along the bluffs above the beach, through the forest where the present road runs and along ridges to the east of the park. The first three suggestions have come under fire from conservationists who claim they would ruin the integrity of the forest-beach unit.

The case for the highways division was presented by John Erreca, state director of public works.

He said that no highway planner "has yet come up with a way to modernize the Redwood Highway without cutting some virgin redwoods." He said that even the route to the east of the park would take a number of trees.

• • • •

"I THINK it is fair to say that the highway commission's primary objective is to preserve the maximum number of virgin redwood trees and to damage or destroy the smallest number of virgin redwood trees," Erreca said.

"It is the highway commission's conviction that these two objectives . . . can be achieved, and that is our goal."

Erreca added that it was "unfair because it is untrue" to say that the highway commission has a practice of picking the shortest, cheapest route. He said related values are weighed heavily in selecting routes.

DeTurk, claiming that engineers have no business "telling us how to run a park," asked the legislature to give the state park commission veto power over "encroachment onto state parks land."

IT'LL BE NO PICNIC

UAW and Ford Battle Brewing

By CHARLES SUTTON

Ford Motor Co. carried its triennial feud with the United Auto Workers into Southern California last week and offered further evidence that its current contract negotiations with the union are going to be no picnic in the weeks ahead.

Moreover, officials hinted, the company expects to fight one of the toughest if not bitterest skirmishes of the summer along a battle line marked WORKING CONDITIONS.

Henry Ford II already has said his company will risk a strike rather than agree to some of the union's demands, and last week's statement by Ford officials here merely served to emphasize the company's apparent no-nonsense attitude in the latest round of bargaining.

* * * *

JOHN REESE, manager of labor relations for the firm's automotive assembly division, said the company feels there's been too much talk about "gold-plated sweatshops in the auto industry" — a phrase used recently by UAW President Walter Reuther—and the company's not about to let the charge go unanswered, he declared.

Accordingly, officials invited newsmen to inspect Ford's huge assembly plant in Pico-Rivera last week to see for themselves whether there was any truth to the charge.

If the results of the guided tour were inconclusive, they nevertheless were illuminating.

* * * *

THE ASSEMBLY line, though it has undergone innumerable refinements, still is essentially the same operation it was years ago.

The men—in this case about 3,800 hourly employes—stand on both sides of a long, winding conveyor system and put the cars together in four stages.

First, the body is welded together; then the paint is applied; then a whole series of trimmings is welded, screwed or otherwise attached to the frame—such things as moulings, windows, door panels and taillights. Finally, the running gear is bolted on.

* * * *

ACCOMPANYING this marvelous orchestral movement, refined to a peak of precision by Ford's time-and-motion-study men, are the sounds of thousands of hand and power tools, all converging into a roar that spreads out into every corner of the plant and beats against the eardrums like a never-ending avalanche.

It is Charlie Chaplin's "Modern Times" all over again—but carefully modulated to a civilized pace, in the opinion of the Ford people.

This is not to say that factory work is a lark. Admittedly, a banker or a white-collar worker might find it abnormally tough and tiring, officials said.

* * * *

BUT THE things to keep in mind, said Reese, are that the plant is a factory, that the automobile is a product of heavy industry and that "cars cannot be manufactured in surroundings to which a banker is accustomed."

"For most factory jobs, a fair day's work necessarily involves physical fatigue."

What Ford is careful to do, however, it to keep that fatigue "within reasonable limits," he said.

* * * *

"IT'S TRUE," concluded Reese, who was here from Detroit, "that we have no palace or living room here, but neither do we have a sweatshop, whatever the UAW may say."

Reuther's characterization of auto plants as latter-day sweatshops is more than mere rhetoric this year.

There's every reason to believe that the UAW's rank and file is not exactly pleased with present working conditions in the industry. At the last UAW convention, held in Atlantic City last March, there were "angrier" demands for improved working conditions during one debate than for economic gains. As a result, the convention gave priority to the curbing of alleged speedups and to a demand for more rest periods.

* * * *

THIS emphasis, given public expression by Reuther, is bound to be reflected in the talks now going on in Detroit.

The company's position is not expected to be one of acquiescence, though. As J. B. Howard, manager of the Pico-Rivera facility put it, "there's going to be a hard battle ahead."

Reuther and his aides, of course, are not confining their demands to improved working conditions alone. They're also seeking earlier retirement, larger pensions, higher pay, longer vacations and possibly even a shorter work week.

But where previous post-war bargaining sessions tended to put working conditions relatively low on the UAW list of priorities, this year's talks are expected to push the issue close to the top.

* * * *

THUS A standoff on the matter is not unlikely.

At the Pico-Rivera plant, a good example of a Ford operation, workers now get two relief breaks of 12 minutes each—one in the morning and one in the afternoon. In addition to this normal relief, employes are provided emergency relief "when a need for it is evident."

In the opinion of Ford officials, the rest "breaks," plus the "reasonable" work pace and the general cleanliness of the plant, prove that Ford is certainly not running a sweatshop here. And any charge to the contrary, they indicated, makes about as much sense as calling a horse a racoon.

But UAW officials take exception to the Ford argument.

Paul Schrade, western regional director of the union, points out that "with management always encroaching on the workers, it's a constant fight to keep up."

* * * *

"BUT EVEN assuming they're right, that their time-and-motion studies show our men to be working at a 'reasonable' pace, what's to say the pace shouldn't be changed?" said Shrade. "Why should it be what it was 20 years ago?

"With machines taking over," he went on, "there's been increased productivity. And some of that increased productivity should be taken up by improved working conditions."

That's why the UAW is pushing for increased rest periods and a reduced work pace, he said.

"We're simply demanding humane working conditions," he declared.

But what are "humane" conditions?

* * * *

FORD SAYS it has regulated the work pace so that fatigue is kept at a reasonable minimum. The UAW says the time-and-motion studies fail to take into account changing standards. What was reasonable two and three decades ago is intolerable today, it asserts.

Beyond that, and underlining any serious discussion of assembly-line work, is the nature of the job itself. Few people regard it as rewarding work, although Ford officials say the money isn't bad.

It is, by most standards, a monotonous, soul-killing activity. Yet, until something better comes along, it must be done, say auto officials. The question is: how fast, and with how many rest breaks?

The current auto talks between the UAW and the Big Three auto companies, including Ford, will, to a large degree, turn on that very question.

Plant Official Denies Reports of A-Blast

CHARLESTOWN, R. I. (AP)—Officials of United Nuclear Corp. said Saturday night that, contrary to earlier reports, there was no atomic explosion at the plant here Friday night in an accident in which one worker suffered a large dose of uranium poisoning.

Robert C. Johnson, manager of chemicals operation of the fuels division, said the incident consisted of "the fissioning of a solution which produced a flash boiling", and the radioactive material "remained within a localized 25-foot square area of the plant."

U.S. Seen as Rich, Arrogant—Douglas

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI)—Justice William O. Douglas Saturday called on this country to create humility, tolerance and understanding toward other nations rather than an era of "arrogance" which he said appeared to be approaching.

Douglas, speaking before a dinner sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, said America is viewed in a different light from abroad than at home.

"America seen from abroad is rich and arrogant," Douglas said. "She is great in military prowess but weak in principle.

* * * *

"SHE SEEMS weak in principle when her so-called bastions of strength are corrupt reactionary regimes such as Iran and Formosa . . . Our measure of the amount of foreign aid we give is not dependent on the extent to which the recipient nation is moving toward a free society but it's anti-Communist attitude. (And anti-Communist does not necessarily mean pro-free society.)"

Douglas said throughout the world it is known that the American government is on the side of the extreme conservatives.

"The arrogance we feel at home reflects in part the uncasiness of the rich who are surrounded by slums and know not what to do but police them," he said. "The psychology of fear and apprehension produces the radical right."

Douglas said the system of government and its free enterprise that has worked successfully in this country does not always work as well in other countries.

* * * *

"ISRAEL, STOUTLY democratic, has socialist patterns in some parts of her economy," he said. "Bolivia, 12 years after her basic revolution, strives hard to develop democratic institutions. Yet—like Israel and India — she maintains a large public sector in business.

"Our firmest friends include Belgium's Spaak, Italy's Saragat, West Germany's Brandt and France's Mollet—all socialists."

Douglas said the major problem of the world today was to make it safe for diversity.

"The world's diversity is indeed exciting," the justice said. "Are we really afraid to compete? Do we really want to drop the bomb in the name of freedom and produce a holocaust which will destroy all freedom?"

Wages, Salaries Rise to 71% of U.S. Income

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The nation's wage and salary workers collect more than two-thirds of the national income for their labors, Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. said Saturday.

"Back in the Gay 90's and early 1900s," the company said, wage and salary workers pocketed only slightly more than half the total national income. Today, the firm said, it's 71%.

The rest of the total income is divided up among all other groups—farmers, self-employed persons such as doctors and attorneys, landlords, lenders and businesses.

The life insurance company's Family Economics Bureau, which made a study of the situation, said "there are several reasons for the spectacular expansion in the workers' slice of the national income."

The bureau pointed to "large and continuing increases in wage and salary rates and in fringe benefits." It said the rapid growth of savings also has provided huge capital supplies to energize expansion and enlarge the demand for employes with greater skills and education.

This in turn has led to a larger proportion of workers in higher-income occupations with correspondingly fewer in low-paid jobs, the bureau said.

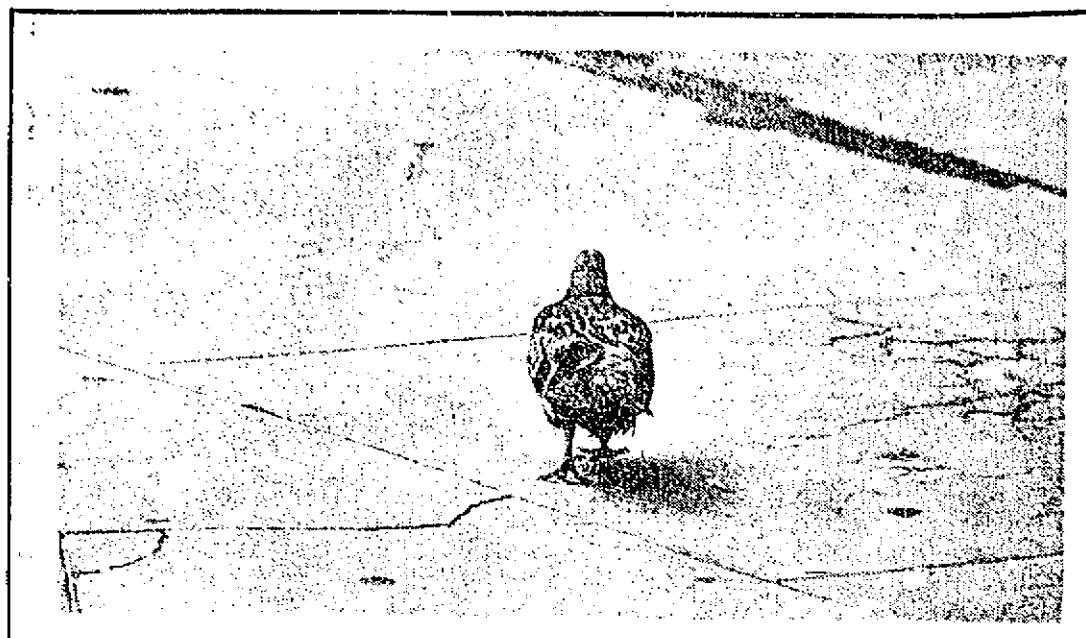

Looking for economic groups which lost the ground, the bureau noted that "the farmers' slice took the deepest cut—from over 12% at the turn of the centudy to less than 3% of the 1963 national income."

Sonic Booms to Continue, Court Rules

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Sonic boom opponents here have less than two weeks to put up with the Federal Aviation Agency's boom testing program, but they had hoped their ordeal would be over last week.

But it wasn't to be. U.S. District Judge Stephen Chandler ruled for the third time that the booms could continue. He turned down a requested injunction.

Chandler refused twice previously to grant such an injunction by simply refusing to accept jurisdiction. But the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overruled Chandler's decision hat he lacked jurisdiction, thus setting up the showdown.

THE PIGEON DEBATE:

Too Much Local 'Color'?

By GEORGE ERES

People have strong feelings about pigeons when they think about them at all. They're either for 'em or agin' 'em.

The pigeons in Lincoln Park, for example, are a delight to bench-sitters, and a bane to others trying to find a clean spot to sit.

"They're friendly, tame delightful birds."

"They're damned nuisances and should be wiped out."

And so on. . . .

* * * *

ONE THING, the pigeons have friends who are always on the prowl to see to it that they are not molested by small boys.

Two lads attempting to catch pigeons in Lincoln Park with a butterfly type net the other day, suddenly saw their quarry flap off as an elderly lady swooped into the arena shaking a wrinkled finger at the boys and warning them off with: "It's against the law to trap pigeons."

It isn't quite clear—just what or if there is a law on pigeons.

The city attorney's office referred the question to the city prosecutor's office which handles "pigeon drop" cases.

The city prosecutor's office dropped the question into the lap of the State Division of Fish & Game. lap.

Wardens at the F&G were not interested. "We don't have jurisdiction. They're 'domestic' not 'wild' birds."

Apparently they don't belong to anyone. They're free as pigeons.

* * * *

THE FACT remains, however, pigeons are a problem.

In some communities—Boston, Fresno and Philadelphia—the people in charge of such things have taken action against the birds. Some of the pigeon exterminators have made their calling a closely guarded secret. Tony D'Amto, 63, of Philadelphia, for instance, reduced the 10,000 to 15,000 pigeon population around the city hall to a handful and won fame of sorts. He refuses to tell people how he does it. His boss doesn't pry—just so the job's done.

Pigeons are not exactly a health problem. They're a potential health problem, a doctor said. They do not currently pose a health problem in Long Beach. "They are known to be carriers of disease, but I know of no instance of pigeons causing a disease here," said the doctor. Actually, the pigeons that are pets are more of a health menace than the "wild" pigeons.

* * * *

A WHILE back they were a pressing problem at city hall. They began building nests around air vents and mites, which fancy pigeons, began showing up in drapes and carpeting. The city's Public Service Department handled the problem by screening off areas around outlets to bar nest space.

But the basic problem at the main library, Veterans Building and Municipal Recreation Center is the nuisance the pigeons create. They deface property and sometimes humans. The washing down chore is a must every morning.

Attempts to discourage the pigeons by using a bird repellent are looked on with anger by the pigeon fanciers, who constitute quite a lobby and consider the practice cruelty to animals. They counter repellants with food handouts so pigeons will appreciate that not all humans are beasts.

"Pigeons strutting in the park lend color to our city," protest the bird watchers.

"Pigeons squatting on a ledge," answer the bird-watchful, "are a pain in the neck."

Heat, Hate Simmer in East's Cities

By WALTER T. RIDDER
I, P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON— The long, hot summer has begun. The weather here in the east is hot, heavy, humid and dank. The political climate is the same. The scorching airless nights are already filled with the sounds of party strife.

The steamy nights make sleep all but impossible in the close quarter of the east's larger cities. And in them, the nights are filled with the sound of things other than mere political strife. They are filled with the sounds of gunfire, of night-sticks thudding against human skulls, of switch-knives clicking open, and of voices raised in all-out, deep-rooted racial hatred.

* * * *

THE VAIN HOPE that tumult and shouting and shooting and pillaging could be avoided has already been shattered. Man has set himself against man. The net result is that fear and violence permeate the land where it all will end no one knows.

"Hey, Whitey, whatcha doin here?" shouts the Negro in Harlem. There's no affection in the use of that term "Whitey" and as often as not it is accompanied by a brick or other object hurled at the white man's head. Or a white man becomes trigger-happy and shoots down a Negro before the latter has made any move and an infuriated mob damages white property and Negro property and does injury to itself and to others as it marches the streets in pursuit of lawlessness.

Each side blames the other and to a large degree they are both right. There are rights and wrongs on either side and because there are, solution to the problems offer appalling difficulties. The people, white and black, are demanding solutions, not sometime in the future, but now, so that peace can once again descend upon our embattled cities. But there is no one who has the answer to the problem or if there is his voice has been drowned in the din of literal combat.

* * * *

THE LAW ENFORCEMENT authorities are all too often inundated by the immensity of the problem. Indeed, in some places, notably Harlem, they are accused of aggravating the very problem they are trying to solve and relations between policemen and citizens in Harlem has degenerated into a kind of jungle warfare.

It's not a pretty picture and it is made no prettier by the thought that not only is it not likely to get better soon, but that it may well get worse.

Certainly the upcoming political campaign will do nothing to calm things down. The issue is a major one and has already done much to disturb the unity of one of our great political parties. In the days ahead, it will do much to disturb the unity of the country. Summer is not, one is afraid, the only season in the foreseeable future which will be long and hot.

N.Y. RIOTS COST POLICE $1.5 MILLION

NEW YORK (AP)—The past weekweek of riots in Harlem and Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section has cost the police department $1.5 million, deputy police commissioner Walter Arm said Saturday.

He said the estimate includes the cost of overtime, additional ammunition, repairs for damaged vehicles, hospital bills and other expenses. Ninety percent of the $1.5 million is for overtime.

Arm said hundreds of policemen had been sent from low-crime sections of the city to handle the violence in Harlem and Brooklyn.

Haiti Reports Invaders Routed

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The Haitian government said Saturday an invasion force which had established itself in mountains east of this capital had been defeated and sent fleeing into the Dominican Republic.

President Francois Duvalier's government had claimed on July 9 the rebel band was surrounded and would have to "surrender or be wiped out." Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers said the invasion force crossed into Haiti from the Dominican Republic on June 29 at Lagon des Huites.

we are under arrest," Epton shouted as they were taken away. Both were charged with disorderly conduct on the ground they had caused a crowd to collect.

* * * *

A HALF HOUR after the arrests, the intersection was virtually back to normal except for a number of onlookers strolling the sidewalks and peering from tenement windows. Police kept the strollers moving.

Police brushed off an argument by Epton that his followers only intended a peaceful walk.

Almost simultaneously with the fizzling of the parade, the city obtained a State Supreme Court order to prohibit the march, but notice had not been served on Epton at the time of his arrest.

Shortly before the city made its court move, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller issued a statement saying he was willing to furnish National Guard troops if necessary both in New York City and in Rochester, N.Y., where Negroes rioted Friday night and early Saturday.

* * * *

THE GOVERNOR, in a statement issued through his Albany office from his Tarrytown home, said rioting and looting "from whatever source or for whatever reason will be met by the full force of the law."

Sponsors of the parade had distributed mimeographed posters telling the marchers: "Do not panic."

But leaders of other Harlem groups issued counter-pamphlets urging the people of Harlem not to participate.

In the forefront in the anti-parade move was the Harlem Unity Committee, composed of representatives of 69 organizations.

Most Negro leaders, while opposing the parade itself, also opposed the police ban on it as a blow at civil rights.

Man Killed as Rochester Mobs Riot

forcements were rushed to other emblattled sections.

Police set up roadblocks to stop 12 carloads of people who were reported heading toward the riot-scarred cit. It was not known whether they were Negroes.

All persons had been ordered off the city streets by 8 p.m.

A detail of city police and state troopers was struck with stones and bottles as they marched down Jefferson Avenue.

One policeman was hit by a brick and fell out of line, clutching his ankle.

OTHER objects thrown at police included beer and milk bottles, a box of detergent and a gallon box of ice cream, apparently stolen from a grocery store.

Looters took liquor from a cafe on Jefferson Avenue and tried to set the cafe on fire, police said. Officers who saw men running from the place with bottles spotted the fire and put it out before it did any damage.

A restaurant and a grocery store on opposite corners of Clifton Avenue were virtually destroyed by looters—all the windows were smashed and contents thrown into the street.

POLICE stopped a car carrying four Negro men and took away several cans of beer. A search of the car turned up two knives.

One man was arrested after struggle when he refused to move.

Few of the hundreds who defied the curfew were arrested, however. Police appealed to them to return to their homes and most did.

The one man known dead was struck near the intersection of Clarissa and Atkinson streets.

Residents said one of several youths tossed rocks through a grocery-store window. The man, wearing a white helmet, appeared suddenly in the middle of the street. He said nothing, but stared at the youths.

* * * *

WITNESSES said the rock-hurler walked out and began punching the man and the man fell to the street unconscious.

A Negro resident rushed to the spot to flag away passing cars. One car veered but a second, close behind, struck the man and dragged him about 100 feet.

One woman who shouted obscenities at police was taken to jail. A busload of prisoners was taken from the downtown jail to the Monroe County Penitentiary at mid-evening to relieve crowded conditions at the city lockup.

* * * *

AN 82-YEAR-OLD white barber closing his shop on the corner of Frost and Jefferson was cut about the face by flying glass when a brick was hurled through his shop window.

For a time, Negroes set up a barricade of furniture and lumber to halt cars at Jefferson and Clifton streets but police broke this up.

Thousands of Negro families stood on their porches or in their yards, watching as the rioting flared and subsided.

Some looting was reported Friday night in the Jefferson Avenue area but the main action was on Joseph Avenue, which is near the downtown business section.

* * * *

AS THE curfew hour neared Saturday, city and state police moved quietly along Joseph Avenue clearing it of pedestrians. The section previously had been closed to automobile traffic.

But in the other trouble section, hundreds of Negroes still were on the street an hour after curfew.

The state troopers were rushed across the city on city buses. They were greeted by a shower of bricks from the Negroes.

The trouble centered at the corner of Jefferson and Bartlett streets, a neighborhood of neat, well-kept homes with lawns and flowers that make it a far better neighborhood than Joseph Avenue.

* * * *

HUNDREDS of Negroes, some holding beer cans, hooted and jeered at the troopers as they hurried off the buses, lined up in military fashion and double-timed down the street.

The jagged, red bricks were hurled from second-story porches and rooftops.

Burglar alarms, set off as store windows were smashed, jangled in the dark.

Rochester city patrol cars cruised the area, six of them bumper to bumper at one point.

One Negro man rushed up to a state police sergeant screaming:

"You're only making it worse by bringing all these armed men in here. You're the ones who are causing the riot."

* * * *

RUBBISH littered the streets in many places, dumped there by angry demonstrtors.

One man screamed:

"Where's Rockefeller? Bring Rockefeller and let him see what you're doing," in a reference to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who earlier Saturday vowed that such rioting as in Rochester and in New York City earlier in the week "will be met by the full force of the law."

NEGRO TELLS OF 'GYPS'

Resentment Long Building to Climax

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—The chaos and destruction which ripped through the predominantly Negro Seventh Ward Saturday shocked white residents who believed their city free of racial strife.

But many of the 5,000 Negroes who live in the ward claim the trouble has been on the way for years.

"They've been kept down here too long, like dogs," a Negro insurance salesman said. "They've been stuck in this low-rent housing, they've been exploited by the merchants . . . It's almost a ghetto here."

* * * *

FOOD stores in the district have been charging higher prices and permitting credit for the premium, he said. One clothing store made a practice of overcharging, extending credit, then seizing the goods after some of the payments had been made, he said.

"If they (authorities) didn't know this trouble was coming, if nobody knew, how come I haven't been able to sell any plate-glass insurance around here for years. The company just wouldn't take the risk.

"No wonder they wrecked these places. They need the credit, but they know that they are being taken to the cleaners. But I don't know why they wrecked George's place over there," he said, pointing to a small men's store. "He has always tried to be fair."

* * * *

"BUT WHAT happens, the old people get taken, then their children get a little more education and they get mad. They see what's going on, and when they get a chance, they do this, see? It had to happen.

"Maybe the answer is to leave the country. They don't have this stuff in Canada, in places like Toronto and Montreal. We here fight for our country. We're good enough for that, but the rest of the time we're animals."

Only Negro businesses were left unscathed by the rioters. The Salvation Army Family Thrift Store had only a small hole punched in a plate-glass window, but nothing was stolen.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

Presidential Candidates Face Dilemmas

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

The rival presidential candidates, Sen. Barry Goldwater and President Johnson, were brought face to face with major political dilemmas last week.

The conservative Goldwater had a burgeoning moderate GOP bolt on his hands. He had to decide whether to let the defectors go their way or try to wean them back by renouncing some of his principles. He said he planned a "summit" meeting on party unity, but hinted at no concessions.

* * * *

JOHNSON had similar trouble in the deep South. Anti-desegregation Democrats, fired up by enforcement of the new Civil Rights Law, turned their backs to the chief executive. Some switched to Goldwater who vehemently opposed two major sections of the law — public accommodations and fair employment — and voted against the entire bill.

Goldwater sought in a personally requested conference with Johnson to tone down civil rights as a campaign issue. But the President, in a national televised press conference preceding the meeting, declared he did not believe any issue could be kept out of the campaign if the voters were interesed in it.

The President made it clear that he planned a fighting election campaign. He said the purpose of a campaign is to air the issues and let the electors choose between the candidates on the basis of issues. "Therefore," he said, "we must have views and I believe all are entitled to hear them."

* * * *

WHEN ASKED whether he thought some statements by Goldwater had encouraged extremist actions, Johnson said: "I will leave that to the judgment of the American people."

These developments came against a backdrop of bloody racial violence in New York City, more Negro church-burnings in Mississippi, the first FBI arrests under the new racial rights law, and an edict by a three-judge Atlanta federal court that the public accommodations clause of the statute is constitutional.

The President faces the problem of ironing out his party's schism at the Democratic National Convention next month. A strong civil rights plank, probably dictated by him, is certain. He made it clear at his press conference and in White House meetings with the nation's business and labor leaders that he would not give ground.

"I fully intend," he declared, "to use all the resources I have to make sure that those who claim rights and those who deny them bend their passions to peaceful obedience of the law."

* * * *

THE New York City violence exploded after an off-duty policeman killed a 15-year-old Negro boy who allegedly came at him with a knife. Creaming, missile-throwing Negroes battled police in the streets in Harlem and Brooklyn night after night. Windows of hundreds of stores were broken and looters ran rampant. Some were shot by police. Scores were arrested. Some of the rioters screamed "Kill or be killed!"

President Johnson rushed FBI agents into the city. He said such violence could not be tolerated. City officials charged that Communists working with hate groups and black nationalists stimulated the strife. Nationally known Negro leaders accused the police of deliberate brutality.

Heading up the anti-Goldwater bolt were New York's moderate Republican senators, Kenneth B. Keating, who is up for re-election, and Jacob K. Javits, both original Nelson Rockefeller supporters. Both said they would remain Republicans, but that they could not support the national ticket unless Goldwater backtracks on civil rights and other issues pushed by moderates whose long party reign was ended by Goldwater's nomination.

* * * *

OTHER announced holdouts were Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., and three congressmen. Many more were "on the fence," awaiting developments. In proposing a unity summit meeting with former President Eisenhower and other party bigwigs, Goldwater declared that "Republicans have to stick together." An aide said, however, that the senator was "not sitting in his apartment trembling" over the defections.

In his talks with business and labor leaders the President warned against political acts in the coming campaign that would damage the health of the national economy. He asked them to join in a crusade of persuasion to see that the Civil Rights Law is obeyed and to display statesmanship at the collective bargaining table. In another obvious shot at Goldwater, he enjoined against extremism in any form, domestic or international, that would rock the economic boat.

* * * *

IN ANOTHER speech to the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., Johnson told his youthful audience that while the problems of Washington may be difficult to understand, the government should be neither feared nor attacked. He said it exists to "protect the freedom and enlarge the opportunities of every citizen."

In the course of his press conference, the President disclosed development of a new long-range military reconnaissance plane — the SR71. He called it "the most advanced in the world" and said it would travel three times the speed of sound at altitude "in excess of 80,000 feet."

* * * *

HE REJECTED outright French President Charles de Gaulle's call for an international conference of South Viet Nam and Southeast Asia. He said the United States was determined to preserve Viet Nam and Laos and would not attend a conference to "ratify" Communist terror.

The President also blistered De Gaulle's implication that the United States is trying to dominate Europe. Johnson reminded the French executive that the welfare of Europe and this country are tied together and that they must continue that way for the sake of world peace.

In Congress, the Senate passed and sent back to the House Johnson's $947.5 million war-on-poverty program. Goldwater voted against it. The Senate also approved at $207.5 million pay hike for 1.8 million officers and enlisted men in the armed services.

Riots, Barry Discussed

Editorial comment on affairs in the United States by foreign newspapers last week centered on Sen. Barry Goldwater's nomination and the racial violence in New York City.

The Austrian Voksblatt said the Harlem rioting "... must be blamed on the basic attitude of part of the American society as it was expressed at the Republican convention when Goldwater was nominated ..."

The Belgian Gazet Van Antwerpen said, "Goldwater is painfully experiencing to what lengths his approval of extremism in the fight for freedom can be interpreted ..."

The Paris newspaper Le Monde said, "If Goldwater became president he would have to take into consideration realities which, it appears, he does not realize exist."

The Swedish Dagens Nyheter said, "Riots in the biggest city in the United States are serious in themselves but can become disastrous when national feelings are overexcited after the defeat of the progressive forces in San Francisco ... force and violence can only serve the Goldwater movement."

Foreign Girls Losing Out in Hollywood Bid

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Playwright-scripter Lawrence Roman says the flood of foreign love goddesses into Hollywood has slowed—and he's glad, along with some producer and director friends.

"Any man will look twice at a beautiful girl," says the writer of 'Under the Yum Yum Tree,' but a producer needs talented, hard-working actresses. Very few of these foreign flowers can act."

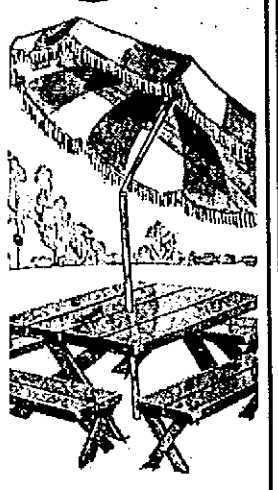

Roman argues that the public interest in cute accents has long since passed.

"We've not had a major personality among these girls in five years."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Downtown L.A. Fire Kills One

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fire roared through an old Bunker Hill apartment house near the Los Angeles Civic Center Saturday, killing one man and injuring 10 other person, two critically.

The spectacular blaze, visible for miles, was in the Dome Apartments at Second Street and Grand Avenue, a turn-of-the-century landmark. Firemen said it was destined for demolition within two years for Bunker Hill's redevelopment.

Firemen estimated loss at $25,000.

The dead man was so badly burned he could not be indentified immediately. The injured included four firemen, treated at the scene for burns and cuts. Nineteen fire trucks and 100 firemen quelled the blaze.

Hoffa Jury Kept Under Guard

CHICAGO (AP)—The jury deliberating the $20-million mail-fraud and conspiracy case against Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa and six codefendants quit for the day at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Deliberations will be resumed at 9:30 a.m. today.

The jury of eight men and four women was taken to hotel accomodations at the Great Lakes Naval Station, 30 miles north of Chicago. The jury has been kept there under guard since the trial began.

White House Denies China Contact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House Saturday denied the existence of letters reported to have been exchanged between President Johnson and Chinese Communist Premier Chou en-lai on Southeast Asia.

"There have been no such letters," said Presidential Press Secretary George E. Reedy.

The State Department refused to comment.

The report came for Paris early Saturday. French government sources said the two leaders had exchanged letters through Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan. It was not known in Paris when the exchange was supposed to have taken place. No details were given except that the letters were said to have concerned Southeast Asian problems.

Tug Rips Out 200 Feet of Bridge

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A tugboat pushed two barges into the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway Saturday, tearing out 200 feet of the 24-mile-long bridge.

A bus carrying 20 passengers had just passed over the danger spot when the crash came. Six lives were lost in a similar accident six weeks ago.

A bus passenger, Riley B. Kimball, 46, of nearby Mandeville, told the New Orleans States-Item that there was no one at the wheel of the tug at the time of the accident. Kimball was one of 20 passengers on a private bus headed for work at Avondale Shipyards.

The tug, the Red Poll, hit the causeway, said to be the world's longest bridge over water, at an angle, about two and a quarter miles from the north shore of the lake. The toll bridge carries much of the north-south traffic to and from New Orleans.

Katanga Ex-Gendarmes Riot

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—About 500 former Katagan gendarmes rioted at the provincial presidential palace Saturday, throwing stones and attempting to overturn cars.

The 500 former gendarmes asked to be integrated into the National Congolese Army (ANC). They rioted in an apparent protest because they had not been given clothing and food by the ANC.

Navy Confirms Russ Ship Checked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department confirmed Saturday that a Navy jet and a destroyer made a "routine" check on a Soviet cargo ship in international waters off the Florida Coast.

A spokesman for the department said the destroyer Kreschmer and a Navy P2 twin-engine jet encountered the Soviet cargo ship Svoboda about noon Friday.

KEEPING PACE

Klan Takes to Air to Deliver Message

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The Ku Klux Klan has become airborne in Mississippi.

The anti-Negro organization, whose hooded riders once roamed the South on horseback carrying flaming torches, used small airplanes— possibly the same one— to drop pro-segregation leaflets in two area.

Hundreds of the leaflets fluttered down outside a civil rights rally in a Greenwood church while integrationist Martin Luther King was speaking.

"The local government in Leflore (Greenwood) County is amply fortified and quite capable of handling this matter legally," the leaflet said. "However, if the agitators should overrun the law and a violent disorder erupts, it will be the right, duty and moral obligation of the white men in Leflore County to restore law and order."

The plane swooped about 300 feet over the church, its lights out, to release the leaflets.

A similar drop was made a few weeks earlier at Moss Point.

Actual Klan membership in Mississippi— as in other southern states— is hard to estimate. Some of its spokesmen say the total is close to 90,000. This is not substantiated, however, and a rally that draws several thousand is considered a success.

NATIONAL, INTERNATIONAL LEADERS EXPECTED

Salvation Army's Camp Meeting Here Aug. 22-30 to Draw 10,000

National and international leaders of the Salvation Army will be in Long Beach for the Seventh Annual Camp Meetings to be held in municipal Auditorium Aug. 22-30.

Commissioner Holland French, Salvation Army national commander, will open the series of revival meetings on Saturday, Aug. 22, and Commissioner Erik Wikberg, international chief of staff from London, will give the final address Sunday, Aug. 30.

Highlight of the 10-day series will be a festival of music in the Auditorium arena Saturday, Aug. 29, at 7:45 p.m. The festival will feature the Hamilton Citadel Band from Ontario, Canada, with Wilfred Mountain as bandmaster. Winnifred Watson, also of the Hamilton Citadel, will be soloist.

Participating will be the Salvation Army bands of Inglewood, with James Fogg as bandmaster; the Los Angeles Congress Hall Band, with Harry B. Stillwell, Jr., as bandmaster; and the Hollywood Tabernacle Band, with Ronald Smart as bandmaster.

* * * *

THE HOLLYWOOD Tabernacle Band completed a triumphal concert tour of England and the continent in June. The Hamilton Citadel Band which will perform at the Saturday music festival is one of the world's finest Salvation Army bands.

Plans for the Camp Meetings, expected to attract over 10,000 people from all over the West, were completed at a meeting this week of Southern California Divisional Commander Lt. Col. Harold G. Barry, Long Beach Corps Officer Major Kenneth Anderson, and Ray Greene Sr., chairman of the Long Beach Salvation Army advisory board camp meeting committee.

Three meetings will be held on each Sunday, Aug. 23 and Aug. 30, at 10.30; 2:30 and 7:30. On each Sunday afternoon there will be a traditional "open air" meeting at 5:45 followed by a parade of Salvation Army bands. On week days throughout the series meetings will be held at 2, 3 and 7:30 p.m.

Commissioner Robert Hoggard, famed Salvationist writer and lecturer, will conduct Bible study classes at 3 p.m. while prayer meetings at 2 p.m. will be led by Major Arthur Smith, Congress Hall Corps officer.

* * * *

COMMISSIONER French, the national commander, will address the evening evangelistic meetings from Saturday through Thursday. A rally with emphasis on youth will be held Friday evening with Commissioner Wikberg as the main speaker. Commissioner Wikberg will also address a luncheon meeting of veteran officers on Saturday, Aug. 29 and the concluding evangelistic meetings on Sunday, Aug. 30.

A Women's Fellowship dinner is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 27, at the Lafayette Hotel as part of the social activities in connection with the Camp Meetings. The Nurses Fellowship of the Salvation Army will have a luncheon meeting, also at the Lafayette Hotel, on Friday, Aug. 28.

All meetings, most of which are open to the public, will be held in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. The public meetings include those on Sunday and the daily prayer Bible study and evening evangelistic meetings.

PLAN CAMP MEETING

At a meeting last week plans for the forthcoming annual Camp Meeting of the Salvation Army here Aug. 22-30 were discussed. From left are Ray Greene St., chairman of the Camp Meeting planning committee; Lt. Col. Harold G. Barry, Southern California Divisional Commander, Salvation Army; and Maj. Kenneth Anderson, Long Beach Corps Officer, Salvation Army.

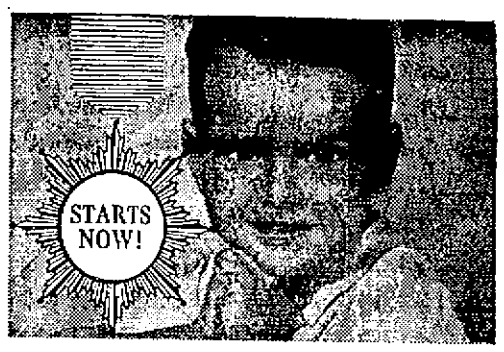

Fire Damages Cabin Cruiser

A 55-foot cabin cruiser, the "Porque No," owned by Tom Ballard, president of Ballard Motors, Anaheim, was extensively damaged by fire shortly after 2 p.m. Saturday.

The cruiser, moored at Ken Niles' Villa Marina in Balboa Bay, burned for almost an hour after an electrical fire started inside, according to the Orange County Harbor Patrol.

Ballard is in New York on business and no one was aboard the boat when the fire broke out.

NEW DENTAL PROGRAM FOR PENSIONERS NOW IN EFFECT

DR. RAYMOND has been advised by the California Department of Social Welfare that the following program is now in effect for pensioners.

AND WE QUOTE

"As a result of additional funds available for Medical Care, all necessary dental services for Old Age Security recipients will be provided through the Medical Care Trust Fund to cover the entire caseload."

This means that on presentation of your Old Age Security "Identification" card, the following can be done WITHOUT FURTHER AUTHORIZATION.

1. EXAMINATION
2. NECESSARY DIAGNOSTIC X-RAYS
3. EMERGENCY CARE
4. DENTURE REPAIRS
5. DENTURE ADJUSTMENTS

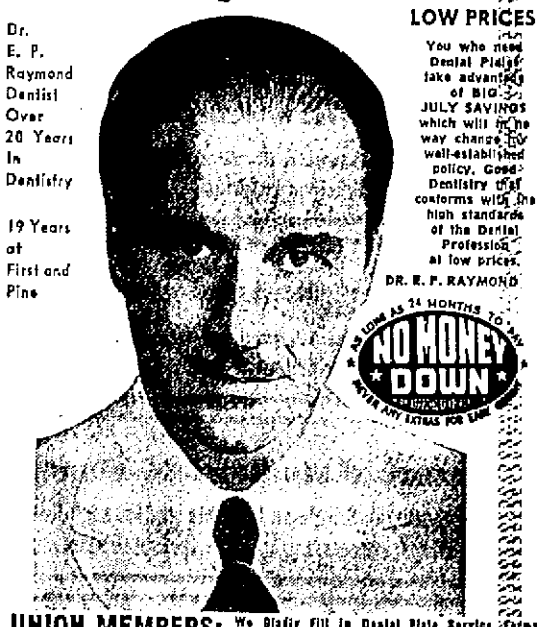

To complete your new dental plates, a report is turned in for final authorization after which the county will pay for your dentures.

UNION MEMBERS: We Gladly Fill In Dental Plate Service Forms For Those Whose Union Has Dental Care Plans

Plates put in IMMEDIATELY after extractions. No lost time from work. You need not be without your teeth even one day! Ask about DR. RAYMOND'S IMMEDIATE RESTORATION PLAN.

MODERN DENTAL PLATES aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques" used in the construction of dental plates. Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, uppers and lowers and partials. Good dental plates need not be expensive. The cost is small.

where he played football for one year.

"They barred me from football because I had played professional baseball," Capron said, "so I turned into a tramp athlete and real estate man."

While picking up grounders in baseball circuits through the West, Capron began picking up cash making real estate deals on boom-town areas.

Capron said he married in Portland, Ore., in 1909, when he was playing for Seattle.

"But I didn't play much after that. It was the money I was after and I couldn't make enough in baseball," he said.

But he made it, and lost it, in real estate.

He started in boom towns of Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma, but didn't hit it big until he moved to California.

"I ONCE traded 800 acres of land in Hollywood for some property in Colorado and only made a small profit," he said. "You couldn't buy that Hollywood land now.

"I always had lots of property. I bought it cheap, with a small down payment and low interest, but by the 1920s I was losing much of it through foreclosures."

He estimates he lost $20 million in the 1929 stock-market crash.

"After the 1930s, I really went to town. I worked like a dog and had a lot of ups and downs, but I'm awfully strong, you know.

"Trouble is, I was never much of a man for details and I bet I've been beaten out of half a billion dollars' worth of property."

REGARDING his wife's charges that he kept his riches a secret and would not hire a nurse when she broke her leg, Capron said:

"I am really tight, but that's because I was brought up so poor. But what she says is all nonsense. Her nurses cost me $2,500 a month and I didn't object to paying it.

"I could give you the names of 50 persons I've supported over the years, including a lot of famous athletes."

Clarence Hunt, Capron's lawyer, said Capron actually was solicitous about his wife's health.

* * * *

"HE'S VERY close with his money, there's no doubt of that. He's had to be, to scrape up money to pay his taxes and maintenance on his land holdings. He's what you might call 'land poor' because whenever he's had money, he's invested it, mostly in unimproved land," Hunt said.

"I'm still wheeling and dealing in real estate," Capron said, "and I love it."

"But my wife has caused me too much trouble in the past few months. It's a woman's world, especially in California.

"These high taxes are killing me, too. I don't know what I'll do now."

Rain Halts Midwest's HeatWave

By United Press International

Cool Pacific air which broke a week-long heat wave in the Midwest Saturday splashed sections of three states with up to 3½ inches of rain, further easing a three-month drought.

West Allis, Wis., had 3.5 inches of rain. Buffalo Grove, Ill., had 2.20 inches of rain in three hours early Saturday. Milwaukee, Wis., had an inch of rain, raising its total for the month to 7.65 inches, greatest ever in July and breaking a record set 79 years ago.

* * * *

MARQUETTE, Mich., measured 2 inches of rain.

The edge of the cool front was marked by thunderstorms from the southern Rockies to the Great Lakes.

Heavy rain caused flash flooding at Marshfield and Stevens Point, Wis. Near Wausau, Wis., lightning touched off a barn fire, felled trees and power failures were widespread in Wisconsin.

Scorpion Stings Actor Gil Roland

BEATTY, Nev. (UPI) — Actor Gilbert Roland underwent treatment for a scorpion sting Saturday in this small Nevada community near the Death Valley location where he has been filming scenes for a 20th Century-Fox production.

Roland was stung by a 2½-inch scorpion during filming of "The Reward." He was taken to Beatty for medical treatment. Ice

CHAIRMEN NAMED

United Crusade Drive Chairmen Are Selected

Community campaign chairmen for five cities within the United Crusade Long Beach area were introduced last week by N. L. McLaughlin, area campaign chairman for the fall appeal of United Way and the American Red Cross.

Gordon Young will head divisions soliciting in Long Beach and Dominguez. Young, assistant vice president of the Bank of America at Fourth and Pine, had been selected to head the 1965 Red Cross campaign.

"Since Red Cross now will not have a drive next March, Young was our logical choice for this responsible position," McLaughlin stated. "And having served several years on Chest and United Way budget committees, he is a man familiar and dedicated to both our organizations."

* * * *

LAKEWOOD'S United Way board of directors selected Mrs. Ora Knudson, Lakewood's acting postmaster, as their community campaign chairman.

Mrs. Knudson was vice chairman of Lakewood's United Way campaign last year and has acted as residential division chairman for past Community Chest drives. She is a former president of Camp Fire Girls and currently is a member of the Community Welfare Council and Lakewood YMCA, all United Way agencies.

Heading the Paramount campaign will be James Carnes, attorney.

Carnes is a member of the United Way county board of directors, president of the Paramount United Way board and vice president of the area board. He has been an active worker in the Chamber of Commerce, Elks and Masons.

* * * *

DR. JACK W. Mears, president of Cerritos College, has been chosen Bellflower's campaign chairman. He was Red Cross campaign chairman in 1963 in Bellflower and is a board member of the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce.

A well known educator, Dr. Mears helped organize the training program for loan executives and solicitors for last year's United Way campaign.

For the first time Signal Hill will have a separate campaign organization under the leadership of Fred W. Baxter, Signal Hill city administrator. A member of the Red Cross board of directors, Baxter led the last drive for them in Signal Hill.

McLaughlin said that separate campaign goals will be set for each city with a $1.51 milllion goal expected for the entire area.

"We must make a point of reminding everyone that this will be a campaign for 310 United Way agencies as well as the services of 13 Red Cross chapters in Los Angeles County that will need an estimated $22 million dollars," the chairman added.

"To raise enough for local services everywhere, people must be prepared to give more."

Cholera Toll 91

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—The Malayan cholera epidemic death toll rose to 91 Saturday with a report of another death in Trengganu state. The Health Ministry listed 947 confirmed and suspected cases.

Treasury Lays Plans for Coin Reservoirs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury officials said Saturday that once the acute coin shortage is licked they hope to set up what would amount to a coin "fire brigade" to meet any further deficiencies.

Simply producing enough coins for the nation's commerce isn't going to be enough, they said.

The Treasury's plan is to build up a full year's supply of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and halves—as many as five billion—and store them in strategic locations around the country.

Then the market could be flooded at a moment's notice in case more shortages developed either locally or nationally, because of speculation or for any other reason.

Officials say that stepped-up production should end the coin shortage by "early next year." Then they plan to go to work building up a year's reserve, which would take at least a year to accumulate.

The idea of a reserve is not new. The Treasury always has favored having one on hand for emergencies. But in past years, when the Budget Bureau or Congress saw a large inventory of coins building up, they usually reduced Treasury appropriations by that much.

Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given.

If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

We are one of the busiest offices in Southern California, so if we cannot help you, be assured that we will not take your case.

The total charge is $3.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling GA 6-6166 or GA 6-6167, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L.B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

OAS Gives Cuba July 26 Jolt

porting the purposes of the resolution.

The formal vote by the conference early today was foretold Saturday night by approval by the conference's general committee of the same declaration.

At the committee meeting, Conference Resolution Number 12—the one which became the declaration of sanctions and condemnation against Cuba—got 15 votes, two more than necessary for approval. Bolivia abstained in that voting, and Chile, Mexico and Uruguay voted no.

In today's balloting, Mexico, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay voted no.

Countries approving the measures against Cuba are Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, the United States and the Dominican Republic.

Venezuela, as complainant, was not entitled to vote.

SEN. GEORGE SMATHERS, D-Fla., member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, praised the foreign ministers' action as "a positive and historic blow at the insidious efforts of world-wide communism to dominate the Western Hemisphere."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke out Saturday in favor of the sanctions and condemnation of the Castro regime and told a closed-door meeting in the day that "failure to act now might create a situation of the highest possible danger."

Uruguay and Bolivia are expected to abide by the sanctions.

The sanctions are to be mandatory, but no time limit is provided in putting them into effect.

Latin-American delegates opposing the Castro regime said they are pleased that final act of the conference is to be signed today. July 26 is observed by Cuban communists as a day of festivity marking the start of the Castro revolution in Cuba.

"This will give the Castroites something to think about," said a Venezuelan delegate, "and make July 26 a day of true rejoicing in the hemisphere."

MEXICO AND Chile expressed objections to sanctions as a mid-day Saturday session of the conference.

CASTRO INVITES OUR MAN TO CUBA -He Accepts-

Fidel Castro has invited a newsman from the Independent, Press-Telegram to cover the 26th of July celebrations in Cuba. This marks the day in 1953 when Castro led an attack on the Moncada Barracks in Santiago which was the start of Castro's battle against the Batista regime.

The Independent, Press-Telegram is one of 22 daily newspapers in the U.S. to be invited. Bill Broom, Washington correspondent for these newspapers, will make the trip on July 22 to Santiago in Oriete Province, Castro's stronghold. He will spend 3 days touring the province with other newspapermen.

BILL BROOM, Independent, Press-Telegram Washington News Bureau writer who will cover the 26th of July celebrations in Cuba.

These invitations are the first that Castro has made to the American press since Washington severed relations with Cuba in 1961.

LONG STRIDE AHEAD

Everybody Joins LBJ Park Stroll

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY

It could only happen in the United States that the chief executive would like people enough to invite them for a walk.

A big man, accustomed to the outdoors, President Johnson has a giant stride that would make Davy Crockett step lively.

When the temperature is 95°, it is not easy to walk with the President, especially if the walker is a five-foot three-inch woman wearing high heels.

A few days ago, President Johnson told the White House press in the Executive Wing lobby of the White House, that he and Mrs. Johnson were off for a walk in Lafayette Park.

• • • •

WHEN THE PRESIDENT walks, everyone walks: Secret Service agents; a covey of top aides (Jack Valenti, Horace Busby, Press Secretary Reedy and his assistant Malcolm Kilduff) and reporters—including this writer.

With petite Mrs. Johnson taking two steps for every one of his, the President strode off down the White House driveway. At Pennsylvania Avenue, hundreds were waiting to tour the White House. While he waited for the traffic light to change, the President and Lady Bird shook hands with the homefolks, the American people.

Brakes screeched as popeyed motorists watched the President and first lady cross Pennsylvania Avenue and enter Lafayette Park followed by a crowd of several hundred. Many people carried babies or dragged toddlers by their hands. Small boys raced. A fox terrier barked excitedly. One woman shouted to her lagging family, "Hurry or you'll miss seeing them. Isn't the President tall? Isn't Lady Bird darling?"

The President and Mrs. Johnson walked to Decatur House on Lafayette Square. He read the plaque and admired the Federalist architecture of the house built by Commodore Decatur, naval hero who defeated the Algerian pirates in 1815.

Then the President walked back through the park, with reporters, cameramen, and the public in hot pursuit. Seeing the writer loping along in spiked heels, the always kindly President and first lady encouraged me. He said, "Are you managing to keep up, Virginia?"

• • • •

BACK ACROSS Pennsylvania Avenue and into the White House grounds, the Secret Service were frantically trying to separate the White House press corps from the public who could not bear to tear themselves away from the President and his wife.

Inside the White House lobby, Jack Valenti and Horace Busby ventured, "The next time, Virginia, wear hiking boots."

One puffing six-foot reporter accused towering Reedy of "chickening out" and not going on the walk. Reedy replied, "I was there but I am unobtrusive."

Brown's Pesticide Unit Gives 13-Point Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's food supply is safe from pesticide dangers, but much more must be done to protect the land, air, water and fish and wildlife, a special study committee reported to Gov. Brown Saturday.

The governor's Pesticide Review Committee, in a preliminary report, called for a 13-point, $640,000 program stressing research as the first step toward providing the needed safeguards.

Key recommendations included:

—Intensive monitoring of people, animals and the environment to determine the levels of pesticide residues.

—Strengthening the state's hand in controlling the use of pesticides.

—Increased study of pesticides to provide basic knowledge of their effects and of means to assure the best control.

"Californians enjoy a high degree of safety from the dangers of pesticide in their food," said Hugo Fisher, resources administrator and chairman of the committee.

"But a great deal remains to be done before the same thing can be said of the air, waters, lands and fish and wildlife of this state."

• • • •

"A KEY committee finding is that the state of California is exercising better control of pesticides than any other state in the nation or even the federal government, primarily in an effort to prevent residues of pesticides from contaminating human foodstuffs."

Brown, who appointed the committee last year in response to concern over poisonings of fish and wildlife, praised the report.

The governor said he'll decide what action to take when the final report is made.

The report recommended that the committee — comprised of top officials and technicians from the departments of agriculture, fish and game, public health, water resources and the University of California—be made permanent.

Michigan State Picnic

The Michigan State picnic will be held in Bixby Park from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. today. Guests may bring a basket lunch or purchase lunch on the site. The Long Beach Municipal Band will play.

GATOR THIEVES

Modern Rustlers Are Brave Souls

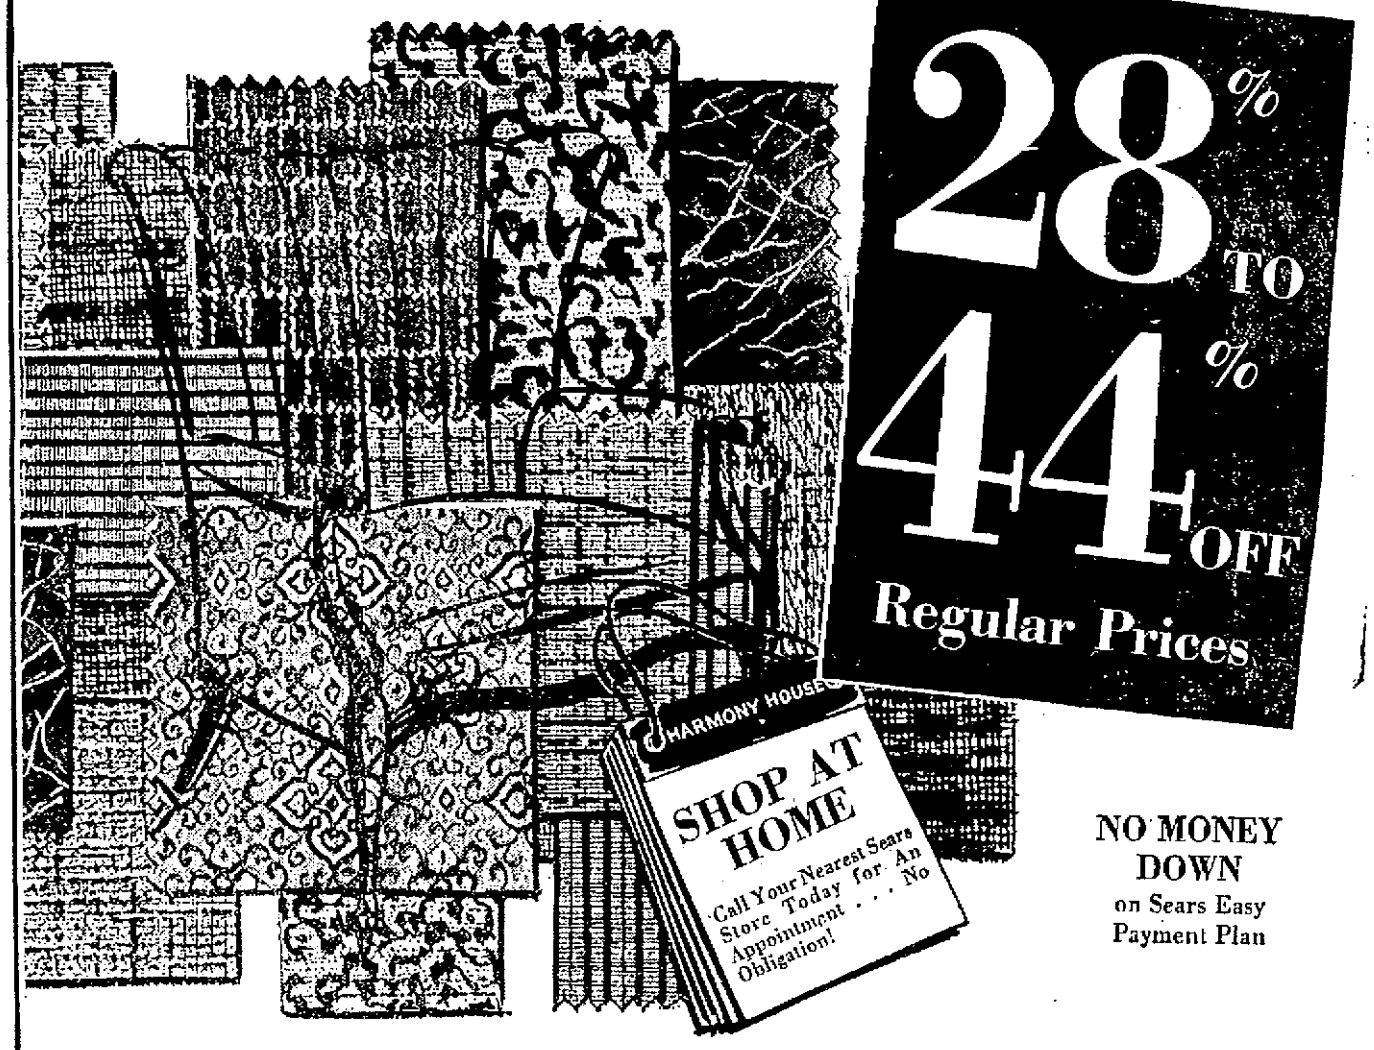

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Rustlers in cowboy boots made off with some "critters" in a case the Old West would have been hard pressed to match.

The critters, authorities said, were 50 to 60 sharptoothed alligators weighing about three to five pounds each. The only clue to the rustlers was a short trail of prints of cowboy boots on the farm where the alligators were stolen.

LBJ, Barry Agree on Oil Problems

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (UPI) — Oil problems should not figure too prominently in a presidential campaign between President Lyndon B. Johnson and Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Congressional records of both men, as members of the Senate, show almost identical roll call votes on major oil and gas problems.

Rep. William Miller, R-N.Y., Goldwater's vice presidential running mate, also cast favorable house votes on major oil issues in 1953 and 1955.

Johnson drew support from Goldwater when he guided the submerged lands act through the Senate in 1953.

Goldwater also voted with Johnson when the then senior Senator from Texas championed the controversial Harris-Fulbright Natural Gas Bill on the Senate floor in 1956 after having held public hearings on the measure as a subcommittee chairman.

* * * *

BOTH JOHNSON and Goldwater were with the majority when efforts to cut oil's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance were beaten in the Senate in 1958 and 1959. Goldwater was absent, but had announced his position against a cut when Johnson made his final Senate defense of the depletion allowance in 1960.

Four more Senate floor amendments attacking oil's depletion tax have been defeated since Johnson was elected vice president—twice in 1962 and twice last Feb. 6. Goldwater was absent all four times but had announced his opposition each time.

The natural gas bill that both Johnson and Goldwater voted for on Feb. 6, 1956, was vetoed 11 days later by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

About two weeks before the final Senate action, however, Goldwater had told the Senate poor regulations at the municipal or distribution level were responsible for high gas prices that might exist in some areas.

* * * *

"I HAVE BEEN unable to find one instance when the federal government came into the picture that the ultimate cost of the consumer did not increase," Goldwater said.

The Harris-Fulbright Bill would have removed federal controls over wellhead prices of natural gas sold into Interstate commerce. Former President Harry S. Truman vetoed a similar bill in 1950. Eisenhower blamed his 1956 veto on what he said was arrogant actions in behalf of the bill by a small segment of the gas industry.

The submerged lands act supported by Johnson, Goldwater and Miller in 1953 recognized tidelands title claims to the historic boundaries of the individual states. Miller also voted for the Harris-Fulbright Bill when it received early House approval in 1955. There has been no House roll call vote on the depletion allowance, however, since Miller was elected to Congress in 1950.

* * * *

JOHNSON also championed the 1955 legislation that led to the current mandatory program to control oil imports. The defense amendment to the reciprocal trade agreements act was added in committee, however, thus preventing a direct roll call vote on the imports issue.

Johnson and Goldwater supported the 1955 Trade Act, but Miller did not. Johnson and Miller supported a four-year extension, with the defense clause, in 1958 but Goldwater voted for the bill only after it came back to the Senate in the form of a House-Senate conference report.

The defense clause was retained in the Kennedy Trade Expansion Act that replaced the reciprocal agreements last year. Goldwater voted against the Kennedy bill, but Miller voted for it.

Bonus Offer Brings in Coins by Buckets

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Blue Ridge Bank, in an outlying shopping center, gave $2 bills in exchange for $1.95 in coins last week and drew a swarm of customers.

One collector turned in $1,050 in coins.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Market Takes Breather, Drifts Off Historic High

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market drifted lower most of last week from its historic high, but it did not give ground without a fight. Its modest retreat came on relatively light volume.

Stock prices staged a small rally Wednesday but surrendered further territory in the final two sessions.

Some brokers traced the failure of the market to extend its record advance to a "natural correction" or breathing spell after the arduous climb upwards. They noted that the underpinning of the stock market is extremely sound. With virtually no speculative fever to distort the price structure.

* * * *

OTHER Wallstreeters feel that until the recent racial outbursts and political future of the nation is resolved, the market place will continue to reflect the uncertainties inherent in these situations.

One analyst found cause for concern, "on a historical basis," in the fact that the dividend yield from stocks has fallen below the 3% level.

He added, however, that "the steady flow of good corporate earnings and the prospect of increased dividends this year appear to be laying the foundation for a solid base to the over-all picture."

The corporate profit performance was indeed good. The auto industry showed to best advantage with the "big three' all reporting record results. The General business backdrop also left little to be desired.

* * * *

STEEL production turned up after seven weeks of less-than-usual seasonal decline. President Johnson also came up with news that the federal deficit will be less than originally anticipated.

The widely-watched Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 5.71 on th week to 845.64. The rail average was off 0.50 to 220.48. The utilities, however, climbed 1.11 to a new peak of 149.36. Standard & Poor's wider yardstick of 500 stocks was off 0.55 to 83.46.

Sales on the "big board" totaled 22,289,750 shares compared with 23,454,580 shares a week earlier and 16,234,722 shares last year.

A total of 1,505 issues crossed the tape. Of these 698 declined and 613 advanced. However, 240 stocks hit new 1964 highs as against only 30 which touched new lows.

* * * *

CHRYSLER led off the most active list for the week. The stock closed unchanged on sales of 441,100 shares. The company reported record second quarter and first half sales and earnings. However, traders were somewhat disappointed that the dividend was not increased.

Sunshine Mining, with relatively few shares outstanding, placed second on the list. The issue picked up 1¾ on 252,900 shares. A recurrent rumor on Wall Street has it that a group is buying into the company.

Ford Motor was the third most active issue gaining ½ on a 231,100 share turnover. The No. 2 auto maker also reported peak profits and sales. General Motors was the fifth most actively traded issue. Despite the fact that it earned more and sold more in the first half of this year than any other corporation in history, the issue dipped ¾.

* * * *

RCA WAS the sixth most active stock and fell 1⅞. The company in mid-week announced it was slashing prices on one of its major computer systems. Price cutting and growing competition in the computer field apparently was responsible for the sharp collapse of many issues on the list.

IBM tumbled 15¼ on the week. Control Data gave up 8¼ and Honeywell 4¾. Sperry Rand, which said it does not plan to reduce computer prices, was active and gained ⅛.

American Telephone was the third most active issue. The deep-blue chip gave up ⅞. The stock had a sharp run-up after the stock was split two-for-one. General Dynamics was actively traded and gained ¾ on a favorable recommendation by an advisory service.

Steel issues retreated after their recent advances on favorable comment and prospects for a record production year. U.S. Steel fell 2¼, Bethlehem ⅞, Jones & Laughlin 2⅞ and Republic 1⅝.

* * * *

IN THE RAILS, the New York Central was up 1 on the best first six months profit in eight years. The Pennsy gained ⅞ on sharply improved earnings. The Chicago Great Western shed ⅞ and the Chicago & North Western was off ⅝. Late Friday the two roads announced agreement on merger terms.

In the oils, Richfield gained 2⅜ on a rumored take-over by British Petroleum. Occidental fell 2⅛ on false expectations of some important news development. Jersey Standard dropped 2⅜.

Alco Products was up ⅜ and Worthington up 2. Worthington plans to acquire Alco. General Electric was down ½ on fairly active trading. G.E. has agreed to take over nearly 50% of a big French computer manufacturer to get a foothold in the European computer market.

First Charter Financial, a savings & loan holding company, dropped 2⅞ on active trading. Most savings & loan issues weakened on lower profits as a result of the new tax laws.

Weatherman to Aid Medical Research

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Baltimore weatherman retires next month to take a position as research associate in medicine in the division of pulmonary diseases at University Hospital.

Herbert L. Alkire, 35-year veteran with the Weather Bureau, admitted that he wasn't too well versed on medicine.

But University Hospital wants him for his knowledge of meteorology, not medicine.

Dr. William Spicer, head of the pulmonary disease division at the hospital, said Alkire will map the Baltimore area meteorologically in an attempt to predict "bad spots" for sickness in future planning.

Plans and specifications for improvement of Paramount Boulevard between 54th and South Streets; for improvement of Palo Verde Avenue between Anaheim Road and Atherton Street; for beach parking lot adjacent to Marina Basin 5.

L.B. Fire Prevention Panel Formed

Formation of a committee designed to make private citizens aware of the costly and tragic results of fire was announced last week by the Long Beach Safety Council.

Martin L. Halbritter, chief of the fire department at the Long Beach Naval Base, was named chairman.

Programs to stimulate local residents in the necessity of fire prevention are planned. The group will attempt to accomplish this through a "person to person" approach, fire demonstrations, appearances before civic groups and other public relations efforts. It will be stressed that higher insurance rates are a direct result of negligence in fire prevention.

* * * *

COMMITTEE MEMBERS include Capt. J. C. Woelfel, USN (ret.), manager, tanker division, Richfield Oil Co.; C. V. Krieger, Long Beach Naval Shipyard, safety superintendent; C. D. Sheppard, Douglas Aircraft plant protection head; Mrs. Pauline Kincaid, Kincaid Insurance Co.; Gary Spongberg, Spongberg Insurance Co.; Mrs. Joanne Affronte Moran, Dal-Je Coiffures of Leisure World; Chaplain Ward McCaby, Navy Housing Chapel; Gene Curtis, Curtis Advertising Agency, and Paul Worthington, Worthington Wright Associates.

Russia Expanding Department Stores

MOSCOW (UPI)—GUM, Moscow's Macy's, is going to have more competition from big, bright new department stores.

D. V. Pavlov, trade minister of the Russian federation, wrote in the labor newspaper Trud that new stores are planned along the lines of the modernistic Moskva store.

Many Moscovites now travel to the edge of the city to shop in the Moskva. They say it has a wider range of goods of better design than GUM, in the center of the capital.

Pavlov reported that production of TV sets, transistor radios and synthetic goods will be boosted next year.

Lakes to Reveal Tilt of Land in Alaska Quakes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists plan to use 18 Alaskan lakes as "level bubbles" to find out how much earthquakes have made the southern part of the state tilt.

G. Donald Everlein of the U.S. Geological Survey said that the use of lakes "may be compared to the carpenter's use of level. We will know when and how the land tilts by making periodic checks on the distances between special markers and the lake surface."

He said 49 markers would be placed at spaced intervals around 18 lakes, including Kenai, Illiamna, Tustumena, Chakaohamna, Clark, Lutina and Ugashik.

Drowns in Balboa Club Pool

A 25-year-old housekeeper for a Newport Beach family died Saturday 12 hours after she was discovered unconscious at the bottom of the children's swimming pool at the Balboa Bay Club in Newport Beach.

Although revived by a lifeguard, the condition of Virginia Garcia grew steadily worse, and she died at 2:30 a.m. in Hoag Memorial Hospital.

Miss Garcia, native of Zacatecaf, Mexico, was employed by Merrill G. Bothalmey, who was staying at the private club at 1221 W. Pacific Coast Highway, Newport Beach, with his family.

• • • •

POLICE SAID Miss Garcia had recently completed a swimming course and had told Mrs. Bothalmey around noon that she was going out to the pool to swim. She was found at 1:50 p.m. Friday by lifeguard Tom Parke, 20, of 2500 Spaulding St., Long Beach.

Parke, who was making one of his periodic checks of the children's plunge, lifted the woman from the water and gave her mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

But doctors at the hospital said she apparently had been without oxygen too long while in the pool, and died from brain damage.

Rites Slated for 3 Young Car Victims

Funeral services will be held Monday for two Lakewood brothers who were killed with a third Lakewood youth in a Tulare county accident Friday.

Funeral for Fred William Hill Jr., 19, and his brother, Richard Eric, 16, of 4802 Briercrest Ave., is set for 10:30 a.m. Monday at Bellflower Mortuary Chapel.

Rosary for the third victim, Harold Glenn Olmstead, 17, of 4528 Nipoma Ave., is scheduled Monday night at 7 in St. Marie Goretti Catholic Church. Funeral Mass will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the same church.

DICK DALE, current rage of the surfing set, rides Nu-Pike ferris wheel with surfers Charlena and Vivian Spurrier to call attention to American Cancer Society benefit next Sunday in the Nu-Pike fun zone.

Fun Day on Nu-Pike to Aid Cancer Foe

Have fun and fight cancer is the motto for the first annual family fun day next Sunday at the Nu-Pike.

John Wells, harbor district crusade chairman of the American Cancer Society, said a percentage of receipts from the fun park's 170 rides, games and cafes will go to the society.

Dick Dale and his Del-Tones, current rage of the surfing set, will make two appearances in the Nu-Pike's Lido Ballroom.

At both performances, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. and from 4 to 5:30 p.m., a surfboard and hundreds of record albums and single records will be given away.

Mrs. Betty Seaman, harbor district director of the American Cancer Society, said a donation of $1 will be asked from those attending the Dick Dale performances. All the money will go to the Cancer Society, she added.

Clyde F. Seek, general manager of the Nu-Pike, said prices would not be raised at the eight-block family amusement zone for the special day and hoped a record crowd would attend and "help speed victory over the dread killer disease."

Miss. Parley Due, No Nominee Yet

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Democrats, most of them in a quandry, will gather here Tuesday for their state convention without a candidate in sight.

To date, none of Mississippi's Democratic Party leaders has spoken out for President Johnson. But a number of them have thrown their support to GOP presidential contender Barry Goldwater.

And the withdrawal of Alabama, Gov. George C. Wallace from the presidential race has left them in the air—they had been bound to follow his unpledged electors movement.

* * * *

WHILE MISSISSIPPI'S Democrats are convening, a splinter party group is attempting to supplant the regular party delegation at the nation convention in August. This is the Freedom Democratic Party, consisting mainly of Negroes, which the secretary of state has declined to register as a new party.

Integration leader Martin Luther King Jr. has been in Mississippi beating the bushes in support for the party.

Mississippi's Democrats have held a number of preconvention meetings in efforts to decide which way to move. Many sources say the most likely move may be a continued push behind unpledged electors who might later vote for Goldwater or a southern Democratic leader.

* * * *

THE PICTURE was further snarled by a unique Democratic presidential preference primary to be held in the state in September, after both national party conventions.

Under Mississippi law, 10% of the delegates at the state convention can place a slate of electors on the September primary ballot. They could be pledged to anyone or unpledged.

In September, Democrats go to the polls to choose among the slates of electors. The winners go on the November general election ballot along with the Republican electors pledged to Goldwater.

Former Gov. Ross Barnett, leader of the unpledged forces, devised the September primary to augment his unpledged program.

* * * *

THE DEMOCRATIC convention, held at the state coliseum in Jackson, was expected to see a strong fight.

At least two state Democratic executive committee members have broken off to support Goldwater and efforts were expected to turn the state's Democratic machinery into a pro-Goldwater organization.

State chairman Bidwell Adam, a 70-year-old party loyalist, was expected to fight the moves.

He said this week the only prediction he would make was "there's going to be a hot time in this old country before this thing is over."

"The Republican Party has never done a thing for Mississippi," he said, "why should Mississippi stick with the Republicans."

Broke Escapee Befriended by His Ex-Jailers

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Otto Don Smith was sentenced to serve four months in city jail for being drunk last July 1. Two weeks later, while working as a trusty, he walked off.

That was the last heard of him until Friday when jailer Buck Julian received this letter, postmarked Tulsa, from Smith:

"Dear Buck:

"I got this far. Broke. I cannot work yet because of a broken hand. Could you send me out my property, my Social Security card, driver's license and also the $5?"

Tom McGuire, city prosecutor, sent the items to Smith at Tulsa. He said the offense is non-extraditable but that if Smith ever returned here he could be arrested and prosecuted for breaking custody.

Bloody Strike Ends in Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—The 5½-month-old strike of British Guiana's sugar industry workers was called off Saturday by the Guiana Agricultural Workers' Union, the trade union arm of the ruling Peoples Progressive Party. It ordered members back to work Monday.

Since the stoppage began, millions of dollars worth of sugar cane has been burned. The strike also sparked racial violence between East Indians and Negroes. More than 150 have been killed.

WHO'S TALKING?

Moviemaker Ousts Loquacious Birds

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When Otto Preminger directs a picture no one talks—not even mynah birds.

Hugh O'Brian, back from shooting some Hawaiian scenes in "Harm's Way," says the fiery Preminger evicted the famed mynahs from Don the Beachcomber's bistro in Honolulu.

The birds, familiar to tourists, have been fed peanuts for years. In return they say "Hello" or "goodbye."

Preminger, shooting a fight sequence in the restaurant, demanded to know who was doing offstage talking.

"I'll fire whoever it is," he shouted. So the birds were fired for the afternoon.

Hughes Battles to Regain Airline Control

NEW YORK (AP)—Another round is being fought in the long and costly battle for control of Trans World Airlines.

This one possibly could be climactic.

The struggle is being waged by phantom financier Howard Hughes and the management of the international airline. It has been going on since 1960.

Hughes, the mystery man of American industry, owns 78.2 per cent of the common stock of TWA through his Hughes Tool Co., a fabulously rich maker of oil well drilling equipment.

But he lost control of TWA four years ago when his stock was placed in the hands of trustees at the insistence of Metropolitan and Equitable Life Insurance Cos., and Irving Trust Co., which had lent money for the purchase of planes.

* * * *

THE LATEST development in the long and complicated legal tangle came this week when TWA went to the federal appeals court in an attempt to block Hughes Tool from regaining control.

TWA is trying to upset a Civil Aeronautics Board ruling earlier this month that would allow Hughes Tool to buy $92.6 million in TWA notes provided Hughes Tool divests itself of Northeast Airlines.

TWA asked a temporary restraining order to suspend the CAB ruling pending a court review.

The newest maneuver was initiated by Hughes Tool last April when it filed with the CAB a motion asking the agency either to approve purchase of the TWA notes or to disclaim jurisdiction.

The board's approval, which TWA is challenging, gave Hughes Tool the power to end the voting trust by which control over TWA passed from Hughes Tool to Metropolitan and Equitable.

The insurance companies now designate two of the three trustees who vote the 78 per cent of TWA's stock that is held by Howard Hughes as owner of Hughes Tool.

* * * * *

HUGHES TOOL contended that the insurance companies, in exercising control of TWA, were violating federal regulations prohibiting such control by any organization engaged in any phase of aeronautics. It argued that the companies were engaged in aeronautics as creditors of various airlines.

TWA started the legal battle in 1961 by filing suit for $115 million in damages allegedly suffered while Hughes Tool had control of the airline. The amount of damages sought later was raised to $145 million.

Hughes Tool filed a $366 million counterclaim.

TWA spent thousands of dollars on lawyers and investigators in an attempt to force Howard Hughes to make a personal appearance to answer their allegations. They failed.

Hughes, a will-o'-the-wisp recluse, hasn't been photographed or interviewed in 10 years.

Two TWA presidents during his reign never even saw him.

* * * *

THE U.S. COURT for the southern district of New York entered a default judgment for TWA in its damage suit but did not set damages.

The 5 Franks Hear, Answer Call of The Wild

By RALPH McCLURG

Reminiscing and planning are half of the excitement of big-game safaris, and the Richard A. Franks family of 12131 E. 195th St., Dairy Valley, is in the midst of two years of such adventures.

The family of big-game hunters is scheduled to leave Aug. 16 for Kodiak, Alaska, in search of brown bear, moose and caribou.

The entire family, Mr. and Mrs. Franks, sons Richard Jr. (Dick), 17, and Gary, 8, and daughter Marilyn, 15, will make the trip.

However, the shooting is limited to Franks and his eldest son. Mrs. Franks, young Gary and Marilyn will confine their activities to the camp areas.

* * * *

THE FRANKS' hunting stories are not tall tales. They have the trophies, certificates and pictures to verify their game.

Last week Richard Jr. received two certificates indicating that the 12th edition of Rowland Ward's Records of Big Game, to be released later this year, will note the record sizes of the impala and dik-dik he bagged in Africa in 1962.

The impala was the 10th largest and the dik-dik the 16th largest of their species ever shot in East Africa.

The animals were among 30 killed by the father and son hunting team during a 16-day shooting safari in Kenya during the family's 66-day world tour two years ago.

* * * *

THE TROPHIES which Franks and son shot were processed and mounted by a London taxidermist and serve as the home record of the successful hunt. Young Franks is believed to be the youngest American ever to shoot a leopard.

The trophies include head mounts of a 2,000-pound eland, impala, orya, Grant's gazelle, Thompson gazelle, and hartebeest; skull and horns of wildebeest and hartebeest; and full mounts of dik-dik and leopard.

Besides the Franks family, the hunting group included two professional hunters, a photographer, and 18 native trackers, skinners, tent boys, cooks and waiters.

The safari traveled in two Land-Rover hunting cars followed by two transport trucks which carried camp equipment and personnel.

The Franks said, "Camp-life had all the comforts of home—even laundry was done daily. Food was tastefully prepared and served."

* * * *

AN OIL BURNING refrigerator kept 500 bottles of soft drinks cold.

"The three campsites made during the East African safari ranged from 5,300 to 7,500 feet elevation levels, and, although we were near the Equator, the weather was very cold with some warmth at midday," Franks said.

Arrangements are being made for the family to go on another sojourn in the summer of 1065, in Bechuanaland, Africa, just west of upper Southern Rhodesia.

White Hunters (Africa) Ltd., with headquarters in Nairobi, Kenya, arranged the family's trip in 1962 and will be in charge of the one in 1965.

People Outnumbered Hot Dogs at Parley

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Final facts and figures on the Republican National Convention at the Cow Palace showed that more people attended than hot dogs were sold.

Secretary-manager Edward Diran said attendance hit an all-time high for a four-day event—106,857. More people, 31,317, attended the Wednesday, July 15, session, than any other day.

Duchess Catering sold 95,000 sandwiches and hot dogs, 41,000 glasses of milk, 73,000 cups of coffee and 68,000 glasses of pop.

Couple Reties Knot —After 22 Years

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter were married 45 years ago.

But 23 years later they were divorced.

This week they tied the knot again.

The couple celebrated their 67th birthdays Tuesday by remarrying.

A. G. PANEK
Champion Predictor

ISABEL LONG
$50 for Second

A Navy shipyard electrician will have an extra hundred to celebrate his retirement next month because he's got a good nose for news before it happens.

He's A. G. Panek, 58, 1942 Florida St. in Long Beach, who is the $100 first prize winner in Beach Combing's "Predict the June Headlines" contest.

Panek had the right answers for all questions in the contest except the June 15 standings of the Dodgers and Angels, a toughie that tripped most of the more than 1000 entrants in the contest.

Equaling his performance on basic questions was Isabel Long, 2781 Bellflower Blvd., a kindergarten teacher, but she dropped to second place and $50 because Panek beat her out on the tiebreaker question. That called for an estimate of the difference between Rockefeller and Goldwater votes at the June primary. The difference was 68,350—Panek guessed 40,000, Miss Long 159,000.

Third prize of $10 went to Robert Brown, 3102 Ostrom, and here are the other prize winners, all missing three and receiving $5 each:

Myrtle Selby, 1610 E. First St.

Mrs. F. Fulton, 224 Atlantic Ave.

Frank Satariano, 4310 Rosada Ave.

G. LaPay, 1925 Nipomo Ave.

E. E. Zahrt, 1824 San Anseline Ave.

Don Schoenfeldt, 2109 Fidler.

Howard Furst, Box 125, Garden Grove.

Congratulations to all winners and thanks to all who participated in this interesting competition.

TO REFRESH memories, the contest questions included the outcome of the Rockefeller-Goldwater Republican-presidential preference contest in the state, Los Angeles and Orange counties; the senatorial Democratic and Republican U. S. nomination contests; Congressman Craig Hosmer's vote in the primary; the county district attorney race; a New York Stock exchange 500-stock average question; time of passage of the Civil Rights Bill in Congress, and the Dodger and Angel standings. And of course, the aforementioned tiebreaker.

The election results were a surprise to many people, including some of the top pollsters, and that adds to the luster of the contest winners.

PANEK, the champ, says he entered last year's headlines contest but didn't do too well. He's a close follower of the news, has always been interested in history and politics, and has been pretty good at predicting things for years.

Miss Long teaches at Douglas A. Newcomb school. She's a great contest fan, entering many of them. She reads the papers as much as she can in her busy days, but she admits she doesn't know much about sports.

WELL, THAT'S about it on our contest, except that I plan tomorrow to run the names of all who put the Dodgers and Angels in right place (8th and 9th respectively) as of June 15. We may try it again for November.

When the Plane Lands to Bring Medical, Dental and Educational Aid to Baja California, Friendly Natives Shout

'Viva Los Gringos!'

By LARRY LYNCH

A twin-engine Cessna wags its wings, then dips between the walls of a curving canyon. With a steady hand the pilot, Bruce Jacobs of Newport Beach, plants the craft firmly on the makeshift runway at Tepoco, Mexico.

Other planes follow Jacobs down.

As the arriving planes disgorge a cargo of "gringo" physicians and dentists, resident Mexicans drift in from the countryside on foot and horseback.

Soon there's a crowd around the bright red Cessna and the focus of attention is Dr. Clarence Nelson, a Fullerton surgeon, who's tossing out packets of flower and vegetable seeds.

THE LIGA MEXICO PAN AMERICANA —a group of some 200 Californians, mostly doctors, dentists and pilots bent on medical, dental and educational work—has arrived.

One of the newest and most enthusiastic members of the Liga is Dr. Ralph L. Christensen, a dentist who practices at 10917 S. Paramount Blvd. in Downey.

Lean, blond and youthful appearing, the 43-year-old family man learned of Liga through a patient.

In Mexico, his work is all gratis. To date, most of his visits have been to the area east of Navojoa in the state of Sonora. He extracts teeth and performs what other dental surgery is possible under the rudimentary conditions of the rural Mexican villages.

ON EACH TRIP Dr. Christensen is accompanied by 50 to 75 other professional men occupied with similar efforts.

Dr. Victor Sabo, a Long Beach dentist, recently set up an assembly line that enabled him to remove 400 of the villagers' bad teeth in one day.

The present patriach of Liga, formed 18 years ago by a Calexico, Calif., physician who had treated Mexican politicians, is Dr. Nelson, 68.

Dr. Nelson (on plane) tosses packets of flower seeds to rural Mexicans whose barren lands are starved for color. The natives' favorite: violets.

Interested village children at Quiergo watch Dr. Christensen, working at roadside chair, extract tooth from man who insists on keeping hat on head.

The 25,000-member California School Employes Association will hold its 38th annual conference at the Lafayette Hotel, Long Beach, Tuesday through Saturday.

Nine hundred delegates have been elected to represent the 400 chapters of the association in public school districts throughout the state.

The CSEA represents non-teaching school personnel before local school boards and before the state legislature and other governmental bodies.

* * * *

OFFICIAL opening ceremonies for the conference will be held at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday with Dr. Jack W. Mears, president of Cerritos College, presenting the keynote address.

Other guest speakers for the opening rite will be Mayor Edwin W. Wade; W. Odie Wright, superintendent of the Long Beach schools; and C. C. Trillingham, county superintendent of schools.

The conference delegates will set association policy and elect officers for the coming year. Current state president is Clinton R. Mortenson of 5615 Canehill Ave., Lakewood.

* * * *

MORE THAN 2,000 members will join the delegates for conference "Education Day" Friday. Featured will be films, lectures, exhibits and more than 50 guest speakers.

A slate of 17 newly elected delegates will represent the Long Beach chapter, including C. Kenneth Brown, president.

The conference will close at 12:30 p.m. Friday following installation of officers.

Second Day Added to Fair Hearing

By P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — A second day of testimony-taking has been added to the agenda of a legislative subcommittee which is investigating the California World's Fair.

Chairman Jerome R. Waldie, D-Antioch, said the hearing will get under way at 10 a.m. both Aug. 13 and 14 in the Long Beach Harbor Department Administration Building.

Previously, Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick was advised that the hearing would be Aug. 13.

The subcommittee is exploring whether the state should participate in the fair.

This is a 13-man subcommittee of the ways and means committee, the group charged with making fiscal recommendations to the Assembly.

Mystery-Shot Victim 'Fair'

A U.S. Navy cook was reported in fair condition late Saturday aboard the hospital ship U.S.S. Haven after he was shot while standing in front of a drive-in restaurant in the Compton area.

Navy doctors said Tommy Dozier, 43, was wounded in the chest early Saturday by unknown assailants. Dozier was waiting to pick up food at Alex's Drive-In, Nestor Avenue and Compton Boulevard.

Stanton Man Slain; Tijuana Cabby Held

A Tijuana cab driver was ordered held Saturday for murder in the death of a Stanton man, Bonifacio Guardado, 23.

The Tijuana district attorney said Jorge Gonzales was charged after Guardado was found dead of a heavy blow on the head in the Mexican city.

$2.5 Million Building Project at L.B. Airport Will Start Soon

By GEORGE WEEKS

First-stage construction of a $2.5 million complex of office buildings and hangars at Long Beach Airport — the largest privately financed development of its kind at the municipal air center—will begin soon under terms of a lease just approved by city officials.

The lease area covers 11 acres of airport land east of the former Lakewood Boulevard alignment and south of Wardlow Road.

The builder is the Air Oasis Investment Co., a partnership of Larry W. Hunt, president of the Air Oasis Co., and Millie & Severson, Long Beach engineering and construction firm which uses business aircraft in projects in California, Nevada and Arizona.

A long-time lessee at the airport, the Air Oasis Co. was described by City Manager John R. Mansell as the foremost aircraft distributor in the world. Its operations touch virtually all kinds of business and general aviation.

* * * *

FIRST CONSTRUCTION phase calls for an office building of 30,000 square feet and a large hangar complex, with an investment of $750,000. Three more office buildings of similar design and two hangars are planned in later stages. There also will be three helipads adjacent to the parking area.

Long Beach architect Kenneth Wing is designing the structures. Construction is scheduled to begin within three months, with completion of the first building set for March 1, 1965.

Hunt and Noble Millie, president of Millie & Severson, said they propose to rent office and hangar space to aviation-related business firms. Many of the tenants are expected to be large companies with main offices in the East but with West Coast interests. Their executives and others will make use of the hangar space as an adjunct to the branch business headquarters.

* * * *

SITUATED MIDWAY between the centers of gravity in Los Angeles and Orange counties, the airport has increased its operations from 215,401 in 1953-54 to 402,526 in 1963-64, the lessees noted. Locally based aircraft have increased in the same period from 286 to 713.

Hunt and Millie also pointed out that the project complements the development of an industrial subdivision on City Water Department land adjoining the airport.

Rental payments to the city include $861 a month for one parcel containing 5.9 acres, the main site of the buildings and hangars.

For the balance of the land, most of it reserved for aircraft tiedown and parking facilities because of an oil easement, the rental ranges from $1,500 to $1,750 per acre per year. Term of the lease is 50 years.

SIGHT-SEEING FOR SIGHTLESS

The smell of fresh ocean air and the feel of salt spray on their faces helped some 125 blind children see the sights of a cruise to Catalina Island Saturday. As part of the Baille Institute's summer youth program, the children, ages 8 to 18, cruised to the island on 17 Coast Guard Auxiliary boats escorted by a Coast Guard cutter. Coast Guard Capt. T. K. Compton Man Called Intruder, Beaten to Death

A Compton man was free Saturday on a writ of habeas corpus after he was booked by police for allegedly beating a man to death with a shotgun.

Lee A. Pierson, 28, an insurance salesman who lives at 845 W. Stockwell Ave., told police he struck Robert L. Washington, of 1326 W. Magnolia Ave., in his home Saturday morning after Washington had followed his wife home and attempted to enter his house.

Washington, who had been hit repeatedly in the head and shoulders according to detectives, was pronounced dead on arrival at Las Campanas Hospital, Compton.

It's Barry's Turn

A WEEK OF WILD interpretative exercise has followed Sen. Goldwater's declaration at the Republican convention that "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice." Many politicians and virtually every commentator in the country have had a go at it. Results have been confusing.

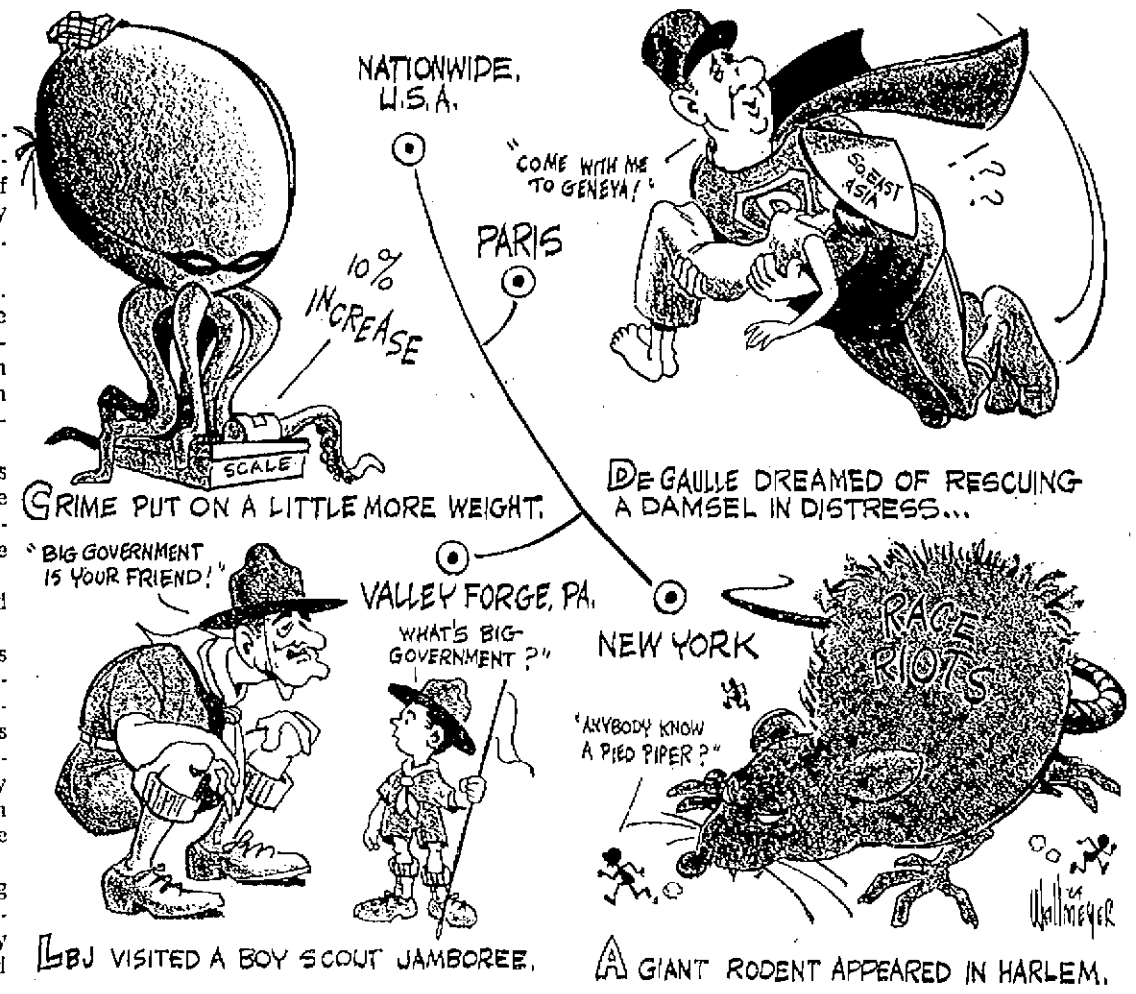

Now it would seem to be Sen. Goldwater's turn. True, the Senator did, right after convention, make some vague comments suggesting some acts of extremism that were obviously no vice, but he left open some wide holes through which others have been pouring a flood of diverse and contradictory interpretations.

The only man who can clear up the confusion is the nominee. He must know that the statement, made at a political convention and in a period when political extremism is under intense discussion, would be given political interpretation.

The fact the two sentences on extremism and moderation were underlined in official press copies of Sen. Goldwater's speech—the only full sentences given such treatment—indicates that he or his advisers regarded them as key passages of the acceptance address. Evidently the Goldwater speech experts rated them as more than a mere indulgence in oratorical flight. And even if they were intended as merely that, the impact and subsequent confusion would seem to call for a further statement on the subject from the Senator.

He would do us all a great service by stating clearly and forthrightly his views on political extremism of the kind that everybody, except possibly he, thought of immediately when he pronounced those underlined sentences in his acceptance speech.

Need Amendment to Retain State's Two-House System

I, P-T Political Editor

PRESERVATION OF ANY semblance of the so-called federal system in a state's two-house legislative setup seems to depend on amending the U.S. Constitution, State Sen. Thomas M. Rees of Los Angeles County believes.

The federal system parallels that of the nation's House of Representatives—435 members elected on a basis of population—and of the U.S. Senate—100 members elected on the basis of two for each state regardless of population disparity.

HOUSER

Thus, California's Assembly has 80 members elected on a population basis while the 40-member State Senate is elected one to a county, except in a few instances in the North where a senator represents two or three small-population counties.

California's system is "undoubtedly unconstitutional," Los Angeles County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy said Friday. His opinion was requested by the Board of Supervisors after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in six state cases that state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population.

Rees points out the current imbalance here in his own Senate—one state senator representing 14,000 in Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties, while he represents 6.7 million in Los Angeles County, a disparity of about 478 to 1.

REES DOUBTS that Congress can change the effect of the court decision by passing a federal law, since the ruling is grounded in Section I of the Constitution's 14th Amendment, the "equal protection" clause affirming equality of each citizen's vote.

The amendment which Rees feels has the best chance of passage—two-thirds approval by the Congress and three-fourths ratification by the states (38)—is one which proposes that if a state has a two-house legislature, one house must be apportioned strictly by population and that the other house may be apportioned on a basis other than population, but that the plan must be approved by the voters of that state.

This system would allow vote-heavy Southern California to weaken the power of tiny-constituency Northern cow counties on Senate legislation.

SPECIFICALLY, in Rees' view, approval of the amendment might pave the way for a state constitutional amendment of the type proposed unsuccessfully by Supervisor Frank Bonelli in 1962. That one would have increased State Senate membership to 50 with the 10 new seats going to metropolitan counties, one new seat for each 1.5 million population.

Harold Kennedy's official opinion and Rees' unofficial one tended to soften the wrath of the criticism of Chief Justice Earl Warren on the reapportionment decision. Kennedy's opinion concurred in the view that the present system here is unconstitutional. Rees argued that Warren was only one of a clear majority on the court who ratified the decision.

HE NOTED FURTHER that Warren, as Governor of California, took a strong stand that there should be some balance between metropolitan and rural areas in legislative representation, and also opposed the 1948 state ballot measure which would have reapportioned the State Senate. So, Rees says, "he is doing nothing more than his duty in giving the Court's interpretation of the Constitution without regard to his specific feelings."

A Funless Fiesta

TODAY marks the 11th anniversary of Fidel Castro's attack on the Moncada Fortress that launched his "liberation" of Cuba. The 26th of July observance is a day of government-decreed celebration in Cuba, but Castro must find little to celebrate this year. Things have changed.

Communism has isolated his island, politically and economically, from much of this hemisphere. This isolation has imposed all manner of hardships upon the Cuban people. Instead of the freedom Castro promised them when his crusade began, they find themselves the vassals of a dictatorial regime that is itself totally dependent on the Soviet Union.

Now, the strutting demagogue who shouted insults at the United States in his famous day-long telethons has lost much of his bluster. Now, he makes vague suggestions that the time has come for discussions with Washington on Cuban-American difficulties, using Spain as an intermediary.

It would seem that much of the fun has gone out of Havana's fiesta, and things are not likely to get merrier by next July 26.

A Solved Problem

A COUPLE of years ago the news and editorial columns of these newspapers devoted considerable space to discussion of one of the city's long-range and most vexing problems—local bus transportation.

The subject was brought to mind by a story this past week in which the Long Beach Public Transportation Co. announced that it is buying 10 more new big blue "Dreamliner" buses.

When these new vehicles are delivered July 31, it will raise the total purchased since the non-profit corporation took over the bus lines to 35. Coupled with the 15 modern buses already owned by the previous company this will raise the fleet to a 50-50 proposition—half of the buses are new and half old.

William F. Farell, executive vice president and general manager of the bus line, also announced that he hopes to add 16 more new units within another six or seven months. In another piece of good news, Farell disclosed that the company's patronage has been rising, reversing a downward trend that had been going on almost without interruption since World War II.

This favorable set of conditions concerning our bus system has not just happened. It was accomplished by a remarkable amount of effort that involved the City Council, city administration, a group of public-spirited citizens who are operating the new company, top quality management and lastly (but certainly most important) the citizens of the city who were willing to vote tax funds to rescue our faltering transportation system.

In the light of all the current problems and difficulties that constantly confront our community, it is a pleasure to be able to report that here is one problem that was met head on and solved. We hope that the spirit that prevailed in this instance can be brought to bear fruitfully in other areas.

Delegation of Nuclear Decision

WASHINGTON—Because of the multitude of distortions already emerging in the current presidential campaign, millions of Americans have been misled into thinking that Senator Goldwater, if elected President, would start a nuclear war.

But sooner or later truth catches up with fiction. The criticism of the statement made by Senator Goldwater some time ago was that he was willing to let military commanders in the field exercise their own judgment as to when nuclear weapons would be used. Actually, the Arizona Senator was discussing a specific military problem that might arise in Europe, and he was describing the importance of delegated authority.

LAWRENCE

Nobody who stops to think of the surprise attack that could come would wish to require a military commander to get on the telephone and try to find the President of the United States—while he may be traveling around the country—in order to get authority to retaliate as American troops were meanwhile being slaughtered every minute of the time.

The essence of military procedure is that there must be delegated authority — a prescribed course of action that can be used instantly in an emergency. This is all that Senator Goldwater had in mind, and he wanted such delegated authority given to the commander of the NATO forces, not to subordinate military commanders indiscriminately.

As a matter of fact, the United States government under the Johnson administration, and previously under the Kennedy administration, has been giving careful study to a plan known as the "multi-lateral force," which would use nuclear weapons from vantage points along the coast of a European country. The plan calls for 25 surface ships, each equipped with eight Polaris missiles. Under current proposals, each country could exercise a veto but, if there were unanimous agreement among the senior officers on a ship, they could fire the missiles in an emergency. Since there would be mixed crews, all the commanders of the participating nations would agree before pulling the trigger. But plainly it would be the U.S. commander in the field who would be agreeing to the use of missiles in the event of attack.

The details of these plans have not yet been completed, but in theory they are all based upon the concept of delegated authority.

Again and again in the past there have been discussions as to who should really pull the trigger, and there has been an impression that this has been left entirely to the President of the United States. But, more and more, the European military men, as well as high officials like President De Gaulle, have come to regard such a remote control as dangerous to their safety. Thus the discussion has turned to the delegation of authority in certain kinds of emergencies.

It is, therefore, an illusion to imply that Senator Goldwater has initiated the controversy or that anything he has said justifies the interpretation given to his speeches or comments in the past on the subject of delegated authority. Senator Goldwater, as a reserve officer in the Air Force, is well acquainted with military procedures, and would be the last man to advocate that any commander be given authority to pull the trigger and start a nuclear war.

LBJ Takes Personal Role to Implement Civil Rights

WASHINGTON—In recent weeks, President Johnson has been acting—not just as commander in chief — but battalion leader in his psychological campaign to win the smoothest possible implementation of the civil rights law. There have been hundreds of telephone calls weekly to little people as well as VIPs involved. One call may be to a Southern governor; the next to a Mississippi sheriff; a third to some students engaged in civil rights work. The President has also taken to attending personally to many letters and telegrams that reach the White House on the civil rights issue.

President Johnson's worries over New York City riots have been matched, aides say, by his deepening concern over reports from J. Edgar Hoover that activities of the Ku Klux Klan are on the rise.

All this leads, further, to presidential anxieties over America's image abroad. He has been consulting with Frank Stanton of CBS, among others, about how to soften the impact of news of racial strife and how to project the positive side such as his ambitions to create a "great society" that will fully utilize America's affluence, freedom and comparative security.

* * * *

THERE IS more to Jacqueline Kennedy's departure from Washington than desire for a change and annoyance over crowds that thronged the streets before her Georgetown house.

There is a very human reality contained in the cry: "The king is dead, long live the king!" But it has been understandably hard for Jacqueline Kennedy to see the speed with which—in her opinion at least — the memory of her husband has been dimmed by the rush of events.

"I don't think we should forget President Kennedy," Mrs. Kennedy has said to acquaintances and friends, at times angrily, at times wistfully.

Here in Washington, the newspapers with their intensive chronicling of the doings of the new administration, were a daily reminder to her of how swiftly power comes and goes and how quickly—in some cases—loyalties can shift. Mrs. Kennedy has been upset at how some men and women who owed so much to her husband seem so easily to have forgotten their debt.

And Washington is a provincial city. There are, as compared to New York, few top restaurants, few theatres and few places to go. And in this provincial atmosphere Mrs. Kennedy was unable to venture out from her home without immediately attracting a throng of reporters. It is her feeling that in celebrity-filled New York, she will have more of an opportunity to be lost in the crowd. And many of her friends are not at all convinced that the move to New York will be permanent. David Powers, long time friend of the President's and companion to John-John, was surprised at her decision to move to New York permanently. Originally, the intention was to move there only for six months or so. And Powers is betting that after the passage of time, Mrs. Kennedy will change her mind again and come back to Washington.

IF VICTORY goes to the Democrats in December, President Johnson can be expected to launch an impressive series of overseas visits in execution of his own style of personal diplomacy.

No time or place has been set for a rendezvous with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. But the White House aides take it as axiomatic that President Johnson, once he has his own mandate from the American people, will want to take personal measure of his most powerful adversary.

As vice president, Mr. Johnson vastly enjoyed his overseas assignments and opportunities for personal diplomacy. He has ruled out overseas trips since November 22 for the reason that without a vice president to handle things in his absence, it would not be fair to the American people for him to leave the country.

One of his earliest trips will probably be to France—unless President De Gaulle reverses himself and shows a desire to come to Washington.

Says Walker True Patriot

EDITOR:

Because Gen. Edwin A. Walker is a true American patriot, he is now classified, and referred to by the socialistic left-wing element, as "right-wing extremist" and a member of "the radical right" or "the lunatic fringe." That element also adds emphasis to their arrogant slurs by stating that such patriots are "more dangerous than Communists and communism."

The Walter Reuther Secret Memorandum (available from Christian Crusade, Tulsa 2, Oklahoma) recommends that such patriots be listed in the Attorney General's files as "subversives."

Taking into account the source of this suggestion and the slurs, I am proud to assert that I am also a member of that same "lunatic fringe." In the event, therefore, that I should find my own name listed among such "subversives" on the Attorney General's list, because I likewise am intensely patriotic, I feel that I shall then, indeed, be in the excellent company of the elite hardcore Americans who are the bone, sinew and lifeblood of this great Republic.

A 'Well Done' for the Library

EDITOR:

Fifty-five years of service to the residents of Long Beach is a record hard to beat. Imagine, as you go on the historical tour suggested by this paper, a population of 17,000 and a Library of 17,052 square feet. That is just a mite over a foot of library space for each resident of Long Beach in 1909.

Today the population is almost 22 times that of 1909 and the square footage increase of the library in 55 years has only been 11,586 feet. From the original 15,088 volumes, there are now 170,544, or 155,456 more books. Other statistics show equally startling changes.

Many in Long Beach say, "Thank you for a job well done. Happy Birthday and may you celebrate your next birthday in new facilities adequate to the times and tempo of Long Beach."

Appeals for Johnson Support

EDITOR:

I realize now—I hope not too late—how vitally important it is for every individual who values the ideals set down by our forefathers and reinforced by the blood of our heroes to become involved, totally involved, in the machinery of our government.

We cannot, we must not let the bigoted few throw sand in our gears. Apathetic Americans—like me—awake! If we don't step forth now to take our part in the political scene we may in a few short years find to our horror that there is no scene left.

Now is the time to shake our sluggish selves. Now is the time to blend our separate individual murmurs of protest into one horrified roar that will reverberate throughout the land. Let this sound be the voice of all those people who, like me, never wanted to be involved in politics before but now feel from fright and revulsion that we simply must do something.

Won't those who agree stand up and be counted? Perhaps we can throw our hitherto untapped efforts into the political arena in time to help sweep it clean of extremism. Let us all, regardless of affiliation, rally behind Mr. Johnson so that we, not the bigots, can truly be the cogs in the wheels of Washington.

Sees Negligence by N.Y. Authorities

EDITOR:

The administration of our largest city has shown negligence in duties it was elected to carry out.

The governor of New York should have moved in and taken over the administration of the city when he saw that the mayor was lax in his duties, in protection of public and private properties from common thieves, looters and bombers.

The Negroes are playing into Goldwater's hands and helping him to be elected. They want their civil rights. But are they able to handle those same rights? It surely don't look like it by their actions. We want the police to protect us. Even to the extent of giving their lives.

LBJ-Barry Talks Aimed at Hi Road

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has moved swiftly to capitalize on the extremist cloud which hangs over the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater on the Republican ticket.

FLEESON

His invitation to "a partnership of moderation" was delivered personally to an adroitly chosen audience of leaders in industry, finance and communications. He has already made substantial inroads in this area where Republican sentiment is normally strong.

Woven into his remarks was the suggestion that extremism in any form, white, or black, domestic or international, would menace present economic stability. Prosperity is a strong argument for any administration, and Johnson intends to make the most of it.

In essence, the speech opened his campaign for reelection. It puts him firmly in the center in the conciliator role so congenial to him during his six years as Senate majority leader while General Eisenhower was President.

As he was speaking he learned that the high road will not be yielded to him without a struggle. Goldwater announced he had asked for a conference on keeping the racial issue out of the campaign. It is a confrontation of some delicacy which only veteran politicians could carry on under the Queensberry rules.

As a Texas Senator, Johnson was far from the champion of civil rights that he is now as President. Republicans attacked him during their convention on his old record, with the labels "fake" and "hypocrite" freely used from the top down. They will continue to use it they said, to "get Lyndon's goal" in the campaign.

For his part, the southern President understands, none better, that the Goldwater nomination is the product of a lily-white convention, put together by Texas oil money and Southern political skills. The Senator is not personally a racist, but he prefers to leave the problem to the states. He made it respectable to be a Republican in the South, and his hope of victory in November is built upon that segregationist section.

Thus the protagonists of the coming struggle are not in a position to cry "foul" at one another. They won't really want to, for they served in the Senate together where it's not done.

But they know the facts. Their parties are walking down different sides of the racial street. The President will get the Negro vote and the Senator will get the segregationists'. No amount of elevated language can cloak these elements of the 1964 fight for presidential power.

Yet the conference will be useful. Racial unrest is serious and nationwide. It could cut both ways. The voters will be able to judge the actions of the candidates from now to November by the standards they themselves proclaim.

The President, of course, has the advantage of the presidency. It is enormous, but it carries with it the fact of responsibility; and the public knows the President's staff as well. The adept Goldwater organization is shadowy still, and it has proved itself able to operate without always involving its candidate. Its hope is to keep him on the high road, toward which the White House racial conference is a first step.

North-South Hate Campaign Waged Within State Border

By P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The Deep South of Dixie isn't the only area where geographical "hate" campaign are fed by public demigods.

California's own North-South "hate" campaigns are being waged within the state's border—partially at public expense. Northern California senators, mostly representing sparsely-settled rural areas, are fighting to save their political skins from reapportionment of the State Senate. The Senate, now based on geographical representation, would be due for a complete overhaul if a federal court orders representation by population for the California Senate. Most rural northern senators would face the ax.

McCAULEY

So some are planting the seeds of geographical hatred to inflame public opinion against reapportionment.

There is a sharp difference how the North and South of California engage in geographical rivalry. In the South, the rivalry confines itself pretty well to Dodgers-Giants, Rams-49ers, etc . . . and a few acid-lettings from the Mayor Sam Yorty stripe of politician.

But the North, longtime political and economic capital of California, is almost paranoid as it yields increasing influence to the more densly populated Southland.

Many Northerners confide privately that they genuinely dislike Southern Californians. They write letters to newspaper editors urging partition of the state. They take more potshots at Los Angeles than Peiping, more offense at County Supervisors Frank Bonelli than Public Enemy No. 1.

They talk more about dangers of a Los Angeles County takeover of Northern California than they do of Communist subversion or right-wing extremists. They are convinced that Southland visitors despoil the forests, beaches, bars and highways of Northern California.

"Prevent the power grab," read Northern billboards in 1962 when the last Senate reapportionment ballot proposition was on the ballot.

Northern hostility is a shocking experience to an alien transplanted from the milk-and-honey Southland—where Southern California rivalry with the North is directed mostly in jest and athletic contests.

When you first encounter it, you are tempted to think it is something isolated, personal or that you have misinterpreted it.

However, you compare notes with other Southern California newsmen on duty in Northern California. You find they have the same initial reaction.

When some one talks about the "Southern Problem" in Northern California, one must ask: "Which South?"

Northern California senators are using public funds to finance a court battle against Senate reapportionment. Though most of those same public funds come from Southern California taxpayers, the fiscal irony doesn't seem to bother them.

For the North, the end justifies the means in the battle to retain control of the Senate.

Sen. Edwin J. Regan, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, clearly outlined the North's deep-seated fears about the Southland in recent testimony before a Congressional committee.

Declared Sen. Regan in a handout written and published at public expense: "It is possible that a metropolitan population controlling all governmental power—executive and legislative—and driven to desperate or pressing immediate needs, would arrogate to itself all or most of the available supply of water to the prejudice and injury of the rest of the state."

Regan contended that California's schools, water-system and other resources might be plundered if Southern California is given equal representation.

WALTER T. RIDDER

Goal of Short Campaigns Unlikely to Be Successful

WASHINGTON — Both Barry Goldwater and Lyndon B. Johnson are letting it be known that they will conduct short campaigns this fall. They are going to abandon the wild dashes which characterized the 1960 battle and leave as much of the baby-kissing and hand-shaking as possible to their running-mates.

RIDDER

This is indeed a laudable objective and we can only hope that the two men can achieve this goal. The betting here is however that they won't make it. The pressure of an American national election are simply too great and whilly-nilly they'll find themselves falling into the same old pattern.

Former President Eisenhower determined that he wasn't going to campaign the way it was done in the past, but at the end of both his election tries, he had been zooming around the country just as had dozens of candidates before him.

The trouble stems largely from the state and local politicians. They put the heat on the President or the candidate of their party. Politicians being politicians the candidates have tried to withstand the heat, but invariably have finally caved in.

What happens is very simple. Let's say Casper Milquetoast is running for the Senate from some Pacific Coast state. He isn't doing very well and his campaign needs a shot in the arm. The best thing anyone can think of is to get the party's presidential nominee out there and give a speech or two plugging Milquetoast. His advisers fly to campaign headquarters, argue, cajole, plead, threaten and beg the candidate to give Milquetoast a helping hand. The candidate finally surrenders and goes on the trip which he originally was determined not to make.

The jet plane, far from simplifying the problem of campaigns has actually increased them. Time was when the candidate could simply tell the supporters of Milquetoast that the Pacific Coast was too far away and he didn't have the time to make a special trip for good old Casper. That's true no longer. Milquetoast's advisers tell the candidate the trip is only five hours and certainly that isn't much of a juant, etc., etc., and again the candidate finds himself hooked.

Being men or some force of will and determination perhaps Goldwater and Johnson can hold to their determinations. As they both see it now, they are going to rely very heavily on television appearances and make a few appearances in major cities for big party rallies, but will leave the usual barnstorming to others.

We wish them luck in their plans. Certainly American political campaigns could use some curtailing, but our guess is that as election day looms and as the contest waxes hotter, the boys will forget all about their plans and be zooming around the country like guided missiles.

Four Love Affair Influenced History

WASHINGTON—It has been said that women can't lead the nation in politics. But there have been four great love affairs in my lifetime which have changed the history of the world—and the most recent nominated Barry Goldwater. They were:

The love affair between Woodrow Wilson and a Virginia beauty who finally became the second Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and who guarded him so zealously that the League of Nations was rejected by the United States.

PEARSON

The love affair between the King of England and Mrs. Wallis Simpson which probably contributed to the British appeasement of Hitler.

The love affair between Wendell Willkie and Irita Van Doren which charted a liberal course for the Republican Party.

Finally the recent love affair between the Governor of New York and the wife of a New York doctor lost him the Republican nomination for president.

Of these the first had its greatest impact on peace, though the Rockefeller drama, which has not yet run its course, may in the end likewise influence peace even more.

Edith Bolling Galt, the second Mrs. Wilson, had an inferiority complex. Society frowned on her. This plus the jealous love of her husband kept him away from Senate leaders at a time when the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations were up for confirmation. As a result, the League was rebuffed and the United States entered a disastrous period of isolation under Republican Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

* * * *

THE ROMANCE between King Edward VIII and Wally Simpson probably helped Hitler. Certainly it changed history. Wally was a vivacious divorcee whom every Washington bachelor fell in love with, including this one.

When she went to London to visit her friend, Mrs. Ben Thaw, whose husband was counselor of the American Embassy, the Prince of Wales fell in love with her. When he became King, the romance continued.

It was in 1936 that Edward stepped down, just as Hitler was cementing his power, the same year he seized the Ruhr and the Rhineland. If Edward, an energetic monarch, had been on the throne, England under Prime Minister Chamberlain might not have gone through the humiliating bows to Hitler at Munich, which helped precipitate the invasion of Poland.

* * * *

THE ROMANCE of Wendell Willkie did not change world history, but it did influence the policy of the Republican Party. Willkie, a buoyant charmer, fell in love with the editor of the New York Herald Tribune book section, Irita Van Doren, an intellectual and a liberal. Willkie's politics veered as a result. He became just as liberal as Franklin Roosevelt, wrote a book, "One World" which virtually advocated world government and helped set the stage for the United Nations. He cut the ground out from under the old isolation of the Republican Party, and helped the Democrats set the stage for world cooperation.

* * * *

THE ROMANCE of Nelson Rockefeller is so recent that it needs no review here. Undoubtedly Rockefeller would have been the Republican nominee had it not been for his divorce, and marriage to Mrs. "Happy" Murphy. He had all the ingredients for political success.

Yet, like Edward VIII of England he blew it on a woman.

Even at the last minute he might have achieved success, or at least stopped Goldwater, had it not been for the immediate result of his remarriage. At the climax of the California Primary, just as the polls indicated he would win, a baby was born.

It reminded voters that Rockefeller had ditched a wife of 31 years standing for a younger woman with four children. He lost—by a very narrow margin. Had he won, the Goldwater boom would have burst. Goldwater would not be the nominee today. And the Republican Party would not be launched on its present course of isolation.

Thus do women influence history.

ANNIVERSARY MONDAY

Korean Armistice in Effect 11 Years

By LEROY HANSEN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At exactly 10:01 a.m. 11 years ago Monday, two stony-faced generals signed a piece of paper ending vicious fighting that had begun three years, 32 days, five hours and one minute earlier.

By affixing their signatures to the Korean armistice documents in the Panmunjom Peace Pagoda of No-Man's Land, U.S. Army Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., and North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il brought to a close what was perhaps the costliest war in world history.

The toll of the battle for the Utah-sized peninsula that juts into the Yellow Sea was astronomical.

Nearly 2.5 million persons—Allied and Communists, military and civilian—had been reported killed, wounded or missing since that fateful hour of 5 a.m. June 25, 1950, when 75,000 North Korean Communists launched their attack across Korea's 38th Parallel.

Once every 40 seconds for more than three years, someone, somewhere in Korea had become a victim of Communist ambitions.

The Americans had 157,530 casualties, of whom 33,629 were killed in combat and 20,617 died nonbattle deaths.

Communist China's dead and wounded were estimated at 945,000 and North Korea's at 520,000.

Remains of Dinosaur Sought by Geologists

MARMATH, N.D. (AP)—University of North Dakota geologists are trying to dig up the remains of a dinosaur believed to be 80 million years old.

The partially exposed skeleton of a triceratops was found by a student mapping an area of Southwestern North Dakota last summer. The beast appeared to be about 20 feet long and 10 feet high, said Prof. F. D. Holland of the university.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Hard to Realize, But Elvis is 30 — Still a Star

By EARL WILSON

BEVERLY HILLS — He had only one crazy haircut to their four . . . he was handicapped by a pretty good voice . . . but I think the historians of show business will say that Elvis Presley was bigger then . . . and will be bigger tomorrow . . . than your Beatles.

His Rolls-Royce with the two phones—one in front and one in back—sits somewhat grandly these days alongside the MGM lot.

Inside, the young hillbilly multimillionaire is filming his 17th picture.

It's hard to realize that Elvis the Pelvis will be 30 next Jan. 8.

Age will happen to the Beatles, too. Elvis has stayed big . . . BIG . . . for 8 years. The Beatles—and I happen to love them—by 1972 will be just a bad, embarrassing dream to the little girls who twitch and shriek over them today.

"Do you remember when we came out here?" asks Elvis' manager, colorful Colonel Tom Parker, with a laugh. "They didn't give up six weeks!

"Elvuss" — that's how Tom pronounces it — "is signed for five more. That'll make 22 in 9 years—and don't forget, two years Elvuss was in the service!"

* * * *

"THERE'S A rumor, Colonel," I ventured, "that if Elvis ever gets married, you're going to have it in the Hollywood Bowl, and sell tickets."

"Untrue!" The Colonel pointed a fat finger warningly, "I always figgered on a nice quiet wedding on top of an elephant."

Elvis was as quietly noncircusy as his manager was the carnival barker when I found him in his portable dressing room at Joe Pasternak's "Girl Happy."

He wore a thin red sweater and dark slacks, and his hair was smartly combed. He has retained the nice habit of saying "Sir" and "Ma'am" that he brought from Nashville.

"Do you think you will ever get married?" I got around to asking.

"Yes, sir, I probably will some day." He glanced down embarrassedly.

* * * *

"DO YOU have anybody in mind?"

We had heard all those stories about Ann-Margret and every leading lady.

"No, sir, I can't really say that I do have," Elvis said in another shy reply.

"We've heard all these stories . . ."

Elvis tossed back his proud head with the good head of hair.

"It's very unpredictable when I will," he said. "I guess I'm like a dog that keeps picking up scents."

Girl-Happy, like the picture says, like other guys edging 30 years . . .

* * * *

SIR ALEC GUINESS, receiving a dramatic award for "Dylan," jokingly thanked the audience, the press "and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton for relinquishing Page One long enough for me to receive the award" . . Sophia Loren asked for (and got) Peter Finch of "Girl With Green Eyes" as her co-star in "Judith" . . . Otto Preminger refused to give John Wayne and Kirk Douglas script approval in "Harm's Way": "The script is my job—acting is theirs."

Barbara Streisand shrugs off praise for her song phrasing: "What they call phrasing is really indigestion. I gulp my dinner—and I'm usually covering up a burp" . . . Comic Rip Taylor was invited by Princess Grace to entertain at Monaco's Red Cross Ball . . . Anne Bancroft, whose London apt. was burgled, took no jewelry to the "Pumpkin Eater" premiere there: "I love the English — but I wouldn't even take rhinestones there!" . . . Vi Velasco will appear on the "On the B'way Tonight" TV'er Monday . . . Comic Jackie Vernon's a contender for the "Marty" TV series lead . . . Jackie Mason commuted daily by helicopter from an Atlantic City cafe date to a World's Fair TV taping . . . Neil Sedaka has a warm touch to his act—he uses a stool covered with mink . . . The Rainbow Grill will be used for a dance sequence in the film version of "Any Wednesday."

* * * *

JOHNNY RAY'S co-star in his "Bus Stop" summer stock stint will be Betty Kean . . . Singer Bobby Breen got the help of his discoverer, Eddie Cantor, in preparing his act for an Australian tour . . . A new tune titled "Lynda and Luci" was recorded by a group called the Demo O'Crats. . . . Every broadcasting booth at a major network carries one album: Leonard Bernstein's recording of Brahms Symphony No. 2 in D, with the notice: "To be played immediately upon notification of the death of a top important person, Play second movement."

Fred Astaire was asked if he thinks of himself now as a singer or a dancer. He said, "I'll tell you this—singers think of me as a dancer, and dancers think of me as a singer."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow explained why he was so unhappy: "My ulcer just healed, and now my boss thinks I've lost interest in my job."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Retirement is when a man who thought he'd go fishing seven times a week finds himself doing dishes three times a day.—Harold Coffin.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A conversation is like a good meal. You should leave it before you have had enough."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: When it comes to knowing what's happening, count on a politician with his ear to the ground or a teen-ager with his ear to the transistor.

Sargent Shriver asked comic Jackie Clark (who weighs 123 lbs.) to entertain at a show in Washington. A Shriver aide said, "He's a fine example of why we need our physical fitness program." . . . that's earl, brother.

ANYBODY SEEN KELLEY?

Kelley Anne Homes gives a sample of what to expect from this year's Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus when it comes to town. Kelley, among other things, adds a bit of eye-appeal to the show's production numbers. The circus is scheduled in the Long Beach area Aug. 6-9.

LINDA JONES IS ALL BOTTLED UP BY SABRI

GIRLS SEE TO IT

Empty Bottles Do Good for Orphans

By ANDY PARK

If a young lady knocked at your door Saturday and requested all your old bottles, she was NOT a census taker for the WCTU. Chances are, she was a member of the SABRI Club of Los Altos YMCA and she was just living up to the motto of her club.

SABRI, as any one of 36 East Long Beach girls will hasten to tell you, is the goddess of love and adventure. And Los Altos "Y" SABRI Club, under the adult supervision of Mrs. Betty Murray, is composed of a group of young Millikan High School goddesses who just "love" adventure.

* * * *

THE PROJECT for Saturday—a brainchild of committee head Linda Jones, 16—was to collect pop bottles in order to raise money to support a Korean orphan.

Linda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jones, of 6101 Marita Ave., got 20 of the girls together at 9 a.m. and sent them throughout the neighborhood rounding up bottles. Carload by carload they brought them back to the Jones house and dumped them on the lawn of patient Charles Jones.

According to club president Linda Fauls, 18, the girls spend Saturdays on money-raising projects to support their charities and goods works.

By 4 p.m., the girls had more than 1,000 bottles of all shapes and sizes inundating Mr. Jones's crabgrass. Club treasurer Teri Alello, 17, then issued the clarion call, "Head for the store."

* * * *

AS THEY vanished into the dust, 20 girls loaded down with 3-cent-deposit bottles were attacking every small market and drugstore in the neighborhood.

And the shopkeepers were boarding up the windows and putting up the "closed" sign.

But Linda, reasoning like a good committee chairman, persuaded the merchants to fork over the pennies with:

"After all, it's for a good cause!"

POLITICS

Ex-Cuban to Speak to Group

BY BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Margarita Fraser Alexander, a native of Havana, Cuba, will give a talk, "Behind the Sugar Cane Curtain" for the Long-Wood Constitutional Republicans at 8 p.m. Monday in Ruth Bach Library, 4055 Bellflower Blvd.

Miss Alexander, who became a United States citizen in 1960, is third vice president of Los Angeles County Young Republicans and a board member of Continental Young Republicans. She is sponsored by the Coast Federal Savings Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau. The public is invited.

TRANSIT ON TV

Mrs. C. E. Crittenden, former president of the Long Beach League of Women Voters and a board member of the California League, will take part in a panel discussion, "Mass Transportation: Dream or Possibility?" at 2:30 p.m. today on Channel 2.

The program is 13th in LWV's "Political Primer" series. It is moderated by KNXT newsman Maury Green.

Other panelists are State Sen. Thomas M. Rees, author of the bill which created the new Southern California Rapid Transit District; A. J. Eyraud Jr., chairman of the Metropolitan Transit Authority, and Mrs. William Keim, president of the Whittier LWV.

Gringo Doctors Arrive!

Nelson developed an intense interest in Latin Americans.

He joined Liga 15 years ago, served as its president for a number of years, and guided it through the founding of an agricultural school in Navajoa that now has 200 students.

Ten years ago he was decorated by the Mexican government for his service to its people. Today he serves as an interpreter, lecturer on diets and diagnostician on many of Liga's monthly jaunts south.

* * * *

DR. NELSON says Liga's work in Mexico and other Latin American countries, including the establishment of medical and dental clinics in remote villages, costs its members and supporters about $50,000 a year.

Much equipment, supplies and clothing is donated by Liga's friends.

Individually, the expenses may run high. Dr. Christensen reports each trip he makes costs him about $200 in supplies, drugs and personal expenses.

Jacobs and the other pilots donate their aircraft and time. Some of the doctors fly their own planes.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH Liga members treat the diseases of unsanitary conditions and poor diet, they refrain from deprecating the villagers.

"These are a proud people and you don't pity them. Their problems — malnutrition, worms, bad teeth, skin ailments—mostly stem from living conditions. But it's the way of life they are used to. We simply do what we can to help," explains Dr. Christensen.

Those villagers who might be healed, but only under hospital conditions, often are brought to the U.S. for an operation.

Several residents of a village where goiters are chronic have been flown to California for operations. (Iodized salt is taken to the villagers who must remain there.)

* * * *

IN ANOTHER instance, 3-year-old Lupita Robles from Tesopaco, near Navajoi, recently was brought to the U.S. with her mother by an Inglewood physician for surgery that might restore the girl's sight.

What motivates Liga members in what they call a "privately financed peace corps" work? Mainly, a fascination for the villagers, their problems and colorful history, Dr. Christensen said.

"If I didn't have a family I could become sort of a traveling bum over this Liga thing. I'd keep my office in Downey open just long enough to finance some more drugs and another trip. Then off I'd go again."

Search Resumes Monday for Two Plane Victims

Search for the bodies of two men aboard a small private plane which crashed into Long Beach harbor Thursday will resume Monday morning.

Coast Guard vessels and two Navy minesweepers, equipped with sonar gear and scuba divers, searched the harbor bottom from Thursday afternoon until Saturday night, but failed to uncover any wreckage. Wheels and seat cushions were found floating where the plane plummeted into the harbor.

Believed aboard were Rolfe Olson, 65, and John B. Fletcher, 36, both of Lynwood.

County Curbs on Politics Termed Invalid

By DON BRACKENBURY
L. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The county's ban on political activity for its employes, which permits them only to vote and express private opinions, is almost entirely invalid, according to County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy.

Kennedy will so advise county supervisors Tuesday on the basis of two recent State Supreme Court rulings and a June 26 decision of a Los Angeles Superior Court.

The county counsel emphasized, however, that this does not mean county employes "are now at liberty to engage in unlimited political activity." They still are restricted by other provisions of the county charter and government code.

* * * *

UNDER THE NEW rulings, employes may not:

- Directly or indirectly solicit or receive assessments or contributions for any political party or purpose whatsoever.
- Use their office or authority to get any person a job or keep him from getting a job on the basis that such a person use his vote or political influence for or against any candidate, office or party.
- Participate in any political activities while in uniform.
- Take an active part in any campaign for or against any candidate, other than themselves, for an office in the governmental agency in which they are employed.

The charter provision, Section 43, which Kennedy now says is invalid, prohibits county employes from taking "any part in political management or affairs or in political campaigns further than to cast his vote and to express privately his opinions."

The State Supreme Court ruled on May 28, in the case of an Alameda County employe discharged for political activity in the 1962 gubernatorial race, that a provision almost identical to Los Angeles Section 43 was invalid.

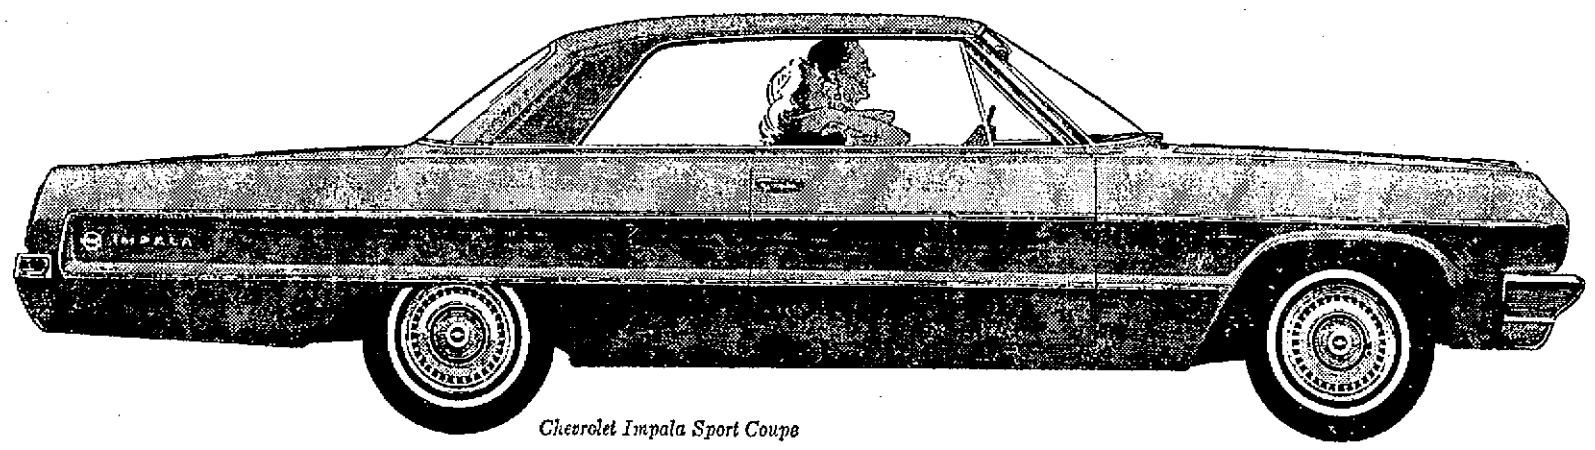

* * * *

THE COURT HELD that the Alameda charter restrictions were too broad. Freedom of the individual to participate in political activity is a fundamental principle of a democratic society, the high court said, and the county can curtail such rights only if it can prove a "compelling" interest in such limitation.

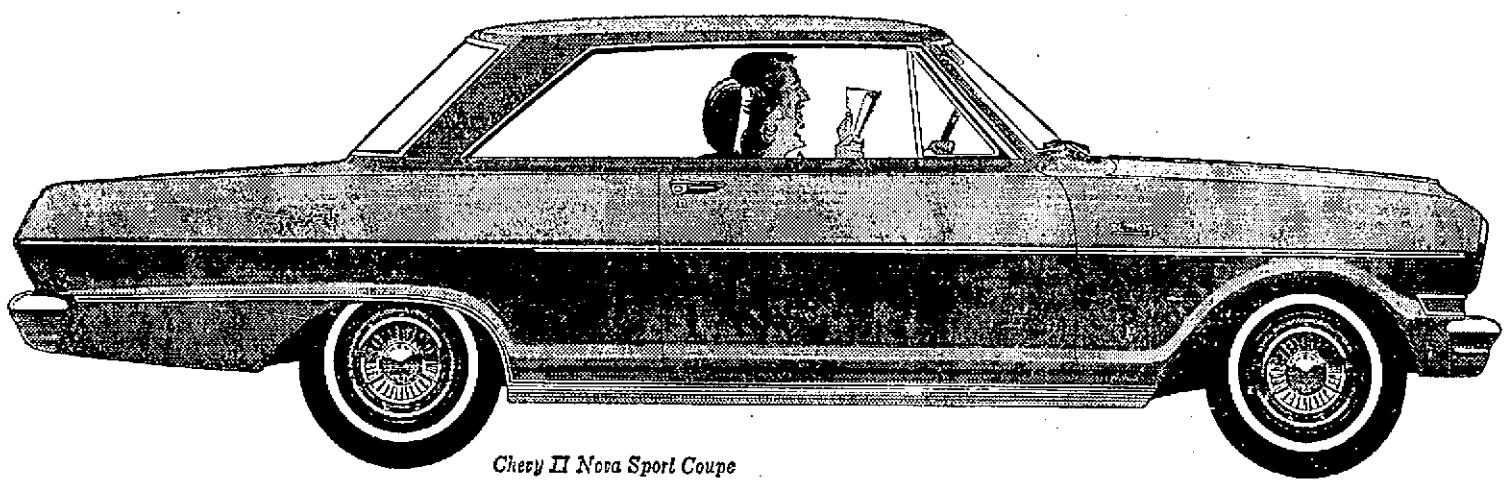

The court said its decisions "do not admit of wholesale restrictions on political activities merely because the persons affected are public employes, particularly when it is considered that there are millions of such persons."

The Los Angeles Superior Court decision involved Howard Schumann, who was discharged in March, 1963 from his position as a social case worker with the county's bureau of public assistance because of his political activity.

Superior Judge Harold F. Collins ordered Schumann reinstated on June 26.

Mixed Emotions

THE OLD

and the NEW

Farm-style home, that combines age with beauty — The whole house has been remodeled and the results are fantastic. Boy, it's big, looks like 1,400 sq. ft. and "Dutch Girl Clean." Just picture this yellow & white jumbo home located among many fine homes, in lovely Orange and only steps to Orange Circle. Sitting way back from the street line behind many trees, this will surely add to your privacy & boast loads of room for your boat, trailer, camper or what have you.
3 king-sized bedrooms. Loads of storage & wardrobe closets. Real beautiful tile in the master bath. Wow! There's room for 2 sectionals and a grand piano in this ballroom-sized living room. Boy, oh boy, is it ever big & it's carpeted from wall to wall. Remember grandma's kitchen where we all used to gather? Well this will bring back many memories & it's also been remodeled too. Folks, seeing is believing and if you want something different, where here it is.

OWN YOUR OWN PARK

No Dn. to Vets

Hmm-m—Smell that country sausage as you drive down this tree-lined street and we find a lovely country cottage—so neat & prim with its ivory trim, boasting a wood-shingle roof, with attached garage. Here's country living at its best. One foot in the country & one foot in town.

LET'S PEEK INSIDE

So cozy, spacious bright living room; plush wall to wall carpets richly cover the golden oak hardwood floors, large family-sized kitchen and what every woman wants, a generous amount of cabinet areas. Oh, yes, the bedrooms are huge & feature wardrobe closets. Wow! Just look at the estate-size rear grounds. Trees here, there & everywhere. So huge, plenty of room for a garden and an extra lot for a boy to explore. Folks seeing is believing, so is the price.

Dirty Face With a Heart of Gold

No Down—$99 Pays All

If this big 4-bedroom house could talk, we'd surely wash its mouth out with soap. It's a filthy mess & neglected but boy what a buy. 4 dirty king sizes bedrooms, serviced by 2 baths. Mom, just look at the size of these closets, and all of this storage space. Wow! What a living room, all carpeted & room here for your grand piano. Harvest kitchen, walls of cabinets, double sinks & disposal. Long colorful counter tops. Truly a home-makers delight plus loads of room for your family & more to dine. Basically this lumbo's is in fine condition, needs a little loving & some old fashioned elbow grease. You do the work & the seller will pay your costs.

The Cardinal and the Young Priest

EDITOR'S NOTE: When the priest wrote the Pope and told him to fire the cardinal, Catholics were astonished. Plainly, this was no ordinary ecclesiastical controversy. What's behind it is a question that has been nagging, in these racially troubled times, at churchmen and laymen alike.

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP)— In the post-World War II years, when the Roman Catholic Church in America began bursting at its parish seams, one of the highest compliments a prelate could earn was to be called "a good brick and mortar man."

For a decade and a half James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, has been regarded as one of the best brick and mortar men in the church.

Since he came to Los Angeles in 1948, Cardinal McIntyre, who gave up a career on Wall Street to enter the priesthood, has amazed his fellow prelates by building a new parochial school every month and new parish every 66 days to keep up with the needs of a flock that is swelling at the rate of 1,000 a week and numbers 1.5 million.

Today, to the shock of Catholics from coast to coast, Cardinal McIntyre has become a central figure in a controversy that has nothing to do with brick and mortar but which many consider even more basic.

* * * *

HE HAS been accused of "gross malfeasance in office" with failure to provide moral leadership in the race struggle and, moreover, of intimidating priests and laymen who have attempted to give such leadership.

But what has been equally shocking, if not scandalous, to many Catholics who have grown up in respect of their church's hierarchial system, is that the accuser of the venerable cardinal was a 29-year-old priest just four years out of the seminary, and that his accusation was in the form of a letter written to the Pope himself. In the letter, the priest suggested that the Pope ought to fire the cardinal.

He was afraid, explained the priest, that a private communication would merely be ignored.

The priest, the Rev. William H. DuBay, plainly hasn't been ignored.

* * * *

HIS BOLDNESS has set seminary lounges buzzing, has become a chief topic of discussion in rectories and parish halls, has been a major item for Catholic newspapers and magazines, has raised questions about what the church's role should be in the civil rights field, and has caused Catholics everywhere to wonder what's behind the controversy in Los Angeles.

Cardinal McIntyre has declined comment on Father DuBay's statements.

However it was disclosed last week that Father DuBay has been transferred to a parish in Anaheim. The parishoners are white.

The Tidings, official weekly organ of the archdiocese, has likened his silence to that of Christ before Pilate and has called the affair an "ill-contrived and frenetic attempt" by "a small and vociferous group" to cloud and besmirch a record of accomplishment.

The paper noted that the cardinal, along with other U.S. bishops, has signed three statements urging equal rights for Negroes.

* * * *

HOWEVER, about a dozen of the 1,311 priests in the archdiocese share a little joke. They say they are members of the "Cardinal's Carpet Club," or C.C.C.

The club, which includes at least one nun, has one membership qualification: Each member has been called on the cardinal's carpet for speaking or acting on racial issues.

"It used to be funny," says one priest. "Maybe it still is." Another said he got "the business" both from the cardinal and the chancellor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Benjamin G. Hawkes, administrator of the archdiocese.

"It's called the stereo treatment," the priest said. "The cardinal talks into one ear and the monsignor into the other."

IN OTHER developments, Negroes and whites calling themselves CURE—Catholics United for Racial Equality—have sat in at the chancery and marched with torches at the guarded gates of a private residential park where the cardinal lives. CURE is small, said to number about 50.

A 250-member lay group telegraphed the Vatican's Washington representative: "We implore an immediate investigation. The Catholic Human Relations Council of Los Angeles is convinced that the substance of these charges is true."

Fellow priests are loath publicly to support Father DuBay. One who did is the Rev. Terrance Halloran. He told newsmen he advised Father DuBay not to send the letter, "but the charges are substantially true."

* * * *

THE 78-year-old cardinal, according to one informed source, considers the young priest's action an intramural administrative matter and by his silence is trying to salvage as much dignity as possible both for the church and Father DuBay.

In the wake of his letter, the mild-mannered young white priest was suspended from administrative duties in his predominantly Negro parish in suburban Compton. Later, he repeated his oath of loyalty to the cardinal.

Father DuBay's obedential relationship to the cardinal connotes a submission to all of the cardinal's major decisions affecting the archdiocese unless those decisions are clearly out of conformity with the natural or divine law.

If there is a precedent for the spectacle of a fledgling priest so brashly suggesting the removal of so august a superior, a prince of the church, local sources do not know of it.

* * * *

A MORE unlikely pair for such a confrontation would be hard to find.

First, there is the cardinal. He is powerful, respected, and in rank next to the Pope. He has been called strong-minded, ultraconservative, ascetic and humble. A high-ranked clerical friend calls him sincere, affable and good. Francis Cardinal Spellman has called him "a human idealist and a divine realist."

In two years he was assistant chancellor of the New York archdiocese. Pope Pius XII appointed him auxiliary bishop of New York in 1940 and archbishop of Los Angeles in 1948.

Father DuBay, the priest, is slight, sandy-haired and bespectacled.

He was born in nearby Long Beach, Calif., where his father has a sign business. He won a high school scholarship but turned it down to enter a seminary instead. He chose the priesthood as "the best way to help people and change the world."

* * * *

WHILE an assistant pastor, he wrote in the church bulletin: "It is obligatory upon every Catholic of the parish to support the multi-racial integration of our community. Get acquainted with Negroes in the same business or profession. Invite them to our homes, and visit in their homes."

The result, Father DuBay has said, was word from the cardinal to write no more on racial matters. Transferred to another parish, he preached one Sunday that segregation was wrong. This, he said, drew a telephone admonishment from Hawkes.

The next incident, the letter to the Pope, came after Father DuBay had been working in the parish south of downtown Los Angeles where most of the city's 435,000 Negroes live.

Father DuBay announced his letter at a news conference. Five days later, he was called to the chancery and promised newsmen a statement afterward. But when he emerged he said, "I have no comment."

* * * *

TWO DAYS later, in the presence of 250 priests attending a retreat with the cardinal, Father DuBay knelt and repeated his oath of loyalty to Cardinal McIntyre. He kissed the cardinal's ring and both of his hands.

"From the beginning," a friend says, "Father DuBay has protested his loyalty to the archbishop. Cardinal McIntyre is still his superior. He has to obey the law even if he's trying to get the guy out of office. It's just like company policy. Until you can change it you have to obey it."

What Father DuBay wants to change is Cardinal McIntyre's silence.

Has the cardinal been negligent in this respect?

A source close to him says no, pointing to past statements on equal rights. The cardinal felt editorials in the archdiocese newspaper were answer enough for Father DuBay, the source said.

* * * *

ONE NATIONAL Catholic magazine published by laymen, The Commonweal, devoted 17 pages of its July 10 issue to the DuBay case and has been in the forefront of subsequent discussion.

Quoting a priest of the archdiocese, The Commonweal said most pastors in the Los Angeles area "think DuBay is a young whippersnapper who deserves everything he's going to get." Most of the others disapproved of publicizing the call for the cardinal's dismissal. "Make your case to Rome, ok, but don't spill it all out in the open."

A smaller school of thought, reported The Commonweal, was typified by the remark of a layman:

"His head will roll, sure. And I seriously doubt if it will have any effect on the cardinal's thinking. But now the pressures on him Cardinal McIntyre across the country will grow, and we may see the other bishops twisting his arm into joining the rest of the church on this issue."

THE LETTER CAME LATER

The cardinal accused by a young priest, James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles (right) with Pope Paul VI in the Vatican last March 12. The Rev. William H. DuBay, Compton parish priest, in a June 11 letter to the Pope suggested that the cardinal be ousted.

FORECAST FOR TODAY

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Be especially realistic where friendships are concerned. If you take persons, situations for granted . . . you will be disillusioned. Strive to COMPLETE PROJECTS.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Probe deep—beneath surface indications. You can be aided by spiritual advisor. Message due from long distance. Exercise INDEPENDENCE. Highlight original ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be flexible; follow hunch. The more you keep an open mind . . . the greater your chance to succeed. Break from habit patterns. Relative wants to aid your cause.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Greater relaxation available if you forget money questions. You cannot solve dilemma by arguing. Inspiration for solution of problem due. Attend church of your choice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Study details. Especially applies to partnership proposal. Make this a day of CREATIVE RELAXATION. Gain emotional, physical strength. Obtain hint from CANCER message.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your way of ASKING determines whether you RECEIVE answers. Be diplomatic. But if you attempt to bluff, you will be rebuffed. Member of opposite sex on "your side."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Favorable lunar aspects highlights romance, creative endeavors—activities associated with children. But avoid sticking your neck out. Trouble available—IF you ask for it.

SCORPIO—(Oct. 23—Nov. 22): Conflict exists between those who want to go on a "spree" and more practical elements. Exercise power of will. Avoid being drawn into expensive, foolish activity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Could be mixup where communications are concerned. Be sure of directions. March in your favor . . . If you express GOOD WILL, Many look to you as example of competence.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan. 19): Your decision to hold on to funds was wise. Now, bask in warmth of added security. Know that you did right thing. Good time for "relaxed studies" . . . research on subjects of special interest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Now you can "call the tune." But you must be aware, alert, capable of leadership. Important to do some "homework." Then you will know what to ask for—and why.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): There might be behind-the-scenes activity of which you are not aware. Be thorough. Important to understand those with whom you are dealing. Stress CAREFUL APPROACH.

* * * *

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: . . . you are generous but firm, shy but capable of being a showman—you are a series of contradictions and some of your friends will say "amen" to that!

* * * *

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for PISCES, ARIES, TAURUS. Special word to AQUARIUS: Your cycle also remains at the top. But you exhibit a tendency to skip details. This not advisable if you want to advance.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): You will begin to see the light." Ideas sparkle. Recognize responsibilities . . . but enjoy pleasure of accomplishment. Fine time for new starts in new directions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): A time when you collect debts . . . but perhaps incur some of your own. Definitely not a time to be rash or overly independent. Seek advice from authorities. Be a good listener.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Disputes within the family circle possible. Exhibit VERSATILITY, sense of humor. Otherwise time and emotional energy can be wasted. Remain understanding, sympathetic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect highlights journeys, reading for pleasure. You can gain through intellectual pursuits, hobby. Be especially aware of long-range effects.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Wonderful day for pursuing "secret" interests. Includes that movie you want to see . . . or book you desire to read . . . or restaurant that intrigues. BE ADVENTUROUS.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Attention centered on diet, health, "partnership" harmony. Day to tread easily. Do more listening than asserting. Size up your opposition. Be ready for surprises.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on illusion, DECEPTION. No day to take things for granted. Demand promises in writing. One who makes many claims . . . may not be able to back them up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your intuition works overtime. You may sense "fly in ointment." Exercise fair amount of caution. Do your own checking. Especially where proposed CHANGES are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Arguments with those in authority will prove fruitless. Go with the tide. Attend to details. Wait for better conditions. Financial security depends upon DIPLOMACY.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Avoid unnecessary travel. If travel you must—obey rules. Check directions. Indications are that confusion exists. Day could be productive if you TAKE YOUR TIME.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold fast to principles—and purse strings. Many offers are due. But few contain real merit. React accordingly. You can go places—but you will require SAVINGS PROGRAM.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Time when you prove you are capable. Be ready. Extra responsibility due to come your way. Have facts, figures in order. Volunteer personal services. You'll be happier as result.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: . . . you are unique in that people automatically gravitate toward you. You inspire trust. Thus, you could excel as nurse, attorney, advertising-public relations consultant.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for PISCES. Special word to VIRGO: Situation definitely NOT what it appears.

'Sunday Will Be Our Day' Insists Soviet Coach

Total Victory Possible for Yanks --- Bell

'Greatest Thrill' Puffs Lindgren— and Coach Agrees

By BOB SCHMIDT

"Today was your day," Soviet track coach Gavriil Korobkov told U.S. coach Sam Bell late Saturday, "but tomorrow will be ours."

The two coaches laughed and didn't continue the conversation, but Bell, speaking to reporters in a tunnel hidden from the 50,519 fans in the Coliseum, acknowledged that the United States men and women's track team was on the verge of its first combined score victory over the Soviet Union in the sixth meeting between the nations.

* * * *

THE SLENDER Oregon State University coach said he thought that if his women athletes could give the U. S. 20 points in today's competition, the men could score enough to give the red, white, and blue its first triumph.

Bell shared the sentiments of the fans at Saturday's sun-drenched opener when he said that little Gerry Lindgren's runaway victory in the 10,000-meter run gave him his biggest thrill.

But he said any coaching credit for Lindgren's performance should go to the 18-year-old wonder's high school coach, Tracy Walters.

"He's the one who brought him this far," Bell said. "I'm not about to bust up a winning combination."

* * * *

BELL SAID he was a little disappointed in the showing of some of his men athletes. He said he had doped the U.S. to have 65 points at the end of the first day's competition.

The U.S. men scored 61, the Russians 46.

But the athlete the reporters wanted to talk to was Lindgren.

The perspiring youngster said he didn't expect to win before the race "although my coach told me I could," and still didn't expect to come home first he spurted ahead with nine laps to go in the gruelling six mile-plus grind.

* * * *

"THE CROWD was a tremendous help," Lindgren said. "I was scared to death I wasn't going to be able to hang on. I knew they'd be disappointed if I lost."

The 5-ft. 6-in., 118-lb. running machine said he had intended to merely hang onto the pace set by Russia's Leonid Ivanov and Nikolay Dutov as long as he could, but spurted into the lead on the 15th lap when Bell hollered at him to go.

"This is the most wonderful thing that's ever happened to me," the blushing champion told reporters. "I want to call my folks as soon as I can."

* * * *

IF LINDGREN was the most elated athlete on the field, defending Olympic champion long jump champion Ralph Boston was the most dejected.

Boston was beaten by a quarter of an inch by Leonid Barkovskiy's final jump of 26-4-¼.

"I was discouraged because I fouled my best two jumps," Boston said. "That's never happened to me before."

He said the jumps were measured at 27, which would have been a world record, and 26-9.

Barkovskiy said the jump was the best he had ever turned in, but said he thought he would do better at the Olympic Games in October.

Dallas Long and Fred Hansen, who set world records in the shotput and pole vault during the day, each said they felt they could do better.

INDEPENDENT - Press-Telegram
SUNDAY, JULY 26, 1964 PAGE D-1

SATURDAY WAS A great day for the Americans, and two of the greatest performers in the rout of Russia were midget Gerry Lindgren (left) and giant Dallas Long. Lindgren, an 18-year-old running only his second 10,000 meters, drubbed two veteran Russians, while Long raised his shotput record all the way to 67 feet, 10 inches. —AP Photo

Long, Hansen Set Records; Lindgren Ace

By JOHN DIXON

As far as the Russians are concerned, you can tow yesterday into the Pacific and sink it.

United States track and field athletes never had a more enjoyable or productive day.

They turned the Reds blue with a fantastic series of performances, featured by world records in the shotput and pole vault and a courageous victory in the 10,000 meters by a little fellow who never had a chance.

As the Americans frolic this morning and the Russians draw a lecture from commisar Leonid Khomenkov, the U.S. boasts a record 61-46 lead in men's competition and for the first time leads in women's activities, 27-25.

The rout ends today in the Coliseum, beginning at 4 p.m. Will it be another Black Sunday for the Reds?

Dallas Long, a USC dental student with a phenomenal girth, put together the most phenomenal series since Nero fixed the chariot races.

The 260-pounder bettered his existing shotput record of 65 feet, 10½ inches four times, and four times surpassed his pending mark of 66-3½.

The modernday Hercules sent the 16-pound iron ball 65-6¼, 66-9¼, 67-10, 67-1 and 66-5¼. His first fling was a foul.

Thus Long has become the first man to throw 66 feet, the first to throw 67—and he says there's more to come.

Wouldn't it be more economical to let Long launch the next missile?

Long drew thundering raves from the crowd of 50,519, but that was nothing as compared to the tumultuous shouting as Gerry Lindgren, an 18-year-old with different insides than other boys his age, won the man-killing 10,000 meter run.

Crowd of 50,519 Thunders Approval

Lindgren, a Spokane, Wash. high school June graduate who must now be ranked the most remarkable youngster in the annals of track, didn't score a "fluke" win. He routed two Russian veterans of the international marathons.

It was a supremely deserved victory.

Lindgren, who looks as though he would have to put on 10 pounds to become a 98-pound weakling, didn't resort to tactical maneuvers or tricks, but daringly, resolutely and courageously took the lead when he wanted it and challenged the Reds to take it away from him.

They couldn't.

Leonid Ivanov and Nikolai Dutov alternated the lead until the 15th lap, when Lindgren, trailing by a few strides, turned on a Jesse Owens sprint, passed them both and steadily drew out.

As he breasted the tape he led Ivanov by 110 yards, Dutov by 400 and teammate John Gutknecht by 600. He was saluted with an ear-puncturing, standing ovation throughout the final lap and a victory lap.

Lindgren, running the six mile-plus distance for only the second time, stopped the timepieces at 29:17.6, a new Coliseum record.

There was heavy applause for Fred Hansen too.

The Rice U. post-graduate student lifted his pending pole vault record of 17-2 to 17-4 and had one narrow miss at 17-7. If he goes any higher he'll have to be equipped with retro rockets to shoot him back to earth.

U.S. Men Capture 7 of 10 Events

The U.S. male bellwethers won seven of their 10 events.

Ralph Boston suffered a stunning long jump loss to Leonid Barkovskiy, 26-4¼ to 26-4; Hal Connolly was a disappointing third in the hammer throw at only 221-2, and the walkers were trounced, as usual.

One of the most popular victories was put together by Mike Larrabee, a hometown boy now teaching in Ventura.

Larrabee threw some hot figures at the Russians. They added up to a 46.0 400 and a three-yard victory over teammate Ollan Cassell.

Cassell moved out fast but Larrabee, running on the pole, caught up on the second curve and simply ran away. Cassell ran out of air but so did the Russians and he had two safety yards at the tape.

Larrabee, so long between victories that in comparison the Whig Party was on a winning streak, won the silver bowl despite being too old (30), over his head, and in almost constant pain from a stomach ailment.

Jones Overtaken by Blaine Lindgren

But you don't always improve with age, Hayes Jones discovered in the 110 meter hurdles.

The 25-year-old, who has won more championships than the Yankees, led to the halfway point, where Blaine Lindgren drew even. They stayed that way until the final hurdle, from where Lindgren pulled out to a solid stride victory, 13.6 to 13.7. Jones drubbed Red star Antoliy Mikhailov for the fifth time in six meetings.

Dodgers Bump S.F., 7-4

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers' front office appraisal of relief pitcher Bob Miller is as complimentary as it is succinct: "For three innings his stuff is as good or better as that of any pitcher in the league."

Miller almost tripled the rating Saturday night.

Called from the bullpen as an emergency starter for the injured Don Drysdale, Miller came through with his first career victory over the Giants. The score was 7-4, which doesn't say much for Miller. It does say that the Dodgers miss Miller as a reliever.

For 8⅓ innings Miller reduced the Giants to Lilliputians. He was within two outs of his first major league shutout when his motor sputtered, and understandably so.

This was Miller's first starting assignment since April 16. He hadn't pitched nine innings since July 13 of last season and his longest relief job of the year was six innings, May 23, against the Phillies.

Thus, after four successive hits in the ninth and after 152 pitches Miller ran out of gas. The normal procedure for manager Walter Alston would be to call for Bob Miller to face a right-handed pinch-hitter.

Alston, however, had little choice but to send for Ron Perranoski, who hasn't been up to snuff for a month. Perranoski did strike out pinch-hitter Cap Peterson for out No. 2, but had to yield to Phil Ortega after run-scoring singles by Harvey Kuenn and Hal Lanier.

By this time Willie Mays represented the tying run at the plate. He was long overdue, too, having been blanked in seven trips in this series.

Mays still is overdue. To the relief and delight of a ladies night turnout of 55,266, Ortega needed only two pitches to retire Mays on a game-ending fly to right field.

The paid attendance was 52,975, bringing the Dodgers' home total to 1,512,057 for 47 dates.

The home stand, in which the Dodgers have a 5-5 record, concludes this afternoon. Sandy Koufax (15-4) will be seeking his 12th successive win and first against the Giants this year. Rookie Ron Herbel (7-5) is the party of the second part.

After six lifetime losses to the Giants, Miller could thank Frank Howard for his first success. The Dodger giant ended a home run drought of 23 days with a tured a four-run seventh in-

L.A. REAPS BONANZA AT SPORTS GATE

A total of more than 150,000 sports fans Saturday attended three events in Los Angeles.

The largest crowd, 55,293, was at Hollywood Park for the running of two $75,000-added divisions of the Juvenile Championships for 2-year-olds.

Coliseum officials counted 50,519 fans at the first day of the United States-Russia Track and Field meet.

And the San Francisco Giants-Dodgers' game drew a gate of 55,266.

Neke, 'Kin Juvenile Champs

By RICH ROBERTS

Sheer juvenile delinquency — that's what it was when Neke, a 20-1 shot, stole the second section of the split Hollywood Juvenile Championship before 55,293 at Hollywood Park Saturday.

And if Charger's Kin hadn't threaded his way through the other 13-horse pack in the first section, a 27-1 shot named Azure Te would be giving his 2-year-old rivals the horse laugh, too.

Charger's Kin, a 7-1 pick in an open field, and Neke were a couple of real bonus babies in the richest split stakes ever staged on a single card anywhere.

Each collected $86,075 from the combined purse of $240,150, topping the record of $225,100 set by the Man O'War Stakes at New York's Aqueduct on Oct. 24, 1959.

Azure Te almost got away with the first section in a daring bit of riding by Rudy Campas, but Charger's Kin nailed him red-handed in the stretch by 2½ lengths—the red hand belonging to the rider Pete Moreno, who applied a vigorous whip to the wire.

"I took a hold of him and got a perfect position," said Moreno, who had his steed sixth until the big run. "We were lucky to get through, and when I saw that leader tiring I knew we had him, because I hadn't even asked my colt to run."

Charger's Kin broke from the big pack at the head of the stretch and had more than enough room to overtake Azure Te.

"We had it locked up until the eighth when he began to get leg weary," Campas said. "He was rattling off those early fractions so easily I didn't realize we were going that fast. I got after him pretty good but he was stopping and we couldn't stall off that winner."

Charger's Kin's trainer, Lou Carno, had few anxious moments.

"Pete give him a perfect ride," Carno said. "I thought the horse was a stayer and I'm sure he'll go on and on."

Charger's Kin paid $16.60, $3.20 and $5.40, Azure Te $19.80 and $8.40 and third-place Gummo $6.80.

In the other section, Neke, under Larry Gilligan, got his fans even at $39.40, $17.40 and $11.60, while Donson paid $19.60 and $11.60 and Old Mose $9.40. Time was identical for both sections —1:09-4/5.

Gilligan had to hold on or be left behind when Neke exploded out of the gate, immediately eliminating any disadvantage that could have been created by

Angels RUNaway, 18-2

WYNN

Man to Man

WIETECHA

By JERRY WYNN

If baseball had its "Iron Horse" in Lou Gehrig then football has its "Man of Steel" in Ray Wietecha.

Born under the shadow of the steel mills in East Chicago, Ind., Wietecha never missed a game during high school, college at Northwestern and 10 seasons and 133 contests as a five-time all-pro center for the New York Giants.

Today the jut-jawed 35-year-old father of four is striving to transfer his own dedication to football, pride as an athlete and tenacity of purpose to the Rams as chief assistant to coach Harland Svare.

Wietecha did such an outstanding job as offensive line coach last season, he was appointed to guide the entire offense and call the plays this year.

As a former lineman, Ray, do you think you are equipped to call plays for the backs?

"I have confidence in myself and think I know football as well as anyone. As captain of the Giants, I worked closely with our offensive coaches, Vince Lombardi and Allie Sherman, and learned a lot from them. Just because you start out as a ditch-digger doesn't mean that you can't make a good foreman."

Are you optimistic about the chances of the Rams this season?

"Put it this way, I'm not pessimistic. We've got a long way to go, but we are moving ahead. The attitude in camp this year is tremendous. It's very encouraging."

What is your chief objective as offensive coach?

"To improve our running attack. A sound, basic running game will make everything else go. Our passing is no worry. Gabriel looks fantastic and we have good receivers. We also have the halfbacks in Bass, Shannon and Atkins. Fullback is the problem."

You played on five Eastern Divisions and one World championship team in New York. What was the key to the Giants' success?

"Overall attitude. The team had great confidence in itself and great morale. It learned that it is not hard to win if you are willing to pay the price. It learned how to get up for a game and win the big ones. And once we knew what it was to win, we didn't want anything else."

Through your 133 consecutive games, weren't you ever injured?

"Sure, but never badly enough to keep me out of a game. I always felt the guys needed me and I needed them and I forgot whatever it was that hurt. I think everybody gets to feel this way when you get a taste of a championship."

When you were a boy, did you have any football idols?

"Not really. I liked Bulldog Turner of the Bears, but I was more interested in baseball. I wanted to become a right-handed Ted Williams. I played first base and spent a few months with the Washington Senators after I finished college."

Have you ever regretted choosing football over baseball?

"No, never. I had 10 great years with the Giants, and there's more coming with the Rams."

As a Midwesterner who lived in the East and now in the West, which section is your favorite?

"My wife and I love California. This is the place for us. We wouldn't trade it for anything."

What do you like to do most outside of football?

"As a coach you work around the clock most of the year so there isn't much time for outside interests. I just enjoy spending time with my family. When I was a player I had more time and used to take pride in gardening in our home in New Jersey. Now I have a gardener."

Cultivating a new winning spirit on the Rams is Ray Wietecha, that "Man of Steel."

5 Blows for Smith in 19-Hit Assault Behind Belinsky

By ROSS NEWHAN
L.P-T Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY—Louisville forfeited all claims to the A's Saturday. So, probably, did Kansas City.

Gene Autry rode into town and the Angels corraled their most hits and runs of the season and virtually rewrote their record book in the process. Limited to nine runs in their previous six games, the Angels cracked 19 hits, including four home runs, en route to an 18-2 massacre which left Finley's fashion plates black and blue, rather than green and gold.

Bo Belinsky, who fainted when his mates scored six times for him in the first inning, recovered to register his third complete game of the season while yielding only five hits.

* * * *

THE ANGELS matched their half dozen tallies of the opening round again in the sixth and they scored four additional unearned runs in the eighth. Eleven of the runs came off Orlando Pena, who previously had won seven of 10 decisions from the Angels.

The Angels assembled 37 total bases, eclipsing the former club mark of 34 also set at Kansas City. They fell one shy of club marks for hits and runs, but by collecting five hits, Willie Smith equalled a club record held by Lee Thomas and Leon Wagner.

Included amidst the onslaught was Joe Adcock's 1,000th run batted in. With the bases loaded in the first frame, Adcock cleared the sacks for Moe Drabowksy by belting a double to left. The three RBI gave the 36-year-old veteran 39 for the season and 1,002 for his career and he thus becomes the 78th major leaguer to better that "grand" mark.

Drabowsky's career continues at a "record" pace. He was the victim of Stan Musial's 3,000th hit, Dave Nicholson's 573-foot homer and he pitched in the same game which produced Early Wynn's 300th victory.

The Angels collected more records than Music City and included was a club high for July wins. During the month of firecrackers, the Angels have declared their independence from the second division by registering 16 victories in 25 contests. They have won eight of 11 on this trip and are 27-13 since June 16.

* * * *

BESIDES the quartet of circuit clouts, the Angels plastered Drabowsky, Dan Pfister and Pena for four doubles, one triple and 10 singles. Every member of the starting lineup collected at lease one hit and even Belinsky singled twice.

They twice loaded the bases in the first inning with first Adcock clearing them with his double and then Bobby Knoop lacing a double to sweep them clean. It was with embarrasment that they scored only once in the third before exploding for six off Pena in the sixth.

Smith, who tripled and singled three times, cracked a two-run homer, his sixth, and one out later Buck Rodgers smashed his second homer into the rightfield sheep pasture.

Belinsky lowered his ERA to 2.71 and raised his record to 9-5 while receiving only 11 runs less than Dean Chance has collected in 19 starts.

Prior to the game, Charles Finley had distributed 10,000 free bats to youngsters. The Angels returned the favor by driving Finley bats.

* * * *

ANGEL ANGLES: Danny Osinski makes his first start since Aug. 25 when he duels ex-teammate Ted Bowsfield (3-4) in this afternoon's second game. The opener pits Aubrey Gatewood (1-0) and Jose Santiago (0-2). It will be televised by KTLA (5) at 1 p.m. . . . Mrs. Gene Autry was presented with a Little League Louisville Slugger by Charles Finley. Autry hosted the Angel writers at dinner Saturday evening. . . . Adcock needs four homers to equal another career milestone, that of 300 homers. Joe has socked 13 this season. A's had won four in a row prior to Saturday. Adcock was forced to leave after his double with a slightly pulled right thigh muscle. . . . Smith previewed his game heroics during batting practice when he belted a 450-foot drive which hit the top of the outer rightfield wall and bounced into the street. The same ball struck in Dodger Stadium would probably have bounced off the back wall of the rightfield bullpen.

ANGEL OF DAY

WILLIE SMITH

Had five hits, including homer, as Angels crushed A's, 18-2.

Munson Ace of Ram Fray

Quarterback Bill Munson made his debut as a pro against a pro pass defense and was an instant hit.

The rookie from Utah State completed his first six passes and engineered an 80-yard scoring drive upon his entry into the Rams' scrimmage at Chapman College Saturday.

Munson wound up completing eight of nine attempts for 94 yards to draw praise from coach Harland Svare.

"I thought Roman Gabriel passed well, too," said Svare, "but the primary difference was that when Gabriel was directing the attack Deacon Jones was playing defensive end. He was all over Gabriel every time he tried to pass."

Gabriel connected on 9 of 19 passes for 99 yards and had two dropped. Neither qb had an interception.

* * * *

THE HITTING was so hard that tempers flared for the first time since the Rams began practice two weeks ago.

Svare said he had mixed feelings over the workout. "I want the defense to hold them, but on the other hand I want the offense to score. Both sides showed real spark today."

Munson didn't waste any time finding paydirt. Taking over the offense on the 20-yard line, Bill drove the team 80 yards in 12 plays.

On the drive he completed five successive passes for 45 yards, including gains of 14 yards to Marlin McKeever, 13 to Bucky Pope and 10 to Dick Bass. Art Perkins rammed into the end zone from three yards out.

* * * *

PERVIS ATKINS was the day's leading rusher, gaining 30 yards on 11 carries. Perkins netted 10 yards on six carries and rookie fullback Buddy Soefker gained 14 yards on seven tries.

Carroll Dale wound up leading receiver, catching six passes for 72 yards. McKeever pulled in two passes for 33 yards.

Svare will stage two-a-day drills one more week, climaxed by next Saturday's annual Chapman College Athletic Fund game.

ning against reliever Bob Shaw.

Howard's 20th home run and fifth against the Giants came after singles by Maury Wills, Jim Gilliam and Willie Davis had produced the first run of the inning. Willie's run-scoring hit was his 100th of the year.

The Dodgers fired a three-run salvo against loser Bob Hendley (9-6) in their first turn after Wills started an inning-ending double play with the bases full.

Wills also started the attack with a two-strike bunt single, then stole his 32nd base of the year. Successive singles by W. Davis, Tommy Davis, Howard and Ron Fairly made it 3-0 and sent Hendley to his premature Saturday night bath.

Miller held the Giants to three hits, struck out eight and had retired 14 in a row when Orlando Cepeda singled with one one in the ninth. Willie McCovey also singled, Tom Haller doubled and Jose Pagan singled before Perranoski entered.

The Giants wound up with nine hits and the Dodgers had a dozen, not daily by any stretch of the imagination.

The Dodgers lost the services of second baseman Nate Oliver, who pulled a groin muscle while running out an infield hit in the fourth inning. Oliver, who had nine hits in his last 18 times up to raise his average to .271, will be sidelined two or three days.

Orioles Remain on Top, Rally to Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jerry Adair's run-scoring single capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning that vaulted Baltimore to a 5-4 victory over Washington Saturday night.

The triumph kept the first-place Orioles one game ahead of New York in the American League race.

Sam Bowens delivered a key single in the uprising, driving in two runs with two out and the bases loaded. His hit came off Ron Kline, who had just relieved starter Bennie Daniels.

Bosox Trip Indians, 4-3

Kasko's Liner Nets Colts a 5-3 Triumph Over Cubbies

HOUSTON (UPI) — Eddie Kasko drilled a two-run double with two out in the eighth inning Saturday night to lift the Houston Colts to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Two Boyer HRs, 10-9

DETROIT (AP)—Bobby Richardson stroked four hits and Joe Pepitone drove in four runs as the New York Yankees buried Detroit 14-2 Saturday under a 20-hit assault.

New York knocked out starter Dave Wickersham in a four-run first inning and tattooed two Tiger relief pitchers for eight runs and eight hits in the second before rain halted play for 48 minutes.

RICHARDSON

Pepitone singled home two runs in the first and doubled in a pair in the second.

White Sox Battle Back

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Hershberger singled across two runs in the 13th inning, boosting the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5 triumph over Minnesota in a see-saw battle.

Relief ace Al McBean blanked the Reds over the last 2⅓ innings to preserve starter Vern Law's eighth victory in 16 decisions.

Pirate relief ace Al McBean blanked the Reds over the last 2⅓ innings to preserve starter Vern Law's eighth victory in 16 decisions.

Mazeroski's homer, coming in the second inning, matched a first-inning homer by Cincinnati's Vada Pinson. The Pirates bunched four hits, one a double by Bailey, with a balk to score three runs in the fourth inning.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ken Boyer's two homers accounted for five runs but the St. Louis Cardinals had to stave off a ninth-inning, seven-run Philadelphia rally for a 10-9 victory.

The National League-leading Phils trailed 10-2 and appeared headed for a decisive setback at their final turn at bat. But Curt Simmons, who had checked them despite being hit freely, suddenly lost control of the situation.

BOYER

After the first five men to face him in the ninth got on base with none out, Simmons was lifted. A succession of three relievers followed as the Phillies collected a total of four hits, four walks and batted around in the uprising.

Boyer's homers included his seventh grand slam of his major league career in the fifth.

Amazin' Mets Erupt for 6 as Stallard Curbs Braves

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets erupted for six runs in the fifth inning Saturday to enable Tracy Stallard to coast to his first major league shutout with a three-hit 10-0 victory over the Milwaukee Braves.

Tim Harkness, with three singles and a double, and George Altman and Joe Christopher, each with a home run, paced the 12-hit Met attack.

Thrills...Pomp...and Records

By JOHN CASH

Seldom, if ever, has any track and field event held on American soil caused as much excitement, initiated as many thrills or revealed the pomp and splendor as that witnessed Saturday in the sixth USA-USSR extravaganza at the Coliseum.

To the staid veteran track and field observer who has seen many such attractions, and to the novice viewer who was watching his first meet, the ceremonies and achievements ignited a spontaneous applause which reverberated for the entire program.

The meet opened with the parade of athletes led by team flag bearers Bob Hayes (USA) and Adolphus Varanauskas (USSR) who proceeded under the main arch at the peristyle and continued down the steps to the platform. The remaining athletes filed past in twosomes and formed a semi-circle around Hayes and Varanauskas.

Amidst four canvasses bearing the national colors of both countries, the San Fernando Valley Youth Band played the "March of the Olympians" as the participants paraded. The band then presented the national anthems of both countries.

Jay Ehret Mahoney, president of the AAU in the United States, and Leonid Khomenkov, vice chairman of the USSR Sports Federation, were introduced and gave short welcoming speeches stressing friendship and peaceful unity through athletic participation.

At this stage, U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy was introduced and a flock of doves signifying peace was released. There was a fervor of laughter from a small portion of the audience as one of the spectators was given a somewhat ignoble welcome by one of the birds.

The three most electrifying occurrences were the announcement of Kennedy's presence, 18-year-old high school phenom Gerry Lindgren's unbelievable 10,000-meter thrashing of his Soviet adversaries, and the first-day score showing the U.S. women leading the Russians, 27-25.

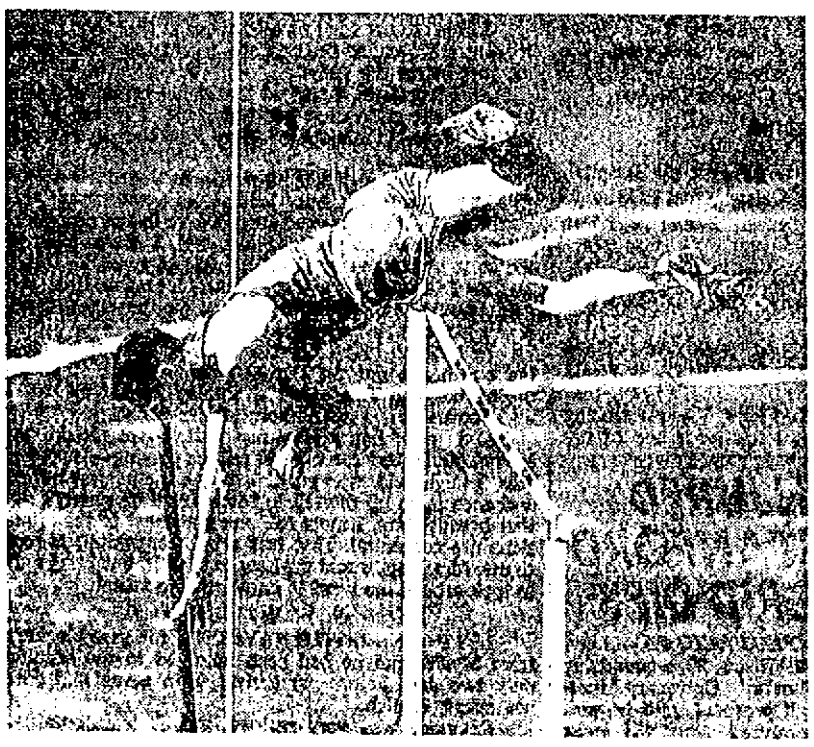

Lindgren was given a rousing ovation by the throng of 50,519 as he passed each straightaway. It was the first win for the Americans in this race and only the second time Lindgren had run the distance.

If Saturday's performances were indicative of what is to come today, there's no way to anticipate how many will be in attendance when the ceremonies open at 4 p.m.

In any event Long Beach will be well represented. Marvin Marker and his Long Beach Junior Concert band will provide the musical accompaniment for the opening and closing ceremonies.

In addition to the musical festivities, three L.B. athletes will be vying for first-place accolades. They are high jumper John Rambo, Martha Watson (long jump) and Frank Covelli (javelin).

U.S. Girls Surprise With 3 Victories

The 100 meters was another no contest event as far as the Russians were concerned.

The U.S. first team was in sick bay, but it made no difference down the 100 meter speedway.

Substitute Henry Carr ran 10.3, just three ticks off the world record, and won by two yards eased up. Reserve John Moon jumped, then got off to an abysmal start in the re-run. He finally cinched second by a hair over the Soviet perennial also-ran, Edvin Ozolin, with hand reach of the wire.

The Yankee lasses, competing against the most awesome array of behemoths in the world, were as good as they were bad last year.

They won three of the five events contested, losing only the two tests of strength, shotput and javelin.

Last year, at Moscow, the Americans won no events and failed to achieve even a "minimum" score when two girls were disqualified and another did not finish.

But Saturday they ran and jumped as though failure meant liquidation.

Edith McGuire and Wyomia Tyus started one-two in the 100 and finished that way.

The Yanks never had won the high jump, but Saturday Eleanor Montgomery (5-7¼) and Terrezene Brown (5-5¼) were first and second.

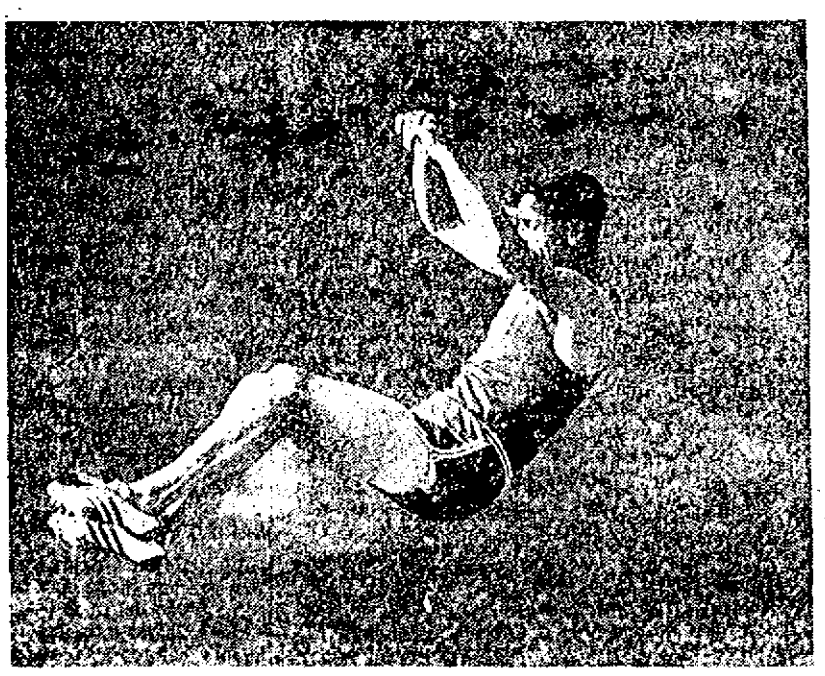

The 400 meter relay was close but decisive, with the U.S. to the fore throughout.

Today there will be more pomp and ceremony, and apparently more American victories, too.

...AND DON'T FORGET THE LADIES

EDITH McGUIRE (right) and Wyomia Tyus score easy sweep for U.S. in women's 100. Third and fourth are Russia's Galina Popova and Mariya Itkina. Winning time was 11.5. The surprising victory helped propel U.S. gals to 27-25 lead.

Once Over Lightly

Hutchinson Describes Cancer Battle

Fred Hutchinson's description of his treatment for cancer sends shivers up and down your spine.

But probably the most calm person regarding the subject, is Hutch himself. Except for the night when he was first told he had cancer, he says he has never lost any sleep over it. In fact, thinking about the problems of baseball has caused him to lose much more sleep.

FRED HUTCHINSON
Party Before Pain

Hutch first revealed the treatment he underwent to Al Hirschberg for an article in True . . . and since has confirmed his statements.

Fred points out that he first learned he had cancer the day before last Christmas. He had taken his annual physical examination in September and passed with flying colors . . . but a month later he started to get pains in his chest and back.

He didn't think much of it at first, but then he began having trouble swallowing. So he stopped smoking. He had been a heavy smoker, good for at least a couple of packs a day.

When the pains persisted, he got into the habit of kneading his neck to see if he could feel anything. One night a small lump . . . and the next day went to see a doctor.

When they wanted to take a byopsy, he immediately called his brother, who, like his late father, is a doctor. His brother asked him to fly out to Seattle immediately so he could look him over.

The night before he flew to Seattle, Hutch and his wife threw a Christmas-New Year's party for some 80 friends. The only ones Fred told outside his immediate family, though, were Birdie Tebbetts and Hoot Evers, two old teammates and golfing partners who live near him outside Bradenton, Florida.

TEBBETTS, THE CLEVELAND MANAGER who was destined to be stricken by a heart attack during spring training three months later, was the Detroit catcher when Hutch broke in with the Tigers as a pitcher.

Hutch reveals that Birdie, "who always has been something of a hypochondriac, was stunned and said 'I'd have expected something like this to happen to me, but not to you. I always thought of you as being indestructible.'"

Once in Seattle last January, doctors decided that the situation was inoperable . . . but that they thought they might be able to kill or shrink the malignant tumor with super-voltage radiation in a hyperbaric chamber, a method so new it is still considered more or less experimental.

The chamber, as Hutch describes it, looks like an iron lung, except that you are completely sealed inside of it.

"I SURE WOULDN'T RECOMMED IT for people who can't cope with claustrophobia. And it helps if you have the soul and nerves of an astronaut or a deep sea diver," Fred says.

"You lie on a table and they slide you into it like a side of beef and then slam the door. The top is plastic so you can see out and the doctors and nurses can see in. There also is a built-in communications system.

"Once they get up into the thing, they pour on the pressure . . . giving you 30 pounds of oxygen so you can absorb two million volts of radiation. This shortens the length of the treatment and also practically eliminates the risk of hurting healthy tissue.

"Usually, it takes 10 minutes getting you 'down,' seven minutes of radiation, and another 10 minutes getting you 'up.'

"They use those terms because the effect is like that of a deep sea diver, who has to go down and come up in stages so he won't get the bends. You can get the bends in the chamber, too.

"THE ONLY DOUBT I HAD WAS that sometimes I get a hemmed in feeling in crowded places . . . like elevators," he reveals.

"The doctors advised me of what to expect. They said I'd feel it most in the ears; that I'd get a headache; that I might think I was going to burst in small pieces, and that I'd probably be hit by claustrophobia whether or not I was normally subject to the feeling," Fred goes on.

"They said if I didn't think I could take it, I could have an anesthetic, which many patients need. I was tempted, but I asked them which they preferred, and they said it was better if I didn't take it.

"That was enough for me. I wanted get the full benefit, so I went into the chamber fully conscious. I had to give myself a pep talk, telling myself it wouldn't be so bad . . . but it was just as bad as the doctors said it would be. I was in there 40 minutes the first time, although it seemed a lifetime.

"WHEN I GOT OUT I WONDERED how I had been able to stay in there that long. But worse, I wondered how I could make myself go back in there five more times. But I kept giving myself pep talks, and it got a little more bearable as the week passed although it still was rough. Before it was over, I was able to go through the whole bit in 23 minutes," Fred declares.

Twice since the season has started, Hutch has flown to Seattle for X-rays and checkups. Some improvement has been noted.

Hutch says "I have a big scar on the upper right side of my chest where the radiation was concentrated. It looks like a bad sunburn . . . and it serves as a reminder of those punishing hours in the chamber; as if I could ever forget them.

"But they were well worth it . . . if the malignancy is controlled."

Billie Jean Top-Seeded

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. (AP) — America's second-ranked players, Dennis Ralston and Billie Jean Moffitt, head the field for the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships, which begin Monday at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Seeded behind Ralston are Frank Froehling, defending champion Gene Scott, Marty Riessen, Arthur Ashe, Mike Sangster, Abe Segal and Charles Pararell.

In the women's bracket, Miss Moffitt, of Long Beach, Calif., now the ranking amateur in the country since Darline Hard decided to turn pro, tops the list of six seeds. Behind her come Nancy Richey, Carole Caldwell Graebner, Karen Hantze Susman, Judy Alvarez and Carol Hanks.

Miss Moffitt was runnerup at Wimbledon last year.

Preps Open Grid Season Thursday

By DOUG IVES

Long Beach's trio of gridders for the Shrine football game, Wilson's Bob Heckman and Poly's Marv Motley and Earl McCullouch, have won starting positions.

Heckman will open at offensive center and Motley at offensive left half, while McCullouch will play the middle safety spot on defense when the North and South tangle Thursday in the Coliseum.

Co-coaches Jim Pendleton and Dick Coury of the South, in revealing that L.B. would have three starters, also said that McCullouch would see some duty on offense.

The versatile Rabbit, expected to vie with Randy Key for the flanker position, has instead been backing up Motley, who will be the principle running back with Muir fullback Ron Pritchard.

All the South backs except quarterback Carleton Kelley, who stands 6-6 and weighs 220, can run the 100 in 10.1 or better. McCullouch does 9.7, Key 9.9, Motley 10.0 and Pritchard 10.1.

The South's vaunted speed will be the North's main worry, while the Rebels will have problems with the North's huge line, which averages 223 to the South's 202.

Biggest man for both squads is 250-pounder Jack O'Malley of Banning, who'll start at middle guard on defense. Other area players, El Rancho's Ron Drake and Steve Swanson and Santa Ana's Ted Parks, will start, too—Drake at end, Swanson as the rover backer and Parks flanking McCullouch.

Practices will taper off this week after rugged two-a-day drills since Tuesday. The head-knocking thus far has hurt the North more than the South as it already has lost guard Dan Flores.

Moreover, star QB Ray Calcagno, whose S. F. Ignatius team was 19-0 the past two seasons, strained a knee Friday and limped off the field. His health could be the key factor in the game's outcome.

The 13th annual contest promises to be one of the most wide-open offensive battles ever. Both teams are employing wing-T attacks, featuring flanker backs and split ends. With Kelley and Calcagno highly touted passers, there should be plenty of aerial dynamics.

★ ★ ★ ★

PREP PANORAMA: Motley has been the sensation of the South camp, according to reports emanating from there. . . . Kelley's long passes and the pass-catching of Drake also have warranted rave notices. . . . Four North linemen are hobbling with assorted injuries, but as yet only Flores has been definitely sidelined; one casualty is end Tim Rossovich, the No. Calif. Lineman of the Year from St. Francis in Mountain View. . . . According to the advance ticket sales, about 60,000 should witness the game, an increase over last year and some 12,000 over the 12-game average. . . . Both squads will see the U.S.-Russian track meet today. . . . The South backfield averages only 184 pounds, smallest in Shrine Game history.

SHRINE QB VISITS HOSPITAL

'Playing Our Hearts Out'

(The following article was written by 18-year-old Terry Shea, one of the 50 California football players who will compete in the Shrine's North-South Football Game in Memorial Coliseum Thursday. A quarterback from San Jose's Bellarmine Prep and sports editor of that school's newspaper, Terry wrote this story after visiting with the beneficiaries of the event—patients in the Los Angeles unit of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

By TERRY SHEA
Special To The I.P-T

While visiting the boys and girls in the hospital, I learned the true meaning of the slogan that is synonymous with all Shrine football games: "Strong Legs Run That Weak Legs May Walk."

When I walked into the girls' ward and saw a leg with no foot, I knew immediately what this game was all about.

I looked away from that leg as quickly as possible for fear that I would embarrass the patient, a pretty blonde about 15 years old.

By the time my eyes reached hers, I had a sinking feeling in my stomach. Simply, I felt as if one of my passes had been intercepted at a crucial point in a crucial game.

Carol gave me a big smile and I gave it right back to her.

I didn't know what to talk about at first, but I guess it went OK because she said she would say a prayer for me just before the game.

As I left Carol, I noticed that dance music was coming from the radio atop her bed stand. I turned to my guide, hospital administrator Mary Jane Krantz, and said in a low tone:

"Gosh, that girl will never dance."

Mrs. Krantz replied:

"Oh, she'll dance—and soon. We're in the process of fitting her with an artificial foot and, I assure you, by the time she leaves us she'll be able to twist."

As I mingled with the patients, I realized that this game would be different than any I (or the other North-South players) had ever been in before.

In addition to victory itself, all of us will be playing our hearts out for the 60 children we met in the Shrine hospital. They deserve nothing less of us.

The memories of the hospital are haunting.

Even now, hours after my visit, I can picture the broken youngsters for whom I will be playing—Jacks and Jills, I might add, who got that way without ever having a chance to go up the hill to fetch a pail of water. I say that because Mrs. Krantz told me that most of the afflictions are congenital. That last word (congenital) is new to me. Mrs. Krantz told me how to spell it, but I had only to look around the ward to know what it meant.

LET'S TAKE LITTLE RAYMOND, for example. He's from Mexico and he had been admitted to the hospital only two days before my arrival. He's seven and does not speak English.

Raymond was very serious, and it wasn't until I called upon some of the Spanish I learned at Bellarmine Prep that I finally got through to him. He has never walked. His legs, which were thrown a "curve" by polio, are as thin as the crutches that support him.

I remember Steve, too. He was the polite one. Steve called me "sir" and he showed me a lot for a 12-year-old. He had a v-e-r-y strong hand shake, one that was triggered from broad shoulders. Like Raymond, however, his legs were coiled and tender.

Steve wants to be a quarterback. Well, if Carol will dance, maybe Steve will call signals for an Oklahoma team. That's where he's from.

Generally speaking, I noticed that none of the patients felt sorry for themselves. They were happy and, as a result, fun to be with.

Venturi, Besselink Tie

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—U.S. Open Champion Ken Venturi and strapping Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., a couple of comeback stars, fired duplicate rounds of 69 Saturday to share the third-round lead at 202 in the $50,000 Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Venturi, 33, who had not won a major tournament since 1960 before capturing the Open in June, remained deadlocked with Besselink with just one round remaining by shooting a one-under-par 34 on the front nine and cutting the 36-par back nine by one stroke on the 6,569-yard Wethersfield Country Club.

Besselink, 40-year-old Merchantville, N.J., native, who was out of action with a lung condition for the past three years, stayed with Venturi at the top of the field of 85 in quest of a $7,500 first prize by matching his 34-35 round in warm but windy weather.

Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., who ranked one stroke behind the three deadlocked leaders at the 36-hole mark, went around in par 71 Saturday for a 205.

TENNIS BRIEFS

Compiled From Wire Reports

Peaches Barikowicz Saturday won her second singles championship in the national under-16 girls tennis tournament at Chicago by beating a nervous Patty Rippy, 6-3, 6-3. . . . Miss Barikowicz, 15, Hamtramck, Mich., has another year to look forward to in the tournament. She overpowered Miss Rippy, Shawnee, Okla., with booming serves.

AUSTRALIA's Davis Cup tennis team practiced for seven hours in Mexico City Saturday, indicating the seriousness with which it takes its next opponent, Mexico. . . . Australia's two stars, Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, bore the brunt of the long workout, as captain Harry Hopman helped them polish their ground strokes. He also worked on overhead smashes and drop shots. Australia meets Mexico Aug. 1-3.

Ken Fletcher of Australia defeated Allen Fox of Los Angeles, 6-3, 7-5, in one semifinal match of the Swill International tennis tourney. Jose Mandarino of Brazil beat Martin Mulligan of Australia, 6-0, 7-5, in the other.

Mac Claffin of Coral Gables, Fla., pulled another upset to defeat first-seeded George Taylor of Houston, Tex., and win the National Boys 14-under tennis championship at Chattanooga, Tenn. The title game went three sets: 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Bill Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., won the junior crown and Albert Carrera of Santurce, Puerto Rico, took the boys' title in the Western Open Tennis championships at Springfield, Ohio. . . . Harris, winner of the boys' division the last two years, won 5-7, 7-5 and 6-1 over Bob Luiz of Los Angeles. Carrera was down 1-3 in games to James Rombeau of Studio City, Calif., in the first set but came back to win, 6-4, 6-2.

INJURED STANFORD GRID DIES

PALO ALTO (AP) — Lowell Wilson, 20, a promising Stanford University football prospect until he was paralyzed from the neck down during a dummy scrimmage, died Saturday.

Wilson, of Hawaii, entered Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital Friday for treatment of urological and lung infections.

A 218-pound guard, Wilson was practicing with the Stanford team as a sophomore in May, 1963, when he fractured his spine while hitting a blocking bag.

He returned to the university this summer in a wheelchair.

Wilson had been a star football player, student body vice president and editor of the school paper at Kamehameha School before entering Stanford.

His mother was with him when he died.

Del Mar Opens Tuesday

DEL MAR—A full field of fast fillies and mares for the $7,500 Inaugural Handicap—highlight of Tuesday's opening-day program here—was assured Saturday with the release of 21 nominations for the six-furlong dash. Post-time of 2 p.m. will be in effect for the 42-day session of the Del Mar Turf Club.

Elmendorf Farm's Researcher, recent winner of the Wilshire Handicap at Hollywood, and Lou Rowan's Curious Clover, feminine star of the Santa Anita winter meeting, are among the inaugural candidates.

Gablich's Jet Drag Car Bests Southerland

Gary Gablich of Long Beach driving the "Valkyrie" jet dragster, defeated Paul Southerland's fuel dragster in their two-out-of-three match race before 5,891 fans Saturday at Mickey Thompson's Fontana International Dragway.

Gablich reached a speed of 218.44 mph in winning the first race, lost the second and came back with a 216.86 mph run to win the third and deciding race.

Sachs Tops Jones in Hot Midget Duel

Lowell Sachs waged a head-on duel with Parnelli Jones' younger brother, Paul, for 40 laps, took the lead when Jones developed car trouble and went on to win the USAC midget car race at Ascot Park Saturday night before 3,836.

Main event (50 laps)—Lowell Sachs (San Diego), Mike McGreevey (San Jose), Bob Wente (St. Louis), Paul Jones (Gardena), 16:12.30.

Semi-main (15 laps) — Bob Behemer (Bellflower), Jack Devitt (Los Angeles), Edgar Elder Jr. (Fresno), 4:46.66.

Trophy dash (3 laps)—Lowell Sachs (San Diego) $3.44.

GRAND PRIZE

Grand Trophy in International Karate Tournament at the Long Beach Arena next Sunday night will be the target for such ace fighters as Dan Inosanto and Larry Hartsel.

MESSAGE FROM BEYOND?

Clay Decked by 'Pug'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Cassius Clay, heavyweight champion, says he got a million dollar message from the beyond when a club fighter decked him during a training bout.

Chip Johnson, who has a 7-5 record, startled the champion with a short right hand to Clay's unprotected chin Friday.

Cassius shook his head and got up quickly, just as the bell rang. Johnson didn't wait to be told that the workout was finished.

"Let me out of here," he said, jumping from the ring. "Tell me Clay was jiving."

Clay insisted that he was not jiving.

"I was tagged," said Clay, "this is a warning. Somebody is telling me, 'You're not ready for this.' Your heart has got to be in tune with what you're doing.

"I've been living on doughnuts and milk. I've got to eat some more steaks."

It was the first knockdown in a gym for Clay since he turned professional, said his trainer, Angelo Dundee.

Clay weighed 226. When he won the championship from Sonny Liston in February he weighed 210.

ALL-AMERICA BRADDS WILL SHUN PROS

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — All-America Gary Bradds of Ohio State apparently has decided to forego a professional basketball career.

A top draft choice of the National Basketball Association Baltimore Bullets, Bradds intends to teach school this winter, according to an announcement Saturday from nearby Beavercreek Township.

70 Turn Out for Falcons' Grid Drills

By AL LARSON

"They just keep coming and coming," a perplexed coach Al Williams said Saturday as he mapped training plans for his Long Beach Falcons football team.

"So far we've had 70 players report and we've only been practicing two weeks. We never dreamed we'd have such a fine response here in Long Beach. But we're always ready to greet new personnel," Williams added.

The Falcons, members of the Western Football League, will hold their first scrimmage, either Aug. 5 or 10. Working out Monday and Wednesday nights at 6:30 on the Dominquez High field, Long Beach's semi-pro team opens league play Aug. 30.

Prospects:

Bennie Allen, Frank Allen, Bill Alexander, Garry Alexander, Al Blanchard, Walt Buncom, John Barry, John Barrios, Floyd Bowman, Henry Bradshaw, Charlie Cunningham, Dave Cunningham, Ron Chronister, John Cammen, Purcell Daniels, Dick Earthman, Harold Feghan, Jim Fowler, Dick Gomez, Bob Gomez, Bill Grace, Frank George, Al Holsinglon, Jim Huston, Ellis Houston, Chuck Hammond, Fletcher Harding, Fred Horn, Lonzo Irvin, Joe Ibarra, Leo Johnson, Jack Johnson, Gordon Jackson, Nate Johnson, Dick Jacoby.

said. And Hansen volunteered that 17-6 was an intermediate goal."

"I should have made 17-7 today," the Rice University student said. "And that's certainly not the limit."

Long said he thought he "really had a good one" on a put that eventually went "only" 67-1, "but I didn't plant my left foot fast enough and the put didn't have enough height."

Unsung hero of the Americans was walker Ron Zinn. The 25-year-old soldier was right with the world record holder and Olympic champion Vladimir Golubnichiy at the halfway point in the 12-mile jaunt, but eventually finished several hundred yards behind.

What the fans didn't know was that Zinn had been wearing new shoes, which, teammate Ron Laird said, "made a mess of his feet."

With three miles to go, Zinn took off the offending shoes, handed them to an official, and finished the event in his socks.

HOMETOWN hero Mike Larrabee said he had been told to run a faster first 200 meters than he usually does, and he credited that with his breezing victory over teammate Ollan Cassell in the 400 meters.

"That's the fourth time in a month I've run 46 seconds flat," Larrabee said. The 31-year-old USC alumnus said his troublesome stomach had not bothered him.

Hayes Jones, beaten in the 110-meter hurdles by Blaine Lindgren, said he had been unable to "raise up" after coming out of the blocks and never was able to get over the hurdles properly.

He said he hit the eighth, ninth, and tenth hurdles, and that he was "satisfied" with his 13.7 time under those circumstances.

AMONG THE happy winners were two girls, sprinter Edith McGuire and high jumper Eleanor Montgomery. Both agreed that their victories should not be considered upsets.

"We've worked hard, all of us," Miss Montgomery said. "We're tired of hearing about American women athletes being 'second-raters.'"

Miss McGuire agreed. "We have a tremendous team spirit," she said. "We're going to surprise a lot of people, but not ourselves."

Korobkov said he was not surprised at the performances of the U.S. girls or of Lindgren. "I was only surprised at the performances of some of the Russian athletes.

"Tomorrow," he repeated, "will be different."

Pentathlon Record Win for Toomey

WESTBRROK, Maine (UPI) —Track wizard Bill Toomey made a clean sweep of five track and field events Saturday to break his own record and win his fourth National AAU pentathlon championship.

Toomey, a graduate student at Stanford University, posted a total of 3,687 points to smash his old record of 3,482 set in a 1961 National AAU Pentathlon meet in California.

The 25-year-Toomey won the broad jump with a leap of 23-9¼ and won first place in the javelin with a throw of 193-4.

* * * *

TOOMEY, who is currently in training as an alternate for the U.S. Olympic team, negotiated the 200-meter dash in 22 seconds flat, threw the discus 125-10 and won the 1,500 meter run in 4:21.4.

Navy Lt. Bill Ramson won second place with 2,802 points and also came in second in the 200-meter dash with a time of 23.02.

300 Karate Champions Clash in L.B. Sunday

It appears that the first International Karate Championships will be a smashing success.

More than 300 of the world's greatest karate fighters already have entered the big affair which is set for Sunday night, Aug. 2, at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. Rapid ticket sales indicate a sellout.

Karate (pronounced kah-rah-tay) is one of the oldest and most effective means of hand-to-hand combat and only lately has come into its own in this country.

But despite its newness here, the United States will be well represented in the tourney. Such entrants as members of the U.S. Army and U.S. Marine karate team will compete as well as an 88-man delegation from Texas.

The foreign fighters are expected to be early favorites. Included are such luminaries as Japan's Takayuki Kubota and Zenpo Shimbuku and Canada's Quai Wong.

Many of the world's legendary karate teachers will attend the tourney and give demonstrations. Expected are Jhoon Rhee of Korea, Bruce Lee of Hong Kong, Tsumo Ohshima of Japan, Anthony Mirakian of Okinawa, Ben Largusa of the Philippines and Ed Parker of Hawaii.

For most of the race it appeared that this was just another Azure Te who would run out of oats, but only one challenger came out in the stretch and he was way too late.

Gilligan was looking over his shoulder, and it appeared that Neke was, too, when apprentice Senen Trevino brought Donson at him in the last quarter, cutting off a 3½-length advantage to a still cozy 1½ the finish.

Gilligan grinned, "He was standing perfect at the break, looking down the race track and ready to go. I was a little worried when I hit the half-mile pole on top that he might not keep rolling, but they were false fears. He was run all the way."

Trainer Joe Dunn revealed that Neke had "blown two races by his habit of ducking in. We tried blinkers and then changed to an extension bit which apparently helped. I was worried about drawing that No. 1 position and told Larry to rush him out of there. He just whooshed out and that was it."

Jockey Ray York rode three winners Saturday, equalling his feat on Gold Cup day a week earlier but not quite matching J. P-T handicapper Roy Betz, who was on four winners, including Charger's Kin.

The Hollypark meeting closes Monday when Colorado King, South African-bred winner of the Gold Cup and American Handicap, takes on similar competition in the $85,150 Sunset Handicap at a mile and five-eighths—his longest test.

Bill Shoemaker will return to the King's saddle after Ray York's successes in the American and Gold cup.

KELSO FAR, FAR BACK

Gun Bow Shatters Mark, Wins by 12

Compiled from Wire Reports

Gun Bow ran the fastest 1¼ miles in New York racing history Saturday as he galloped to a 12-length triumph in the 76th running of the $110,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

The 4-year-old son of Gun Shot-Ribbon from the Gedney Farms reeled off the distance in 1:59 3/5 under 123 pounds.

Kelso, favorite in the field of eight handicap stars, could do no better than fifth as Rex C. Ellsworth's Olden Times nosed Sunrise Flight of the Little M. Farms out of the runnerup position before a crowd of 49,074.

Iron Peg, unbeaten in four previous 1964 starts, lost the show spot by a head.

* * * *

IN WINNING the classic finale of New York's handicap triple crown, Gun Bow clipped three-fifths of a second off the former New York record held by Whisk Broom, Kelso and Beau Purple and came within one and two-fifths seconds of matching the world standard hung up by Noor at Golden Gate Fields in 1950.

Gun Bow was an outsider to take down the $71,500 purse and paid $24.60, $10.60 and $7.60. Olden Times, another outsider, returned $23.20 and $11.20. Sunrise Flight paid $0.50 to show.

William Haggin Perry's Knightly Manner, the favorite, scored his seventh victory of the year over a well-matched field of three-year-olds in the 27th running of the $44,700 Choice Stakes.

ITALIAN DRIVER KILLED IN RACE

FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium (UPI) — Italian race car driver Pietro Frescobaldi was killed Saturday night when his Lancia 1800 swerved off the road and into a ravine during the 24 hours Francorchamps race.

The Lancia shot out of the Malmedy Bend about three miles from the stands. Frescobaldi was killed instantly, the reports said.

Now We Can Brag About Albacore

This weekend, for the first time, Long Beach, San Pedro and Newport Beach sportfishing landings don't have to play second fiddle to San Diego in albacore catches. At this writing Saturday morning anglers on a score of boats from this area were screaming with happiness as rod after rod bent over the rails.

It seemed certain at that early hour that the Friday catch would be exceeded. It was highly possible that plenty of 10-fish limits would be landed later in the day and early evening.

Friday broke a strange spell when Pierpoint's America, Pacific's Fisherman, Norm's new 75-foot Electra (San Pedro) and Skipper's 22nd Street Landing's Sharpshooter (San Pedro) fished the 43-Fathom Bank and came home with 312 fish.

The Electra with Dick Helgren as skipper, was high boat with 127 for 24 passengers. Pacific's Fisherman, with Pat Jackson as skipper, came back with 100. The America had 63 and the Sharpshooter 22.

Meanwhile, Newport Beach sent three boats to the same area Friday and collected 112 fish. So, all in all, San Diego's daily total of 1,000 for 24 or 25 boats didn't worry local operators in the least.

ALL ALBACORE SPECIALS in this area had been trying to fish a few miles off the east end of San Clemente Island with varying results, ranging from zero to possibly 30 or 40 fish. The shift to the 43-Fathom Bank, possibly an hour longer in cruising, did the trick. The faster boats can make it there in 4½ to 5 hours.

An oddity occurred Friday when a small boat trolling a jig hooked an albacore on the 14-Mile Bank, directly between Newport Beach and Avalon. That fish was landed, but two others, hooked on bait, broke off. That ended the action.

The 14-Mile Bank, easy to reach, always intrigues small boaters, and it's a place where a few albacore strays are caught, but it's too early to predict that the main schools might get in that close to shore.

Currents around San Clemente Island are so erratic so far that it's guesswork about the longfins' migration that way. One skipper, taking temperatures earlier this week, found one patch of 62-degree water, then discovered another patch of 70-degree water a few hundred feet away. Neither suits the albacore, which prefer 64 and 65 degrees.

A severe case of red tide is affecting water inside the harbor and anchovies are leaping everywhere for a breath of oxygen out of the atmosphere. However, the bait situation so far is excellent.

JUST BECAUSE A PERSON walks into a sporting good store and buys a fishing or hunting license doesn't make him a gentleman or a saint. Some are meat hogs who know that they will be fined unless they have licenses. Others are even criminals, even though on a small scale.

Take for instance the incident that occurred in Ball and Frank's Sporting Goods Store, 345 Long Beach Blvd. Cyril Ball and Johnny Frank were displaying 50 dozen flies, hand-tied by Bart Peterson, one of the Long Beach Casting Club fly-tying instructors. While 50 dozen flies sound like a great quantity, those were contained in a compact case.

Numerous customers and window shoppers dropped by to take a look. While Johnny, Cyril and Cyril's son, Jim, were busy with the trade, somebody took the case and all and left no trace.

Cyril, commenting on the thievery, said he hoped the person who took the flies really can fish with them. "If he took those flies out of plain curiosity," said Cyril, "I hope he falls down and sits on the 50 dozen."

Meanwhile, it's interesting to note that in June 481 persons were cited for fishing without licenses and 165 were fined for hunting without licenses and 44 for loaded guns in cars. Only legal game now is jackrabbits.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Utah's general deer season will run from Oct. 17 through Oct. 27, according to information from that state's Fish and Game Department. The state's general archery hunt runs from Aug. 22 through Sept. 7.

The Ute Indians of Utah are planning another special hunt on their lands from Aug. 15 through Nov. 15, limiting the hunters to 15 at one time. It's a rather expensive deal, but all funds go to the tribe's welfare fund.

Glacier Falls Figure Skating Club is presenting its second annual ice revue in four performances, starting with a Sunday matinee today at the Glacier Falls Ice Rink, 211 W. Katella, Anaheim. While this doesn't come under the usual outdoors title, the A-1 Carson Trailer Sales, Torrance, thinks enough of the Orange County event to give a Field and Stream trailer as the grand prize.

Shell Chemical Company, which for several years has manufactured liquid Vapona insecticides for use in farm buildings, milk barns and for commercial purposes, has formulated the chemical in a 10x2½-inch strip which you hang in a room.

Shell says it keeps all flying insects out of that room for at least three months. It vaporizes very slowly and the flies, gnats and mosquitoes just don't like it. Wish I had had a strip or two of that on that recent trip into British Columbia.

Peterson Scores 4-3 Triumph

By BRUCE YOUNG

Oscar Brown raced home from third base on a passed ball in the bottom of the sixth inning with the winning run as Peterson Post tripped Sunshine Acres 4-3 Saturday at Blair Field in the 19th District American Legion playoffs.

Peterson and Sunshine Acres collide today at noon for the District Championship with two lefthanders slated to pitch. Randy Humphrey will take the hill for Gale Taylor's national champs while 5-6 curveball artist Perry Warren will hurl for Sunshine Acres.

Brown, pushed into a starting role for the first time in four weeks, was impressive stealing two bases and making a fine catch deep in centerfield. He reached base in the sixth on a fielder's choice and went to second on a two-base throwing error, which scored Ken Whitmer from first.

• • • •

BROWN promptly stole third and romped home on Pat Kuehner's passed ball. Whitmer led off the frame with a single.

Chuck Moore paced Peterson at the plate, collecting a run-producing single, double and a walk in three trips. Moore's two-out single to left-field in the second scored Bob Wiswell from second base and gave the winners a brief 1-0 lead.

Moure started off the fifth frame with a booming double to center, advanced to third on catcher Ron Henkel's single and scored on Gary Lamb's ground ball to first.

Salta Loses to Downey

Doug Meyer's single in the seventh inning scored Fred Deyer from second with the winning run as the Downey Reds topped Salta Pontiac, 5-4, Saturday at Long Beach City College.

Salta Pontiac meets Compton today at 2 p.m. at Cressy Park in Stan Musial League play.

Juniors Free at Hawks' Contest

The Nitehawks are riding gingerly in their WSC campaign but, despite injuries to five stars, they will take the field tonight at 8:15 against the Oxnard Merchants at Park Ave. field. All junior baseball players in uniforms will be admitted free.

On the injured list are: Stan White, broken bone in ankle; Larry Silvas, hip injury; Eddie Waymire, bruised thumb; Jack Randall, injured leg and Cleo Goyette, swollen ankle.

The Lakewood Lancers go to Etiwanda tonight. A Lancer win would insure second place in the WSC.

IT'S AN AD, AD, AD WORLD

LYNNE FRANTZ EYES ONE OF HIS SIGNS

By DON KIRKLAND

REDONDO BEACH—That old soft-sell routine never has been softer, thanks to the 34-year-old "think director" at South Bay Shopping Center.

He's Lynne Frantz, promotion director and all-around idea man at the bustling, 48-store shopping beehive that grossed $40 million last year alone.

His secrets to success?

A never-ending supply of ideas," Frantz concedes.

Among them are the eye-catching, off-beat slogans that stare down at passing motorists with only one thought in mind: "make people smile."

The slogans, no doubt, have become South Bay Center's biggest claim to fame.

They range from the terse, post-Christmas remark,

WHEW!

to the slump-season appeal,

WHERE ARE YOU
NOW THAT WE NEED YOU?

At commencement time in June, 1960, Frantz punned:

CONGRAUZTIONS
TO YOUSE
WICH GRADULATED

At the height of the elephant-joke craze, the sign suggested:

PARKING FOR
2,900 ELEPHANTS
Or 5,800 Cars

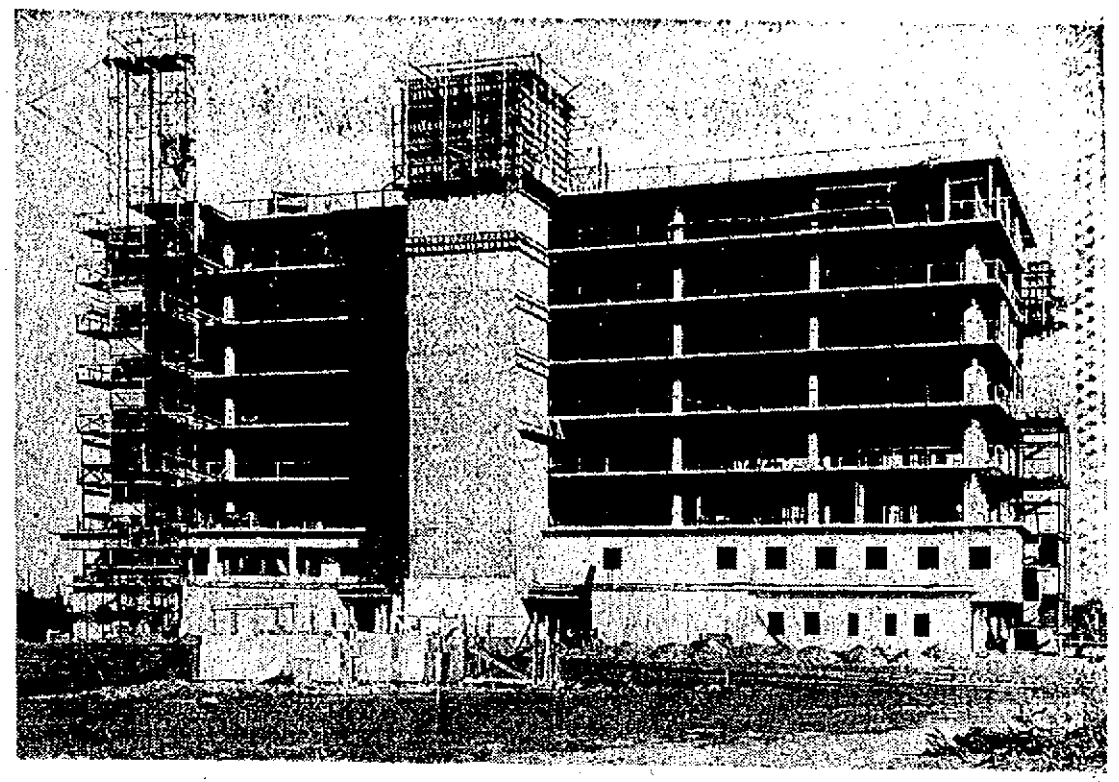

Having spent the early years of his carcer as a newspaper ad salesman, Frantz knows the ropes of promotion. Nonetheless, he occasionally runs out of ideas for new and laughable billboard appeals, so reverts to a mockery of radio and TV ads, calls on his secretary for help or simply sticks to the routine of:

ANNUAL WHITE SALE

Some businessmen as far away as Beverly Hills drive past the center periodically to plagiarize Frantz' ideas, and one woman said the signs made her "feel like dropping everything and running in to shop."

Frantz' success is obvious. He has been with the center 6½ years, and has helped it grow to one of the biggest-selling shopping complexes of its kind in the nation.

Sometimes, Frantz admits, he won't "get cute:" "If the center is open on a certain night when stores aren't normally open, we feel it is imperative to say this straightforward. Then we forget about "cute copy."

BELLFLOWER'S FIRST HIGH-RISE

Construction of $6.5 million hospital in Bellflower for Kaiser Foundation is on schedule, Russell Mills, project engineer of 1839 Stevely Ave., Long Beach, announced Saturday. Basic contract for the city's first high-rise building was awarded last year to Huber-Hunt & Nichols Co. for $3.7 million. The hospital is being constructed on a 14-acre tract at the southeast corner of Rosecrans and Clark Avenues. Completion is scheduled for April 1965. Interior work and surfacing of parking lots will get under way in the next few weeks, Mills said. With Kaiser Hospital first under construction, two more high-rise buildings now are known to be in the planning stage at Bellflower.

Rights Objectives Told by State Realty Chief

BY VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

"There is no freedom without choice," President Arthur S. Leitch of the California Real Estate Association declared last week at a joint meeting of Realtors, held at Bateman Hall in Lynwood.

The occasion was a breakfast session at which the Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors hosted Realtors from the Downey board as well as representatives from other boards of the 22nd District.

Discussing conditions in the real estate industry, Leitch stressed the expanded educational program for Realtors now under way in California.

* * * *

HE FOCUSED his speech on the Rumford Act and efforts of the CREA, Apartment House Association, home building industry, property owner organizations and others in pushing a property rights initiative to a vote in the November election.

"Like all Americans" Leitch said, "the members of CREA are deeply concerned with the preservation of human rights and property rights. We believe that the two are inseparable.

"The right to own property is a great human right. The California Real Estate Association supports adequate housing for all Americans, regardless of race, creed, color, or national origin."

Leitch referred to the Rumford Act and the association's

LONG BEACH, CALIF., SUNDAY, JULY 26, 1964

Area Leaders to Receive L.B. Industrial Data

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce will present copies of a major industrial land report to Southern California financial and industrial leaders Tuesday in the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Robert L. Irvin, chairman of the Chamber's Economic-Industrial Development Committee, said introduction of the report covering 3,500 acres of industrial tracts in southern Los Angeles and western Orange counties will be accompanied by distribution of a four-color publication entitled "The Power of Long Beach" which was published recently by Long Beach Promotion, Inc.

* * * *

"THESE COULD be the most effective industrial development pieces to come out of this community in recent years," Irvin declared. "We now have a one-two punch, from a publications standpoint, that will stand up against the best offered in this highly competitive field."

The land report was published under the direction of Bob Reid, chairman of the Chamber's industrial publications and promotion subcommittee.

Reid, who is vice president and general manager of United California Bank and chairman of the Long Beach Board of Harbor Commissioners, was assisted in the project by the following committee members:

Nicholas Dallas, director of aeronautics, Long Beach Airport; Al Code, former district manager, Southern California Edison; R. W. Connell, general traffic agent, Union Pacific Railroad; Vern Baker, manager, Long Beach Promotion, Inc.; Bill Brooks, president, Brooks Realty; Paul Elmquist, leasing agent, Bixby Land Co.; Hal Levy, senior engineering superintendent, Long Beach Water Department; Don Smith, division freight agent, Santa Fe Railway Company, and Neb Smith, district freight and passenger agent, Southern Pacific Railway Company.

* * * *

THE REPORT which was unveiled by Reid at Friday's meeting of the Economic-Industrial Development Committee, includes a regional map of all rail lines serving Southern California, an aerial map of southeastern Los Angeles and western Orange counties, plus aerial photographs showing boundaries and specifications of 16 major tracts.

Reid emphasized that the publication's design was flexible enough to accommodate expansion and updating, as required.

"We are especially grateful for recommendations of the Becker Advertising Agency, for the excellent lab work performed by Pacific Air Industries and for the fine printing job that was turned out by Green's, Inc.," Reid said.

De Luxe Dorms Readied at Cal State, Fullerton

FULLERTON — Othreys Hall, first permanent student housing facility on the campus of California State College here, is scheduled for occupancy by nearly 300 students at the beginning of the fall semester in September.

"In addition to the design and choice of building materials that are already attracting national recognition," said Dr. William B. Langsdorf, Cal State president, last week, "Othrys Hall has the distinction of being one of California's first privately financed residence halls for college students."

* * * *

FINANCED and constructed through a long-term lease agreement between the College Foundation and Cypress Park Properties, Inc., the residence hall was cited by Dr. Langsdorf as an example of California State's initiative in meeting student housing requirements through private enterprise rather than federal or state loans.

Othrys Hall is the first of six similar residence halls slated to be built for California State at Fullerton.

Located adjacent to the front entrance of the campus, it is part of the master-planned College Park that will occupy the surrounding area. This entire community, including a research center and recreational facilities, is designed around a series of walking and cycling malls which are inter-connected to

Tile Institute Conference Set

G. N. Lavenberg, managing director of the Ceramic Tile Institute, has announced that the tenth annual industry Educational Conference and Seminar largest ceramic tile show held nationwide, will be staged at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, Feb. 11 to 13, 1965.

Lavenberg revealed that the Seminar Committee has chosen the theme, "Carnival of Tile," to salute the anniversary.

Because of attendance figures ranging at close to 2,000 people, the committee voted to hold its main programs in Biltmore Bowl.

AT SAN PEDRO

Huge Concrete Pads to Support High-Rise

SAN PEDRO — Sidewalk observers at the Pacific Trade Center Construction site, Fifth and Centre streets, these days are viewing another Southern California construction record — the heaviest reinforcing steel ever used in any office building.

Workmen on San Pedro's first high-rise structure are winding their way through a dense network of three-inch steel reinforcing bars, more than twice the thickness ordinarily used in local construction.

Nine hundred tons of the specially cast bars form a dense supporting core inside two concrete footing pads.

* * * *

THE TWO PADS, each 45 feet wide and 64 feet long, are the second stage of the foundation for the high-rise office building.

Previously the construction workers drove hundreds of concrete and steel pilings into the earth 40 feet below the pads. Concrete is being youred over the reinforcing steel to complete what is called the finest foundation in Southern California building history for the $4 million Harbor area skyscraper.

Specially made reinforcing, custom sized to the specifications of the pads, was produced by Bethlehem Steel Corp. and requires no splicing, according to Earl Mayes of Loma Linda, construction superintendent. Each steel core will be encased in 750 cubic yards of concrete.

* * * *

THIS FOUNDATION work meets the newly formulated building department requirements set up after the Alaska earthquake.

In all the foundation goes down five stories deep and will anchor the two utility towers of the building which will house elevators, plumbing and electrical wiring.

The building will be the most modern structure in the area both in design and engineering.

Office occupants will enjoy such features and conveniences as carpeted corriridors, individual room controls of air conditioning, background music, on-site post office and recessed polorized fluorescent light fixtures.

San Sebastian Development Co., owner and developer of the building.

Progress on the building has moved along rapidly with completion expected early next year.

NEW BUFFUMS' LAKEWOOD STORE

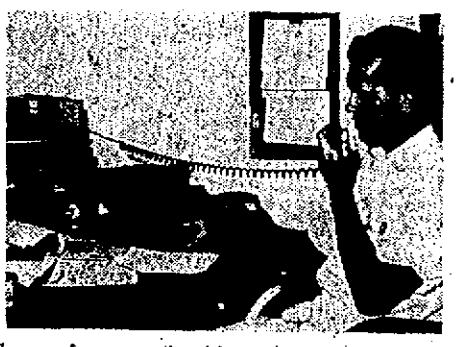

Construction will get under way within 60 days on this $2,500,000 store for Buffumis' in Lakewood Center, Vaile G. Young, president of the department store, has announced. This will be the sixth Buffums' unit. The store will be at the southeast section of the Center, on Del Amo Boulevard and just west of Bullock's and adjacent to the new Desmond's store. Opening is planned about Aug. 1, 1965.

Two-Way Communication Speeds Action at L.B. Plant

COORDINATION of plant activities by use of a new radio communications system is stepping up efficiency at the Procter & Gamble facility in Long Beach.

Varied sizes and brands of P&G products go to and from storage areas in the 4½-acre warehouse through the 27 truck loading spots and eight boxcar spots there, as well as 10 truck loading and four boxcar areas at the main plant across the street. Shown here (at desk) is Bob Pugh, job study engineer, in main shipping deartment office which maintains two-way radio communication with ware-

The foreman is kept informed to the last detail on products to be shipped, as well as incoming production and consignment items.

He in turn keeps in touch with tractor operators (as shown below where Gene Payne is getting instructions on loading in the warehouse).

Pool car line operators place orders with tractor operators for necessary products to be loaded into trucks and for supplying products to pool car conveyors (as G. A. Wilburn is doing in photo at right).

This communications setup saves many steps and much time. It expedites answers to such questions as:

Arrival and departure of trucks as scheduled; product codes and special packs; changes in shipping and production plans; and items in temporary short supply.

Tax Balm for 'Over-65' Group Explained by Realtor President

Under the provisions of the new federal law, persons of 65 or older who sell their homes will be allowed a tax-free gain if the adjusted sales price is $20,000 or less, John T. Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, pointed out last week.

Adjusted sales price means the sales price less the broker's commission and repair expenses incurred within 90 days preceding sale and paid within 30 days of sale, Webster said.

* * * *

"IF THE SALES PRICE is in excess of $20,000, the gain is tax-exempt in the ratio that $20,000 is to such price," he explained. "Thus, if the sales price is $30,000 and the gain is $12,000, the tax-exempt portion of the gain would be $8,000 — ($20,000/$30,000 or two-thirds of $12,000.)"

Calling attention to new Section 121 of the Internal Revenue Code, Webster explained that the seller must have owned and used the residence five of the last eight years, and that such exemption is available only once in a tax-payer's lifetime.

He made the explanation as a public service on the basis of information supplied by the National Association of Real Estate Boards with which the Long Beach Board of Realtors is affiliated.

A widow or widower would meet the five to eight year test if the deceased spouse, had he lived, would have met the requirement, Webster said. However, he added the surviving spouse must he age 65 or over for this exclusion to apply.

* * * *

THE NEW section applies to dispositions made after Dec. 31, 1963, for taxable years ending after that date, Webster said.

Cooperative apartments qualify as principal residences under this provision, and where only part of the property is used as a principal residence during the five and eight year period, only the gain on the residential portion qualifies for the benefits of the new section, he said.

An individual is considered to be married or single according to his status on the date of the sale or exchange, Webster said. An individual who is separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance of the date of the sale or exchange is not considered as married.

Hughes Names Naval Systems Marketing Head

FULLERTON — H. N. Opland of Claremont has been appointed marketing manager for naval systems for Huges Aircraft Company's system division, according to Dr. Nicholas A. Begovich, a Hughes vice president and assistant group exectuive.

H. N. OPLAND

Dr. Norman H. Enenstein, division manager, said Opland will be responsible for the marketing of naval systems developed by the division, including surface-to-air-weapon control systems and undersea warfare systems.

He will report to George D. Reish, the division's marketing manager, Dr. Enenstein said. The system division is responsible for systems engineering of major weapons systems projects at Hughes-Fullerton.

Prior to joining Hughes in April of this year, Opland conducted advanced development planning at Aerojet General, Azusa.

Motorists Want Service for Cars

NEW YORK (UPI)—Do-it-yourself apparently hasn't extended to some of the simplest tasks connected with maintaining a car. A survey discloses that more than half of those queried purchase their anti-freeze at service stations—where the job of installing it is usually done by attendants. The service stations also garnered 37.4% of storage battery sales.

Computer to Aid Braille Printing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—An electric computer, worth $2 million, was donated recently to the American Printing House for the Blind.

The computer, a gift from International Business Machines Corporation, will translate ink print into Braille at the rate of more than 1,000 words a minute.

Lippincott Named Manager at Todd

SAN PEDRO—Carl M. Lippincott has been named general manager of the local yard of Todd Shipyards Corp., succeeding James F. Goodrich.

Lippincott, who has been general manager of the Galveston Division since 1959, will take over the post Sept. 1. Goodrich will leave to become executive vice president of the Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.

* * * *

THE NEW general manager was a principal inspector on the staff of the supervisor of shipping for the Navy at the Todd-operated plant of Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock in San Pedro during World War II.

He later joined the Todd organization and in 1945 was transferred to the San Pedro yard, where he served successively as ship superintendent, chief estimator and assistant to the general manager on planning and production for all government work.

Before becoming general manager at Galveston, Lippincott was general manager of the New Orleans Division.

U.S. National Pays Dividend

United States National Bank directors have declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of 25c per share payable Aug. 31, 1964, to shareholders of record Aug. 17, 1964.

The dividend amounts to $151,506.50, applying to the bank's 606,026 shares outstanding.

The dividend action, taken at the board's regular July meeting, made this United States National's 23rd consecutive quarterly 25c cash dividend payment since 1958.

C. Arnold Smith, president and board chairman of the 33-branch, San Diego-headquartered banking system, said the bank's growth was continuing satisfactorily throughout Southern California.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Art Leitch, president of the California Real Estate Association. Leitch will discuss the Exchange Symposium which will be sponsored by the district at Long Beach in September and also the financing of the campaign for a "yes" vote on Proposition No. 14 on the November ballot.

Need Garage Attic

CHICAGO (UPI) — According to the National Safety Council, a number of the 4.3 million injuries and 28,500 fatalities incurred annually in home accidents are traceable to the family garage.

Neil W. Stewart, executive vice president of a garage door firm, said household furnishings and equipment have a way of overflowing into the garage. The overhead rafters serve as the most likely storage area.

"All too often, metal lawn furniture or other bulky articles perched precariously on crossbeams have slipped off, causing serious personal injury and property damage below."

Stewart says heavy plywood can be used to create an attic area by nailing it to crossbeams. It eliminates the danger of falling objects.

Drapery Plant at Grove to Expand

Maury Silverman, president of Aer-o-lite Draperies, has announced that his firm will move into new enlarged quarters at 10400 Park Ave., Garden Grove.

The new 16,000 square foot facility will more than double the existing manufacturing space.

Construction is scheduled to begin the first of August and the new facilities will be in operation in January.

The architect, LeRoy Rose, A.I.A., has designed a building of concrete tilt-up walls and steel frame to enable the owner to take care of its growth.

Aer-o-lite presently has 32 employes; and with the new facilities the staff will be enlarged to approximately 65.

Aer-o-lite is one of the four licensed drapery manufacturers in Southern California. It handles contracts from firms throughout California and Nevada. It does not handle retail, but deals only with general contractors for the complete installation.

Aer-o-lite was founded in 1952 and moved to Garden Grove in 1959.

To Regulate Weight of Garage Doors

A new regulation on overhead garage doors will become effective Aug. 1, for all applications for FHA loan applications, James Berry, direction of the Los Angeles office of the Federal Housing Administration announced.

"The new requirements limit the weight of the door to 350 pounds and set forth new standards for garage door hardware and extension springs," said Berry.

"These changes were necessitated by failure of door springs and the hazard of excessively heavy doors being carried on lightweight hardware."

Multiple Listing Sales Up

Greatest volume of sales in the history of the multiple listing service of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors occurred last month, according to Joe E. Dalton, chairman of the board's Multiple Listing Committee.

There was a total of $37,366,615 in volume of June sales compared to $4,606,245 in June of 1963.

Of great significance, Dalton said, is the increase in percentage of listings sold in June of this year as compared to June of 1963, there being a gain of 57.2%. The total dollar volume for June of this year compared to June of last year increased by almost 60%.

Increased cooperative sales has been evidenced, too, by an analysis of these sales showing that 43% of the sales were 'co-op' sales among the members of the multiple listing service.

REALTOR OFFICIALS MEET AT LYNWOOD

Leitch Tells Rights Goals

position on this new law.

* * * *

"THE ISSUE HERE," he stated, "is a new concept of law in that under this Rumford Bill it declares the defendant, the property owner, guilty and requires that he must prove himself innocent. The plaintiff has the full support of the state and its financial resources.

"The property owner must stand his own expenses and is subject to loss of rental income from his property and a possible loss of a sale during the course of his proving himself innocent of any discriminatory practice.

"Property owners now carrying a heavy tax burden, are faced with the fear of further government control under such legislation. The constitutional amendment would protect the property owners against such encroachment.

"The further issue," Leitch emphasized, "is equality — should the individual citizen of California have the right to freely decide for himself, without dictation by the state, to whom he wishes to sell or rent his own property?

* * * *

"WE ARE TALKING about everyone — not a minority or a majority — but everyone equally.

"The California Real Estate Association believes the individual should not be declared guilty upon a mere complaint, and that the right of free choice is too precious to give up without the people's consent. We have supported the opportunity for all the public to vote for their freedom.

"The Initiative Constitutional Amendment we are supporting says the state must remain neutral. It says the state must not use state funds unfairly to force anyone against his will to choose a particular buyer or renter of his property. We intend to do all we can to inform the people about this issue so that they can decide it for themselves at the polls."

The association president pointed out that membership in CREA through the local boards is open to members of all races.

* * * *

LEITCH ASSERTED that economic freedom is fundamental to the American way of life, and that business is greatly concerned over trends toward governmental controls. He said his travels over the nation had convinced him that business leaders in other states are closely watching the initiative fight in California.

President H. H. Stratford of the Compton-Lynwood board presided at the breakfast meeting. More than 200 attended.

* * * *

LEITCH was accompanied by H. Jackson Pontius, state secretary of the CREA.

Special guests included Mayors Joseph McMillan of Lynwood, Chester Crain of Compton and Thomas Morton of Downey.

Also present were Albert C. Sykes, vice president, 22nd District, and Burt Smith, CREA Executive Committee member.

Business Tabloids

A regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on Trust and Savings Association capital stock was declared last week by the bank's board of directors meeting in San Francisco. The dividend, which is at the annual rate of $2 per share, is payable Aug. 31 to shareholders of record July 31.

ASTRODATA, Inc., of Anaheim, manufacturer of electronic data control systems, has announced the award of two contracts, totalling $786,000 from the U. S. Air Force at Edwards A. F. B., California. Astrodata President Wallace E. Rianda said these contracts help swell June bookings for the Anaheim firm to a record $3.5 million. Sales for the fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1964, would be over $14 million according to Rianda, up from $8.7 million a year ago.

PURCHASE of a downtown Los Angeles building site, by Far West Financial Corp. has been announced by Robert H. Greene, president. Nearly $4 million was paid by Far West for the 20,000 square foot parking area located at the southeast corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Hope Street, and for the adjoining Parsons Building, formerly known as the Union Oil Building. Construction of a high-rise office building, to be the new home of State Mutual Savings and Loan Association, will begin late this year. State Mutual is the principal subsidiary of Far West.

WILLIAM D. LESLIE of 7234 Killdee St., Long Beach, has joined Mechanical Specialties Co., Los Angeles, as an estimator. He formerly was manager of estimating and planning at Acme Machine Works, Inc.

WM. LESLIE GEORGE BEIN

GEORGE E. BEIN has been named to head a new West Coast office for General Kinetics, Inc., at 2633 Palos Verdes Drive, West, Palos Verdes Estates. He is in charge of an 11-state area for the Arlington, Va., research, development and manufacturing firm.

Campus Dormitories Readied at Fullerton

facilitate ease of access and convenience.

THE INITIAL building to be completed in the College Park development, the new residence hall was designed specifically for Cal State by architect Walter Beeson. The four-story structure is divided into four wings, two each for men and women. Each living unit will accommodate four students in spacious comfort.

Every room includes a private bath and each student is furnished, in addition to his or her own sleeping alcove and individual study area, a personal wardrobe, chest of drawers and book storage.

The rooms are fully carpeted and draped and feature tiled floors in study areas. The open space plan provides the means to facilitate group discussions and informal socializing.

* * * *

ALL ROOMS have sliding glass doors leading to an open-air patio or balcony terrace. There are two washer-dryer rooms, one each for men and women. Laundry facilities, ironing boards, and other sustaining necessities also are available.

In the main-floor lobby and lounge, a sunken natural stone fireplace is capable of handling six-foot logs. This lounge is also spacious enough to accommodate small informal dances and other social functions.

A class-A building, Othrys Hall is air-conditioned, and its all-concrete construction provides maximum soundproofing. One centrally located air conditioning and heating system will control temperatures in the dormitory and all other buildings in the College Park development.

* * * *

THE "IN-RESIDENCE" program operates on a combined room-and-board plan at a cost of $500 per semester, plus a $25 refundable breakage deposit. The fee includes the room and 17 meals per week.

Pending completion of a dining room to be built in conjunction with an adjacent dormitory next year — this will double student capacity to 600 during the 1965-66 academic year — residents will take meals at the campus cafeteria.

14% Gain Shown in Median Price of Homes

Median price of homes sold in May was 14 per cent higher than a year earlier, the Census Bureau has disclosed.

The median price was $19,700. This means that approximately half were sold at lower prices and half at higher prices.

This was 4 per cent above the April figure of $19,000.

Sales of one-family homes in May totaled 52,000, some 6 per cent above April but 12 per cent below May 1963.

Despite a long term trend away from one-family homes and toward apartments, there were 238,000 one-family homes sold in the first five months of 1964. This was 7,000 more than during the corresponding period last year.

Title Group Will Meet in Sept.

More than 700 titlemen and women representing abstract firms and title insurance companies from each of the fifty states will meet in Philadelphia Sept. 20-23 at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel.

The 58th Annual Convention of the American Land Title Association opens Sunday evening, September 20, with a reception sponsored by the Pennsylvania Land Title Association. business sessions will continue through Sept. 23.

The Glen Miller Band, conducted by Ray McKinley, has been engaged to supply dancing music following the annual banquet Wednesday evening.

Edison Dividend

The Board of Directors of Southern California Edison Co. has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 26¼ cents per share on the common stock, payable July 31 to stockholders of record July 5.

WARNINGS RENEWED

'Sight-Unseen' Purchase of Property Seen Unwise

Recurrent reports of land fraud by mail have once again made it necessary to repeat earlier warnings against purchasing of property sight unseen, John Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, said last week.

Land fraud suits involving huge sums of money have resulted in indictments and convictions recently, particularly in the Western states, said Webster.

"Eleven men were indicted on mail fraud charges in connection with a Nevada-Utah land development which attracted payments of $1 million from 3,000 persons," he said.

* * * *

"THREE men were ordered to pay fines totaling $50,400 in a for-sale-by-mail land promotion scandal in Oregon. There have been similar cases in other parts of the country."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which the Long Beach Board is a member, periodically issues news releases warning the unwary of get-rich-quick investment schemes or unusually cheap retirement sites advertised through the mails.

The association stresses, however, that some legitimate land developers advertise extensively and seek leads by mail—so this system is not the object of warning, but the property.

"One of the reasons why questionable promoters are so successful is that they operate on the fringe of a respectable business and copy the methods of legitimate real estate practitioners," Webster explained. "The important difference is that the sharpies are selling practically worthless land.

* * * *

HOW THEN can the prospective buyer be sure he is buying good land? Webster listed several courses of action:

1. Personally inspect, before purchase, any property offered for sale.
2. Employ independent real estate counsel to analyze investment or use values before entering into purchase or lease agreements.
3. Contact the real estate commission of the state where the land is located.

Motor Industry Giving Depth to Mexico Economy

Conversion of Mexico "to an automobile-based economy like that of its neighbors, the United States and Canada, will provide new drive and depth to Mexican economic growth—already the fastest-moving in the Western Hemisphere."

So says Juan Sanchez Navarro, one of Mexico's top industrial leaders and recently retired president of its largest business association, Confederacion Cameras Industriales.

Now on the eve of full-scale automobile and truck production, Mexico within a decade will produce more than a half million vehicles annually, according to Sanchez.

* * * *

THE IMPACT of the new dustry will be unprecedented in Mexican experience:

—Investment in new plants and equipment—much of it inducted from abroad—will reach $200 million;
—automobile and truck production will generate 15,000 new jobs;
—foreign exchange savings, made possible by ending Mexico's dependence on automotive imports, will reach $80 million.

Equal benefits in investment, jobs and foreign exchange savings are expected from the development of parts manufacturers and other auxiliary industries.

The infusion of $400 million into the Mexican economy by the investment of automobile and auxiliary manufacturers will equal almost 30 per cent of Mexico's 1963 GNP.

* * * *

PRODUCTION in excess of 500,000 cars and trucks, as predicted by Sanchez, might not seem too extraordinary compared to U. S. production. However, the Mexican industrialist pointed out, the figure is only 18 per cent less than Canada's 1963 output, more than double that of Australia and nearly triple that of Brazil.

Mexican vehicular output should, in fact, Sanchez forecasts, reach a level of about 320,000 units by 1970, approximately 65 per cent greater than the nation's projected production for 1965. Mexico's first full year of all-out production.

The Mexican government first announced its plan for developing the industry in August, 1962.

* * * *

THE GOVERNMENT'S plan for pushing automotive production entailed winnowing the very large firms then importing and/or assembling cars down to eight willing and able to go into near complete manufacturing. Those finally selected were to be able to make a major investment in Mexico, as well as generally provide competitive "balance" to the new Mexican industry.

After months of deliberation, the firms finally chosen included:

—General Motors de Mexico, to produce Opels and Chevrolets.
—Ford de Mexico, to produce the Ford 200 and Galaxies.
—Fabricas Auto - Mex (in which Chrysler has a strong interest), to produce Valiants and Plymouths.
—Diesel Nacional—"Dina" (a corporation controlled by the Mexican government) to produce the Renault.
—Vehiculos Automotores Mexicanos (created from the long-established Willys Mexicana, plus partipations from Kaiser Jeep and American Motors and local Mexican interests) to produce the Rambler.
—Promexa (recently acquired by Volkswagen), to produce Volkswagens.

* * * *

THE TWO REMAINING members of "the" eight still are somewhat questionable starters.

Impulsora Automotriz Mexicana, is a Mexican corporation which last year bought out the bankrupt German manufacturer, Borgward, and reassembled part of its plant in Monterey. The "new" Borgward is, therefore, to be 100 per cent Mexican-made. The controlling group also intends to produce parts for the hundreds of thousands of Borgwards still in operation in Europe.

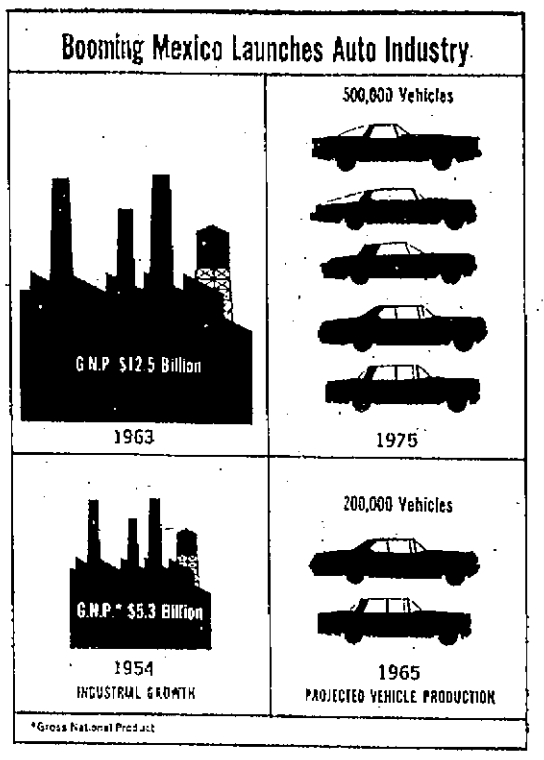

Unfortunately, technical "bugs" have hampered the new operation and attainment of the firm's initial "quota" from the Mexican government —8,500 Borgwards — still seems over the horizon.

The eighth firm chosen, Planta REO de Mexico, was designed to produce the Toyota. It is not clear the Japanese producer of the Toyota will agree to go along, however.

* * * *

GENERAL MOTORS investment in plant for its new Mexican manufacturing operation is slated to exceed $32 million. Ford de Mexico will spend $35 million; Fabricas Auto-Mex (Chrysler), $22.4 million; Diesel Nacional "Dina"—$38 million and Vehiculos Automotores Mexicano, $7 million. The Volkswagen investment in Promexa has not become public.

The dimension of these investments indicate that the Mexican and international automotive industry foresee development of an important market in Mexico. Initial output, however, will be modest, not in scale with the major investments being made.

$30 Million

DENVER (UPI)—High school and college graduates may spend as much as $25 to $30 million on graduation pictures this year, reports a leading manufacturer and distributor of photographic products.

Pylon Gets $172,000 Job

COMPTON — Pylon, Inc., of Compton was awarded a $172,000 contract last week for preliminary work on the Kern County reach of the California aqueduct.

The contract covers the furnishing and installing of two 900-horsepower turbine pumps and two 75-horsepower booster pumps on water wells at Tecuya Creek and Grapevine Creek.

Water from the wells will be use to form ponds to preconsolidate the earth in the area, which is subject to subsidence.

The Department of Water Resources said the bid of Pylon, Inc., was about 7% under the state engineers' estimate of $185,001 for the job.

Reroofing

NEW YORK (UPI)—If your house needs reroofing this year, ask your contractor about the possibility of applying new asphalt shingles directly over the old, suggest roofing specialists at Allied Chemical's Barret Division. This technique, they said, may cost less and provide greater insulation and protection.

KEYNOTER NAMED

Employment Agencies Will Hold State Convention in Long Beach

Plans for the September convention in Long Beach of the California Employment Agencies Association moved ahead last week with naming of the keynote speaker.

He will be Milford Alway, employee relations consultant of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, a veteran in the field of personnel and industrial relations. He is personnel manager for the Grayson Controls Division of Robertshaw Fulton Co.

The state convention, to be headquartered at the Edgewater Inn Hotel, is expected to be the largest in the association's history, according to Mrs. Claire Carmody.

The sessions will run four days. Priority will ge given to analysis of proposed business and professional legislation.

* * * *

SEPARATE SEMINARS will be held for counselors and managers and a special examination will be given by the California Institute of Employment Consulants.

Chairman of the convention will be George Amey, president of the host South Coast Chapter; Joseph Filing will supervise the program; Edith Gaylord, registrations; Laura Glascock, awards and daily news bulletins; and James Hackfield, entertainment. Hospitality and hotel arrangements are being handled by Mrs. Carmody.

Kenneth Buck, executive secretary of the association headquartered in San Francisco, has been aiding South Coast Chapter in planning for the convention.

Rapid Transit 'Clicks' on Abandoned Tracks

This is the Saga of the Skokie Swift — called "the world's fastest transit ride."

Skokie Swift is a rapid transit feeder line which carries Chicago commuters nonstop from suburban Skokie to Howard Street Station and trains bound for the Loop.

"Swifty" is in business with an assist from Chicago Transit Authority, Skokie Village and federal government officials who allocated more than $500,000 for the experimental service on a two-year basis.

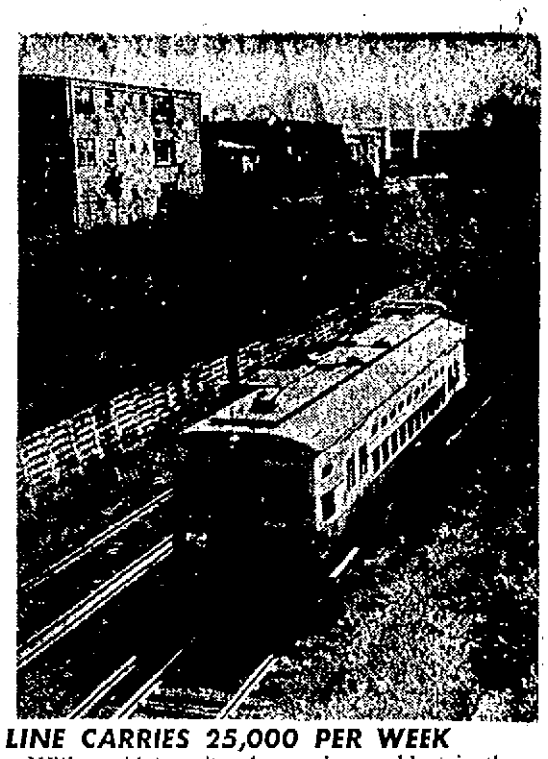

* * * *

THEIR ACTION followed last year's folding of North Shore Line commuter service between Chicago and Skokie. Chicago Transit Authority trains are now using the North Shore's rails and with whopping success.

On Swifty's first day some four thousand suburbanites swarmed aboard its cars. An average of about 25,000 people per week, — triple the number of passengers carried by the old North Shore Line — are now riding the "carefree commuter" train.

Skokie Swift operators boast speeds of more than 70 m.p.h. over the five-mile route.

This speedy service is used by many enthusiastic driver-riders who "park-n-ride" from Dempster Street in Skokie. A 375-car pay parking lot there filled to capacity when Swifty first started, so Skokie officials established more parking space.

LINE CARRIES 25,000 PER WEEK

With rapid transit a harrowing problem in the Southland, the "Skokie Swift," which averages 25,000 Chicago commuters weekly, offers one solution. Cars speed to and from suburban Skokie to the Chicago Howard Street station at 70 miles an hour.

Land Demand for Urban Expansion Still Strong

Demand for lands for urban expansion is more than keeping pace despite the fact that the growing network of highways around major cities keeps adding to the supply of accessible sites, John T. Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, said Saturday.

Webster based his remarks on a recent report by Jack Justice, Miami Beach, Fla., vice president, National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Commenting on data furnished by 130 Realtors on which NAREB's Department of Research spring survey is based, Justice said unrealistic zoning combined with a high rate of growth is cause for concern, composing the scarcity of sites that are both suitable for urban development and economically feasible.

* * * *

"AT THE SAME TIME, demand for land in rural areas is reported to be strong," Justice said.

"Farm operators are enlarging their holdings, city dwellers are seeking summer home sites, and investors are looking for property in anticipation of long term equity growth. Often more than one motive influences the purchase."

Most reporting Realtors are of the opinion that the present level of demand will continue, the report indicates. Some feel that it will increase. Conservatism is noted however. Buyers are said to be preceeding with caution, particularly regarding price.

A prestige development of World Wide Construction Co

$4 Million Townhouse Project for Rossmoor

When the original walled community of Rossmoor was developed several years ago, the basic concept was to provide outstanding single family homes within a virtually self-sufficient community replete with schools and a major shopping center.

Little did the developers realize that within this walled community, there would be built one day an outstanding sub-community of fascinating townhouses.

Rossmoor Townhouses, the new $4 million project within the same city block which contains the Rossmoor business center, is the forerunner of the kind of popular home environment which experts predict will emerge in Southern California cities during the next decades.

* * * *

THE TOWNHOUSE development which has just opened, is the brainchild of Lakewood builder Bernie Solomon and William M. Ballon, a former Pittsburgh real estate developer. Their Jaymarc Corp. has created a grouping of townhouses where residents will be able to walk to a department store, bank, theater and similar conveniences.

Suburban dwellers are becoming disillusioned with the maintenance required on the one-home lot. They want a home with little outside upkeep, lots of recreation at hand, and a moderate price structure.

* * * *

"WHEN Ross Cortese, who was preoccupied with senior citizens development in nearby Seal Beach and elsewhere, agreed to sell us the land next to his shopping center in the original walled city of Rossmoor, we knew this had to be an outstanding location for our first Townhouse project," said the developers.

Rossmoor Townhouses have one of the largest swimming pools in Southern California, in addition to a special therapeutic pool and a separate children's pool. It has shuffleboard courts, an 18-hole putting green, barbecue pit and special private clubhouse. These are all maintained without extra charge to the owners of the townhouses beyond their regular monthly payments.

As Solomon remarked, "Our townhouses combine the financial advantages of home ownership with modern day leisure living."

* * * *

ARCHITECTURALLY, the townhouses are unique in their exterior elevations, appearing to the passerby to be single large mansion-type homes. Actually, there are four separate homes within each building.

Rossmoor Townhouses units contain two, three and four bedrooms, ranging in price from $19,950. Each has a private patio, two-car garage, and complete built-ins by General Electric in an all-electric Medallion kitchen.

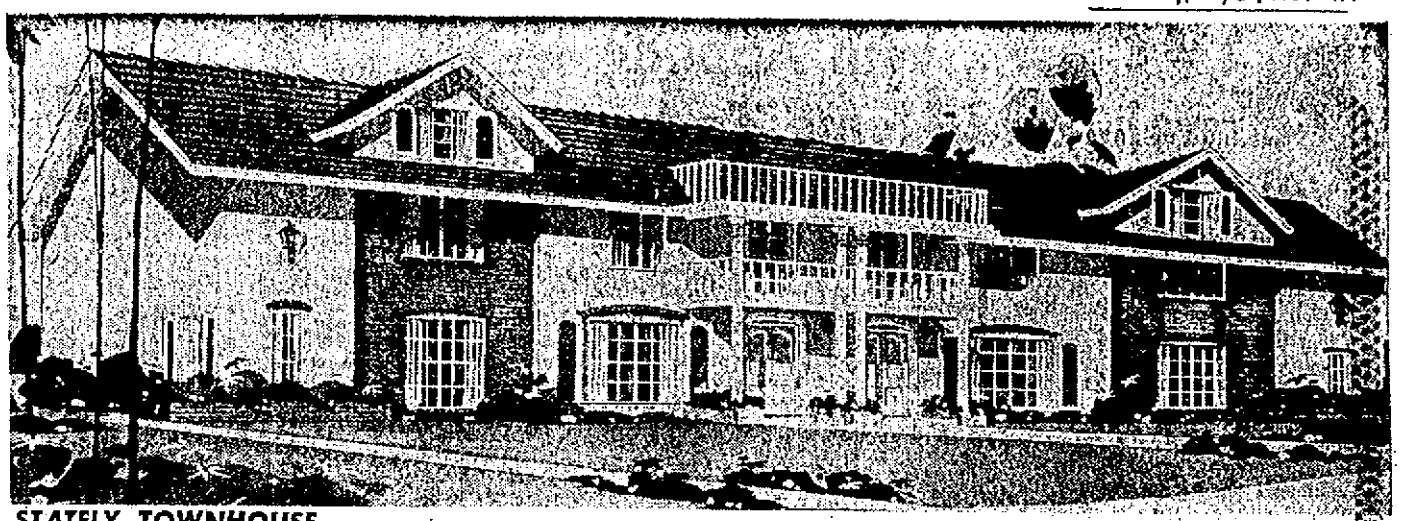

Each family's home has its own sound-deadening double walls, separated by layers of rock wool and acoustical board.

The townhouses at Rossmoor have provided for adult residential areas where children will not be permitted. This, to insure peace and quiet for those couples who prefer it. The children's play areas are set off from the main center of things, and are easily accessible without the necessity of the children crossing any streets.

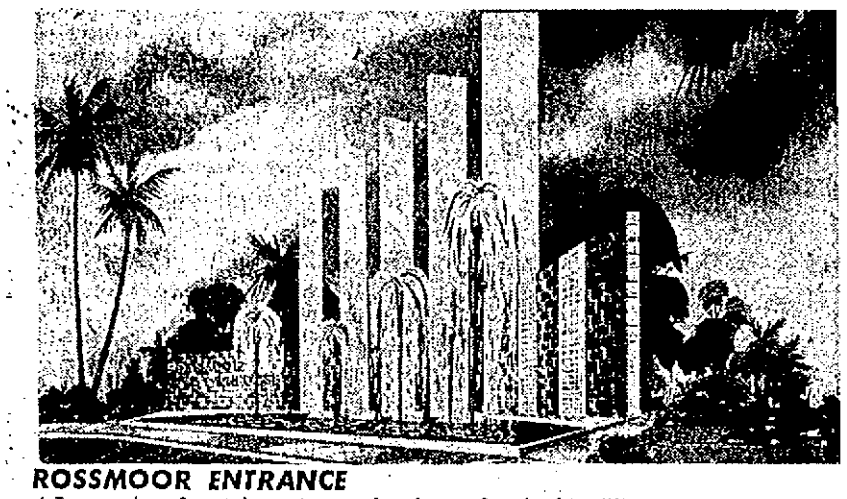

* * * *

WITH THE DEBUT of these luxury Townhouses, the walled city of Rossmoor, on Los Alamitos, north of Garden Grove Boulevard, now approaches the final stages in its maturing progress. There is little doubt that the complete walled community will stand out for many years to come as an example for the builders of the nation in the planning, development, construction and operation of a full-scale cohesive community.

From Long Beach, take Seventh St. to Los Alamitos Blvd., then left to the Rossmoor Center.

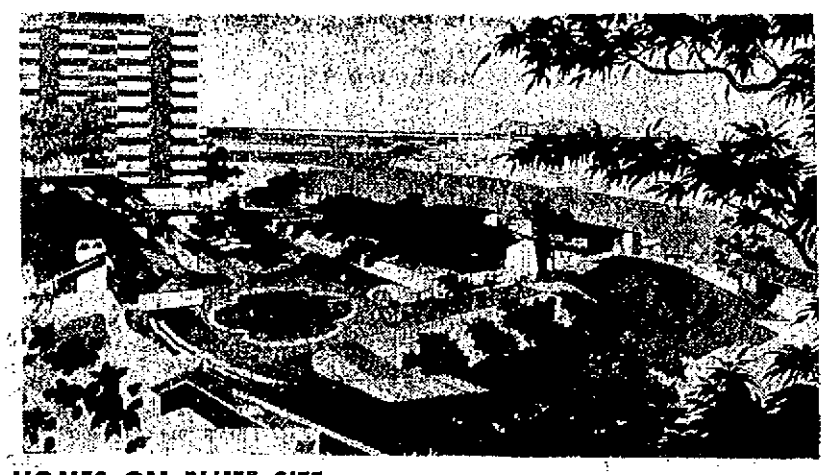

STATELY TOWNHOUSE
Although the above residence may appear to be a single-family mansion, it actually contains four separate townhouse homes in the new development in the city of Rossmoor. Note hidden entries to the four separate townhouses.

ROSSMOOR ENTRANCE
Impressive fountain entrance is shown for the $4 million Rossmoor Townhouse residential community adjacent to the Rossmoor business center in the original walled community.

Unusual Beach Community of Homes to Be Unveiled Today

HOMES ON BLUFF SITE
Tile roofs, curved streets and wide green areas give charm to the rolling Bluffs community overlooking Upper Newport Bay in Newport Beach. Just off Jamboree Road, north of the Coast Highway, the two and three-bedroom homes start at $22,500 and are offered for the first time by pioneer developers, George M. Holstein and Sons.

An unusual beach area community will be unveiled today when George M. Holstein and Sons hold the grand opening of their Bluffs development above Upper Newport Bay in Newport Beach.

Five furnished models will showcase the initial unit of homes on a 300-acre portion of the Irvine Ranch's Eastbluff area.

Priced from $22,500, the Bluff homes will offer a unique, full maintenance community concept. The Spanish tile and wood roofs offering variety along with winding streets and green park areas that have been graded to give owners of the one and two-story homes maximum view out to the sea, the pioneer building firm explained.

The Spanish-style homes present buyers a wide selection of two and three-bedroom, one-story, split-level and two-story homes.

* * * *

BELIEVED TO BE the first development of its kind anywhere in the United States, homes on the Bluff give the buyer the privacy of interior patios, the spaciousness of private parks and green areas, and offer the owner complete exterior maintenance, George and William Holstein of the building firm stressed.

Pools and parks will be completely maintained with a full-time management service also available to the Bluff owner who wishes maid, linen or other resort-like facilities.

* * * *

ONLY 200 of the Spanish styled home will be put on sale at the initial unit opening today following the over six months earth moving operation at the above-the-bay site that saw one and one-half million yards of earth moved at a cost of over $1 million.

To reach the Bluffs, take the Coast Hwy. to Newport Beach and turn at Jamboree Road. Sta yon Jamboree Road to Ford Road and go left (west) into Eastbluff and follow the new road to the Bluffs models.

GM Closing Plants for Model Changes

General Motors' three automotive assembly plants in the Los Angeles area have started to close down their assembly lines at the end of the 1964 model run.

During the run, which began last August, the production lines turned out 316,336 automobiles at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly plant in South Gate and the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in Van Nuys.

The company estimated the economic contribution to the area at more than $150,000,000—in payrolls to some 8,000 plant employes and expenditures to more than 1,000 local supplier firms.

GENERAL MOTORS said local 1964 model production was characterized by full employment and steady schedules, bringing the average Los Angeles GM assembly line worker an annual income of more than $7,500, exluding more than $1,000 fringe benefits.

Some 5,900 production employes will be furloughed for varying periods during the model change-over, the company announced, with some employes leaving this week. Production workers will be recalled on a gradual basis starting the second week in August and all will be back at work at all three local plants by Sept. 1.

More than 2,000 employes will remain on the job throughout the change-over period to prepare for the 1965 model run starting in mid-August.

Public tours have been suspended at all three plants until October 1.

85,000 Swim Pools Seen This Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 85,000 swimming pools will be installed this year, according to trade sources. An estimated 69,100 pools were installed last year, of which 51,300 were for residential use.

Bozo, TV Clown, Will Appear at Fountainhead Home Today

Bozo, the entertaining Channel 5 clown will appear today at the Fountainhead development of homes in Fountain Valley. Bozo invites all his friends, young and old to join him there for a gala celebration that will include prizes, balloons, refreshments and a magic demonstration. "Bring the children out for an afternoon of fun with Bozo at Fountainhead Homes" invites Mesa Realty, exclusive sales agents for the Fountain Valley homesite.

Mesa announced many extras are now being offered at these popular homes.

Included at no extra cost are a GE dishwasher, GE clothes washer and dryer and GE console TV set.

* * * *

ALL OF THESE luxury extras are available free with a 10 per cent down payment on the homes. Models 503 and 504 are offered with these extras. In addition, front landscaping, front sprinklers, wall-to-wall nylon carpeting, custom draperies and complete read yard fencing is offered with just a $545 total move-in cost.

BOZO
To Entertain Youngsters

According to Mesa Realty, this has to stand as one of the unique and most complete new home buys in Southern California. Fountainhead offers three and four bedrooms, two plans with hearth fireplaces, and all of the custom-like extras you'd expect to find in homes costing thousands more, Mesa realty adds.

* * * *

FULL PRICE is just from $20,950 with $545 total move in and no balloon payments.

This 10 per cent down payment bonus plan may be applied to a purchase plan that allows no payments by the purchaser until January, 1965.

Mesa Realty invites all interested home buyers to visit Fountainhead and to compare all of the extras offered with any other area home.

To see the homes, take the Santa Ana Freeway to the Brookhurst turnoff. Turn right and continue south to Warner Street in Fountain Valley. Turn right (west) on Warner one mile to Fountainhead.

Meter Reader Passe

In Owosso, Mich., meter readers have been replaced by telephones which automatically "read" a meter. A telephone signal from the utility's receiver-center is sent to a small box of circuitry installed next to the homeowner's regular electric meter. A special data receiver at the utility records the coded reading.

May Ban Eastern Mushroom

State director of agriculture, Charles Paul has called a public hearing to consider a request by mushroom growers for a quarantine against eastern mushrooms.

The growers claim fresh mushrooms from the eastern United States may bring a virus disease called La France disease to California.

Paul said the hearing will be held Thursday in Sacramento.

The disease attacks the root system of mushrooms, but is harmless to humans.

Department of Agriculture plant pathologists say the virus may be spread by spores from affected mushrooms.

Paul said there is no evidence of the disease now in California, but it has been reported in eastern mushroom growing areas, particularly in Pennsylvania.

Four Dutch Haven Communities In Orange County Now Selling

IN SUNNY HILLS WEST

Pictured is an interior view in a Sunny Hills West home, one of four communities now offered by Dutch Haven in Orange County. The communities provide environment in hilltop or seaside living.

Custom architecture which enhances the appearance and quality of the home is among many features attracting homebuyers to Dutch Haven's four newest communities in Orange County.

The communities offer a variety of environment in their natural settings from hill-top to sea-side living. The Dutch Haven Marina Series, Newport-West, Sunny Hills West, and the Dutch Haven College Series are recording record sales through professional planning which has gained our company one of the finest reputations in the nation, Tom Rochelle, sales manager said. Rochelle attributed Dutch Haven's ability to produce superior value at lower cost, to the volume purchasing and advanced construction methods which are very necessary to maintain such a vast building complex.

Most recently opened community is the Dutch Haven Marina Series, on Edwards Ave. in smog-free Huntington Beach.

Homes at Dutch Haven Marina Series are three to four bedrooms and up to two baths in size. Prices start at $18,950, with VA, Cal-Vet and FHA financing available. Move-in cost to vets is $95.

* * * *

AMONG FEATURES are built-in Medallion kitchens with dishwasher, range, disposal, oven and range hood, family room, decorator fireplace with log lighter, wood shake roof with large overhangs, master bedroom suite and forced-air heating.

Newport-West, near the intersection of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Brookhurst, offers moderately priced homes right at the beach and offering full title to land.

Priced from $19,750, homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and three baths. VA no down, FHA and Cal-Vet financing are available.

Distinctive features of these houses are complete Medallion kitchens with built-in dishwasher, range, oven, range hood and disposal, full-sized beach lots, decorator designed fireplaces with log lighters, overhead boat doors on garages, wood shake and shingle roofs, outside "swim showers" and forced air heating.

* * * *

THE COLLEGE SERIES, on Edinger Ave. in Huntington Beach, is just a few minutes from the proposed Golden West Junior College.

Single level and 2-story plans are available, with prices starting at $20,950. Homes are three to four bedrooms in size with family room and up to three baths. VA no down, FHA and Cal-Vet financing are offered.

Sunny Hills West, in the picturesque hills overlooking the Fullerton Valley, is one of a very limited number of executive communities where veterans may select a home on VA no down terms. FHA and long-term conventional financing are also available.

Priced from $29,950, homes are three to 5 bedrooms with family room, dining room and up to three full baths. Floor plans include split level, two-story and single evel designs.

Incuded among the custom-type features are massive two-way fireplaces complete Medallion kitchens, oversized view lots, sunken living rooms and up to 2,400 sq. ft. of living area.

Tip on Welding Wins $6,000 for L.B. Man

TAKES TOP AWARD

Fanning out $6,000 worth of U. S. Savings Bonds is Luther M. Oliver, 53, Long Beach, who figured out how to improve a welding transformer unit and became the first West Coast employe to win the top award in the GM suggestion program. Congratulating him is E. D. Hamilton, manager of the GM plant, South Gate.

A Long Beach technician at the General Motors assembly plant in South Gate who figured out an easier way to do his job is $6,000 richer today because of it.

Luther M. Oliver, 53, of 3040 East Sixty-ninth, worked out a method for eliminating duplicate spot welding equipment on the assembly line—and became the first West Coast employe to win the top $6,000 award in the GM suggestion program.

Oliver, who has since been promoted to electrician foreman, submitted a suggestion on how to re-wire electrical control circuits so that a single transformer unit could be used for different types of welding guns, thus eliminating equipment, saving space, and making the job easier for spot welding operators.

* * * *

THE AWARD — $6,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds—was presented by Plant Manager E. D. Hamilton, who said Oliver's suggestion "demonstrates that the individual employe is in an excellent position to make constructive suggestions for the improvement of our products, our methods, and job environment."

Oliver is the first employe in GM's nationwide Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly division to win a top award since the upper limit was raised to $6,000 last November, as well as being the first employe in any of GM's West Coast plants to hit the jackpot.

GM suggestion awards, presented for employe ideas on how to make their jobs safer and easier and at the same time improve the product and plant operations, totalled more than $7,000,000 last year, for 168,000 adopted suggestions.

In the Los Angeles area in 1963, General Motors plants adopted 2,681 employe suggestions and paid out $75,078 in local awards.

WINS 34,000 MILES OF TRAVEL

Colony Cove Has Outstanding View

Sparkling lights of ships and boats at sea is the scene at night from the living room windows of homes at Colony Cove, a bluff-top community one mile north of San Clemente, says Dick Winchester, director of marketing.

Built by the Douglass Construction Co., Colony Cove recently opened its third unit of homes with two bedrooms and convertible den, selling from $22,500 on conventional financing.

"This is ocean-view living at its best," Winchester said. "Few homes will match the scenic values of these at Colony Cove, and with the increase of hot weather, we have many buyers who are making purchases of Colony Cove homes for weekend and vacation living. The water in the swimming pool really is warmer than the temperature these days."

Holiday Village Town House Development Has Appeal

Holiday Village, Kaufman and Broad Homes' third town house development in Huntington Beach, is proving popular with the homebuying public, according to Jack Scougall, sales director. Sales are running at a record pace.

The project is at the corner of Brookhurst St. and Adams Ave., reached by the Santa Ana Freeway.

On completion, the development will contain 262 one, two, three and four-bedroom town houses, some with fireplaces. Prices will start at $10,950 with monthly payments of $85 which include principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

Underground utilities, landscaping, fenced-in patios, carpeting, and built-in ranges, ovens, refrigerators, washers, dryers and disposals are among the attractions.

* * * *

"THE MAIN THING which distinguishes a town house from an ordinary house," notes Scougall, "is that it shares common walls with the two houses on either side.

"That allows for better land utilization to make room for community park and recreation areas, and reduces exterior maintenance.

"Residents will enjoy the advantages of community living, and still retain all the advantages of individual home ownership, such as building an equity and being able to deduct the property tax and interest portions of their monthly payments from their income tax."

Facilities include a swimming pool, shuffleboard courts and a community clubhouse.

Anaheim Office Building Started

Construction has started on a $400,000 office building at 1717 South Brookhurst St., Anaheim, according to John Prins, vice president in charge of commercial developments for Robert H. Grant & Co., builder-developers.

Designed by James H. Hodges & Associates, the two-story, 20,000 square foot, reinforced concrete structure will be fully-carpeted, draped and air-conditioned. It will also provide an employes luncheon area.

Completion is scheduled for early fall 1964.

* * * *

PRINCIPAL TENANT will bt The Colwell Co., one of the top three mortgage bankers in the country, who will occupy 7,500 square feet in the building.

"The facility will serve as our Southern California branch office covering Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties," said John Morgan, manager and vice president of The Colwell Co. in Anaheim. "Our operations will consist primarily of originating FHA, VA and conventional single-family residential loans."

During the past fiscal year the Anaheim offices of The Colwell Co. originated some $40 million in loans.

Lease negotiations for the new office buildings are being handled by Prins.

Belmont Savings in Big Gain

William J. Crawford, president of Belmont Savings and Loan Association, announced that the association's first half, 1964, net profit after taxes, according to unaudited accrual basis computations, amounted to $834,810, or $1.26 per share on 661,668 shares outstanding at June 30. Using the increased number of shares outstanding, this represents a 42% gain over $0.89 per share for the first half of 1963.

Dollar volume of loan originations for the first six months of 1964 totaled $27,598,336, compared with $20,271,055 for the like period in 1963, an increase of 36%. Book value per share increased from $5.46 at June 30, 1963 to $7.78 at June 30, 1964—an increase of 42%.

During the first six months, assets increased from $74,600,741 to $84,638,408 — an increase of 13.5% for the half year.

Fans to Keep Chairs Cooler

This summer the most comfortable chair in the house is apt to have a fan built into its seat.

Six manufacturers are including this new concept of underbody ventilation in their chairs, reports Department Store Economist. Air is circulated through a special grid. The sensation is similar to air breezing over skin at a two m.p.h. clip.

The magazine of department store merchandising and management notes that in other applications—outdoor furniture, office chairs, institutional and public transportation seating—the grid construction is motivated by bodily movement. Each shift in position acts as a bellows to circulate air through grid to seat and back of chair.

Teele, of Rams to Address GG Realty Board

It's a change of pace program for Garden Grove Realtors Tuesday, when they meet at 7:30 a.m. at the Cape Cod House, 11861 Harbor Blvd., Garden Grove. Usually the talks concern real estate, but this week the speaker will be Jack Teele, publicity director for the Los Angeles Rams.

Prior to taking this position with the famous team in 1960, Teele worked for the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram.

A native Chicagoan, the speaker attended school in Long Beach, and is a graduate of Long Beach State. He travels in advance of the Rams, handling publicity, and enjoys a good game of golf whenever he can spare the time.

His topic is "Behind The Scenes — With Personal Glimpses of The Los Angeles Rams."

Teele will be presented by Art Guttman, program chairman.

Can Company's Earnings Soar

Earnings of Continental Can Company, Inc., for the first six months of 1964 were $21,024,000 or $1.71 per common share, highest in the company's history, Thomas C. Fogarty, chairman of the board, has announced. Earnings for the comparable period last year were $16,892,000, or $1.34 per common share.

Sales for the first half of 1964 also set a record of $577,996,000, up from $552,591,000 for the similar period last year.

Company directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock payable Sept. 15, 1964, to stockholders of record Aug. 21.

The directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend on the $3.75 cumulative preferred stock of 93¾ cents a share payable Oct. 1, 1964, to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

Ethics Discussion Slated for Realtors

Long Beach Realtors will hear a panel discussion on "The Court of Ethics" at the district board's Tuesday breakfast meeting, according to Ray Hazlet, program chairman.

Speakers will be Robert Stotler and Lakewood Councilman W. W. Smith, both Realtors. Breakfast time is 7:15 a.m., at the Crown cafeteria.

Truly Distinctive Homes Offered in Laguna Real

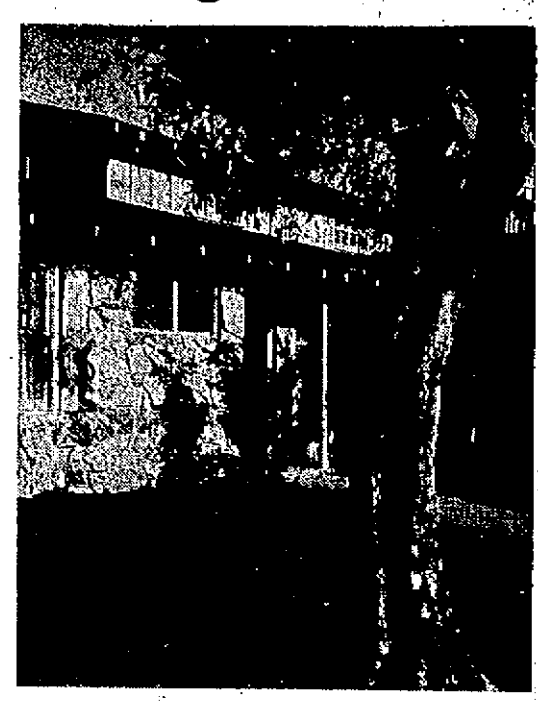

Design detail of Laguna Real's handsome dwellings, in colorful "Big Country" of the Laguna Hills, is carried further than usual, with the builder's determination to offer truly distinctive homes in a beautiful setting of 567 acres of rolling hills.

Homeseekers looking for special niceties, and who may feel even the ceilings of many houses leave something to be desired, will be pleased with the unusual, good-looking ceiling treatments of Laguna Real homes. Two-story Pamplona plans, offered in three exterior styles, have especially beautiful ceilings in the second floor's four bedrooms. With a new treatment of "coved" ceilings found in authentic Spanish architecture, these rooms achieve an increased feeling of spaciousness, and far more room interest than is possible with usual box-like ceilings.

* * * *

TO DEVELOP Laguna Real homes, Lou Laramore's World Wide Construction Co. employed architect Joseph Rickman of Costa Mesa. He designed a variety of one-story, two-story, and half two-story homes that are handsomely different inside and out. Architectural themes are drawn from rich Spanish architecture, adapted to today's standards of design.

Pamplona plans provide a first floor covered front porch, entry foyer, living room, formal dining room big enough for 12 or more, family room, breakfast room, Caloric built-in kitchen, a half-bath, covered side porch, and attached double garage.

THE MONTEVALLO MODEL

This is one of the varied models of luxury homes offered in Laguna Real. A second-floor bonus room is found in this model, the Montevallo.

The living room fireplace is of textured brick, with a carved wood moulding and mantel. On the second floor are the master bedroom suite with private bath, two hallway linen closets, three additional bedrooms and a family bathroom with double basin built-in pullman.

Rossmoor Leisure World Luxury Units Available

There still is time to purchase a luxury share-ownership manor in the 15th and final unit now under construction at Ross W. Cortese's first "people-over-52" community, Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach, William G. Brangham, national sales manager, announced.

"Purchasers are taking advantage of the luxury Laguna Hills architecture which we are using in this last Seal Beach unit," Brangham said. "It's Laguna Hills luxury at Seal Beach prices," he added. "Many manors contain second-story view accommodations, the first to be constructed at the community."

* * * *

BRANGHAM STATED that nearly $2 million in sales have taken place in the first five weeks, indicating that the new owners are desirous to avail themselves of the unparalleled Seal Beach weather and a community which is enjoying a host of recreation and educational facilities.

Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, already is a bustling community of 10,000 active happy people. It contains an excellent golf course, three luxury clubhouses, an amphitheatre, and a $710,000 medical center—all bubbling with activity from dawn to dusk, with 54 societies continuing to enjoy their clubhouses long into the night.

* * * *

THESE LAGUNA HILLS designs at Seal Beach will be offered in 8 exterior garden styles.

Cortese, creator-builder of the Rossmoor Leisure World concept of retirement living, has received the "Award of Merit" from the editors of House & Home.

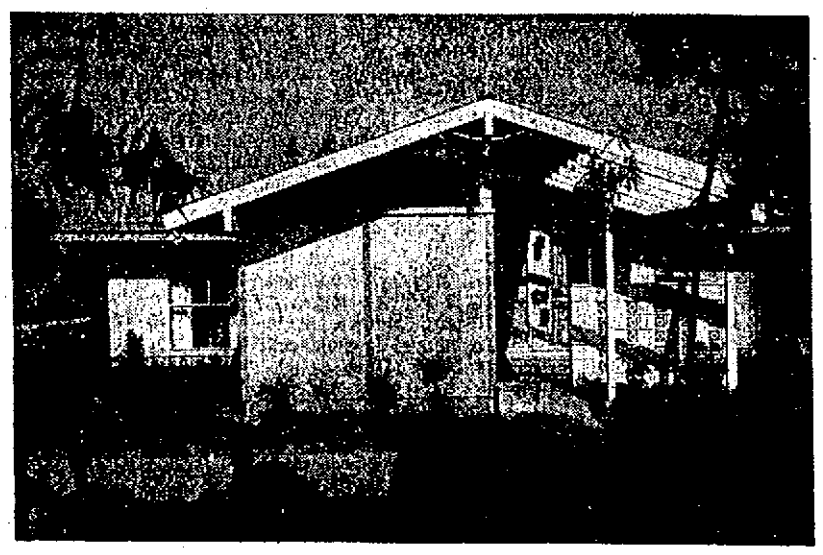

The manors for which Cortese received this award may be seen in this new unit at Seal Beach in one and two-bedroom styles, with one-bedroom units priced from $12,595 to $12,995. Two-bedroom manors are priced from $14,395 to $16,495. The average monthly payment is $145, subject to modification. All loans are insured FHA at 5¼% interest.

* * * *

THE MONTHLY payment also includes the use, free of additional charge, of the club houses, card rooms, dining facilities, the fine new golf course, the heated swimming and therapeutic pools, the intra-community transportation system to all areas, including the 12-acre shopping center; a 24-hour security guard; exterior maintenance of all manors, maintenance of streets, gardens and community buildings.

Also included in the nominal monthly payment is 80% of the retail value of medical costs, including in-home nurse calls, calls to the doctor's office at the community's Medical Center, complete diagnostic facilities, minor surgery at the Medical Center and services of all specialists, ambulance service and prescription drugs.

Down-payments for one-bedroom share - ownership manors range from $1,059 to $1,085, and two-bedroom garden manors range from $1,175 to $1,309.

NEW MODELS OFFERED

Eight exterior styles from luxury Rossmoor Leisure World at Laguna Hills are being built in the final unit now under construction at Ross W. Cortese's pilot "people-over-52" community, Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach. Here is one model.

Cerritos Circle Attractive

Excellent in design and ideal in location, Cerritos Circle Garden Apartments in Long Beach are attracting both buyers and renters.

The buyers are acquiring the duplex building for investments. The units are located at Terrylynn Place and Del Mar Ave., in the exclusive Los Cerritos area of Long Beach. Adjacent to Del Mar is Country Club Drive.

Architect C. S. Jones Jr. was awarded the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram's Merit Award of 1964 for his design of the apartments "for creating a new concept of living that fully meets today's needs."

The project, which contains 42 contemporary garden-type buildings was designed by Jones and built by Long Beach Construction co.

* * * *

ACCORDING to Jones: "A new design concept was employed at Cerritos Circle to create a sophisticated and architecturally significant pair of homes under one roof with privacy for each. By proper land planning, it was possible to put each building on an individual lot. By so positioning, community space was created with a social promenade."

Of contemporary architecture, the Cerritos Circle duplexes are highlighted by unusual architectural features which provide a variety of interior space. There is an abundant use of glass to create a free-flowing pattern of indoor-outdoor space. Ceiling-height doors, extensive use of natural (stained) redwood, combed stucco to create shadows and texture, and quarry tile floors inside and out give a sense of warmth, simplicity and repose.

* * * *

FEATURES of the units include radiant ceiling heat, carpets, drapes, dishwashers, built-in range and oven, refrigerators (in some units), eating and serving bar, walnut and birch kitchen cabinets, pullman, full-length bathroom mirror and ceramic tile. Each unit (one and two story buildings) contain 1500 sq. ft. They have two bedrooms, two and one-half baths, family room, dining room and individual patios and courts.

Cerritos Circle units may be rented for $225 and up per month. A duplex building may be purchased from $49,500 to $52,500 and can be purchased with furniture or any custom tile floors inside and out give feature.

Town House Sales Continue to Climb

Homes currently are selling at the rate of 50 per month at Scottsdale Town Houses, a development especially designed for parents and children who enjoy outdoor family recreation together, Sales Director John Bollinger announced.

Scottsdale Town Houses is Ray Watt's strategically located condominium project in the South Bay area offering families the opportunity to have more time together, to enjoy more games and other recreational activities with their children and to have a finer home than family income probably would otherwise permit.

Home owners have more time to enjoy the multiple recreation facilities at Scottsdale, because so much work is done for them. They have no lawns to mow, water, weed or fertilize and no exterior to paint. The monthly maintenance fee, assessed by the elected Board of Governors, is to maintain the recreation facilities, gardening and exterior painting.

* * * *

FACILITIES INCLUDE an Olympic-size swimming pool, wading pool, playgrounds, basketball and handball courts and a $150,000 Town Hall, offering many recreation opportunities.

Harbor View Estates is nearing a sell-out but still has eight attractive homes left. Only $1,250 down, including all costs, provides immediate occupancy for buyers.

Features include wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, O'Keefe and Merritt built-in range and oven, In-Sink-Erator or garbage disposer and fireplace with gas log lighter. All eight remaining homes include a family room, four bedrooms, two baths and extra large closets.

Prices of these attractive homes are from $24,995. Furnished models are open from 10:00 a.m. 'til dark daily.

Fountain Valley Blue Jay Homes Observe Grand Opening Today

A BLUE JAY HOME

Built by Charles W. Hester, Blue Jay Homes in Fountain Valley will observe the grand opening today. The homes, one of which is shown here, are priced from $22,900.

Grand Opening festivities are scheduled this week end for Blue Jay Homes, the new Fountain Valley subdivision of Charles W. Hester. According to Hester, Blue Jay Homes will offer dwellings of three and four bedrooms, family rooms and two and two and one-half baths.

The homes have been given the Medallion Award for electrical acceptance, states Hester, and feature all-electric kitchens by Westinghouse with range, oven, dishwasher, disposal and range hood and fan. The homes have wall-to-wall carpeting of 100% continuous filament nylon, rear side yards with redwood fence and gate. Both baths feature pullmans and there is ceramic tile in the shower.

* * * *

BLUE JAY HOMES are priced from $22,900 and can be purchased with as little as $395 down plus costs. Monthly payments are from $130 which includes principal and interest. There are no balloon payments and Hester states that buyers will find it easy to qualify to purchase a Blue Jay Home.

Furnished models are at Cardinal and Slater and can be reached from Long Beach going out Seventh St. to Brookhurst, then south to Warner and right to Cannery then left to Slater.

Hillview Regency Townhouses Offer Luau and Entertainment

The public is invited to join the residents of Hillview Regency Townhouses at a festive island luau at 3 p.m. today. Foods of the South Seas will be served and entertaining will be the Tita Marsell Troupe direct from Las Vegas with authentic fire dancers, sword dancers and native hulas.

Sales activity continues spirited at Hillview Regency, the 10-acre, in-town Santa Ana Townhouse development, reports builder Tom Coughlin.

Currently, over 50% of the luxury two- and three-bedroom homes are occupied. Increasing homebuyer interest in the Townhouse concept results from the many on-site recreational advantages this new mode of living can offer over conventional single-unit dwellings. At Hillview Regency some three acres are devoted to such "country club" facilities as a nine-hole putting course complete with sand traps, shuffleboard courts, a 60-foot swimming pool with sun deck.

* * * *

THE HILLVIEW Regency Townhouse units offer a choice of two- or three-bedroom single-level studio units. All provide two bathrooms, sunken living room fully carpeted and draped, dining area and a built-in Caloric gas kitchen.

Over-all, the homes include up to 1,300 square feet of living space under roof and up to 350 square feet of fenced, private patio. Each home also includes a General Electric air conditioner and dishwasher, forced-air heat and vinyl tile floors. Three-bedroom models feature large fireplaces.

Coughlin pointed out that the Hillview Regency buyer finances individually and receives a grant deed and policy of title insurance both to the home and to the pro-rata share of the common grounds and recreational facilities. The buyer reserves the right to sell or re-finance at anytime.

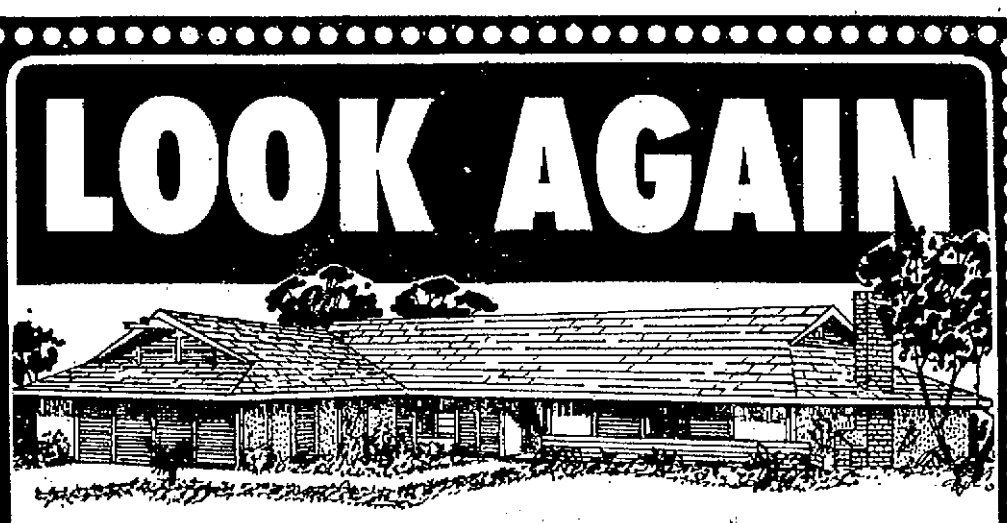

Landscaping, gardening and exterior maintenance, such as painting and repairs, are serviced for all Hillview Regency homeowners by a staff of caretakers who are retained through a monthly fee.

Hillview Regency Townhouses are located at the top of Sherry Lane, three blocks north of 17th Street between Grand Avenue and Tustin Boulevard in uptown Santa Ana.

THE 'HOUSE OF IDEAS'
House & Garden Magazine's 1964 "House of Ideas" has been erected at Laguna Niguel adjacent to the fairway of El Niguel Country Club, as shown here. The public is invited to view the home and see the innovations offered.

Laguna Niguel Invites Public to View Its 'House of Ideas'

Laguna Niguel, the huge multi-faceted development just south of Laguna, began its public operations some three years ago. The Independent, Press-Telegram was one of the earliest to recognize the merit of the ambitious development, and has kept an interested public informed of the progress shown at Laguna Niguel.

Now the local editorial support and recognition of Laguna Niguel has begun to be felt nationally, according to Bill Beck, general manager of Laguna Niguel. He observes that the power of the press at the local level is, to a large degree, responsible for the recent selection by House & Garden Magazine of Laguna Niguel as the site for their 1964 "House of Ideas."

The Laguna Niguel Corp. built the "House of Ideas," a brilliant execution of the plans of architect Fred M. Briggs, AIA, in the Vista Del Niguel section. The home, representing the latest concepts in design, decorating, and use of construction materials, has been attracting thousands of Southlanders since it opened about four weeks ago.

* * * *

"WE AT LAGUNA NIGUEL are pleased and proud, of course," says Beck, "the August issue of the magazine gives 35 pages to the Laguna Niguel story. But we must recognize that the continuing success depends upon the help and encouragement of such publications as the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Vista Del Niguel, the site of the "House of Ideas," is situated on a fairway of El Niguel Country Club golf course and is one of the three major residential areas of Laguna Niguel now under extensive development by Laguna Niguel Corp. The others are the ocean view homesites of Niguel Terrace and the posh ocean-oriented homes of exclusive Monarch Bay. Vista Del Niguel homesites are priced from $14,000, while the homes of Niguel Terrace are from $45,200. The Monarch Bay residences, adjacent to the ocean above Monarch Bay Beach, begin at $56,000. The privileged residents of Laguna Niguel may enjoy the facilities of the El Niguel Country Club, the riding stables, and the private beach.

Beck invites all who are interested to visit Laguna Niguel to view the 1964 "House of Ideas." He adds that this fabulous home will be a source of inspiration to all who are seeking to beautify their present residence, or those who plan to build or buy a new home.

Growing of Sunflowers May Become Big California Crop

SACRAMENTO—The driver was passing through the San Joaquin Delta when he saw a huge field of weed-like plants with great yellow flowers at the top.

Intrigued with the thought that these looked like sunflowers, he made an effort to discover the owner of the field, the identity of the crop and the use of the product. But it took some doing.

For as the Council of California Growers reports, it was not that sunflower growers are shy—but rather that the crop needs so little personal attention that it is not easy to find the individuals growing them.

But in this case, the grower was found and acknowledged that, yes, these indeed were sunflowers. All of which leads the Council to point out that if Alf Landon ever decides to run again, he may find it more expedient to come to California for his State flower than to seek it in Kansas. Here in the water surrounded peat land "islands" of the Delta are thousands of acres of sunflowers.

* * * *

ONE COMMERCIAL producer, Vasco Giannini, said another grower in the area has nearly 2,000 acres of the big yellow flowers. Giannini and his brother raise several hundred acres annually.

"It is a fairly easy crop to grow," Giannini said, "and it has a pretty good market."

Most of the crop is sold for processing, salting and packaging in little five or ten-cent bags to be eaten with one's favorite beverage.

But, Gainnini said, a significant portion of the crop is processed for its oil. It provides a pure vegetable oil comparable to other seed oils. Still another use, of course, is for poultry feed—although this is not as common as once it was.

* * * *

OCCASIONALLY, growers say, sunflowers also are raised as shade for young turkeys. The tall, thick growing plants provide excellent shade in the hot central valleys. When the seeds mature and fall, they also provide some feed for the birds.

While sunflowers are not important enough to the state's agricultural economy to be listed in the state's compilation of 124 major crops, they do have some future prospects.

Giannini said sunflowers can be produced with a minimum of labor.

* * * *

"IF WE DON'T HAVE enough workers for our tomatoes and asparagus next year, we'll put in more sunflowers. Most of the work can be done with machines, even to harvesting."

O. W. Fillerup, executive vice president of the Council of California Growers pointed out that sunflowers are typical of the wide diversity of California agriculture.

"There are hundreds of comparatively unknown crops, like these, that help provide a balance to California agriculture — the state's Number One Industry," Fillerup said.

Location of Fashion Shores Homes Ideal

Attractive Fashion Shores homes are located within walking distance of the Huntington Beach State Park. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $23,900. Here is one model.

Families looking for homes seek not only a location that meets their everyday requirements — schools, transportation, shopping, etc.; but also a site that meets the esthetic needs of both parents and children, Mervin B. Johnson, builder of Fashion Shores homes in Huntington Beach, declares. "This is why Fashion Shores has been so tremendously popular with the homebuying public," the builder continued. "Fashion Shores is within walking distance of the Huntington Beach State Park, and that fact alone insures three things to the buyer: (1) the weather will not be extreme in either summer or winter; (2) the beach provides a ready-made and immediate source of amusement and pleasure, and; (3) indirectly connotates that other sports and hobbies are nearby and convenient: fishing, boating, sailing, golfing, surfing, scuba diving, sunbathing, picnicing—as all of them are!"

FASHION SHORES one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $23,900, with every type of financing available for the convenience of homebuyers.

Features are side and rear yards completely fenced; nylon carpeting in all bedrooms, hall, stairway and living room; sunken living rooms and baths in some models; over 2,100 sq. ft. of floor area; Hotpoint all-electric kitchens with all built-ins; plus many more—both large and small.

The four decorated model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk with Walker & Lee sales personnel, under the direction of "Bud" Bennett, on hand to help.

From Long Beach: Drive east on Seventh St. Blvd. to Beach Blvd. (Hwy 39). Turn right to Atlanta Ave.; left on Atlanta to Cannery St. then right to the corner of Cannery and Hamilton Ave.

Thriftimart Has Net Income Gain

Roger M. Laverty, Sr., president and chairman of the board of Thriftimart, Inc., has announced that consolidated net income of the Thriftimart organization for the 13-week period ended June 27, 1964, amounted to $618,606, a 13 per cent increase over adjusted net income of $547,443 earned during the comparable period last year.

Income for the 1963 period has been adjusted to reflect the investment credit and federal income taxes on a basis consistent with that of the current year. Net sales amounted to $59,801,373, up $1,920,450 or 3.32 per cent over sales of $57,880,923 for the 1963 13-week period.

Thriftimart is operating 68 supermarkets in the Southern California-Nevada area. Although plans are being worked on for three new markets, the company's major emphasis at the present time is on modernizing older units so customers may be better served.

$10 Million Sparkle

NEW YORK (UPI)—American housewives spend more than $10 million a year to buy cleaning agents to give old ovens a new sparkle, according to Chemical Week publication.

Vegetable, Melon Crop Nearing End

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says that harvest of melons, tomatoes and other vegetables is nearly complete in Southern California. Harvest of lettuce, cabbage, celery and carrots is well underway with production generally expected to be less than the 1963 crop.

The cantaloupe harvest is nearing completion in the Blythe area and in Kern County. Shipments reached a peak in Kern County last week.

Watermelon harvest is practically complete in the Imperial Valley. Harvest of the melons has just started in Fresno County.

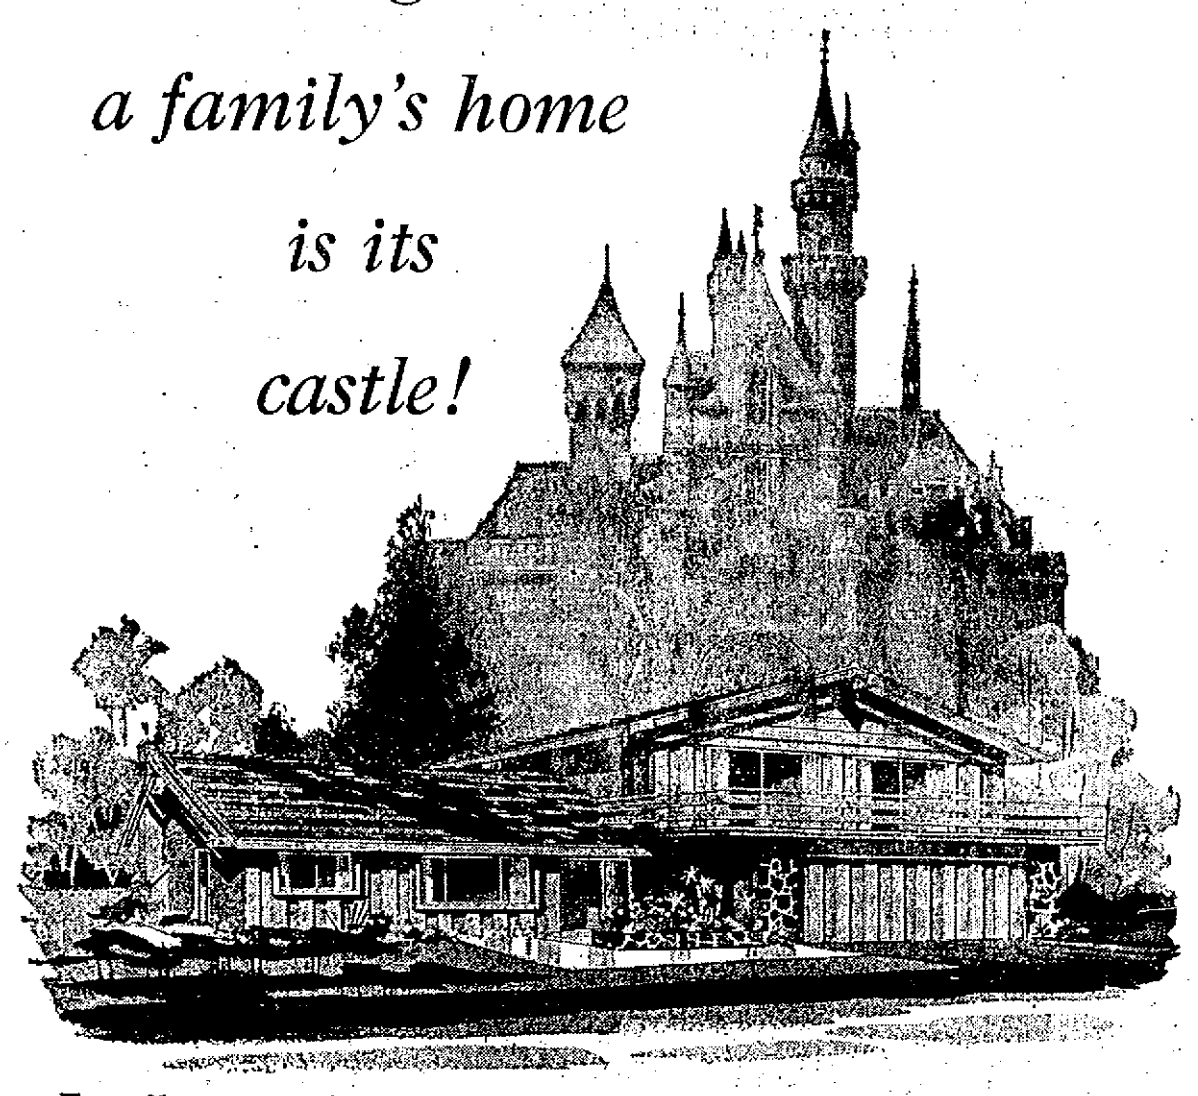

The tomato harvest is almost ended in the Imperial Valley, but early summer production is continuing in Orange and San Diego counties.

Picking of sweet corn is finished in Kern County and the harvest of carrots and celery is about half-completed.

Strawberry picking is continuing in the Central Coast district.

CARSON ESTATES is Ray Watt's newest fine home development in the South Bay area, located at the hub of three major Southern California freeways. Its almost instant access to the Harbor, San Diego and Long Beach freeways makes it possible for Carson Estates residents to work conveniently almost anywhere in the Los Angeles megalopolis.

Spinato said that a total of 122 family homes are rapidly being completed in the project. Designs include both one one two-story models, with the home buyer's choice of three or four bedrooms. All have large family rooms, concrete patios and fireplaces with gas log lighters.

Carson Estates homes have wall-to-wall carpeting and Balanced Power kitchens, including Waste King built-in range and oven, dishwasher and food waste disposer.

Furnished model homes are open from 10 a.m. 'til dark daily at 220th St. and Vera, one-half block south of Carson.

Hawthorne Firm Has Annual Meeting

Shareholders of Mattel, Inc., Hawthorne, toy manufacturers, meeting last week in Los Angeles, elected Joseph M. Kubert, vice president of Booz, Allen & Hamilton, Inc., to the company's board of directors and re-elected its six directors.

More than 300 shareholders attended the annual meeting, and voted to amend the company's by laws to provide for seven directors and to empower the board to fix the number of directors from six to nine.

Ballerina Homes in Preview Today

64 HOMES OFFERED

Here is one model of Ballerina Homes which will be seen today in a preview showing. This model has a large living room on second floor.

The preview showing of the new $2½ million development of the Ballerina Homes will be held today.

"The Ballerina's precision performance, her grace and beauty the joy and relaxtion in watching her, are all reasons she seemed to be the perfect symbol of our homes," said Ted Hudson, builder, who explained the pirouetting dancer which points the way to the new 64-home development in Huntington Beach.

These one and two-story homes are located and designed for a "Move to Perfection" for the active California family. The many needs of the family with children have been kept in mind. Within walking distance of the beach, sun decks on some models, and all homes on large lots, bringing real meaning to "California living."

* * * *

MANY MODELS feature a special "all purpose room." This spacious room with adjoining bath is separate from the main living portion of the house, which makes it ideal for a family room, a special room for entertaining, a guest room, or a teen-agers private haven.

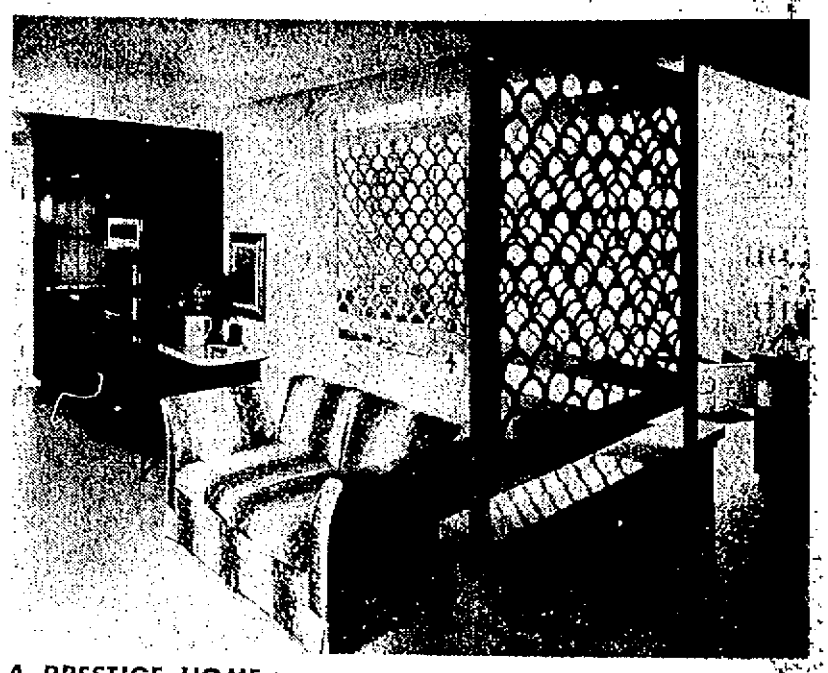

A special extra attraction in the two-story models that mothers will love is the electrically operated silent butler for conveying items up and down the stairs.

Baths gleam with chrome fixtures, ceramic tile, full-width plate glass mirrors, safety glass shower enclosures, double pullmans. Spaci-

Nylon sculptured carpeting in the living room, hall and master bedroom: sprinklers and landscaping in the front; complete back and side fencing are all included in the price of the home. Prices range from $23,900, square footage from a big 1517 to a gigantic 2,500.

Ballerina Homes are located on Bushard St., just off of Brookhurst. They may be reached by going south on Brookhurst from the Santa Ana Freeway, or turning onto Brookhurst from Pacific Coast Hiway.

Huntington Village Prestige Homes Close to New Freeways

A PRESTIGE HOME

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach are conveniently located to the San Diego Freeway, now nearing completion as far east as Bolsa Chica Avenue. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $22,950. Here is an interior view of one model.

The proximity of any new home development to the freeway system is almost always uppermost in homebuyer's consideration when buying a new home, Dan Mytinger, sales director of Huntington Village Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, points out.

"Prestige Homes is fortunate in that it is able to fulfill this need of homebuyers," the sales executive continued. "The section of the San Diego Freeway between Long Beach Freeway and Bolsa Chica Ave., in Huntington Beach, will open about Sept. 1. When open, this will bring a freeway to within a five-minute drive of Prestige Homes, insuring the very finest transportation to every other area in the Long Beach-Los Angeles Metropolitan area. Overpasses are also under construction on the San Diego Freeway between Bolsa Chica and Beach Blvd., to the east of Prestige Homes."

* * * *

"IN ADDITION, sections of the Garden Grove Freeway, the connecting freeway between the San Diego and Santa Ana Freeways, are opened as completed; further speeding traffic and relieving surface congestion," Mytinger noted.

Prestige Homes one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $22,950 with FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet financing available for the use of homebuyers.

Features include nylon carpeting, slate entryways, built-in dressers in master baths, wardrobes to 14' long, pantrys in the two story homes, Fireplaces, and Tappan built-in range, oven, dishwasher and disposal.

* * * *

PRESTIGE HOMES have been built by the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., of Anaheim.

From the Long Beach area: Drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St. Turn right to Edinger Ave., then right to Springdale St., and then left a short distance to the six newly redecorated model homes of Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach. The models are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

Lake Park Location Appeals

Achieving a record amount of summer buyers, the locational proximity of Lake Park to major centers of employment, commercial and educational facilities, is cited as one of the main contributing factors, according to Michael L. Tenzer, marketing director and vice president of Larwin Co.

The $40 million, 2,000-home community, Tenzer explained "is close to major freeway vortexes and minutes from the area's large industrial compounds."

* * * *

TENZER ALSO noted that Phase II of Lake Park offers "not only the widest selection of two-story homes in Orange County, but also the lowest priced two-story models in that area."

Priced from $21,950, Lake Park Phase II offers three, four and five-bedroom homes with two and three baths. Twelve, all-new exteriors with three floor plans, including a den or family room and fireplace are included.

All models include breakfast bars, built-in kitchen appliances, disposals, double sinks, ceramic tile, sliding glass patio doors, wood-grained paneling and natural single roofs or optional hand-split cedar shakes.

* * * *

PROVING POPULAR is the Gramercy two-story model, with five bedrooms, three baths, fireplace, master bedroom suite with private terrace and large family room.

Lake Park homes are available through FHA, VA and conventional financing programs, with Cal-Vet also offered.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson to Moody.

ATTRACTIVE INTERIOR

This view in one of the models of a Lake Park home shows part of one bedroom set off for an infant. Note the view from the large windows.

Murray Opens Own Realty Firm

Dick Murray, formerly sales director of the new home division of Farrow Realty Corp., Garden Grove, announced the opening of his own real estate brokerage firm in Anaheim.

Murray Realty Co. will conduct sales in new home subdivisions for developehs throughout Orange County.

The firm will provide a "total package" to homebuilders, including land selection, home design, development layout, financing, escrow, merchandising, sales, advertising, promotion and landscaping.

Sears Catalogue Is Biggest in History

Reflecting the increasing significance of catalog shopping, Sears, Roebuck and Co. reports its new Fall-Winter book is larger, more colorful and is going to more homes than any other catalog in the company's 78-year history.

Now being distributed, the 1964 Fall-Winter general catalog:

Weighs in at five pounds and 12 ounces, and contains a record 1,764 pages —110 more than last year.

Has 594 full color pages, comprising more than one-third of the book.

Will reach 11 million families across the nation, compared with 10 million last year.

* * * *

THE INCREASED size and circulation, Sears said, are tangible evidence of the growing popularity of catalog shopping. New methods of catalog shopping and distribution account for the continuing trend, the company pointed out.

While Sears began as a mail order company, for many years the company's retail stores have accounted for the bulk of its sales. The catalog, however, continues to set new sales records each year, and in 1963, accounted for 23 per cent of Sears $5.1 billion volume.

Most of Sears catalog sales come through the catalog desks of retail stores, catalog sales offices, and—in large metropolitan areas — telephone sales offices.

The catalog, which contains more than 140,000 merchandise items, offers the most complete line ever presented in a catalog.

Apparel for the family occupies nearly 800 pages of the book, with the largest increase in space devoted to children's wear. Home furnishings, housewares fashions and home improvement sections of the catalog also have added space.

Old Files; New Use

Dead record files have been converted to useful benches and work tables in a New Jersey firm's shipping and receiving areas, reports Industrial Distribution publication. The filing cabinets are placed on low, wooden supports to bring them up to table-top height. When the records are needed, they are handy.

Tour Talker Introduces Paris Sights

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

A new concept in sightseeing called the "Tour Talker" was introduced this month in Paris by American Express, and if it becomes as popular as many think, it might well forge a revolutionary link in the multi-billion dollar international tourist industry.

Specifically designed for use by individuals, families and small groups, "Tour Talker" is a compact, lightweight portable record player—carried like an over-the-shoulder strap bag—intended to provide a richly detailed personal tour at far less than the cost of a private guide.

Tests have shown the player to have "exceptional fidelity and reception" representing a major technical achievement through the incorporation of sophisticated controls.

UNLIKE WIRE tape devices used on an experimental basis, the machine utilizes an easily insertable 16 rpm vinyl record. The sightseer, whether on a motor coach, in a private car or on foot, may modulate the volume high or low, or listen to it with convenient earphones so as not to disturb others.

Nine tours, each routed to a famous sector or sightseeing area of Paris, have been recorded. Each was meticulously researched and is crammed with topical as well as historical information and anecdotes, and each is narrated by a professional announcer.

A record's concentrated playing time is one hour, although each tour is estimated at three hours duration, allowing for movement and viewing. The tourist simply sets his own pace. If he wishes to stop at any point, he can turn the machine off. When he turns it on again, the tour resumes exactly at the same point. With the flick of a switch, he can replay (and retrace) any part of the tour.

EACH RECORD sells for one dollar and becomes the traveler's permanent souvenir to be replayed on any standard phonograph with 16 rpm speed setting.

"Tour Talker" was introduced in Paris because American Express' first overseas office was established there in 1895. Since then, its structure, at 11 Rue Scribe has become a famous European landmark. In summer, 1,000 tour buses depart monthly from the building's curbstones.

American Express is so enthusiastic over the machine that it plans to put it into use in other of its European offices within the year.

Around the World With

DELAPLANE

"We would like to give a bon voyage party for friends going on a Pacific cruise ship. Do we arrange for a private table in the lounge and pay the waiter? Or what?"

JUST call the shipping line. They are all set up to do this for you—including hors d'oeuvre and a steward to serve if you like. (Tip him $5 to $10). Except on ships going only to Honolulu, the bar doesn't open until the ship clears port. You have the party in the people's room.

Do the lady a favor. Advise her to make ALL her hairdressing appointments the first day out. Especially for nights of special events such as the captain's dinner.

"We have two weeks in Hawaii and would like to visit a truly native island."

THE ONLY old Hawaii is on the little island of Niihau. It is privately owned, even to transportation to get there. The owners discourage attempts to visit it. The plantation towns on Molokai and Lanai are "native." But it's not Polynesian Hawaii.

However, you can go to the Polynesian Cultural Center—an hour from Waikiki on the quiet, windward side. This is new and an excellent showing — not only of Hawaii as it was but of other Polynesian cultures as they are: Tahiti, Samoa, Tongan islanders and the Maoris of New Zealand. It's $2 admission and $2.50 for a 25-course dinner from all the islands. Plus a big music-dance show.

'Are there any jobs for students overseas?"

I'VE SEEN ADS on this by International Student Travel Center, 39 Cortlandt St., New York City. They ask $3 for membership and registration. But I have no idea how good this is. Why don't you write first—without the $3—and see what they offer.

"Our cruise ship stops in Suva in the Fijis. Is there anything to buy there?"

SOME VERY good tortoise shell work. And some replicas in very good hardwood of the dishes the Fijians used to cook and serve your sailor great grandpa in. Makes a conversation piece salad bowl. That's about all.

". . . also anything to buy when we stop in Tahiti?"

PRETTY GOOD woven straw planters' hats. Shell necklaces. After that buy yourself a flower to put behind your ear and a bottle of Hinano beer. Tahiti is not a shopping place.

Old Times Return to Big Bear

Old times return to Big Bear Aug. 6-9 with the Old Miners Days and National Burro Derby, an event that always draws enthusiastic crowds from all over the Southland.

Big Bear Valley originally was opened by a gold strike. Revival of those roaring days will be celebrated with a Clementine fashion show, fast draw contest, log-sawing race, pancake race, turtle races and frog jump.

In addition, more than 80 burros and their foot-sore wranglers start at Apple Valley on the desert below and race 45 miles up the mountain to where the celebration is taking place.

Another notable out-of-town August celebration will be the Old Spanish Days Fiesta at Santa Barbara Aug. 12-15. It opens with a downtown costume breakfast, and includes a parade of elegantly costumed riders.

The Festival of Arts and Pageant of the Master continues each evening at Laguna Beach through Aug. 16. Thirty-four paintings and classic sculptures are recreated by living models at the Pageant.

R. W. ATKINS

A veteran of 14 years with the company, Richard W. Atkins has been promoted from manager of the Beverly Hills office to district travel manager of American Express, with headquarters in the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

Coffee Time

New on Santa Fe Railway's Super Chief is a complimentary "wake-up cup" of coffee to all passengers. The steward inquires the evening before how each passenger prefers his coffee, and at what time it should be served. The dining car waiter serves the coffee next morning.

Trailer Living

Families who like to mingle with the outdoors are ushered into a new world of camping and recreation by Burgess H. Scott and Franklin M. Reck of the Ford Times editorial staff in their new book, "The Ford Guide to Outdoor Living on Wheels" (Doubleday & Co., Garden City, N.Y., $3.95).

IN THE TRAVEL SPOTLIGHT

The Lonely Redwoods

One of California's largest and most beautiful redwood groves is so isolated that it has been visited by comparatively few persons and is relatively little known to the general public.

It is the Freeman Grove, located in the High Sierra wilderness area a few miles from Quaking Aspen, in Tulare County, about 45 miles east of Porterville.

Only way to reach the grove is by foot or horseback. Woody Hannam, operator of a pack station at Quaking Aspen, rents horses and guides to take visitors into the grove, a trip which takes an hour by horseback.

According to Hannam, the United States Forest Service has said this grove will be protected and saved for future generations. It has many young redwood trees, assuring continuing growth.

The grove presents a cathedral-like appearance with the giant trees towering skyward and the awesome silence of the forest envelopes the visitor in a feathery cloak.

According to Hannam, visitors who ride in to the Freeman Grove on horseback regard it as one of the most inspiring spots in the entire state.

TWO NEW HOTELS have been opened in Israel.

The Deborah Hotel, designed to accommodate orthodox-Jewish patrons, is located in Tel Aviv. It has 63 double rooms all with central heating, air-conditioning, bath, phone and radio.

The 72-room, 12-story Grand Guberman Hotel, in Tiberias, has roof garden, night club, cocktail bar, shopping facilities and art gallery. Every room overlooks the Sea of Galilee. Rates in effect until Dec. 14 range from approximately $9.65 for a single, full board, to $9, per person, daily, for a double, full board—plus 10 per cent service charge.

Something Uncommon in Common

In mid-afternoon they began to arrive. In the warm, golden sunlight they played cards, knitted, lounged on the green grass. Children romped under the leafy old trees and pumped playground swings in great arcs. As shadows lengthened, picnic baskets were explored. At twilight, the tempo quickened. Crowds grew and, when all seats were taken, men and women and children pouring into Bixby Park spread blankets on the lawn where they could sit in the soft evening air.

The magnet that drew the thousands together was music—the opening of Long Beach Symphony Orchestra's free Pops Concert series on June 30 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Herman H. Ridder. The scene will be repeated Tuesday night when the second Starlight Serenade will be presented in the park at 8 p.m. With the softly lighted background of the new acoustical shell and an improved sound system, the music will create an evening of enchantment. Again, Lauris Jones will conduct the orchestra in a melodious program. Pianist Marilyn Neely will play Liszt's beloved "Concerto No. 1" and the fiery flamenco dancer, Vela Montoya, will interpret the seductive, exciting rhythms of Spain.

Debs Bow at Gala Ball

Entering International Ballroom at the Lafayette Hotel from a glittering silver and white coach decorated with shocking pink fringe and plumes, 15 daughters or granddaughters of members of Assistance League and Las Hermanas Auxiliary were introduced to society Saturday night by Mayor Edwin W. Wade. Two heralds in pink satin livery announced the entrance of each debutante, who was met by her father and escorted to the stage. A three-tiered Florentine fountain banked with rose flowers, a crystal chandelier, Doric columns and billowing white swags created a charming setting for the young women. The Cinderella Ball theme was carried out in ballroom decorations of four

Shades of Ziegfeld! Here Come the Follies

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

MOVE OVER Dolly. You, too, Rudy. Your popularity in show biz may be topped by the yet untapped talents of smart young Junior League housewives or their husbands turned dancers, songsters or live wire comedians.

The news is out. After a 13-year absence from the Long Beach theatrical scene, league members and their husbands will again appear in one of their all-out musical song and dance extravaganzas in October known as Junior League Follies.

One way to get into the act—practice!

The show will be professionally produced and costumed by a New York production company, using hometown talent. In September they'll be here to have a talent party and set up the acts. Loralee Turner is follies chairman and her cohorts, now exhorting everyone to keep trilling or twirling in preparation for tryouts, are Marie Todd, Jane Began, Garnette Hedley, Doris Moore, Donna Halbert, Frieda Pritchard, Betty Bixby plus pictured Penni, vice chairman, and Martha.

No reason to doubt show, a two night stand (Oct. 23-24) won't be as hilarious as in other years when well knows of town frolicked in footlights. Tickets will go on sale in the fall; by curtain time should be scarcer than hens' teeth! All proceeds will be used for the league's many community projects.

A LAUGH, talk and be merry day it turned out to be when Everett and Irene Sawyer entertained for the entire Sawyer clan at one of the clubhouses near their home in Leisure World. About one half of those present were grandchildren or great-grandchildren (all live wires) for the Saturday afternoon into evening gala day.

WITH EXPECTATIONS as high as the sun at noontime Wilma Hastings drove off, by herself, for a stay at the health spa in Tecate, Mexico. After the 150 mile drive to reach it she discovered she had been assigned to a room which shared bath facilities with five other rooms. No cup of tea for fastidious Wilma so she said, "Gracias, no," and drove back up to the Golden Door. No room. Tried another favorite hideaway. No room. Tried another on the seacoast but it was deserted, dark and eerie.

She still didn't want to admit defeat and drive back here but it was so late she felt skittery about trying any other place. Weary and disappointed, she came home, lugged luggage to door. Now came darkest moment of all. Lock was stuck. After studying every possible way to get in, she finally gave up. Re-wrestled suitcases to car and went to what she thought was good downtown motel. Gent at desk, feet up, gave her a direct answer with a question: "Don't need any help, do you?"

She did some more bellboy duty and got in her room at 1:30 a.m. It had its own bath, but not much more to offer in line of refinement.

Wild Waves Say...

RIDES IN the sky and an orbiting good time on the ground made Monday anything but blue when Betty and Larry Hunt (Air Oasis) hosted Executive Secretaries Firm Night. About 175 guests gathered at their anything but plain plane dispensary at the LB Airport for cocktails and dinner.

They had eight planes on almost constant shuttle flights for those who wanted the sky rides. One craft was piloted by Charlie Severson (at party with wife, Margaret) and co-piloted by Dixie Millie (there with husband, Noble).

Others in the large and well known crowd of execs and wives were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Van Kamp Sr. (it was learned through Kathy Shea; E/S from the Van Kamp Co. that the cannery is noting its 50th anniversary this month), Charles and Connie Campbell, Marilyn and Jim Crocker, Bill and Shirley Gillis, Myrl and Nancy Ott, Rosemary and Robert Westmyer, Roland and Dena Robbins and daughter, Linda, Hal and Hattie Lewis and Linnell and Burr Dilday.

THIS WEEK will be wrapped up with a smile time party when Ann and Sid Exley entertain at a cocktail and buffet party Friday. Special honorees will be Barbara Bixby and her beau, Bob Henry.

UNIQUE vacation and a great one has just been concluded by Marge and Roy McCullough. They flew to the Northwest and then whisked over to Victoria, B.C., where they met Kay and Lyman Farwell of Newport Beach. The Farwells, there for the summer with their deluxe motor sailor, Kawamee, took the McCulloughs on a spectacular cruise up the inner Canadian waterways along Vancouver Island.

AS OLD saying goes, the silence is deafening at Clare and Lynn Hossom's house—and they're not keen on the quiet at all. No ma'am. They've been head of the gayest madhouse—but all is back to normal. Daughter and son-in-law, Sherry and Ward McDonald, were here from Fresno for a week to watch the Dragon Olympic trial races. Other daughter, Linda Redeker, flew in from Phoenix with 10-month old baby daughter, Cynthia, to spend a few days before husband, "Bud," also arrived. The two went up to San Francisco for convention, leaving little Cynthia with the Hossoms. They returned for a long last weekend, for family-all-together gaiety. Beginning of week, the most welcome houseguests in the world had to return to respective bailiwicks.

PROBABLY wildest baseball game of the season was played last Sunday, not at Chavez Ravine, but at Whaley Park. It was a game between a team of T-shirt league players (in the 8 to 10 year age group) the Bobcats, and their mothers.

Betty (Mrs. Dick) Hammer was pitcher. She was good—but not good enough. Moms were out-hit, out-run and out-witted, losing 10 to 3. All this is a total of just 3 innings!

Others who developed stiff muscles and shattered egos on the kind of a diamond that is not a girl's best friend were Flo (Mrs. Kenny) Richmond, Phil (Mrs. Tom) Comiskey, Barbara (Mrs. Karyl) Napper and Nancy (Mrs. Charles) Malloch. Star of day was Lucy (Mrs. Pat) Estes. Not only did she manage to make leather and hickory meet—she actually hit a homer.

THE WESTERN hoedown was way out at Griffiths' Gulch last weekend when Dr. Bob and Deonne, seen below with Dee (Mrs. Sumner) Trent (center) had a square dance and barbecue.

At a barn in the country? No, in their own home in College Park Estates! And contemplate this—they filled the living room (sans furniture and carpeting because they're redecorating) with bales of hay to make the scene authentic. Deonne arranged to borrow six bales (120 pounds each) to park around. Getting the bales to the house and safely returned was quite a transportation problem. But what really was the biggest chore of all was cleaning up the scattered hay next day!

Dancing was a riot as guests, all pretty square about square dancing techniques, did their best to follow the zippy calling of Roberta and Jack Kemp.

One yippee-ki-yi! happening of night was surprise reunion of guests Jean and Jim Preston and Marie and Ted Baird. All classmates in college in Colorado Springs, they hadn't met since moving to Long Beach—in fact, having lost track, they didn't know that they all did.

A few others in big crowd who DID know each others' whereabouts were Nancy and Joe Byrne, Joni and Bill Clark.

There was lots of mulch at the Gulch.

Poolside Fun for Chi O's

Honoring actives who are spending the summer in Long Beach, Chi Omegas will gather Thursday at 11:30 a.m. for a brunch and pool party at the home of Mrs. Willis B. Blenkinsop, 3934 Ann Arbor Road.

Included among the honorees are Harriet Anne Berkley, Sharon Ludlam, Joan Galloway, Judy Conger and Mary Baker, UCLA; Norma McCarey, a June graduate of San Jose State College now residing in Long Beach; Else Britt Jonson, UC, Santa Barbara; Diane Carner and Kitt Neasy, USC. Any Chi Omega summering in the area is invited to share in the festivities. Co-hostesses for the occasion are Mrs. Alex Day, 327 Roycroft Ave., and Mrs. E. W. Johnson, 3927 Lewis Ave.

Reservations may be made until Tuesday.

Sisterhood Elects New Officers

Mrs. Samuel Schreiber was reelected president of Sisterhood of Temple Beth-El and will be installed at the temple, 853 Linden Ave., Aug. 2 at 2 p.m.

Others taking office include Mmes. Ben Aronson, Lenard Starr, Sam Susser, Morris Smollen, Morris Resnick, Abraham Blumenfield and Samuel Schreiber.

Claretian Guild

Claretian Guild will sponsor a luncheon at noon Wednesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave., with cards to follow. Canasta, 500, bridge and pinochle will be played. Mrs. Elizabeth Elsken is in charge. Visitors are welcome.

Pack a Picnic for the Pops

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

What could be more appealing than a picnic under the stars, food that's 'out-of-this-world' yet still under the stars, and a wonderful musical program to follow? That's what is in store for you at the Pops Concert Tuesday night at Bixby Park.

All the details—all those things you want to know about the concert—are answered on the front page of this section today . . . we're only giving a few suggestions about the food.

True, many families prefer hot dishes with all the accompaniments, but we find our greatest number of inquiries are "what's new in sandwich fillings?"

Here are a few suggestions: Some are spreads, while others of the hot variety, can be prepared at home, transported hot to the park, with each member of the family compiling his own sandwich. REMEMBER . . . after you have mixed your spreads, keep them refrigerated until time to leave for the park.

- Crisp bacon, sliced cheese, tomato and lettuce with mustard and mayonnaise, fashioned into a triple decker on white and whole wheat bread.
- Chopped chicken, almonds, celery, and onion with salad dressing, spread over a pineapple slice topped bun half. Sprinkled with cheese and broiled.
- Beef steak cubes, whole onions, pickles and fresh mushrooms kabob, grilled and served between slices of garlic-butter spread French bread.
- Tuna, minced onion, avocado and lemon juice, with lettuce and tomato slices — served on toasted white bread.
- Frankfurters and sauerkraut in mustard spread long buns.
- Sliced turkey, cranberry relish, and lettuce on buttered, cracked wheat slices.
- Peanut butter and blackberry jam on buttered whole wheat.
- Shrimp and hard cooked egg with horseradish mayonnaise in grilled long buns.
- Boiled ham, crumbled crisp bacon, and cole slaw on whole wheat.
- Baked beans, sweet onion slices, and catsup on pumpernickel.
- Cream cheese and chopped ham on date-nut bread.
- Salmon salad with chopped egg, onion and green pepper on toasted white bread with lettuce and tomato garnish.

Mrs. Travis Montgomery

Couple Wed in Alhambra

First Baptist Church of Alhambra was setting for the Saturday night wedding of Carol Lynn Newland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Boyd Newland of Alhambra, to Travis Arnold Montgomery, son of Mrs. Everardo Gomez and John H. Montgomery of Long Beach.

An ecru linen sheath with a detachable train and eyelet embroidery trim was worn by the bride. Patricia Griffin was maid of honor and Ginger Fujita, Peggy Sterrenburg, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Ronald Smith were bridesmaids.

Michael Clark served the bridegroom as best man. Ronald Smith, Laureen Wasserman, Dr. Robert Smith and William Montgomery seated guests.

* * * *

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Long Beach City College and a senior at California State, Long Beach. Her husband graduated from Millikan High School and CSLB.

On their return from a wedding trip to San Francisco and Lake Tahoe, the couple will reside in Long Beach.

Deception as Needed

The late Sidney Silodor of Philadelphia was one of the greatest players of all time. Although Sidney was noted for soundness and simplicity, he could and did use deception when necessary with deadly effect. Here is one of his greatest hands.

Sidney knew that West was not the sort of player to lead from a king against a slam contract, so Sidney went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds and dropped his queen as a false-card.

Then he led a trump to his ace and finessed the jack on the way back. This was the wrong percentage play because you don't normally finesse for the queen when you hold nine of a suit, but there was method in Sidney's play.

It happened that West held the queen, so Sidney's worries were over. He drew the last trump and went right after clubs. When the queen dropped nicely, Sidney wound up making a grand slam.

IT REALLY is unfortunate that East did not hold the queen of heart. Now no one will ever know if East would have played the king of diamonds in the face of Sidney's earlier queen play and beaten the hand or shifted to a spade and let Sidney make the contract anyway.

Sew-It-Yourself

...it's SO couture!

High fashions for home designers (some pictured below) will be modeled during special Vogue-Forstmann Show, Tuesday, 2:30 P.M., at Buffums'

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

This year, more American women than ever before are buying tracing wheels and tailor's hams; are puzzling over tuckers, quilters and fagoters; and are trying their hand at slot, bevel and flat-fell seams.*

And this is no so-so trend, say the experts.

Fact is, in '64, more American clothes horses than ever before will be sewing their own to break a national all-time record.

In their race from pattern to piece goods to notions counters, they'll spend an estimated billion dollars on sew-it-yourself supplies.

NOT LEAST of the pace-setting trends is an increasing interest in haute couture patterns, fabrics and techniques and the creation of sew-your-own originals such as those pictured on this page.

Vogue's designer pattern series—now offering some 50 styles by 18 well-known designers like Lanvin, Pucci, Jacques Heim, and Forquet—is reported to be selling very well. Costing from $2 to $3.50, they're luxury items compared to the 65 cents to $1.50 for the not-so-original.

There's also a reported upsurge in sewing class enrollments, where an at-home couturier learns such high fashion techniques as how to back a hem with lambswool to avoid a sharp crease, how to put in an inner belt at the waistline and insert a zipper by hand. They are told firmly that the secret of high fashion sewing is hand finishing and careful construction.

Furthermore, she's taught a whole new fashion language (most often with a French accent) that includes such words as Givenchy (Parisienne designer), discotheque (latest in dance dresses) and abaisse (lowered as hem or waistline) . . .

So, today, the home designer can not only dress in high fashion, but can discuss it with aplomb (self-assurance, self-possession and poise). She can have an original (hers)—and for only a fraction of the price tag.

After a Fashion

*A tracing wheel is for marking fabric, a tailor's ham is a cushion to iron on; tuckers, quilters and fagoters are sewing machine attachments.

JACQUES HEIM'S lithe young suit (left) in Fleur de Lis wool flannel showing flurry of pleats and worn with knowing air. . . . Forquet of Italy designs masterful coat with body-conscious lines and reefer influence, both enhanced by hand-loomed wool in black, pewter and white. . . . A sweeping gesture of formal elegance in sculptured white wool. . . . New pants suit by Galtizine of Italy in new stretch fabric "Plux X." All are made from Vogue International Couturier patterns in Forstmann's wool and will be featured, along with 28 other sew-it-yourself creations at Buffums' Downtown Fashion Show Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Christopherson

Golden Anniversary for Christophersons

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edmond Christopherson will honored at a golden wedding reception in Recreation Community Center.

Although their actual 50th wedding anniversary will be observed Dec. 16, they are celebrating earlier to enable relatives to travel here during the vacation months.

Married in 1914 in Centuria, Wis., the Christophersons have been Long Beach residents since 1928. Their home is at 1325 Granada Ave.

* * * *

ALL six of their children were graduated from Poly High School and all reside in Southern California. They include Marion Dwight, Fred Ralph and Carleton Louis, all of Long Beach; John Orlon, La Habra; George Allen, Seal Beach, and Mrs. H. J. Dunn (Betty Bernice), Anaheim.

Three sons served in the Navy during World War II, and two served in the Army. The Christophersons have 24 grandchildren.

A native of Racine, Wis., Christopherson was employed for almost 30 years by the Southern California Edison Co. His hobbies are deep sea fishing and woodworking. His wife is a native of Waverly, Iowa.

60 Navy Wives to Be Feted

Wives of some 60 junior Navy officers will be entertained Thursday, 7 p.m., by the Armed Forces hospitality committee of the Chamber board room.

Clair Carmody, chairman, will introduce panel members for a program geared to acquainting wives of navy personnel with the City of Long Beach.

* * * *

MISTRESS of ceremonies will be Mrs. Rayfond Rodgers. Panel members include Claire Andrews, Mae Mathers, Pat Domino, Fred Black and a navy chaplain.

Topics to be discussed: volunteer work, recreational facilities, employment opportunities, navy services, local cultural and art facilities.

Janie Perry, hostess, will be assisted by Sue Ellis and Catherine Low in serving refreshments.

Bettering the relationship between the Armed services and the community is one of the major purposes of the committee. Informing newly arrived Navy wives of what Long Beach has to offer them and their families is part of the program.

They Seek Rainbow's Gold

Looking for the gold at the end of the rainbow to benefit the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation are Mrs. Delmer Woodworth, Jack C. Satariano, past president of Long Beach Chapter; and Mrs. Wayne B. Walker, president. A dance, themed "Rainbow of Hope," will be sponsored by the group Friday from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. at Petroleum Club to raise funds for the foundation. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Joseph C. Miskiel Jr. or tickets purchased at the door. Roger Bacon and his orchestra will play for dancing.

Buffet Will Honor Goldenwed Pair

In celebration of their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Mhyrwyn Edwards of Long Beach will be honored at a buffet supper today at 5 o'clock in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Monroe S. Yunker, 1540 Ramillo Ave.

Assisted by their daughter, Susan, the Yunkers will welcome close friends and relatives of the pair.

The honored couple met in Santa Barbara and were married there July 25, 1914. A retired civil engineer, Mr. Edwards was born in New Jersey and came to California by way of Canada in 1913. Mrs. Edwards, the former Bertha Dorsey, was reared in California and received her schooling at Los Angeles Normal; USC and Santa Barbara Normal.

DURING THE early years of their marriage the Edwardses lived in various cities in California. In 1922 they moved to Newport Beach where Mr. Edwards was resident engineer for six years.

They came to Long Beach in 1928 where Mr. Edwards served as assistant public service director and city engineer for a number of years. At the time of his retirement he was engineer for a Long Beach contracting company.

Mr. Edwards is a former member of Pacific Coast Club, Los Seranos Country Club, Cirgonians, Azusa Masonic Lodge, American Association of Civil Engineers, Santiago Rifle Club and was a charter member of the Santa Barbara Rifle Club.

While in Newport Beach Mrs. Edwards was a member of Ebell Club and served as its president.

Brunch Attracts Guests of Ebell

Ebell of Long Beach will entertain Wednesday in its clubhouse, 290 Cerritos Ave., with another of the summer bruches being given during July and August.

Brunch will be served at 11 and 11:45 a.m. by Group X, headed by Mrs. G. A. Lackey. Door prizes will be given. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Cleda G. John, ways and means chairman.

Reports Due WCTU Meet

Federation of the WCTU, will meet Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at YWCA, Pacific Ave. and Sixth St.

Reports of the state workshop held at Redlands University this month will be made by Elizabeth Bulkley, Mmes. Lois Schuhart, Beatrice Enterline and Dorothea Chesterson.

Mrs. Minnie Wright of Los Angeles will speak on the history and management of the WCTU home in Eagle Rock. Music will be provided by Beatrice Enterline, Mary Stone and Mae Ward.

Federation president, Effie Youngblood, will report on the girl's camp at Mt. Craig.

"THE SOUND OF MUSIC"—that's me after only one session at the Hammond (two keyboard, if you will) Organ. The amazing thing was that I really could play a recognizable tune within a few minutes . . . several others quickly followed! (And you won't find many around with as little musical training as me—none. . . .) It's almost as simple as a parlor trick and has a great deal more entertainment variety to offer. Really is fun—especially since you do play right away. If you're bored with TV and/or you've always had a secret ambition to play (but you thought you couldn't) . . . have Bob Pierce (who had the world's first Hammond Organ) show you this unique system that has started innumerable people playing at HAMMOND ORGAN STUDIOS OF LONG BEACH, 2188 Lakewood Blvd.

FRAMES ARE SIGNIFICANT . . . from your most valued painting to the hall mirror to a precious photo, custom framing is a must to enhance the appearance and value. Anything requiring a frame can best be handled by B-Q. They've materials from all over the world (including hand carved woods) and craftsmen to execute innumerable finishes (exquisite gold and silver leafing!) B-Q has the largest selection of PAINTINGS in the Harbor Area . . . by internationally acclaimed artists—Bragg, Tomao, Michaud, Reynolds, Maio, Maderios, Kimberling, Julian Stephenson . . . You're welcome to browse daily, 9 to 5, Friday 9 to 9 (closed Sunday and Monday) at B-Q ART GALLERY of LONG BEACH, 3920 East Fourth.

WANT TO PLEASE a man? One way is to choose cosmetics that keep your skin young and fresh and glamorize "naturally." You'll be more than pleased with Fashion Two Twenty! The lotions are applied with water—no one has ever invented anything to surpass plain water in restoring moisture to beautify the skin! Liquid make-up is individually matched and set with a fine translucent powder, then blotted with a damp sponge. Positively looks and feels natural and will not come off (even wear it swimming!) . . . I wasn't convinced until I tried it. You are invited to receive a free skin analysis and make-up by the expert consultant at HOLIDAY WIGS, 5331 East Second, Belmont Shore.

Designer Pattern

A COOL CASCADE of circular ruffles is fashion's freshest, most feminine detail—as pictured in Printed Pattern M108. The diagonal neckline is a favorite Radiant design feature and the most slimming for the fuller-bosomed, half-size figure. Below the waist, all is slenderness. Note the back of the skirt—see how paneled seams create a nice flow of smoothness over the hips.

Pinted Pattern M108 is available in Half Sizes 12½, 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½. Size 16½ requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send ONE DOLLAR for Printed Pattern M108 to Independent, Press-Telegram, Pattern Department, P.O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N.Y. (Add 15 cents for each pattern for first class mailing and special handling.) Please print plainly YOUR NAME, ADDRESS with ZONE, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

MATRON OF honor was Mrs. John W. Hutchison of Long Beach, and best man was Paul A. Brown of Phoenix, Ariz. Bruce J. Vermazen and John Jolliffe ushered.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Hall of Glendale. Their son was graduated with distinction from Stanford University and received his MA in English literature from UC, Berkeley.

After graduation from Wilson High School, the bride was graduated from Stanford and received her master's degree in library science from UC, Berkeley.

Debutantes Presented to Society

huge columns with extending silver glittered branches hung with blinking lights and crystal prisms.

Wrought iron coach lanterns adorned with gardenias, crystal prisms and pink flowers centered the dinner tables.

Preceding the ball, a social hour was held in the French Room, which also was decorated in the Cinderella theme with a large revolving slipper carved in ice and banked by shocking pink roses, gardenias and net.

* * * *

THE DEBUTANTES, gowned in white and wearing medallions presented by the league, carried bouquets of gardenias and pink rose buds. They gathered with their escorts and stags on the terrace for a pre-ball punch party, chairmanned by Mrs. Earl Lundhigh.

Greeting guests at the annual mid-summer social event were Dr. and Mrs. James V. Keipp and Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Ott. Others on the hostess committee were Mmes. Calvert Strong, chairman; John W. Brooks, Gilmer Millie, Charles F. Severson, Marvin P. Clark, William J. Gillis, Gilbert Karste and Chris Conway.

* * * *

NOBLE MILLIE, master of ceremonies, welcomed guests and introduced Mmes. Keipp, Assistance League president; Melvin L. Campbell, founder of Long Beach Chapter; F. James Kirby, president of National Assistance League; and Ott, general chairman of the ball.

Edward Lovell, chairman of the men's floor committee, had as his assistants: Carl Brooks, George E. Wilcox, William Yankie, Lewis B. Kean, Raymond Peterson and Harvey Hartzel.

Other members of the ball committee included Mmes. Dean Gilmore, David N. Eagleson, Charles Campbell, Albert Code, Jerome Young, Lewis F. Seapy, Kenneth Berkaw, Gilbert Karste, Calvert Strong, Marvin Clark, James J. Nagle and Richard A. Walker.

Cheryl Walston Wed to Ronald Wiener

Mrs. Ronald K. Wiener

In a gown of silk organza trimmed with jeweled Alencon lace, Cheryl Lynne Walston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Walston of Lakewood, became the bride of Ronald Kent Weiner Saturday morning in St. Cyprian's Catholic Church.

Completing her ensemble, the bride's headdress was an Alencon flower with pearl tear drop attached to a fingertip length veil of silk illusion.

LaDonna Walston was her sister's maid of honor, while attendants were Doris Bernstein, Jacqueline Kurtz, Mary Arnan Harrison and Mrs. Thomas Blanch. Tami Murdock was flower girl.

* * * *

CONRAD VON Blankenburg was the best man to the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. John R. McTee of Torrance and J. E. Wiener of Beverly Hills.

Ushers included Jack Avery, Morris Gregory, David Stilwell and Thomas Blench.

After a wedding trip to Santa Barbara the couple will drive to Alaska where they will reside for a year while the bridegroom is serving with the Army at Fort Greeley. Eventually they will return to Torrance to make their home.

The new Mrs. Wiener was graduated from Lakewood High School and attended LBCC. She represented Long Beach in the California contest for Miss Universe contest in 1963.

The bridegroom attended El Camino Junior College and Brooks Institute of Photography, Santa Barbara.

Home Is . . . Where the Heart Is

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

It was a beautiful summer day in Houghton Park. The sharp twang of tennis rackets accented the happy cries of climbers on the jungle gym. Two young men gracefully threw a bright yellow ball back and forth. A young mother rested against a fragrant pine tree while her baby tried out a few tentative steps in the lush grass.

INSIDE THE clubhouse, the auditorium was still gay with red, white and blue streamers from the Fourth of July. A group of 10, 11 and 12-year-olds dramatically re-enacted a story that had just been read to them by a recreation director.

In a glassed-in alcove at the side of the room, Mrs. Stanley W. Houghton talked about the furniture and relics on display there that she has presented to the city.

On Feb. 28, 1925, Stanley W. Houghton and his sister, Eliza Houghton, presented three acres to the City of Long Beach for the portion of the park where the clubhouse now stands.

The tract included the home, out-buildings and garden of their father, Col. Sherman Otis Houghton, and was intended as a memorial to him.

THE FURNITURE Mrs. Houghton has given for display was used by the pioneer family in their former home.

"Father," said Mrs. Houghton, referring to Col. Houghton, "sat at this desk when he was a Congressman in Washington in 1871."

After the British burned the Capitol in 1812, the Congressional chambers were refurnished and each Congressman was given one of the elaborately carved desks.

When the desks were replaced in 1879, the Houghton desk turned up in a second-hand store. A friend of the colonel's happened to see it, with name plate still attached, and retrieved it for him.

Other furniture in the display includes a carved sofa with tapestry upholstery, three charming chairs of the same era, a marble-topped sideboard and a delightful pier glassed dresser.

Also on exhibit is the dainty embroidered gown in which Stanley Houghton was christened and a large, colorful picture, oil painted, yarn embroidered and framed in gold, stitched by a cousin of the family.

For many years, the Houghton family farmed 79 acres of land, purchased in 1896, that is now a North Long Beach residential area.

Stanley Houghton's mother was the daughter of Capt. George Donner, leader of the famed wagon expedition that was caught in a blizzard in the Sierras on the trip from Missouri to California. Most of the travelers died, including the captain and his wife. Mrs. Houghton, then a child of 4, was one of the few survivors.

Arriving on a sailing vessel that had traveled around Cape Horn, Sherman Houghton made and lost two fortunes before he was 25.

He fought Mexicans, grizzlies and Indians; was a vigilante and won fame as a lawyer by being instrumental in having the Supreme Court reverse its decisions on important land grant cases.

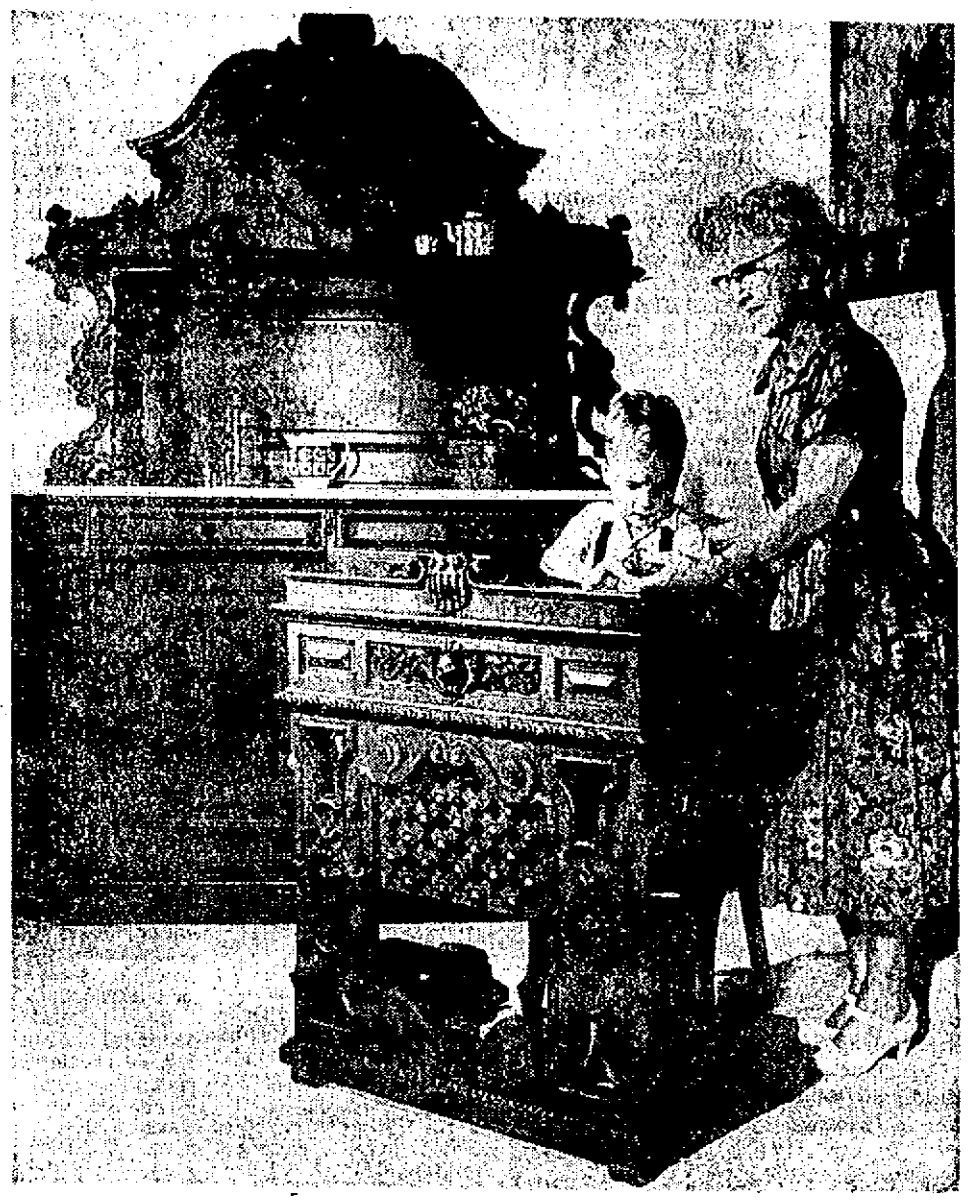

As a member of Congress, he secured the first appropriation for Long Beach Harbor and breakwater.

Stanley, one of eight children, had an adventurous life as a young man. Among his exploits was the capture and fatal shooting of a Mojave Desert desperado in Oro Grande, Calif., where he was justice of the peace.

Following his return to the Long Beach ranch in 1913, Houghton became a member of Long Beach City Council, Rotary Club, Boy Scout Council and the Society of California Pioneers; a director of the Chamber of Commerce and the Improvement Association of North Long Beach.

When he returned, Houghton brought a bride, the former Dove Cavett from Austin, Tex.

"He said many times that he was always surprised that he married a little Johnny Reb,"

Examining the inkwell of the desk at which the late Col. Sherman Houghton sat in Congress are Mrs. Stanley Houghton and her neighbor, Jimmy Evans. Desk, sideboard and other furniture from the former Houghton residence are on display at Houghton Park Clubhouse, a gift to the city from Mrs. Houghton, long time local resident.

twinkled the petite Mrs. Houghton.

Mrs. Houghton, widowed in 1951, now lives in a modest home across the street from Houghton Park and her former residence. Among the few sentimental reminders that she has kept are her bedroom furniture; a towering hand-carved headboard on a double bed that looks very small in comparison with modern beds; marble-topped dresser and bureau; and a small occasional table in the bright, airy living room that has, as its base, a baluster from the stairway of the old Houghton home.

"I LOVE to look out at the park," said Mrs. Houghton. "I can't imagine living anywhere else. See that double row of palm trees there? That was our old driveway leading from Myrtle Avenue up to the house."

Between the trees two boys in cut-off blue jeans and bright striped T-shirts were chasing each other with wild comanche yells—in and out, in and out, in and out—as Mrs. Houghton waved good-by.

WHY GROW OLD?

Select a Hair Style That Flatters YOU

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Monsieur Marc is one of America's top hair stylists. When asked what it is like to do the gorgeous Elizabeth Taylor's hair he said, "Miss Taylor is very pleasant to work with and I have styled her hair myself several times, but now I send someone else from my staff when she is in New York because it is practically a full time job."

"One must wait, wait, wait while the lady finishes her bath or talks on the telephone or chooses clothes. It is hard to devise new styles for her because she has tried practically every style, and while her hair is lovely and curly, this makes it difficult to work into the popular straight styles. The elaborate hairdos she wears in photos are built with several hairpieces, but she actually prefers a simple, casual look."

* * * *

MONSIEUR Marc has had many celebrity clients, such as Rosalind Russell, Renata Tebaldi, Eva and Zsa Zsa Gabor, Rita Gam and Doris Day for her film "Tunnel of Love." His absolute favorite is a gray-haired lady who is 95 years old and insists on wearing her hair Beatle fashion.

This tall Parisian-born stylist, who looks like a distinguished diplomat, says that American women are too prone to copy hair styles they see on others without studying their own face to see if the style will suit them. His answer to the complaint that one must often wait at a popular salon isis that women who require elaborate hairdos for evening should say so when they make their appointments so that the stylist will know how to schedule his time.

* * * *

MONSIEUR Marc finds that American women have healthier, stronger, thicker hair than French women, and attributes this to better nutrition. They are more vitamin-conscious. He also feels that the mixture of nationalities plays a part. This stylist definitely feels that gray hair is aging "except for women with very pale, smooth, translucent complexions." He also said, "Most men, even if they don't admit it, prefer their wives to have softly colored hair rather than all gray."

Island Art Show Sept. 19, 20

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

In addition to $1,000 in cash prizes, there will be a $150 award for the best local scene painted by a non-resident for Catalina Island's fifth annual art exhibit Sept. 19 and 20.

Paintings in all media will be accepted, but there will be no facilities for the display of sculpture. There is a $2 registration fee for each painting.

Entries must be delivered by hand to the exhibit Saturday, Sept. 19, before 1 p.m. No freight, express or parcel post shipments will be accepted and a commission of 10% will be charged on all sales.

Monday through Friday, Sept. 14 to 18, bus rides to the island interior will be provided by special reservation for non-resident artists wishing to paint entries for the "Best Catalina Scene" prize.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Catalina Art Association, P.O. Box 235, Avalon.

STRIKING examples of the brilliant, exotic forms of life found in oceans of the world make up the "Jewels of the Sea" exhibit at Los Angeles County Museum.

Specimens from the museum collection include the chambered nautilus, giant helmet, cowries, sea fans, murex and cone shells from the waters of Japan, the Philippines, Mexico, India, Samoa and the United States.

The exhibit will continue through Sept. 27. Museum hours are Tuesdays through Sundays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., closed Mondays.

NEWLY - DISCOVERED stone sculptures from temples of ancient India will be on display through Sept. 4 in UCLA's Dickson Art Center. Twelve of the pieces were discovered during an archaeological expedition conducted last winter by UCLA and the Rajasthan State Government. They were found among ruins of previously unknown temples, some more than 1,000 years old.

One, a pink sandstone carving of the Hindu deities Siva and Parvati, came from a 12th century temple at Ramgarh. A large head and torso and a draped female figure were found among massive ruins in Nithor.

The exhibit also includes Indian sculptures recently given to the university by Dr. and Mrs. George Lehner of Bel Air and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schneider of New York.

ART WORKSHOPS for talented secondary school students will be given by the University Extension at UCLA this fall. Young students must have artistic ability or interest and must be recommended by their art teachers, counselors or principals.

Saturday workshops are scheduled in drawing, painting, oil painting and sculpture. Classes will begin Oct. 3 at the Extension Art Studios, 1043 Westwood Blvd. Applications must be filed no later than Sept. 18; applicants will be notified of their selection by Sept. 23.

ROMERO FAMILY

Celedonio Romero and his sons, guitarists from Spain, will play classical and flamenco music in concert Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in Redondo Union High School. Pictured (from left) are Celin, Pepe, Celedonio and Angel. During their first season in this country they have performed on three network television shows, played with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society, given two Town Hall concerts and recorded three albums. Tickets for the Saturday concert are on sale at Mutual Agencies.

'Alchemist' Will Open Saturday

The Elizabethan satire, "The Alchemist" by Ben Jonson, will open Saturday at Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., and will play Thursdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m.

This Theater Workshop production will be performed in commedia style, after the famous commedia del arte troupes of the Reanaissance theater of Europe. A group of strolling players will move onto the bare stage and in a matter of minutes improvise a stylized setting and costumes from the bits of material they bring with them.

* * * *

Don Tuche, formerly with the Actors Workshop in San Francisco, will direct this performance by the resident company. Jeff Tambor and Rickar Rekow have major roles. Also in the cast are Pamela Dunlap, Jeff McNeilledge and David Kettles.

"The Alchemist" concerns the activities of two notorious London confidence men who prey on the foolish and gullible. The play has been produced repeatedly since it first delighted audiences in Shakespeare's time.

To Star on Bills in Bowl

Marilyn Horne

Opera star Marilyn Horne, formerly of Long Beach, will appear Thursday and Saturday nights in Hollywood Bowl.

The week's programs will open Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. with Milton Katims conducting and Eugene Istomin as piano soloist for Beethoven's "Concerto No. 4." Also on the bill will be Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7" and the "Leonore" overture. Katims is conductor of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra.

* * * *

HENRY LEWIS will make his Bowl debut Thursday conducting an operatic program starring Miss Horne, Enrico di Giuseppe, tenor, and Sherrill Milnes, baritone. The program will include arias, duets and trios from "Norma," "William Tell," "Le Prophete" and other operas.

The Friday night "extra" will be the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra with featured singers and performers.

* * * *

JOHN GREEN will conduct the annual Rodgers and Hammerstin program Saturday. Vocalists will be Miss Horne, soprano; Peggy Coburn, contralto; Chris Lachona, tenor; Bruce Yarnell, baritone; and the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Met Opera Schedules L.A. Dates

Metropolitan Opera Company will give 14 performances in Los Angeles Music Center during the 1965-66 season. S. Hurok will manage the coast-to-coast bookings for an extended national tour that will include the entire West Coast.

The repertoire will include "La Traviata," "Cenerentola," "Susannah" and "Carmen."

Featured singers will be Polyna Savridi, Maria Kallitsi, Louise Pearl, Dorothy Krebill, June Genovese, Robert Bennett, Eugene Talley-Schmidt, James Farrar, John Fiorito, William Justus and Michael Kermoyan.

The opera company will also make appearances in Tucson, Phoenix, San Diego, Fresno, Berkeley, Sacramento, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver.

Undertakes New Enterprise

Major and Minor Notes

In the nearly 20 years that I have resided in Long Beach, the thought has often crossed my mind that, were I not so actively engaged in things musical, I would have liked very much to have become a concert manager in this very fertile area. It was, therefore, with much satisfaction that I talked the other day with one who has become just that.

Mickey Ruetschi (pronounced Ritchie) is the wife of one of Long Beach's outstanding musicians, Charles Ruetschi, concert pianist. Born and reared in Cleveland, Ohio, Ruetschi was already a prodigy at the age of 12. For many years he was affiliated with Columbia Artists as a concert pianist, and he traveled extensively on nation-wide tours as soloist and accompanist for such outstanding artists as Donald Dame, Helen Olheim, Brian Sullivan and many others.

* * * *

BUT IT IS of Mrs. Ruetschi I am writing particularly. She, too, was born in Ohio, but later moved to Washington, D. C, where she was a fashion co-ordinator for specialty shops.

She recalls with pride a high light in her professional career when she produced a fashion show for the Republican Convention in Washington. All her models were United States Congressmen and their wives. It was a highly successful coup!

Coming to Long Beach five years ago, Mickey Ruetschi, being closely associated with her talented husband's musical life, decided to use her professional experience in the entertainment world, rather than continuing in the fashion field.

* * * *

"I SAW MUCH potential talent hereabouts," said Mrs. Ruetschi, "and also a demand for good entertainment. The need was great, and I felt I might help as liaison between the two—and so, I have become a booking agent."

For many years George B. Hunt & Associates of Los Angeles have been active in all phases of entertainment. Happily and fortunately for us, Mickey Ruetschi has become affiliated with this well-known agency. This gives her a wide choice of entertainment material to select from as well as giving her valuable contacts for those wishing to buy entertainment. (The Ebell Club of Long Beach has already signed contracts with Mrs. Ruetschi for five programs for next season.)

* * * *

"MY REAL interest," said she, "is in giving opportunity to young talent. I, myself longed to be a singer but my ambition was never realized. This is why I have such an interest in promoting promising young artists. Of course, I handle professionals as well. Also, I learned that there has been no accredited agent in this area for years."

The many clubs, organizations, societies and churches in Long Beach which are constantly giving programs of entertainment would do well to consult with Mickey Ruetschi.

Harvey Film at CSLB

"The Running Man," starring Laurence Harvey, Lee Remick and Alan Bates, will be shown Saturday at 7 and 9 p.m. in California State College, Long Beach, Little Theater sponsored by Long Beach Film Society.

Carol Reed directed the movie, which is photographed in color in rural Spain. The suspense thriller concerns an insurance fraud, murder and a faithful wife.

A short companion feature will also be shown.

Next on the film society's summer series is "Umberto D," to be followed by "A View From the Bridge," "Kanal," and "The Balcony."

Orchestra in Concert

The department of music at California State College, Long Beach, will present the summer session orchestra in a concert Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Little Theater. There will be no admission charge.

The program will include "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor," Handel; "Symphony No. 35" (Haffner), Mozart; "Lieutenant Kije," Prokofieff; and "Emperor Waltzes," Strauss.

Oregon Festival

Ten musicians from the Los Angeles area, including Peter Christ, oboist, and Gretal Shanley, flutist, of Westwood Wind Quintet will be among members of the 1964 Peter Britt Music and Fine Arts Festival Orchestra performing Aug. 9-22 in Jacksonville, Ore.

Arthur Carah Heads Cast for 'Pinafore'

Lakewood Philharmonic Association will present Gilbert and Sullivavn's comic opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," July 31, Aug. 1, 7 and 8 at Long Beach City College Auditorium.

Tickets are on sale at Humphrey's Music Company, 135 E. Third St., Rose's Hardware, 4132 Viking Way, and Bixby Knolls Music Center, 4508 Atlantic Ave.

* * * *

ARTHUR CARAH as Sir Joseph Porter heads the cast of performers. Other principal singing roles are filled by Silvio Barto as Capt. Cochran, Larry Laraway as Ralph, Lynn Carol as Josephine, Ruthanne Lorenzen as Buttercup, Charles Raitch Jr. as Dick Deadeye, Millicent Treadwell as Cousin Hebe and Joe Pat Williams as the Boatswain. Henri Scanlon directs.

Further information may be had by calling Norman Kreitzer, general manager, 4540 Leverside Ave., Lakewood.

Pre-Cinema Entertainment

The Lyton collection of pre-cinema forms of entertainment and two films on this same subject are featured at the Lytton Center of the Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. "The Voyage of Mr. Q" is a color film that combines magic lantern imagery with modern animation techniques and describes a day in Paris. The second film, "The Glory That Grew Up" traces the experiments in creating an illusion of motion to the birth of film. Admission is free. Hours: Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

On Stage---

BARN THEATER, 2118 Main St., Huntington Beach, "Stalag 17," 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, through Aug. 8.

Student Artist's Work Shows Great Promise

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Judy Leiker appears to have a tiger by the tail from the evidence in her one-man show at Atelier 7. This gallery at 3316 E. Seventh St. is open from 1 p.m. to midnight; the present show continues through Aug. 16.

Miss Leiker, who is a senior at CSLB, shows a selection of drawings, paintings and graphics. The latter include a very large and successful woodcut, serigraphs, lithos, and an interesting small collagraph.

The work is characterized by an eagerness to experiment with brush, pencil, pen, crayon and etching tools to find any possible way to express a surging talent. The range is uneven, as a student's work should be, from the original and controlled "A Very Proud Fellow" (5-foot high woodcut of an ostrich) to the loose, dynamic and not-very-sure figure drawings.

* * * *

THE ARTIST has much to say in figure drawing, still life, animal life and abstract composition. She adds her own rich insight to keen observation. She enjoys a degree of mastery of the media she uses. She understands the difference between the quick and the dead in composing.

But Miss Leiker has, with a few notable exceptions, yet to resolve all these elements. As a consequence, many of her compositions are over-complicated . . . too many colors, too many forms vying for the viewer's eye, too many strokes (perhaps because she isn't sure yet which the right ones are).

* * * *

IN INSTANCES when color or subject matter are limited, these faults disappear. As I indicated, the ostrich is a very grand work. Another is "Alley Row," a lively litho in which there is much white space, while her canyon strokes are congruent and meaningful. An oil painting of glowing abstract forms in yellow on white is most successful.

There is every indication that as she continues to work Miss Leiker will extend her mastery over any content or media she chooses. This is an exciting show of dynamic achievement and great promise.

'FIRST WE'LL MAKE A GRAPEFRUIT CAKE, THEN . . .'

Homemade cakes and pies, including tastebud-whetting egg nog mold and sauerkraut cake among others, will be prepared in Gamma Phi Beta kitchens for the sixth annual dessert-bridge Wednesday at 1 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Clubhouse, 101 E. 28th St. Here Mrs. Richard Cabe, Mary Ann Ryan and Mrs. Charles Bennett gather for a dessert making session. Proceeds will provide scholarships for California State College, Long Beach. Mrs. John O'Brien is chairman of event, sponsored by Long Beach Gamma Phi alumnae, and Mrs. Bennett, 3834 Myrtle Ave., is ticket chairman. Miss Ryan, Mrs. J. Malcolm Johnson and Mrs. John Zaepfel are others on committee.

Naples Music School on Community Slate

Music and dance from Naples School of Music, under direction of Roy Campbell, will be presented Monday at 8 p.m. in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Featured soloists on the community program sponsored by Long Beach Recreation Department, will be Mike Schmidt, boy soprano of the Mitchell Boys' Choir; Danny Smith, pianist; Jane Jacobson, soprano of the New York Musical Theater; Joel Valdivia, guitarist, and Bob Campbell, teen-age tenor.

* * * *

A GROUP OF girls will present a ballet excerpt from a Tschaikovsky theme.

Instrumental and vocal arrangements will be presented by the Port Town Singers.

Carl H. Robertson will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m., with Regina Beam accompanying.

The Tyo Orchestra will play for old time and square dancing following the stage show. Joe Marshall will call.

The free program is open to the public.

Greek Theater to Offer First in Summer Series

First of the Greek Theater's international festival series this summer will be the Viennese production of "Wiener Blut" (Vienna Life) which opens for its American premiere Aug. 3 and will play through Aug. 8.

The company of outstanding stars from the leading stages of Vienna's theaters is coming directly from the Austrian capital for its first engagement prior to a coast-to-coast tour.

The melodious score by the "waltz king," Johann Strauss, ranks as one of his best-loved works. This production, by impresario Harald Hoeller, will be lavishly staged.

* * * *

A COMPANY of 65, including corps de ballet, chorus and principal artists, will perform. Tony Niessner, one of Vienna's most renowned stage authorities, is responsible for direction of the entire production. Choreography is by Fred Meister and will include his classic, "Blue Danube Waltz Ballet."

The libretto by Leon and Stein concerns a multi-faced marital mixup of the sort possible only in the fanciful world of Viennese operetta.

"Wiener Blut," last of Strauss' operettas, has been a world-wide favorite since its premiere in 1899.

O'Connell Signed at Melodyland

Songstress Helen O'Connell has been signed as an added attraction on the Liberace show, which plays a one night engagement Aug. 10 at Melodyland Theater.

Starting as a teenage singer with the Dorsey Brothers Orchestra, the vocalist became a recording star.

Liberace will present a new program, backed by an 18-piece orchestra and wearing a completely new wardrobe which has been described as "smashing."

"Bells Are Ringing," starring Gordon and Sheila MacRae, will close at the Anaheim theater Aug. 2.

Players Issue Casting Call

Readings will be held Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. for "Seven Nuns in Las Vegas" at Hillcrest Nursery, 1517 Anaheim St., Harbor City, by a newly organized group, the Hillcrest Players.

Anyone wishing to participate as a performer or in production is invited to attend.

Play Plays On

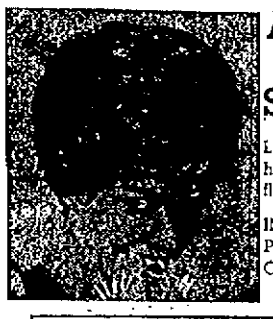

The run of James Baldwin's play, "The Amen Corner," appearing at the Coronet Theater, Los Angeles, has been extended for six weeks, according to Frank Silvera, producer-director.

Also on view for theatergoers at the Coronet is an exhibit of the work of Hugh Harrell, New York artist and founder of the Soul Gallery in Greenwich Village.

GAR Auxiliary Meeting, Cards

Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to GAR, will sponsor a card party Tuesday at Veterans Memorial Building, with luncheon served at noon.

The auxiliary will meet at Veterans Memorial Building Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. with Rose O'Neil presiding.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

He Operates World-Wide

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

We find him difficult to chronicle on paper. But of one thing you may be sure, none of his life has been spent putting in comas and semicolons.

Today's Chef of the Week, Melvin A. Casberg, M.D., might actually be described as a world citizen with world interests. He has made eight trips around the world, leaving each port better for his having been there. Presently, he is on his second "tour of duty" on the surgical staff of the Harriman Jones Medical Clinic. He had served as chief-of-surgery at that hospital in 1946-48.

Casberg was born in Poone, Bombay Province, India. His dad, a builder, was supervising the building of a mission hospital, and training schools for the orphans of India. His grade school days were spent in the Himalayas, and his high school, in the mountains of South India.

* * * *

COMING then to California, Casberg enrolled at the Los Angeles Pacific Junior College, before receiving his A.B. degree at Greenville College, Greenville, Ill., his M.D. at St. Louis University School of Medicine, and his LL.D at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo. He returned to Greenville for a D.SC honorary degree.

Casberg completed both his internship and his residency in surgery at St. Louis City Hospital. He became a Diplomate of the National Board of Medical Examiners in 1937, and a member of the American Board of Surgery in 1946. With his training completed, he and Mrs. Casberg (Olive), and their son and daughter, returned to Punjab, India, to reorganize the Christian College which his father had built. He was later appointed surgeon in-chief of the Umri Mission Hospital in India.

* * * *

CASBERG'S World War II service would furnish material for a book. Serving with the U.S. Army Medical Corps, he was with the 21st General Hospital staff in the North African invasion. Following that he was sent to the China, Burma, India theatre, where he served as station surgeon at Chungking, China, under Gen. "Vinegar" Joe Stillwell. While there, he was the personal physician of Generalissimo and Mme. Chiang Kai Shek. And, as a member of an intelligence group, he roamed the hills of China with Chinese guerrillas. It was fight-and-run experience, which continued both day and night.

Returning to the States, Casberg became surgical consultant at Wakeman General Convalescent Hospital in Indiana. He was discharged in 1945, after changing his captain's insignia to that of a lieutenant colonel.

* * * *

FROM 1947 through 49, Casberg was senior attending surgeon at Harbor General Hospital, and a surgical consultant to the surgeon general of the Army. Then he was called back to St. Louis University as Dean of Medicine of the Medical School, and as associate professor of surgery.

Casberg spent the first four years of the "fifties" in Washington, D.C. as chairman of the Armed Forces Medical Policy Council, Department of Defense, as assistant secretary of defense (health and medical) under President Eisenhower, and as a visiting professor of anatomy, Howard University School of Medicine.

Casberg served as consultant to the Army Chemical Corps for three years, at Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah, before going to the University of Texas as president of medical affairs.

* * * *

PROBABLY one of the most rewarding phases of his entire career was having as a student, and a friend, the late Dr. Thomas A. Dooley. One of the last social visits Dooley made was at the Casberg home in Texas. Our "chef" now has the honor of serving as vice president of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation, Inc.

Casberg's scientific society memberships are many. To mention a few, he's a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the American Association for the Surgery of Trauma, of the Association of Surgeons of India, and of the Society of Medical Consultants to the Armed Forces and the Air Force Clinical Surgeons Association. Honorary-wise, he belongs to the Alpha-Omega Alpha (medical), The Alpha Epsilon Delta (pre-med), and to the Sigma Xi (scientific).

Casberg has been given the Gold Medal of Honor, Military Medical Service of France decoration and was presented the Civilian Award from the Department of Defense, U.S.A.

* * * *

HIS INTEREST in the advancement of medicine extends all the way from India, to Washington, D.C., to St. Louis, Mo., and to the State of California. He has served as chairman, Section of Military Medicine, American Medical Association. He is a member of the Board of Governors, American National Red Cross, of the Medical Advisory Council, MEDICO.

Were the Casberg family, to gather for a reunion, it would include daughter, Guinn, her husband, a Presbyterian minister in El Paso, Tex., and their little daughter and son. Also, Melvin Casberg II, who will finish medicine this summer at Galveston, Tex., his wife and two sons, one of whom is Melvin Casberg III. Son, Ronald, 17, at home, will be a senior at Wilson High School, come fall.

When he finds time for doing as he pleases, he hunts, swims or weeds the garden. The latter, he insists upon doing himself, for he believes it should be done surgically. And, while he's wonderfully void of all "fussy little habits", he is fastidious to the 'nth degree.

Our "chef" loves to write—both fiction and medicine. We forgot, of all things, to ask if he could cook. Anyway, here's his recipe, straight from India.

INDIAN CURRY

1 Leg of lamb—cut in one-inch cubes
½ bottle Spice Island curry power
1 tsp. cummin seed
½ tsp. garlic salt
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. ginger

Mix spices and saute with lamb in oil until well browned. Add two cans bouillon and water to cover meat mixture. Boil for 2 to 3 hours. Cool and skim off fat. Serve hot with rice and

Mango chutney
Fresh or frozen pineapple chunks
Banana bits
Salted cashew or almonds
Flaked coconut

Take Hubby Along

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Is it fair for a husband to go out without his wife when we are on a very limited budget? Whenever there is a little money for a night out, he goes by himself! I'd say that was good cause for wives to stray to other pastures.

It gets pretty tiresome listening to children all day long and counting pennies every payday. I wouldn't mind it if he stayed home and counted pennies with me but since he won't, I'm about to do something drastic.—FED UP

DEAR FED UP:

I hear from many a wife who feels the same way you do. In fact, I can't begin to tell you how many letters are signed "Fed Up." (Some of these are from husbands, I might add.)

Anyway, next time there are some pennies for a night out, you plan ahead; arrange for a baby sitter or exchange same service with a friend, and YOU arrange the night out taking hubby along as escort. Won't he be the surprised one???????—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Husbands! I wonder why women tolerate them!

Been married 30 years, my husband and sons are my whole life. But my husband is most possessive and jealous. All these years he has accused me of indecent acts with young and old men—any man who is nice to me or smiles at me. He is rude any time we chance to meet any of the men I work with.

Believe me, I'm not flattered by his actions — I'm downright disgusted! A woman my age making her husband jealous makes me just a little sick. How can he see sin where there is none? What gets me is I'm not the kind of woman men give a second glance to and my husband knows this.

I love the guy but he sure gives me a big pain! Thanks for listening.—MOUSEY

DEAR MOUSEY:

Has it occurred to you that your husband might just want to be a little jealous of you? If you're as mousey as you claim, maybe after 30 years of marriage he'd like to feel he had a somewhat less mousey mate.

I'd stop going out of my way to pacify him. Let him get jealous. He'll be happier if he does.—M.M.

SNAPSHOT CONTEST RULES

1. The contest is strictly for amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible excepting employees of this newspaper, or employees of any newspaper participating in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, employees of the sponsors and their families, and individuals who, personally, or any members of whose families are engaged in the manufacture, sale commercial finishing or professional use of photographic goods.

2. Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1963 are eligible. Black-and-white and color PRINTS accepted only.

3. Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No print, enlargement or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negative from which they are made or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4. To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the picture entered. (See classes.)

5. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED. Do not submit negatives with your prints. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted). This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6. At the close of the contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $31,000.

7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8. It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the twenty-sixth annual (1964) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one of more than eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

CLASSES

A. BABIES AND CHILDREN — One or more youngsters to be judged for cuteness, expression of character, or mood. Subjects may be engaged in any activity or interest. Adults may appear if they are not the principal interest.

B. ACTIVITIES — Teen-agers or adults. They may be engaged in any activity outdoors or indoors, at any season; occupations, hobbies, sports, and recreations; any picture that tells a story of an interesting phase of everyday life. Children may appear if they are not the principal interest.

C. SCENES AND "TABLETOPS" Judged for scenic or pictorial appeal — landscapes, marine views, historical spots, street scenes, buildings; or unusual "still-life" subjects including "tabletop" or miniature arrangements.

D. ANIMAL LIFE — Household pets, farm animals, forest wild life, zoo animals, etc.; any situation in which the aforesaid subjects are of principal interest.

Color Entries Will Be Judged in the Same Four Classes Listed Above

IMPORTANT: If you snap a picture which you expect to enter in the contest and in which a person or persons appear, be sure to get their names and addresses. This is necessary because, before your picture can become eligible for entry in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, the written consent of such recognizable person or persons to the use of the picture for advertising purposes must be obtained.

Q. Is it true that astronauts John Glenn and Alan Shepard are all washed up as pilots?—G. Thompson, Baton Rouge, La.

A. Glenn is improving but still suffers dizzy spells. Shepard has recovered from his dizzy spells but still suffers a hearing loss and can fly only as a passenger.

Q. Is Judy Garland nuts?—Ann Bremer, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Not psychotic—just emotionally unstable.

Q. Where does Pres. Johnson get his energy? Does he take pep pills?—D.B., San Diego, Calif.

A. No, he swims every day before lunch, takes an after-lunch nap, is then raring to go.

Q. The man with the black eye patch who poses for Hathaway shirts—who is he?—Mrs. Roslyn Miller, Youngstown, Ohio.

A. There have been two such models: The first was Baron George Wrangell, who quit when he was refused extra pay for using his patch photo in advertisements of women's shirts; the second is Mr. Colin Leslie Fox, a former London bookmaker who quit school at 14 and is introduced on U.S. promotion tours as Lord Hathaway.

Q. Is it true that Sir Douglas-Home, British Prime Minister, has only three shirts? — James Gordon, Chicago, Ill.

A. According to Lady Douglas-Home, "My husband possesses three shirts — one on, one off and one at the wash."

Q. Several months ago Sonny Liston was charged in Denver with reckless driving in a car carrying a 7-shot, 22-caliber pistol. What disposition if any was made of these charges? —Geo. T., Portland, Ore.

A. Liston pleaded guilty to the driving charge, "no contest" to the weapons charge. He was fined $600, given a 30-day jail sentence, which was suspended.

Q. Is it true that Gen. Eisenhower refused to appear with Gen. Montgomery on the CBS D-Day program? —E. Evans, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. The suggestion was made to Eisenhower, but knowing how argumentative Montgomery can be, Ike reportedly turned it down.

Q. President Charles de Gaulle's term of office expires in 1965. Will he run again for President of France? — Anne Rossiter, San Antonio, Tex.

A. Undoubtedly, if his health permits.

Q. Can you tell me what's happened to Olga Ivinskaya, close friend of the late Russian writer, Boris Pasternak?—G.H.S., Syracuse, N.Y.

A. In 1960 she was jailed because of her friendship with Pasternak. The Soviets imprisoned her on trumped-up charges, claiming she illegally used royalties from his famous novel, Dr. Zhivago. Recently Soviet writers have asked Khrushchev to free her, which at this writing he is considering.

Q. Buddy Ebsen, who plays Jed on TV in Beverly Hillbillies*—how old? Married? If so, how many children?—Ann Carruthers, Phoenix, Ariz.*

A. Ebsen, 57, married, is father of 5.

Q. Is it true that our Army and Navy will soon recruit only bachelors?—D. E. Russell, Dorchester, Mass.

A. The Pentagon is considering one such proposal. An all-bachelor service force would save the government over $20,000,000 annually in family allotments.

Q. I've read that Darryl Zanuck failed to make a star out of his previous two protégées, Bella Darvi and Juliette Greco. Now he's trying with his third: Irina Demich. Is this so, or publicity for Demich? — F.T.L., Hollywood, Calif.

A. True. He has cast her in Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines, in a role originally scheduled for Britt Eklund, wife of actor Peter Sellers.

Q. Will Richard Burton leave Elizabeth Taylor for that Swedish blonde in N.Y.?—M. H., New York, N.Y.

A. Mr. Burton wouldn't do a thing like that.

Q. Do they still serve rum in the British Navy to all hands?—Ron Humphrey, Paw Creek, N.C.

A. Yes. "Up Spirits" is piped daily as the traditional pre-lunch drink in the Queen's Navy.

Q. How long was Adlai Stevenson married, and when was he divorced?—James Cable, Miami, Fla.

A. Adlai Stevenson was married to the former Ellen Borden for 21 years, was divorced in 1949.

Q. Can you tell me how much singer Andy Williams earns each year?—Bess Lavalle, St. Louis, Mo.

A. It changes radically from year to year. In 1964 he will gross approximately $1,000,000.

Q. The woman in the prologue to Mike Wallace's TV show, Biography*—is she Greta Garbo as I maintain or Dorothy Kilgallen as my friend maintains?—R. Winkler, St. Louis, Mo.*

A. You are correct. It's Garbo.

Q. Isn't Gen. Thomas Power, commander of our Strategic Air Force, compelled to retire by law in 1964? And isn't his possible replacement, Gen. Walter Sweeney, stationed at Langley Air Force Base, not March Air Force Base? —H.T., Washington, D.C.

A. Right in both instances, although Defense Secretary Robert McNamara could keep Power (above) on if he were so inclined.

Q. Who said, "The art of medicine consists of amusing the patient while nature cures the disease"?—Helen Newsom, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Q. Is actor James Mason about to reconcile with his wife, actress Pamela Mason, because he cannot afford the alimony?—D.V.G., Des Moines, Iowa.

A. Mason says he may go broke, but says reconciliation is out of the question.

HIGH-PRESSURE OXYGEN:

medicine's latest way to save lives

When Richard Donawa, an 18-year-old auto accident victim, was admitted to Bellevue Hospital, New York, a few months ago, his case, although serious, appeared routine. His left leg had been badly crushed in the accident, and the wound was filled with sand and paint flecks. Surgeons cleaned out the wound, then cut away the torn and mutilated tissues. In accordance with standard procedure, Richard was given a tetanus shot and sent to the recovery room.

At this point, it seemed as though Richard would recover normally. But then an infection flared up in his leg. At first doctors feared they might not be able to save it. Soon they were also battling to save the boy's life.

Yet today Richard Donawa is healthy—and will soon walk out of the hospital on both legs. For thanks to an exciting new medical tool called hyperbaric oxygenation, doctors were able to pull him back from the brink of death.

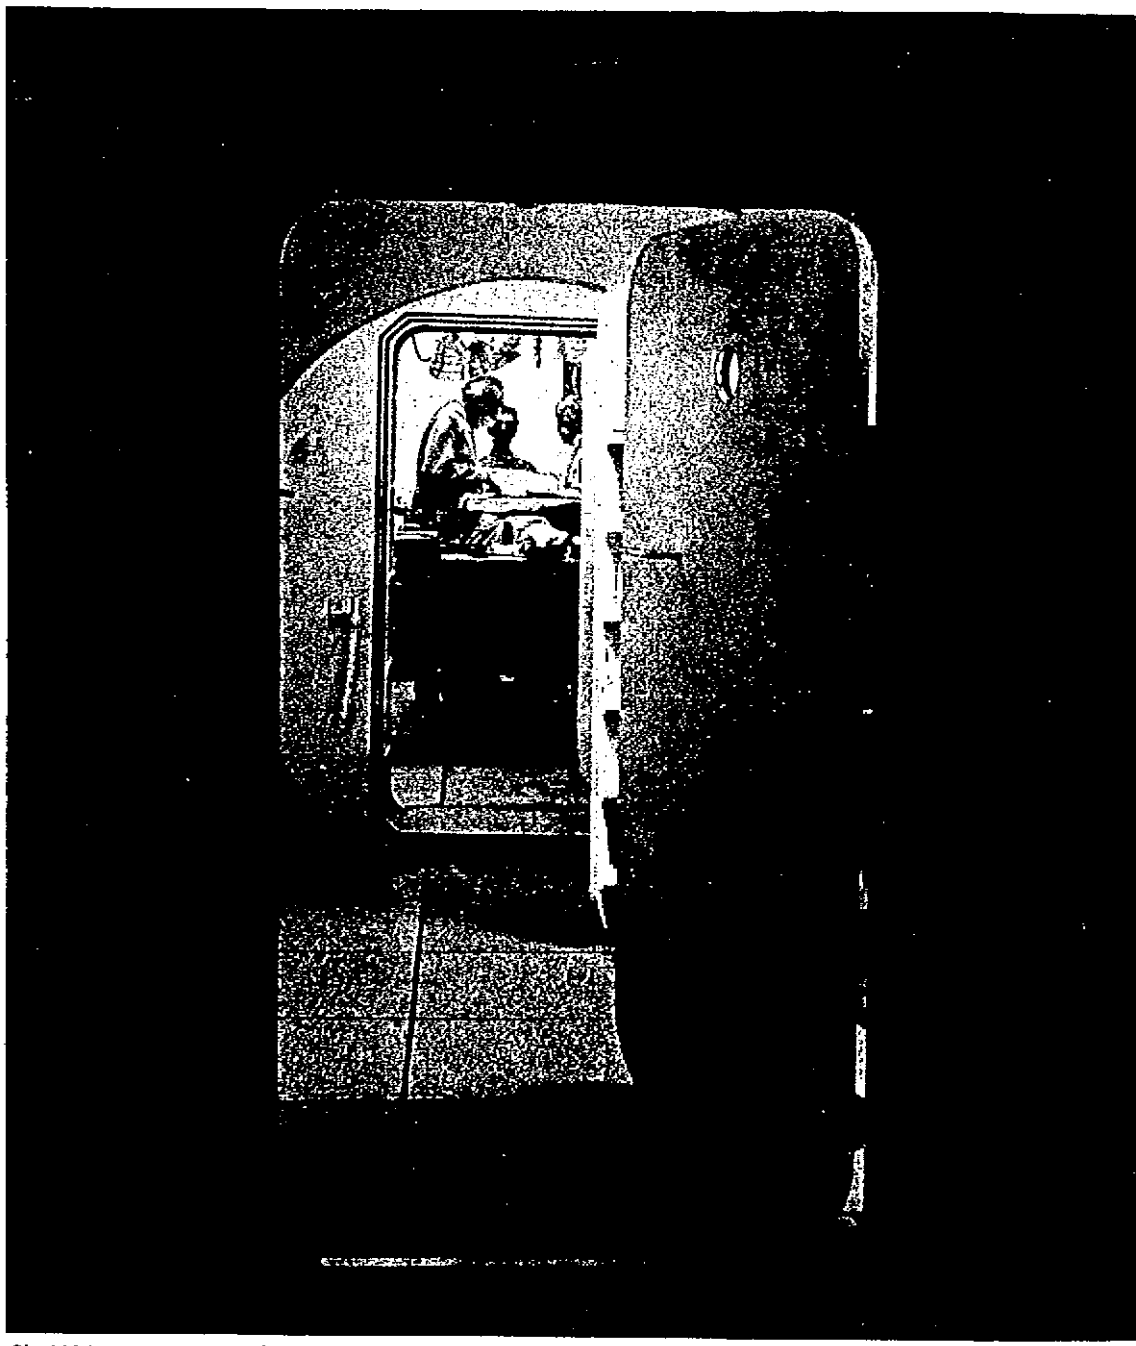

Richard, however, is only one of the recent beneficiaries of this newly rediscovered medical technique. Hyperbaric oxygenation, a method of treating patients with oxygen under abnormally high pressure, is also making headway against several other of mankind's most damaging ills. It has been used to save the lives of victims of carbon monoxide poisoning and tetanus. It has helped to preserve the lives of "blue babies" and to permit delicate operations on other infants. It has made surgery possible for old people and other high-risk patients. And it may even hold out hope against certain forms of America's two great killers—cancer and heart disease.

THREATENED BY GANGRENE

But the case of Richard Donawa saw one of the most dramatic uses of HPO. Shortly after his accident, doctors detected the presence of gas gangrene in Richard's leg. This destructive infection, caused by bacteria that had invaded the wound at the time of the accident, threatened to destroy the remaining muscles and tissues. And if unchecked it could spread throughout the body and cause death.

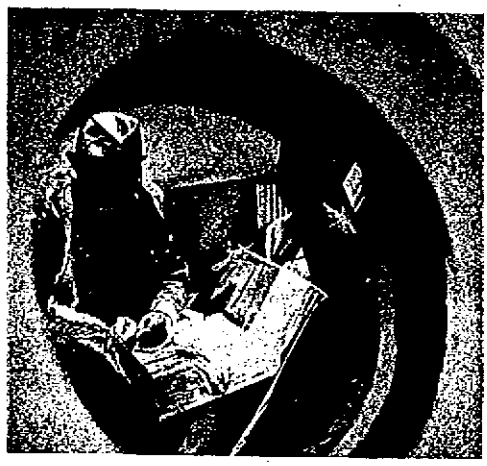

Antibiotics were pumped into the youth to halt the spread of the infection. But after four days the doctors at Bellevue were forced to admit failure. The gangrene could not be halted by conventional therapy. The only recourse seemed to be amputation.

Then, with the drama of a last-minute reprieve, two young interns, Drs. Herbert Berkoff and Gerald Broock, recalled reading that HPO had cured gas gangrene cases in other hospitals. Under this technique, pure oxygen at 3 times the normal atmospheric pressure is administered to the body, so that the cells receive 20 times the normal amount of oxygen. Since the gangrene-causing bacteria cannot live in air, the tremendous increase in oxygen kills them off faster than any other known method.

For Richard, however, this still was only a faint hope. For hyperbaric oxygenation requires the use of a special steel chamber similar to the pressurized caissons used by tunnel workers, and none was available at Bellevue. Then Dr. Roy Klaus, chief of cardiovascular surgery at Bellevue, remembered that Mt. Sinai Hospital had been doing experimental work with a small chamber. He telephoned Dr. Julius H. Jacobson II, a Mt. Sinai expert on hyperbaric oxygenation. "Bring him over immediately," was the reply.

The patient arrived at Mt. Sinai shortly before 6 P.M., was admitted, examined and sped into the small cylindrical chamber. "I thought it was going to be like an iron lung," recalls Donawa. "You know, where your head sticks out. But they pushed me in this thing, head and all, and then the door was cranked shut and I was alone and scared."

Dr. Jacobson opened the valve on a tall oxygen bottle. The gas, under 45 pounds pressure per square inch—which is 3 times the normal pressure—hissed through a hose into the tank. For two hours Donawa's body was drenched with oxygen. Then he was taken out of the chamber and four hours later returned to it. This schedule was continued for 36 hours, until tests showed that the infection had been finally and irreversibly beaten and Richard Donawa's leg and life had been saved.

Hyberbaric oxygenation is not actually a revolutionary new technique, nor was it always a scientific one. The first man to use it was an English physician named Henshaw, in 1662, in the belief he could cure all respiratory ills. The idea failed to attract anything but scorn. Attempts in the 18th and 19th centuries to use oxygen under pressure were unsuccessful.

USE IN OPERATING ROOM

Then, in 1959, Dr. Iete Boerema, a Dutch surgeon, built a complete operating room within a pressure tank at the Wilhelmina Clinic, University of Amsterdam. Boerema proved that oxygen under pressure would provide surgical patients with a much higher than normal reserve of oxygen and could be the difference between life and death under the knife. If administered to the patient in vastly increased quantities, oxygen served to keep him alive during dangerous surgery, which sometimes temporarily cuts off blood that normally carries oxygen to the cells.

Boerema's success with difficult open-heart surgery set off a chain reaction of medical interest in hyperbaric oxygenation. One of its first uses was in "blue baby" operations. At Boston's Children's Hospital, a full-size hyperbaric chamber, first built in 1932 by the Navy as a research tool to investigate caisson disease—the bends—has been installed for such surgery. Dr. William Bernhard and Dr. Robert Gross have performed more than 40 operations on "blue babies"—so-called because they are born with defective hearts which deprive them of blood-borne oxygen, tinging the tiny bodies blue and causing death. The hospital's 29-foot-long hyperbaric oxygen chamber brings the infant's oxygen level up to almost normal before and during surgery. As a result, the team has been able to operate successfully on infants only 12 hours old who might never have survived otherwise.

For the aged and gravely ill who normally would be classed as "poor-risk" surgical patients, because of prior strokes or heart attacks, HPO offers an added safety margin. These patients normally cannot withstand the drop in blood pressure or hemorrhage that may accompany surgery. HPO, however, may deliver enough oxygen to the body to enable the poor-risk patient to withstand the hemorrhage as well as the drop in blood pressure.

Against cancer, high-pressure oxygen seems to have solved a major problem in the radiation treatment of tumors. Explains Dr. Orliss Wildermuth, director of the Tumor Institute of Swedish Hospital, Seattle: "The lack of oxygen in the blood supply of a cancerous growth results in resistance to X-ray treatment, but still allows the cancer cells to flourish. The lack of oxygen, however, can be overcome by HPO, thus restoring sensitivity to X-ray treatment. The high-pressure oxygen, however, does not increase the response of normal tissue to X-rays."

The number-one killer in America, heart disease, may also prove susceptible to treatment in hyperbaric chambers. Recently, a British physician, Dr. A. J. Moon, successfully treated a 56-year-old man who had gone into severe shock after a heart attack. Normal treatments failed to bring him around, and his condition was so poor that his blood pressure dropped to a point where it could not be recorded. Dr. Moon installed him in a hyperbaric oxygen chamber for two hours. His blood pressure quickly rose to over 100. The treatment continued for several days, and, Dr. Moon reported, he recovered uneventfully.

This was one of the first recorded uses of HPO against a very common disease of the heart, myocardial infarction, which is caused by the sudden failure of the arteries to feed blood to the heart itself. One of the great unknowns of infarctions is the length of time the blood supply may be cut off before the muscle is actually damaged. Conceivably, if patients are rushed into an HPO chamber soon enough after a heart attack, the high-pressure oxygen delivered directly to the heart tissues may reduce scarring or prevent its occurring at all.

Animal experiments at New York's Mt. Sinai have been extremely encouraging. Two groups of animals were given artificially induced infarctions. One group was untreated, and only 13 per cent survived. The second group of animals were placed in HPO chambers, and the survival rate soared to 76 per cent.

POTENTIAL IS GREAT

No one is prepared to say just where the uses of hyperbaric oxygenation will lead. Mt. Sinai is installing a giant 45-foot-long chamber capable of containing a full-scale operating suite as well as a treatment lounge. Other hospitals—Lutheran General, Park Ridge, Ill.; Duke University, Durham, N.C.—have going installations which are key units in the search to plumb all the benefits of HPO. Some experts are convinced we have not even begun to realize fully the actual potential and versatility of HPO. Mt. Sinai's Dr. Jacobson declares: "We have only scratched the surface. Hyperbaric oxygenation is potentially as important a tool as blood transfusions or antibiotics. Especially as a research tool, HPO can teach us much."

One of the first lessons, already well absorbed, is the care which must be exercised in hyperbaric oxygenation therapy. The dangers of HPO are not solely to the patient. There is the threat of fire. In addition, prolonged exposure to oxygen under high pressures can be toxic to some people. The bends, of course, are also a distinct threat. Like divers, medical personnel in HPO chambers must undergo a slow decompression to avoid the bends.

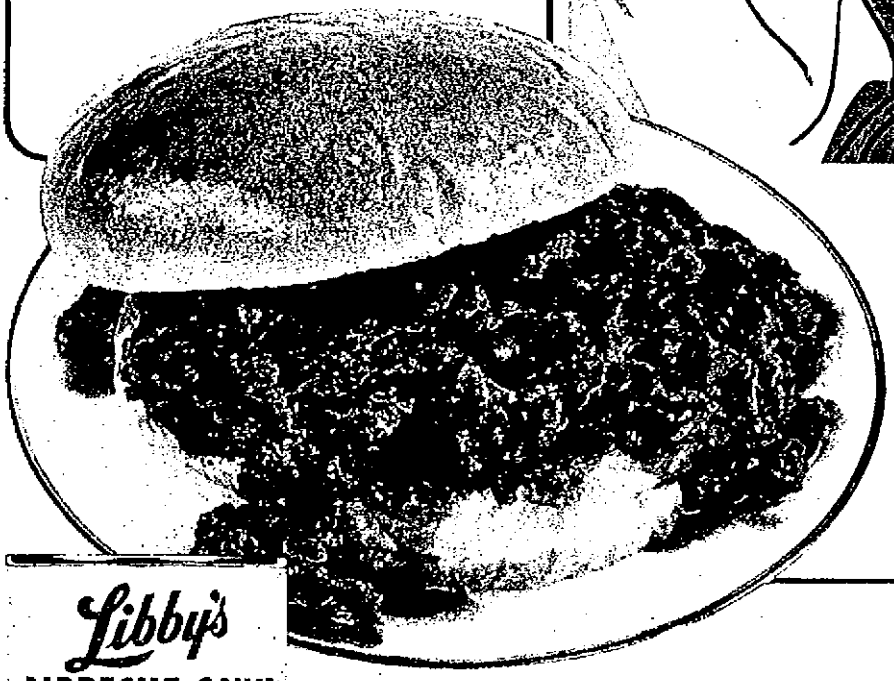

Despite some drawbacks and the great amount of search that still lies ahead, many scientists are convinced that hyperbaric oxygenation can be a true wonder tool in the battle against the ills of man.

On location for Lord Jim, female lead Daliah Lavi, statuesque Israeli actress, is subject of mute admiration by Cambodian girl.

Daliah Lavi

WOMAN OF THE WORLD

by LLOYD SHEARER

LONDON.

Twelve years ago Hollywood star Kirk Douglas was working in a small Israeli village north of Haifa, filming a motion picture called The Juggler.

One afternoon a girl of 10, tall for her age, with the blackest hair and the most luminous, sloe, black-brown eyes, gracefully slithered up to Douglas and Swedish actor Christopher Kent. Sweetly she invited them to her tenth birthday party.

Impressed by the child's poise and exotic beauty, Douglas asked questions. Readily the girl replied.

Her name, she said, was Daliah Lewinbook. Her mother was a German refugee, her father a gardener descended from a tribe of Caucasian Gypsies. More than anything else in life, she wanted to become a ballet dancer.

Douglas and Kent walked home with the girl. By the time her party was over, the Hollywood star was so taken by the 10-year-old that he asked her parents if he might adopt her. He pointed out the many advantages she would enjoy in California, the fine prospects of her developing into a top ballerina.

"She's too young to leave us," Daliah's father decided. "Maybe when she's older."

Two years later, Douglas, involved in a divorce and faced with many personal and professional problems, wrote Daliah and explained that while he could no longer adopt her, he had arranged through Christopher Kent for a Swedish family to take her.

Thus, at 12, Daliah Lewinbook went to live with her new parents in Stockholm. She stayed with them four years, studied dancing and acting, got her first job as a dancer with the Stockholm Opera Company.

Last week Daliah Lewinbook (now Daliah Lavi), 22, a veteran of 15 films, finished acting with Peter O'Toole, Curt Jurgens, James Mason, Paul Lukas and Akim Tamiroff in the screen version of Joseph Conrad's famous novel, Lord Jim, certainly one of the major motion pictures of 1964.

'INCREDIBLE MIXTURE OF EVERYTHING'

"My life," she told me as we shared a glass of warm English beer in her Chelsea flat, "has been an incredible mixture of everything. I was born in Israel of German and Gypsy blood. I had another set of Scandinavian parents. I was raised in hot and cold countries. When I was 16½ and my real father died, I returned to Israel and worked as a bathing suit model. Then I was offered a film contract and became an actress, although I've always wanted to be a dancer.

"When I was 17," she continued, "I married a Frenchman and lived in Paris. This marriage lasted only two years, during which I made five films. In 1961 I worked in my first American picture, Two Weeks in Another Town, with Kirk Douglas.

"I speak English, Swedish, Hebrew, French, Italian, German and Arabic, and my home now is in Rome. That's where Richard Brooks, the director, saw me in an Italian film and signed me for Lord Jim.

"I've just fallen in love with an Irishman—he does the stunts for the stars in films—and I guess my home from now on will be here in London, because that's where he lives. I guess you might call me a woman of the world."

People who know Daliah well—Peter O'Toole is one of them—call her an enormously talented "kook," a complex young woman who paints, dances, sculpts, is more interested in buying antiques and artifacts than clothes and cosmetics, but who nevertheless has a sensible set of values.

"To me," Daliah says, "the three most important things in life are health, wealth and love—not necessarily in that order. But with me, health comes first. I'm tall—5-feet-8—and I look strong, but I'm not. I'm weak and I fall sick easily, so I crave good health.

"As for money, I need it to support my mother and a younger brother and sister, and I guess that's why I act. I like acting and it pays well, and they say one day I will become a big star. But I don't really care about an acting career. I'd rather be a dancer.

"But never before have I been this happy. You see, for the first time in my life I'm in love in a new way. With this man I don't consider myself at all. I think only of him, of that big, strong, red-faced Irishman you see sitting there watching the horseraces on television."

She got up, shuffled over to his chair and ever so lightly kissed the handsome stuntman on the forehead.

WOMAN IN LOVE

"I like to refer to myself," she admitted, "as a woman of the world. But the truth is," she added, "that all women newly in love are simple, giggling, young girls. I'm no exception."

As a woman in love that statement is undoubtedly true of Daliah Lavi. As a motion picture actress it's not. Unique in her exotieness, photogenic from every angle, generating a dark, semioriental type of sex appeal, she offers new qualities to the American and Canadian film-goer. Executives at Columbia Pictures feel strongly that what Lawrence of Arabia did for Peter O'Toole, Lord Jim may do for her—lead her to stardom.

At this moment, however, stardom is farthest from her mind. Ecstatically, tempestuously, recklessly in love with a stuntman whose name cannot be revealed because he is not yet fully divorced, Daliah Lavi is soaring on Cloud 9.

Let's hope it lasts.

1¾ cups grated Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 bananas
Packaged cornflake crumbs
Vegetable oil

Combine cheese, flour, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Fold in egg whites. Cut bananas in ½- to ¾-inch slices. Coat each slice with cheese mixture (don't dip; pat around banana slice to coat evenly); roll in crumbs. Pour oil in skillet to depth of 1½ inches; heat to 375°. Fry scallops in oil until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve immediately. Makes 10-15 scallops.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

Because of volume of mail received, PARADE regrets it is unable to answer queries about this column.

ULCERS. Supposedly an ulcer is a badge of success brought on by work and worry in a competitive society. From Sweden and Dr. Fritz Karlstrom comes a report which negates that assumption. Dr. Karlstrom examined 184 ulcer-affected children in 40 Swedish clinics, discovered that in 47% of the cases the ulcers occurred in those children whose fathers also had ulcers. In short, suspicion is strong that the ulcer tendency is hereditary.

ODDS. Bookies throughout England are giving 5 to 1 that in the next general election, most probably in the fall, the Labor Party will win, Harold Wilson will become Prime Minister and the steel industry will be nationalized.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE. If you'd like to work for the government, best bet as regards pay is the federal government. Uncle Sam pays much higher wages than state or local governments. On the average, each federal employee receives $559 a month, each full-time state or local worker $457 a month. There are an estimated 13 federal civilian employees for each 1,000 Americans. There are 9.7 million government employees in this country, approximately 2.5 million on the federal level.

PARENTS AND PROMISCUITY. Parents are to blame for their teenagers' sexual promiscuity. So claims Dr. Mary Calderone, a New York City specialist on public health. "There have been many surveys on adolescent sexual activity," she recently declared at the national convention of the PTA. "You pay your money and you take your choice. But the facts are that the excellent studies by Christianson of Purdue University show that one out of every five U.S. brides is pregnant on her wedding day...We have done a half-baked job on sex education..." Dr. Calderone advocates a full factual educational program from first grade to senior high school. "We have in the last 15 years," she said, "lifted all forms of discipline and control from our teenagers and substituted nothing for them."

FIDEL CASTRO: HE NEEDS DRUGS.

DRUG SQUEEZE. Cuba is trying desperately to get large supplies of American drugs. The $29 million in U.S. drugs delivered in the prisoner ransom are gone. Most of the older doctors who remained in Cuba when Castro came to power are familiar with U.S. drugs and do not like to prescribe the medicines available in Havana from Russia and Czechoslovakia. Our Commerce Department, however, by imposing a strict license procedure, has halted the shipment of drugs to Cuba and will okay only a limited amount of pharmaceuticals. We are afraid that if bulk shipments are sent in, Castro will use these to bargain with and influence other Latin-American countries.

NEW LOOK. Soviet Russia is in the throes of an economic revolution. Premier Khrushchev has abandoned many of the fundamental concepts of traditional Communist dogma, going ever further away from the Marxist-Lenin line. He is advocating pay raises as worker incentives and an investment in the chemical industry "that will result in a net profit of 15 million rubles." For a dedicated Communist to talk in terms of profits -- that's revolutionary indeed. The Nuclear Age, the failure of Russian agricultural policy, the education of the younger generation, the increasing demands of the Soviet consumer for more goods, have compelled Khrushchev to enter more and more into the sphere of capitalistic economics. Mr. K. is finding out that in an educated society, Communism does not work.

DIVORCE IN BELGIUM. Under study by lawyers, judges and marriage counselors is the Belgian divorce procedure, purportedly one of the world's best. Belgian law accepts divorce by mutual consent, with neither of the parties declared legally guilty. The procedure, however, is not quick. Before the divorce is granted, all contentious questions of alimony and child custody must be settled. Then the parties must appear before a judge on four different occasions without their lawyer. On each of these occasions the judge seeks to reconcile the couple. These four appearances take place at three-month intervals over one year. If a reconciliation is not effected, a divorce is granted. There is no guilty party.

break "itch-cycle" ...stop skin itch

even embarrassing itch

Now you can get fast, blessed relief from the tortures of itching, chafing, rashes, dry skin eczema . . . even embarrassing membrane itching (feminine and personal).

Thousands of women and men suffer the torture and embarrassment of membrane itching. But now they are discovering the wonderful relief LANACANE brings.

Don't suffer. Try LANACANE. This amazing medicated creme is greaseless, vanishing, pleasant to use. At all drug stores.

Doctors explain how LANACANE breaks "itch-cycle"

1. Itching causes scratching . . . scratching increases irritation, causing more itching . . . more scratching.

2. LANACANE calms irritated nerve ends. Stops urge to scratch, thus breaks vicious "itch-scratch-itch-cycle".

Soothes raw, inflamed tissue, checks harmful bacteria growth, helps speed healing.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

THEY WORKED A DAY FOR JFK

■ Tens of thousands of boys and girls, young men and women, are sending their earnings for a day's work to help build the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

Even today, 10 weeks after PARADE's open letter to America's youth to work a day for JFK as a tribute to the late President, the mail continues to pour in.

Participating in the project are hundreds of schools and the local units of such national organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Club, Little League and Campfire Girls. In one instance, a whole town —Girard, Ohio—pitched in. But the overwhelming response has been from

These four young girls from Tupper Lake, N.Y., staged a Beatle play which raised $3.25. They dressed up as Beatles, performed in pantomime to the accompaniment of Beatle records. Their mothers also joined in the festivities and sold popcorn and soft drinks.

Seven-year-old Joy Anderson of Citrus Heights, Calif., was paid $3.90 for catching 78 ladybugs on her mother's roses. Mrs. Kennedy is grateful to Joy and to the thousands of other youngsters who did a day's work for the library project.

the individual teen and subteen, who demonstrate how resourceful, creative, intelligent and good-willed are America's youth.

The photos on these pages are a small sampling of the more than 100 ways—from collecting pollen for anti-allergy use to digging worms for grandfather to fish—in which the money is being earned.

Mrs. Kennedy is tremendously impressed with the letters accompanying the nickels, dimes and dollars, and she plans to send a personal thank-you note to each contributor. Many of the subteen letters are both humorous and original. Those from the teenagers repeatedly express gratitude for being given the chance to take part in a worth-while project. As Rita Mastrogiacomo of Endicott, N. Y., explains: "It will give us a chance to prove ourselves worthy and willing, the way many of us are when we are given the proper chance." PARADE will publish some of the best letters in an early issue.

Many groups—among them hundreds of private camps—are planning work-a-day-for-JFK projects during the summer. You, too, can still participate. Send your letter and the earnings of a day's work to Kennedy Library Fund, Parade, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Thirteen children from Bonneville, Ore., third- through fifth-graders, held a community car wash at the site of the Bonneville Dam. All of the youngsters are members of Girl Scout and Boy Scout groups. Profit for their day's work was $6.55.

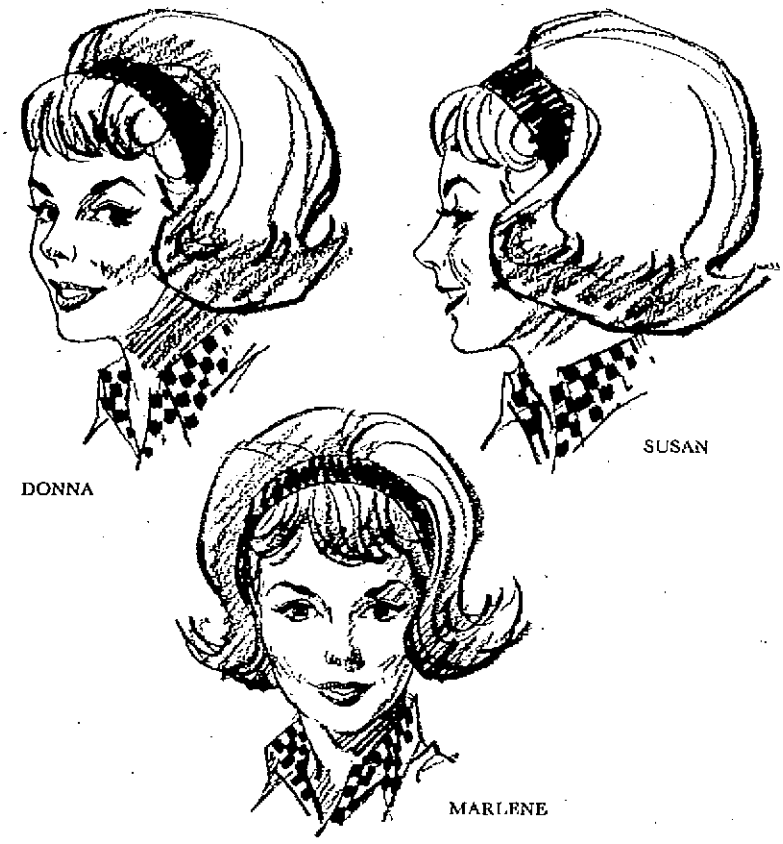

Test your talent

WIN ONE OF THREE $595 COMMERCIAL ART SCHOLARSHIPS PLUS CASH PRIZES

For many years Art Instruction Schools has conducted art talent contests. These contests helped to uncover new talent for the many fields of commercial art. Hundreds, who are successful commercial artists today, started their exciting careers by sketching the famous "draw-me" heads. With these triplet drawings our professional artists can evaluate the trainable talent you may have.

As you try each of these drawings you'll probably find Susan the easiest to draw because she is a simple draw-me-type profile. The sketch of Marlene is "full-face"; the planes of her face are equal and symmetrical. Donna may be the most difficult for you to draw. Hers is a "three-quarters profile", using perspective to give the illusion of depth. Even if you feel you could only draw Susan, we can train you to draw the others.

Because of the varying degrees of difficulty of each of the heads your drawings of the triplets will be individually judged—as three separate contests, cash awards plus scholarship prizes go to the winner of each contest: $25 for Susan, $50 for Marlene, and $75 for Donna.

Draw one or "triple your fun" and draw all of the triplets. Make your drawings, in pencil, larger or smaller than those above. If you win one of three commercial art scholarships you'll receive a complete home study course in advertising art, illustrating, cartooning or painting. You'll be taught by professional artists from America's largest home study art school, Art Instruction Schools. Even those who do not win will receive an honest professional appraisal of their talents. Entries for these three contests must be in before August 31, 1964. None can be returned. Our students and professional artists are not eligible. Start your drawings now; mail your entry today.

TAKE A LOOK AT THESE NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME AND FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

Unusual broiler-grill: This one (above), useful indoors and out, has a glass-ceramic infrared burner and operates on propane or natural gas. It has a valve to fit a 1-lb. propane bottle, the type you may have in your home workshop; produces no smoke because fats cannot drip into overhead burner; heats to cooking intensity in seconds so you waste no fuel in preheating. $59.95. Corning Glass, Dept. PP, Corning, N.Y.

A safety flasher: To reduce hazards of nighttime roadside emergency stops, a new car accessory automatically flashes your brake lights as a warning signal visible a half mile away. It mounts under the dash, does not interfere with stop lights or the directional signals. Give car year, make and model. $4.95. Marco, Dept. PP, Box 924, Salem, Mass.

Quick dry: Here's a little portable electric dryer (below) for lingerie, small washables. Only 8½ inches high, it has an automatic timer you set for any of 5 drying cycles, is guaranteed safe for synthetics, delicate fabrics. White, blue or pink. With carry case. $19.95. Roycraft, Dept. PP, 226 West 39 Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64111.

my favorite jokes

by Norm Crosby

EDITOR'S NOTE: Norm Crosby, who a few years ago laughed himself out of the shoe business in Boston, is today one of the fastest-rising comics in show business. Since his big-time debut last year in New York City's Latin Quarter, Crosby has worked every day. He has appeared at the famed Copacabana in New York, the Elegante in Brooklyn and at all the popular Borsht Circuit resorts in the Catskills. He has also worked on stage with Sammy Davis, Jr., Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Johnny Mathis and others. Last Christmas, Crosby made his television debut on the Garry Moore Show. As a result of that comedy engagement he was signed to appear on most of the other TV variety programs. Originally an advertising manager for a large retail shoe chain, Crosby insists that telling such jokes as the following "is a much better living."

Comics always make fun of marriage, but it has been proven that married life is healthy. Statistics show that single people die much more quickly than married folks. Therefore, if you are looking for a long, slow death—get married!

While I was appearing at a hotel in New York's Catskill Mountains, a little dog ran on-stage in the middle of my act: I was absolutely amazed when he sat up and asked me if he could do a few numbers. "Certainly," I said, and stood dumbfounded as the puppy sang and danced and did impressions. A few minutes later, as the audience applauded wildly, a big black dog ran up on stage and picked the puppy up in its mouth. Noting my look of surprise as it was being carried off-stage, the pup grinned and said, "She's my mother —wants me to be a doctor!"

Women today are not only wearing wigs to fool their menfolk, but they use all sorts of artificial gimmicks. My uncle's first two wives deserted him, and he had enough stuff left over to make himself a third!

Where else but in America could a young man start to work in a big factory as a shipping clerk, two weeks later become a salesman, one month later a sales manager, six weeks later junior vice-president in charge of sales, two months later senior vice-president in charge of production and at a board of directors meeting the following month be made senior vice-president at a salary of $100,000 a year? It actually happened to a friend of mine. And at the board meeting, the president of the company shook my friend's hand and asked if he had something to say. "Thanks," said the new tycoon.

"Is that all you can say?" thundered the president. "This is a momentous day in your life!"

"Yes, that's true," answered my friend, "so tonight I'm going to celebrate. Tell Mom I won't be home for dinner."

In a lodge in the Catskills lives an old Indian handyman who is supposed to possess a fantastic memory. One of the doubting guests told him about a brother who had visited the hotel three years previously, and he asked if the Indian could recall what the brother had for breakfast.

"Eggs," answered the Indian.

"He's a fake," said the guest. "Anyone would say eggs for breakfast."

Two years later the same guest returned to the lodge and saw the old Indian sitting on the ground. He walked up to the old fellow, raised his hand and said, "How."

The Indian answered, "Scrambled."

Two matrons were discussing the art exhibit they were viewing.

"I like abstract paintings," said one, "but I can't have them around the house. After all, I have a 16-year-old daughter at home!"

"But why should that make any difference?" asked the other.

"Well, you must remember," answered the first, "that with those abstract things, you never know for sure whether or not they are decent!"

Pedigreed poodle: "Do you have a family tree?"

Heterogeneous hound: "No, we aren't particular."

What Makes a Woman CHOOSE SUCH A LIFE?

You see her walking down the street, and you wonder about her.

She isn't fashionably dressed like other women. She wears no lipstick, no make-up, no high heels or nylons. Instead of a "perky" hat, her head is covered by a hood and veil. Her dress is a billowing, full-length habit that bears little resemblance to feminine fashions.

And as she passes by, you realize that here is a woman different from others not only in dress . . . but in her entire way of life. Here is one who has deliberately turned her back upon the worldly pleasures which other women seek and enjoy. And perhaps you wonder why a woman should give up all this to become a Catholic nun.

Is it because she is afraid to face the world and its responsibilities? Is it because she lacks talents that other women possess and, therefore, seeks shelter in the convent? Or does she choose the life of a nun because she thinks it is easier and more secure than life in a world of fluctuating economic conditions?

No—a nun who will knock at your door asking for alms for the poor surely is not afraid of the world. A Catholic sister competent to teach in a school . . . and often highly gifted in the arts and languages . . . is surely not lacking in talents. Nor can anyone who has seen a Catholic nun mothering the sick in a hospital believe that she is lacking in the maternal instinct.

What is it, then, that prompts a woman to turn her back upon the pleasures and luxuries of the world for a life of poverty, chastity and obedience. How is it that hundreds of thousands of women do this . . . many of them coming from well-to-do families which could supply their every need and wish? What is the spark that fires their zeal for God, and for humanity?

The answer is, of course, that the heart of a nun is filled with the desire to serve God. And that desire is the product of her Catholic Faith.

Perhaps you would not or could not become a nun, or a priest, or a religious of the Catholic Church. Perhaps you would not even want to be a Catholic. But if you wish to inform yourself concerning the teachings and beliefs of the Church which can inspire such magnificent sacrifice and service, write for free Pamphlet No. PR-25. It will be sent immediately and nobody will call on you.

In addition, 120 Special Merit Awards of $50 and $25 will be given.

Read These Rules and Send Your Entries Right Away!

1. The contest is strictly for amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible excepting employees of this newspaper, or employees of any newspaper participating in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, employees of the sponsors and their families, and individuals who, personally, or any members of whose families are engaged in the manufacture, sale, commercial finishing or professional use of photographic goods.

2. Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1963, are eligible, black-and-white and color PRINTS accepted only.

3. Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No print, enlargement or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negative from which they are made—or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4. To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor." On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the pictured entered. (See classes.)

5. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED. Do not submit negatives with your print. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6. At the close of contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $31,000.

7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8. It is not premissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the twenty-sixth annual (1964) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one of more than eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

CLASSES

A. BABIES AND CHILDREN—One or more youngsters to be judged for cuteness, expression of character, or mood. Subjects may be engaged in any activity or interest. Adults may appear if they are not the principal interest.

B. ACTIVITIES—Teen-agers or adults. They may be engaged in any activity outdoors or indoors, at any season: occupations, hobbies, sports, and recreations; any picture that tells a story of an interesting phase of everyday life. Children may appear if they are not the principal interest.

C. SCENES AND "TABLETOPS" Judged for scenic or pictorial appeal—landscapes, marine views, historical spots, street scenes, buildings; or unusual "still-life" subjects including "tabletop" or miniature arrangements.

D. ANIMAL LIFE—Household pets, farm animals, forest wild life, zoo animals, etc.; any situation in which the aforesaid subjects are of principal interest.

Color Entries Will be Judged In the Same Four Classes Listed Above

IMPORTANT: If you snap a picture which you expect to enter in the contest and in which a person or persons appear, be sure to get their names and addresses. This is necessary because, before your picture can become eligible for entry in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, the written consent of such recognizable person or person to the use of the picture for advertising purposes must be obtained.

OUR COVER

America's national pastime being what it is—in a flourishing state that creates sports idols by the dozens—just about every growing youngster has an ambition, secret or loudly declared, to become a major league baseball player. And whether the kids are 7 (as redheaded Terrence Hunter is) or 17, they argue with the umpire. And even though he's only 7, Terrence gets the usual reply from Umpire Donn Seaman. It's all part of the game, junior or major leagues, and the juniors are stressing the development of the boy in sportsmanship as well as skill in the diamond game. For the story of the men who help youngsters grow up to be ball players—big league or little—see "Big Daddy of Little Baseball" by Jerome Hall on Page 8.

NEXT WEEK

The world turns its attention to Long Beach within a few days now as this city prepares to entertain the loveliest girls in the world for the International Beauty Congress Aug. 5-15. Hence the question, "What is a beauty queen?" For those who have an eye for beauty and like to make a prediction on the outcome of the contest, Southland next week gives some statistics on past beauty pageants here—past performances, the race track devotees would call it—that might help to pick a winner. Watch for it next Sunday.

In "The Night of the Iguana," Sue Lyon leaves behind the lollipop and the heart-shaped glasses of "Lolita."

MOVIES

'Lolita' Grows Up

HAVING reached the ripe age of 17, Sue Lyon has left behind the heart-shaped sunglasses and lollipop of "Lolita," the film which made her famous, to play a seductress in the Ray Stark production, "The Night of the Iguana." And the man in the case is none less than Richard Burton!

Presented by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Seven Arts, this is the much-talked-about screen version of the Tennessee Williams play, which was voted the best play of the 1961-62 season by the New York drama critics. It was filmed on locations in Mexico, largely in the isolated little fishing village of Mismaloya on the Pacific coast.

Blonde, blue-eyed Miss Lyons finds herself in distinguished company in "The Night of the Iguana," in which she not only plays dynamic love scenes with Burton but also faces the competition of such established actresses as Ava Gardner and Deborah Kerr. And this in only her second motion picture. All three women become romantically involved with Burton in Tennessee Williams' sensuous story which revolves about a defrocked minister who, as a tourist guide, leads a group of schoolteachers on a trip in Mexico, but Miss Lyon, as the youngest of the tourists, gets there first.

ALTHOUGH she is still a teen-ager, her role as Charlotte Goodall in "The Night of the Iguana" marks a more mature Sue Lyon in more ways than one. For one thing, she is no longer Miss Lyon in her private life. Shortly after the picture was completed, she became the bride of actor Hampton Fancher III, who had been frequently at her side during the location filming in Mexico.

Perhaps the greatest experience she gained from working with highly successful professionals in "The Night of the Iguana" was an added poise and assurance.

SINCE HER meteoric rise to stardom on the heels of "Lolita," the question most frequently asked of Miss Lyon is whether she felt that the role of the nymphet had distorted her life.

"Have you ever heard of anything so absurd?" she said.

In 1960, Sue was taken to see the casting director assembling players for "Lolita." She was referred to producer James B. Harris and director Stanley Kubrick. Sue knew there were hundreds of aspirants for the plum role and did not expect to get it. In fact, she rather clowned her way through the interview and it was this nonchalance which formed the basis for her being chosen.

"However, the girl in 'The Night of the Iguana' is not like Lolita," said a critic. "Lolita was a young girl who was curious and wanted to know. This girl, Charlotte, already knows."

Joss House 'Beneath the Clouds'

By Dorothy Parcel

"Chi Wen," carvings of fish with upturned tails, on rooftop are supposed to protect this old joss house.

"THE TEMPLE Amongst the Forest Beneath the Clouds" lies along a winding path shaded by locust trees in the center of Weaverville, Calif. The Joss House is almost the only reminder of the thousands of Chinese who lived and worked and fought and died in Weaverville during the mining days of the 1850s. Many tourists traversing U.S. Highway 299 between Redding and the coast stop off to view the gilt-incrusted interior of the temple or the contrastingly bleak priest's quarters next door will bring thoughts of black-coated, queued Chinese, trotting single file through the alien wilderness.

Now a State Historical Monument, the Joss House (a temple of worship), was deeded to California by Moon Lee, a son of one of its builders, and is open to the public daily. Under the Division of Parks and Beaches, restoration and research into the history and structure of the Joss House is continuing.

THE BUILDING'S unusual architectural plan includes two parallel gables and a frame exterior painted to resemble tile. Over the entrance a cornice board is decorated with brightly painted carvings of butterflies, flowers and vines.

The building replaced the original Joss House, destroyed by fire in 1873. To ward off a similar catastrophe, the front gable has carvings of "Chi Wen," fish with upturned tails. Most of the furnishings were saved from the fire and again occupy their proper places in the temple.

Inside the temple, a faint spicy odor of incense lingers in the faded folds of tapestries once vibrant with hues of red, blue, green and gold. Still discernible on the tapestries are lions, phoenix and butterflies. Suspended from the strangely pointed ceiling above the altar are lamp shades painted with scenes of Chinese life. On pedestals, rich with gilt and carving, rest clay idols of wealth and medicine.

IN CONTRAST to the temple, the priest's cell is austere. A narrow aisle separates a cot made from rough boards covered with a thin pad from a table. A charcoal stove, a trunk under the bed and a rough cupboard complete the furnishings.

Timid around other miners, the Chinese frequently quarreled among themselves. One of the great "Tong Wars" was fought at Five Cent Creek, near Weaverville. For several months the clans from Hong Kong and Canton disputed about mining claims. These disputes were settled by fierce gestures and shouting until, finally someone was killed and invitations to a war were issued. Several Chinese lost their lives, as well as some of the bystanders, but the Hong Kongs were the heaviest losers. There was a victory celebration in the camp of the Cantons and the Battle of Trinity County was officially over.

Although the men who built the Joss house are long dead, bowls that held incense and burnt prayers are cold and the colors in the tapestries are softened by time, the imagination will trace black clad, pigtailed figures kneeling before the altars or sitting quietly on benches in the temple waiting room.

Lights..Camera.. Action!

By Sheri C. Neville

INVITE friends over for an evening of your best home movies and more often than not you will end up spending that evening alone. That is, unless you are fortunate enough to be a member of the Long Beach Cinema Club—in which case you may find yourself having to beat enthusiastic friends, neighbors and relatives away with your tripod!

Founded in 1937, the Long Beach Cinema Club offers such a diversified program of meetings, workshops, field trips and opportunities to share and view each other's films—that even the most avid amateur movie maker would be envious.

Originally, the club was started by a group of enthusiastic Long Beach area residents desiring to promote local interest in amateur movie making. Now, 27 years later, the organization participates in such philanthropic pursuits as the making of service films for community agencies; documentary films for civic and service groups, ad infinitum.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for membership, one needs only a movie camera; a certain amount of free time; and a sincere desire to create films which are as near perfect upon completion as possible. There are nominal yearly dues for memberships—associate members pay even less.

Among the 75 active and associate members are students, professional people, bus drivers, baby sitters and homemakers—ranging in ages from 18 to 80.

What binds this unique group of people together? Why do they return eagerly month after month? Year after year? Common interest, individual and group participation; variety and good organizational planning provide the answer.

One or two members recall, with a bit of nostalgia, their first "home" —the Belmont Police Station in Belmont Shore. The club now meets on the first and third Wednesday of each month in the modern Houghton Park Clubhouse, Atlantic Avenue and Harding Street in North Long Beach.

MEETINGS consist of many things. Members sometimes devote an entire evening to the viewing of films which they or their guests have prepared. Afterwards, discussion, praise and constructive criticism are offered.

Other nights are given over to educational talks and demonstrations by members or guests from other clubs (the Long Beach Cinema Club is one of eight groups which comprise the Southern California Association of Amateur Movie Clubs). Special "professional" dimensions were added to a recent meeting when a television film editor addressed the group.

Workshops are an essential and vital function of the club's program. Here, beginning members receive help and instruction from wiser, more experienced movie makers. Time is spent editing films, making titles and recording sound. Alone, such tasks can be nerve-wracking; together, they can mean an evening of fun and accomplishment.

FOR SOME members, the greatest enjoyment in the club is found in the shooting of group scenarios (or skits). Planning is the keyword here. Together, they decide upon a story idea. A script is then written and distributed to all members. This done, a film director is chosen and a cast (usually made up of club members) is lined up. Make-up and costuming are taken care of by individuals in the club having special know-how and talents in these areas. Whether "shot" at the clubhouse or while on special field trips—these story films provide exercises in technique not found in any other form of movie-making.

Numerous anecdotes concerning past scenario shootings float reminiscently through the air of club socials. Members speak of the western they filmed in Calico Ghost Town, Yermo, (when "a stranger from back East got so excited that he asked permission to join the group and remained throughout the day"); a production called, "The Necklace," starring a girl from Community Playhouse (it won a bronze medal from Better Home Movie Making magazine), and a recent session of retakes ("a stagehand pulled a bit too hard on the cord attached to an actor's wig and it went flying up, up, up . . . 'til it finally became lodged between curtain rods above the stage—unretrievable!")

LONG BEACH and Harbor area history can be found in the film libraries of individual club members. Warren Nash, club historian, has recorded for posterity such memorable events as the last trip of the Pacific Electric cars through city streets; Terminal Island's ferry, the Islander, bidding its final adieu, and many more.

Other enthusiasts prefer local sporting events, parades and beauty pageants. One member, specializing in travelogues, has journeyed to far-off Africa in search of new material. Ninety per cent of the club members produce sound movies, either recorded at time of filming or dubbed in later by assorted methods. Cameras and equipment vary in value, and many members work with both 8 and 16-mm. outfits.

Perhaps the club's most amazing facet is its members' extensive philanthropic and service film activities. Requests pour in continually from community agencies, public service groups, and so on. Whenever possible, these are filled immediately by willing and energetic members.

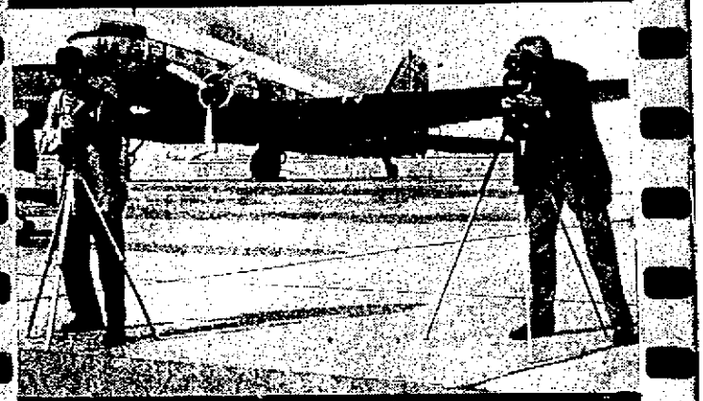

Two such club productions received Norris Harkness Awards from the Photographic Society of America in the category of Outstanding Community Service. "A World of Their Own," completed for the Exceptional Children's Foundation, shows the history and purpose behind the school—making it a tremendous aid in fund-raising.

The other award-winning documentary was made to fill a request from Long Beach's 8646th Air Force Reserve Recruiting Group. Film was supplied by the Air Force, cameramen, by the Long Beach Cinema Club. Subject: a simulated air rescue, enacted at a local airfield.

Big Daddy of Little Baseball

One of many former professional baseball players who devotes much time to teaching youngsters to keep their eyes on the ball is Chuck Stevens.

By Jerome Hall

THROUGH the pages of sports history the villains have been the Colosseum's lions, St. George's dragon, the Black Sox, the basketball "fixers" and little league managers.

Few have been the voices raised in support of the lions, fewer still for the Black Sox. But rarest of all has been a kind word for the little league manager.

He has been characterized as the oaf who badgers little kids because they strike out, the slob who swears at umpires every time his ego spills over. He's the overweight grump who never outgrew his boyhood ambition to be a major leaguer. He's . . . well, he's all sorts of nasty things.

Each time the subject of kid baseball is dissected in print, the villain is the same—Big Daddy of little baseball, he's often called.

But just so he won't be batting .000, here's a kind word for the beleaguered chap.

THE KID BASEBALL manager is a man to be saluted, usually a good father, often a pillar of the community and it has been said by spokesmen for major league baseball that the little league manager breathed enough life into our national pastime to keep it from dying.

That's quite a record for a no-good, short-tempered, child baiter.

The ugly image was acquired a decade ago and there probably was some truth to it, but great changes have taken place among the little leaguers. Those who run junior baseball teams are no different from those men who run Boy Scout troops. A study by a governmental agency in association with the national physical fitness program found that the caliber of man teaching the kid baseballers is at least as high as the teachers the lad has for geography and arithmetic and the rest of his schooling.

And young fellows in Southern California have the additional advantage of learning their baseball from men who know the game, professional ballplayers.

"WE'VE GOT HUNDREDS of players teaching kids during the off-season," says Chuck Stevens, secretary-manager of the Professional Ballplayers Association, "and hundreds more former pros coaching kid teams in just about every league in these parts."

This is baseball country, the game's incubator. This is where there's a baseball college for kids all year 'round.

"I've seen five or six major leaguers at once coaching at a clinic in Long Beach," says Stevens. "The best school I ever saw was run by Charlie Brown last winter for the recreation department and it was free."

Brown has been a guiding force behind Long Beach and Lakewood junior baseball for many years and has been teaching the game to youngsters for 33 years. He started one of the first kid leagues in the nation. He has founded and developed several Long Beach and Lakewood leagues.

BROWN, IN HIS capacity with the Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Department, comes into contact with more junior league coaches than any other man in the country, probably (this spring he held clinics for 2,700 coaches) and he says, "They're good men. The bad ones are weeded out in a hurry. It's no problem telling which ones you don't want around. Kids are great judges of adults' character."

Great strides have been made by the junior leagues in eliminating what they've been most severely criticized for—emotional stress to win. Some leagues have substituted a sportsmanship trophy as top award. This is a plot against over-zealous coaches. If there is a bad-conduct report, the kids point an accusing finger at the coach for losing the trophy.

"This has been a great idea and I think it's going to catch on a lot more," says Bob Fitzpatrick, a leader in the 11-school, 1,000-boy citywide Catholic League.

There has been a marked change within segments of kid baseball that have been regarded as high-pressure. The Little League, with headquarters at Williamsport, Pa., is quietly ordering its regional directors to cut down on the exploitation of the youngsters. "Everybody's getting down to reading our constitution and abiding by it," said one Little League spokesman.

EVEN SO, the people in junior baseball know that even now there are scathing reports on "high-pressure competition" being prepared. "It makes as much sense to say there's too much pressure in learning to play baseball correctly as it does to say there's too much pressure in learning not to squirt your oatmeal or teaching a kid how to hold his fork properly," says Stevens, a Long Beach high school product who rose to the majors and was a star first baseman for the Hollywood Stars.

"Baseball itself is not the important thing in all this," says Charlie Brown, though it can't be overlooked altogether in this day of the $100,000 and $150,000 bonus babies. "The important thing is the boys, that they are being taught. There are things about growing up that kids just have to learn and it seems they can learn them better on a baseball field.

"Even if all a kid ever learns on a ball diamond is to say 'yes, sir' and 'no, sir' it's a big lesson and an important one. Baseball is just the trig-

THOSE DEADLY JONESES

They built their picnic fire in the wrong spot. Result: A stately forest exploded into a raging inferno.

BY MIRIAM R. ANDERSON

ONE HOT July day John Jones, Mrs. Jones, and their two boys enjoyed a mountain picnic. Before they loaded their car to leave, John used the last of their small water can to douse the small campfire he had made. With a glow of satisfaction John told his family: "All the litter is picked up and the fire out!" For John tried to be a law-abiding resident of his newly adopted state of California.

Actually, a more dangerous visitor had never passed through the lovely forested canyon that he chose for his picnic. What he did not realize until it was too late was that he never should have started a fire there in the beginning. He was within an extremely dry and explosive area of the San Bernardino National Forest where fires, as in all National Forests, are strictly prohibited, except in specified places.

The Jones family had parked their car in one of the few spots not visible to the patrolling forest ranger. From there they climbed, all alive with the spirit of adventure, up a steep and isolated canyon. The lovely spot did not look dangerous to John.

YET HIS VISIT cost the government hundreds of thousands of dollars. It took the life of a fire fighter. It wiped out thousands of acres of forest and invaluable watershed, and forced evacuation of, and loss of property for several residents. Where the searing, tree-high flames leaped the highway, a blackened gruesome vista of ruined land and stark tree skeletons was left to meet the eye of future visitors.

The Jonses left an ember smoldering far down in the "duff," under the dampened ground surface. It was not a big ember, but it was a sturdy one and for several days it ate its way slowly into the duff. When a Santa Ana wind came up, the ember was fanned into a new strength and smoke rose from the spot. But this occurred at night when the area was invisible to the lookouts on two adjacent peaks. So thus was Forest Fire Flora born, with all factors in her favor to become one more devastating and shockingly expensive fire. A full week was needed to tame her, in spite of heroic efforts of 500 firefighters, plus all the know-how of today's skilled fire-fighting methods.

INCREDIBLE? Ask the nearest U. S. Forest Service office. In the frightening holocaust named Flora, every element was against quick control. The dreaded Santa Ana winds; the fact that the fire took off at night; the already tinder-dry canyon, with the sweep of stately forest in the path of the winds; the low humidity. Because of these factors, Flora raged into a fire storm —with giant trees exploding under their sap weight—and went on into a crown fire, which leaped from one treetop to another. (A major crown fire has been known to outrun a fast horse.)

John Jones prided himself on being a good citizen. Yet Flora would never have been born had John built his fire in a proper spot—a guarded state park picnic ground.

But the fact remains: he should have known! The Jones family often watched "Smoky, the Bear" on TV. They had seen the familiar warning, "Douse your fire—then stir—then douse again." John just omitted the last two instructions. He was new to the district, it is true. He wasn't much of a reader, so he missed newspaper items, one of which, on that fateful day, listed fire conditions as "extreme." His boys had not yet joined Boy Scouts, where they would have received the training he lacked. That he could have missed seeing the many roadside warnings seems incredible. But he did! With devastating results.

TODAY, a $20 million-a-year program is in effect, in research and experimental programs, to cut down the staggering loss of forest fires.

According to Don Bauer, forest supervisor for the San Bernardino National Forest, "the only good fire is the one that never started." He added, "The training of the public in safety fire prevention is one of our first responsibilities," because many fires start as a result of not knowing.

The aftermath of forest fires is of immediate concern to every resident and taxpayer. The shocking loss of watershed due to burned-over areas endangers communities in lower locations in the event of flood. The loss of life and property, recreation areas, and the tremendous cost can be cut down first and foremost by public awareness.

Increased vigilance by mountain travelers is of first importance. The signs, "You Are Now Entering Such and Such National Forest" should mean, Use extra caution, Mr. Traveler. Be fire conscious! For these are your trees, your recreation spots, and ultimately—your bank account!

CALIFORNIA State Forester F. C. Raymond reported 2,649 fires in 1963, which burned an area of 32,053 acres, at a cost of $545,818. This was an all-time low in state forestry annals, due to late spring rains. The U. S. Forestry Service totaled 420 man-made fires in the same year in California national forests, plus 2,132 land fires, which sums up to 5,201 fires, exclusive of city and county reports.

The fire-fighting handbook says: "Fire is composed of fuel, air and heat. Remove any one of these elements and fire dies." Modern techniques in fighting fire includes the use of chemicals, with improved equipment; helicopters to spot, observe and report fire; the use of radio and walkie-talkies, and an added and not too well known factor. This is the remarkable organization and administration of the men in the agencies whose lives are spent in the fight against fire, on the local, state and national levels.

THE DEPARTMENT of Agriculture, under which the U. S. Forestry Service operates, makes this thought-provoking statement: "Fires in the forests annually cause serious damage to watershed, soil, timber, recreation and forest resources. These resources are indispensable to a growing population and economy. California has both. There are no other forest or watershed areas in the United States that have as critical a combination of fuels, dry weather, long fire season, and concentrated human use. There are few areas in the world that have as complex a combination of these factors as does Southern California."

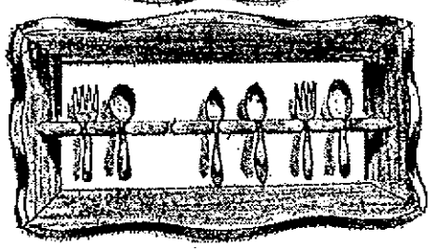

Here in the natural resources of one of America's last frontiers are wildlife, helpless and trapped in forest fires. Here are the recreation spots we stand so much in need of in today's pressured living. Here, too, are the spiritual resources of beauty, quiet, and space; all of which are wiped out—for our lifetime—by one forest fire.

Carelessness and lack of knowledge cause most forest fires. Therefore basic safety measures while within a national forest, or deeply wooded area are, as outlined by the U. S. Forestry Service:

1. Never throw burning tobacco or other material from cars.
2. Crush cigarettes out in an ash tray.
3. Put out campfires completely. Throw on water, stir, then soak again.
4. Smoke only in a safe place, never when walking or riding trails.
5. Never leave a fire unattended.
6. Put out small fires. Report a bigger one at once.

These simple measures may save your life. They surely will cut down the number of devastating forest fires.

World's Sexiest Feminine Attire

By Hoyt McAfee

WHILE THE current U.S. controversy rages over the topless swim suit—and countless American girls ponder the question of "Do I dare wear it?"—many other parts of the world regard us with sly amusement.

I refer to Scandfinavian lands, the French Riviera, and Mallorca in particular. Topless swimming suits long have been familiar sights on secluded beaches and among hideaway coves in those areas of the globe. But, as some observers have remarked, they project a girl in somewhat the same light as a stripper in a burlesque show.

In so doing, connoisseurs of feminine beauty insist, they deprive her of these potent assets—mystery and intrigue. Many discerning men of wide travel experience proclaim the high-slit, away-up-there cheong-sam a more intriguing garment. In "The World of Suzie Wong," Nancy Kwan wore a very modest one.

A GIRL watcher has to invade the Wanchai District of Hong Kong and the East Hastings Street area of Vancouver, Canada, to view the cheongsam in all of its runaway glory. Free-wheeling Chinese girls go gliding and strutting by sheathed in this garment—one slit clear up to their hips! As might be expected, they attract a bombburst of male attention and admiration.

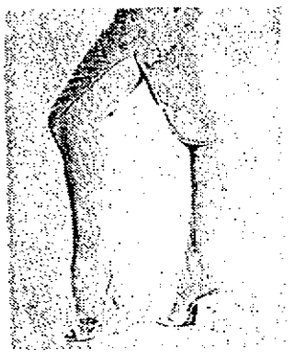

A short while back an American girl—Trudy Tavares of San Francisco — branded the very high-clit cheongsam as "much too daring a garment for me." A cocktail waitress, she reported for work in a subdued version of the attire. Frowning, her boss instructed her: "Have it slit higher!"

When Trudy complied, male patrons of the cocktail lounge responded with loud whistles and shouts of delight. Made to feel self-conscious by their feverish attentions, she—in a self-protective move—donned a slip underneath the cheongsam. That dampened the ardor of San Francisco males for Trudy and made them loose interest in the cocktail lounge where she worked.

Her boss insisted that she wear the provocative cheongsam sans slip. Trudy refused and was fired.

BUT IN LONDON recently, the cheongsam touched off an even greater furore. One day 500 pretty Caucasian stewardesses (all employes of his company) met at the front entrance with their storm banners hoisted.

Heatedly they protested the "unfair competition" of several Chinese and Eurasian stewardesses the airline had hired to stimulate a livelier interest in its overseas service. Naturally, the trim Oriental girls reported for work in very high-split, revealing cheongsams.

Topless swimsuits lack true allure and mystery, say the beauty experts. This is how the cheongsam gets whistles.

When one of them went wiggling by toward a waiting plane, the spokesman for the the fuming Caucasian girls remarked: "How in blazes can an American or British stewardess compete with a sex bombshell like that?"

Observed the airline president: "That's an interesting question. I can supply a cogent answer to it. Since hiring the cheongsam-clad charmers, our overseas' business has almost tripled!"

AT SUCH blue-ribbon beauty pageants as Miss International in Long Beach, Miss Universe in Miami, and Miss World in London, Oriental contestants know how to become the magnet of admiring male eyes. Those who show up attired in a seductive cheongsam bring reporters and photographers bounding to their sides.

Once, I saw a Chinese sexpot named Vivian Cheoung exert her magic with the cheongsam—one split away up yonder! Entered in the beauty contest as a representative of Hong Kong, she lost to her competition in the home-stretch drive. Despite that, she received more attention —and press publicity—than the winner and all the other contestants combined.

In the waterfront area of Hong Kong's Wanchai district, local Romeos, U.S. sailors, seamen, and male travelers spot a sign which intrigues them. It reads: "Suzie Wong Night Club And Bar." That hot-spot goes all-out to duplicate the atmosphere of "The World Of Suzie Wong," as well as the carefree behavior patterns of that movie's dancing girls. Shore Patrol officers round up all U.S. Navy men and herd them out of the "Suzie Wong Night Club And Bar" at midnight—7 nights a week!

HISTORICALLY, the cheongsam as a garment for wear was fashioned shortly after the downfall of China's Manchu emperors. A few Chinese young women appeared in public decked out in it. Its popularity spread. No Chinese girl dared risk censure, however, by parading in a cheongsam with a high slash above the knees. Restraint was the ruling force, the watchword, in that era.

Time and Patience Decorate a Dwelling

By Stella George

NOTHING was left to chance in the interior decorating scheme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hammond, 3252 Ruth Elaine Drive, Los Alamitos. Mrs. Hammond engaged the services of Aurora Fournier, interior designer, many months ago and, over a period of time, the decorating has emerged into the state of perfection which had been the goal.

When certain decorating achievements are desired, patience is required. An item may appear to be desirable in a store window or room display; in the home it may be all wrong. A chair or lamp for a desired place might have to be replaced many times before just the right one is found, Mrs. Hammond had the necessary patience, and there is nothing makeshift or temporary in any room of the home.

Off-white wool turf carpeting, thick, lustrous and long-wearing, extends from the living room into the formal dining room. A filigree screen divides the entry from the living room. Above the gold sofa at the far end of the room is a painting of a French street scene. Color tones in the painting are accented here and there.

TWIN CHAIRS flank the hi-fi which faces the fireplace and paintings are hung above them. Near the fireplace is a chair upholstered in copper silk. A planter sit to one side of the fireplace at floor level.

The high-backed chairs in the dining room are unusual: the back is curved in toward the seat of the chair, a comfortable arrangement. A crystal chandelier hangs above. The entire decor is contemporary to a certain extent; however, Miss Fournier employs certain periods in such a way that she calls her decor "electic."

A large, functional kitchen, with a big window set above the sink and viewing pool and patio, adjoins the dining room. On the other side of the kitchen is the family room. Here again, furnishings were chosen with great care.

A STRIPED SOFA faces two small coffee tables with a low bench at right angles to the sofa. A black contour chair and hassock are across the way.

The master bedroom is a decorator's delight with a custom Roman mural on the wall behind the king-sized bed, with its filigree headboard and quilted silk spread.

The den has flowered drapes and matching wallpaper on the wall portion which shows around the drapes. An out-sized desk, drawers, bookshelves, magazine rack, and knick-knack shelves make the room functional.

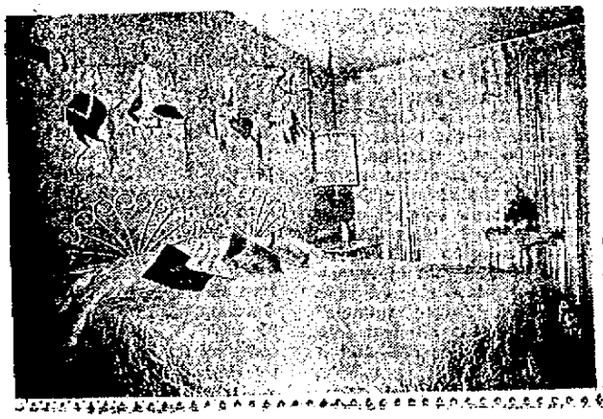

The large pool is curved in a semblance of the figure eight. Surrounding plants and shrubs were carefully selected.

The front yard is carefully landscaped.

Dining room and kitchen view pool and patio through large windows. Kitchen is at right background above. Chairs in dining room have novel form.

Four rock lifts and the armor rock on top are shown in this cross section drawing of harbor dike outside area.

'Rock Busters' Blast for a Dike

By Frank H. Black Jr.

"WHAT comes down must go up!"

That has been the saying in the Port of Long Beach ever since the "rock busters" have been blasting down a couple of mountains on Catalina Island for rock to be used to build the dikes for the new 310-acre Pier J.

Power shovel loads quarry waste, torn from the face of Catalina Island cliff, into truck for transfer to a barge.

In all, three million tons of rock will be used for the 4.5 miles of dike that will contain the 33-million-cubic yards of sand and silt that is being dredged from the Outer Harbor for the pier, which will be the largest man-made structure of its kind in the world when it is completed early next year.

The rock is barged across the Catalina Channel from two quarries on the island. Riverside Cement Co. has one quarry half way down the north side of the island at Empire Landing; it supplies 12-inch maximum rock and quarry waste. The Connolly-Pacific quarry at Pebbly Beach on the east end of the island provides armor rock, as well as quarry waste.

ARMOR ROCKS weigh from one to 15 tons each and are used on the upper, outside areas of the dikes to protect the pier from the infrequent heavy seas that occur inside the federal breakwater. The 12-inch maximum rock is used to form the pyramidal sections on the inside of the dike. And quarry waste ranges from rock dust and small chunks to 1,500-pound pieces; the waste is used in a variety of places in the four different lifts of the dike.

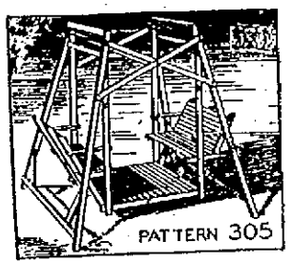

The rock, which is a high-grade form of granite known as rhyolite, is obtained by blasting off the faces of the cliffs in the quarries. On March 27, one of the largest blasts in the history of Southern California was set off at the Empire Landing Quarry. This explosion was developed by 175 tons of ammonium nitrate — stacked in a series of "coyote tunnels" reaching back 150 feet into the base of the cliff—and it brought down 1½ million tons of rock, which is nearly a three-year supply and enough to fill Dodger Stadium.

Once the blasting is finished, the power shovels and the 20-ton dump trucks move in and transport the rock to the waiting barges in several ways. If it is armor rock, the giant boulders are lifted in a sling by a crane into the trucks, one rock usually to a load, then trucked to another sling which delivers it to the barge.

THE 12-MAXIMUM rock is produced by running rocks of assorted sizes through a crusher-separater operation; then a conveyor loads directly to the barge. Quarry waste is dumped by the trucks into a 20-ton skip box that is swung out to the barge by a whirley crane.

On a round-the-clock basis, a fleet of five tugboats tows the rock barges to the Pier J site where four barge cranes, three with clam shell buckets and one with an orange peel bucket, dump the rock along the perimeter of Pier J.

You Make It

You may remember a swing like this from childhood days. What fun it was for youngsters! Their elders loved it for gentle rocking, too. Now you can make one for your own yard. Pattern 305, which lists materials, gives dimensions and shows construction steps, is 35 cents. This pattern also is in the Lawn and Garden Furniture Packet No. 37 which contains four patterns all for $1. ger, just a means of teaching and influencing.

"All these dads that come out after work and on Saturdays devote a lot of time to the program: They could use that time at a part-time job or taking a nap, but they lend a hand to help the youngsters instead. You'd be amazed how many former pro ball players are coaching these teams.

"I know one team," smiles Brown, where a guy who used to play for the New York Giants is just an assistant coach."

Walter Mails, former major league pitching star now one of the big leagues' foremost spokesmen, credited little league managers and, their players with saving the majors from lagging interest. "They've brought the family back to the ball park," he told a Southland civic group recently. "The little leagues have saved baseball."

Now another season draws toward a close. The T-shirt leaguers move up a notch, the Pony Leaguers become Colt Leaguers and the Rotary Leaguers rotate. District playoffs are under way and area championships will be decided soon.

A social phenomenon that is uniquely American is ending. Millions of moms are returning to the kitchen, Pops are hanging up their caps.

Kid baseball season is almost over.

Somebody ought to say thanks to the pops.

Cheongsam

Two, the dam burst. Uninhibited young Chinese women in Hong Kong revolutioned the cheongsam. They'd go to a clothing store and insist: "Measure me. Make me a cheongsam which will cling to my body. Keep the garment short—an inch, or two, or three above the knees. As for the slit along the side, let it go away up!"

In Hong Kong, this daring new style captured the imagination of thousands of bored, date-less, and man-hungry girls. Their mothers were shocked by the "wicked" (their word for it) new garment and many of them forbade their daughters to wear it.

However, the taboo merely served to lend the cheongsam a "forbidden fruit" quality and resourceful Chinese girls of independent minds found ways to circumvent the restriction. Male attention proved to be the clincher and Hong Kong mothers were powerless to crush the revolt or stem the tide. Thus the cheongsam (the wilder version of it) became one more fascinating reason why men of spirit and adventure found Hong Kong's old native quarter such an exciting place.

THAT APPLIED equally to Chinatown (East Hastings Street) in Vancouver, Canada. In that colorful district, young Chinese girls of charm, allure, and sexiness sauntered like birds of joy in cheongsams slashed to improbable heights.

They made a sensational hit with American seamen, convention-goers from everywhere, and Hollywood movie troupes. For example, one movie company spent a week in Vancouver to film scenes along East Hastings Street. When it came time to leave, the director discovered that 21 male members of his troupe were "missing."

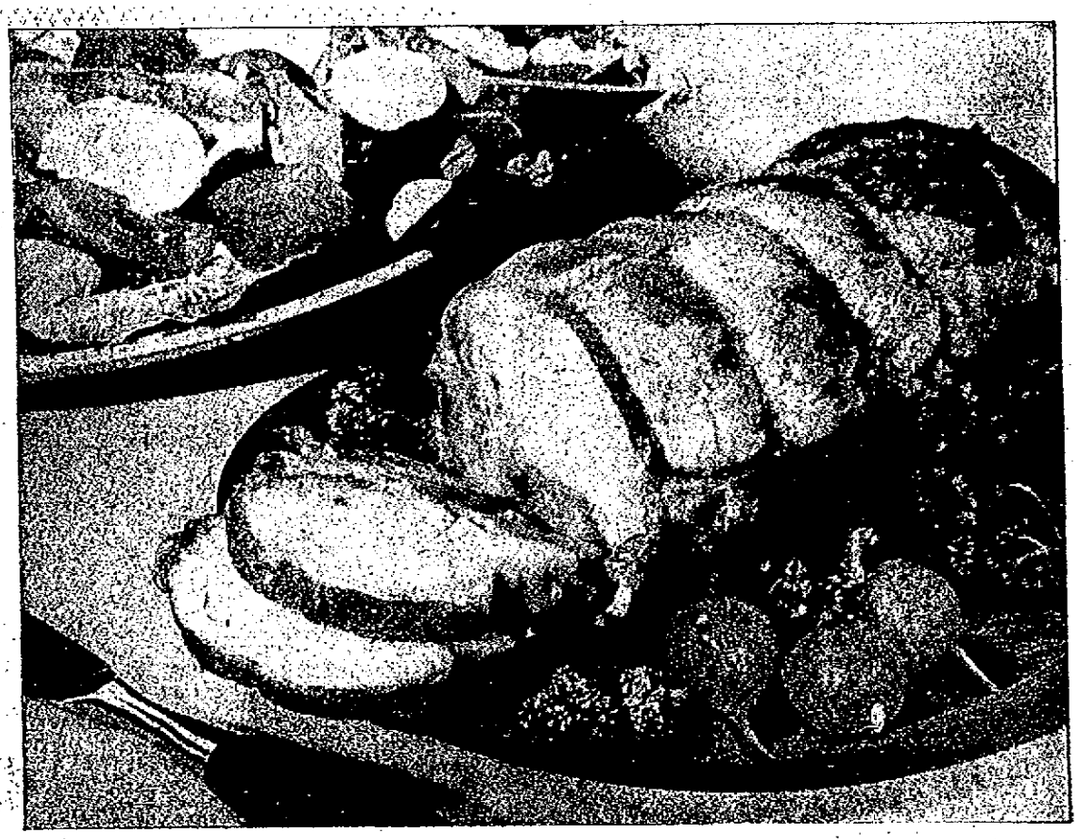

Finally, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police had to be called to help round up the "strays."

IN HONG KONG, a girl sheathed in an eye-catching cheongsam faces her biggest test when she saunters down to the wharf to board the across-to-the-mainland ferry. A cute face, trim figure, and cheongsam won't, by themselves, fire up curiosity or excite male interest. For there—where men long have been exposed to the cheongsam's influence—it takes something extra special to turn heads.

A girl has to learn the art of "wiggle-waggle." This consists of making her slinky garment ripple from the left to the right side of her hips, then back again, in provocative rhythm—revealing, in the process, an expanse of creamy thigh. It's a triumph for her when males suddenly swing their heads around and murmur approvingly.

Such a compliment means that the cheongsam siren has what we Americans call "It," "Oomph," and "zeppo whambo." It further demonstrates that, on her, the cheongsam becomes even more seductively the world's sexiest garment.

Golden Roasted Turkey

Preseasoned and ready for roasting, this boneless roll of turkey meat is a modern convenience in the preparation of food. It may be roasted in the oven or turned on the rotisserie for informal eating. It's equally good either way.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Home Economics Editor

LITTLE DID that king of birds, the turkey, ever think he'd end up as a boneless roast. But one of the rewards of modern living is a boneless roll of turkey meat, preseasoned and ready for a golden roasting. Bake it in the oven and serve it for Sunday dinner, or let it turn on the patio rotesserie for informal buffet eating.

Turkey steaks are delicious, too, and minute-cookery is involved when pan-broiling tender, juicy turkey steaks. Take them right from the freezer and whisk them onto a hot butter-brushed skillet to cook quickly for only a few minutes on each side. A bit of lemon juice gives them just the right fillip.

Boneless Turkey Roast

Leave roast in original wrapper and thaw in refrigerator from 1 to 2 days, or under running cold water. Remove wrapper and leave string in place while cooking. If roast is not preseasoned, rub with salt, ac'cent and pepper. Use ½ teaspoon ac'cent per pound of turkey. Place on rack in shallow baking pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is in center of meat. Brush entire roll with melted butter or margarine. Place in preheated 350° F. oven. Baste or brush occasionally with melted butter or margarine, especially any dry areas. If roast becomes too brown during roasting, cover with loose tent of foil. Continue roasting until done. Roast meat thermometer should register 170° F. to 175° F. Pan drippings may be used for making gravy.

Prepare roast as for oven roasting. Insert spit rod through center of turkey roll. Insert skewers firmly in place in roast and screw tightly. Test balance. Meat must balance on spit so it will rotate smoothly throughout the cooking period. Place spit on rotisserie. Brush roast with melted butter or margarine. Follow manufacturer's directions for rotisserie temperature setting; roast until done. No further basting is necessary.

To test for doneness, insert a meat thermometer in center of roll, being careful not to touch spit. Thermometer should register 170° F. to 175° F. In either method of cooking, allow roast to stand 20 to 30 minutes to absorb juices. Remove string; use a sharp knife or meat slicer and slice thinly across the roast.

Timetable for Cooking Boneless Turkey Roast:

Purchased Ready-to-Cook Wgt.	Oven Degrees	Interior Temperature	Guide to Total Roasting Time*
3 to 5 lbs.	350° F.	170° to 175° F.	2 to 2½ hrs.
5 to 7 lbs.	350° F.	170° to 175° F.	2½ to 3½ hrs.
7 to 9 lbs.	350° F.	170° to 175° F.	3½ to 4 hrs.

*Shorten cooking time approximately ½ hour for rotisserie cooking.

*Lengthen cooking time approximately ½ hour for cooking rolls from the frozen state.

Tender Turkey Steaks

Melt ½ tablespoon butter or margarine for each turkey steak in hot skillet. Use ½ teaspoon ac'cent per pound of turkey steak, sprinkling over both sides of steak before placing in skillet. Add frozen or thawed steaks, cover, and cook over minimum heat for 10 minutes. Turn, season and continue cooking, for 10 minutes longer. Serve immediately with wedges of lemon.

Recipe of the Week

SALADS intrigue many a gourmet, and chicken salad, long a favorite, is also winner of this week's $5 prize. The recipe, submitted by Eleanore Cataldo, 350 Marina No. 41, Seal Beach.

Chicken Salad

8 chicken thighs or 4 breasts, baked and allowed to cool
¼ cup of American cheese chopped in small pieces
½ cup cubed celery
½ cup of canned crushed pineapple
½ cup of slivered almonds
½ tsp. of paprika
½ tsp. salt
½ cup of salad dressing

Bake the chicken pieces at 350 for 45 minutes to 1 hour. Allow to cool then cut into small pieces. Combine the chicken pieces and all other ingredients. This mixture can be put in individual tart shells, in a pie shell or served on lettuce leaf. Will serve 6.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

There are many decorative uses for this easily made shiprigger bench, a combination table-storage item.

By Ed Fleming

WHAT makes an interesting woodworking project?

Three essentials of interest usually stand out. First, the project should be a simple, straightforward one. Second, it should be one that doesn't strain the budget, And last, the end result is one that is highly attractive and useful.

The Sketchbook design Shiprigger Bench meets all these qualifications with flying colors. The nostalgic, early American bench makes an excellent side table anywhere in the home.

The project is an easy one. The average woodworking enthusiast can complete the job with hand tools on one rainy Saturday, excluding the polished finish. Working from the Sketchbook step-by-step instructions, drawn details and parts and materials lists, the bench takes shape easily. We show you in the plan how each part cuts from the standard pieces of pine lumber.

The sturdy bench is an economical project. The cost in knotty pine lumber is moderate. You might possibly have some of the lumber on hand now that could be used to great advantage in making this.

THE FINISHED shiprigger, with its "seat" top and single drawer beneath, plus the spacious storage in front, is useful and interesting. How it evolved is a conversation piece in itself. The bench came about in the days of wooden ships and iron men. One of the wisest (since he rarely went to sea) and handiest of sailors was the shiprigger. With his gear stowed in his bench, he climbed aboard the moored vessel to stitch and braid, tug and tuck the many stays and hawsers the mightly ship carried. As seen in the photo, the soft V-shaped hollows on the front and sides of the bench came from the shiprigger continually pulling tough, heavy hemp hawser lines over the sides to work on them.

MEDICINE AND YOU

'Dowry' of Allergy Possible

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

MARRYING someone with an allergy appears to make you more susceptible to an allergy, a new study indicates.

Two Iowa City researchers studied 1,975 persons with asthma or hay fever in four population groups. Findings included:

From 20 to 30 per cent of all adults who developed asthma or hay fever as adults did so after marriage to a partner who already had one of the conditions.

Incidence of asthma and hay fever was three times greater among those with spouses with these conditions than among those with normal spouses.

The report is in the Journal of Clinical Investigation.

A NEW DRUG study shows that drug treatment alone or in combination with psychotherapy is more effective in the treatment of schizophrenic patients than psychotherapy alone.

The drug used in the test was one of the phenothiazine family: thioridazine, trade-named Mellaril.

The finding is based on a study of 150 schizophrenic patients in nine Veterans Administration hospitals.

Psychotherapy is the formation of mental impressions through communication with the patient. Schizophrenia is a severe mental disorder marked by loss of contact with surroundings and personality disintegration.

A PROPOSAL by the American Heart Association that the general public reduce its consumption of fat has drawn plaudits from some physicians, criticism from others.

The AHA suggests "reasonable substitution" of vegetable oils and other polyunsaturated fats for saturated (animal) fats, under medical supervision.

Even the AHA admits there still is no proof that altering the diet will prevent heart attacks or strokes.

Yet it contends that there is "evidence" that suggests a relationship between the amount and type of fat consumed and the incidence of coronary artery disease.

MALE BABIES are far more likely than female babies to develop "staph" germ infection, a Pittsburgh researcher has told the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Specifically, male babies have four times as many staphylococcal lesions in the diaper area as do female infants, says Dr. Horace M. Gezon of the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Health.

Dr. Gezon says the difference is believed to be due to an inhibiting factor in the urine of female babies. However, the evidence is not conclusive, he emphasized.

TRANSVERSE incisions in the abdomen are less likely to cause pulmonary complications and an aftermath of pain than are vertical incisions, a study at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance, shows.

One hundred patients slated for gall bladder or bile-duct operations were assigned vertical or transverse incisions at random, according to a report in Archives of Surgery.

Dr. Nicholas A. Halasz says that 20 per cent of patients who got vertical incisions developed pulmonary complications in contrast to only 2 per cent of those receiving transverse incisions. Pain was greater in the group with vertical incisions.

New Anthony "Hida-Sweep" automatic pool cleaner...

CUT POOL CARE 90%! HIDA-SWEEP, NEW ANTHONY ROBOT CLEANER, "HIDES" IN POOL WALL, COMES OUT AND CLEANS WHOLE POOL AUTOMATICALLY...EVERY DAY!

All you have to do is relax. Or even sleep. Each day—or night, at a time you've selected—automatic clock control sends floats and cleaning arms swinging out across the pool like a flotilla of mine sweepers. When jets from high pressure pump have swept settled dirt down the drain, Hida-Sweep swings back into its harbor hidden in the pool wall.

You are always ready for a swimming party. There's nothing to move or remove. Won't get jarred out of adjustment. The cost: much less than pool service, adds about $7 a month to your 10-year pool contract. Call any Anthony showroom for details.

ANTHONY "HIDA-SWEEP" POOL CLEANER PLUS OTHER EXCLUSIVE ACCESSORIES CUT POOL CARE 90%—MAKE ANTHONY YOUR BEST POOL VALUE!

Pool owners can now be more carefree than ever. Exclusive Anthony manufactured accessories take most of the work out of pool care. Besides Hida-Sweep there's Antho-Pure. Dispenses daily; holds up to six months' supply. Anthony automatic, long cycle filter, automatic heater keep water condition always ideal. Exclusive accessories, volume building give Anthony pools extra value.

ANTHONY BLUE LAGOON $1690

Wine on the Moon

Dr. Jack Green (above), who teaches lunar geology as one of his subjects at USC, thinks the moon's surface might well be used for growing grapes for wine-making.

By Lou Jobst

THE LITTLE old winemaker is going to be a big man on the moon.

Space scientist Dr. Jack Green of La Habra, who teaches lunar geology at USC, believes the face of the moon if a perfect place to plant grapes.

The 35-year-old research scientist contends that most of the moon craters are the result of volcanic explosions. Green says man can grow vineyards on even the most forbidding volcanic terrains.

"Lanzarote, the easternmost of the Canary Islands off the Atlantic coast of Africa, is an ideal model of what a volcanic moon might be," asserts Green, who is also a research geologist-geophysicist with North American's Space Sciences Laboratory, Downey.

"THE ISLAND has no rainfall. Most of it is bare rock and cinders.

"Because there is no rain, a novel agricultural technique has been improvised. The peasants seek out areas of volcanic ash and build a stone fence of basalt around each seed they plant.

"In this way the volcanic soil absorbs moisture from the night air and the wind-deflecting stone fence reduces evaporation during the day."

Because of this and other reasons the people of Lanzorote are called "Magos" (magicians) by other Canary Islanders.

IN ADDITION to grapes the Lanzarotians also grow wheat, tomatoes, tobacco and corn in volcanic ash gardens.

Green believes a lot of anti-moon exploration people simply lack faith in man's ingenuity or imagination.

One of the basic arguments is that man won't find anything to eat or drink.

"Our present space program treats men as mere puppets and forgets that man is creative and can make something even out of nothing," asserts Green.

Look at the Canary Islanders, says the scientist. They were plunked down in a waterless wilderness and produced a perfectly delectable beverage—wine.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

A 10-to-1 Return

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: "Many youngsters are going to make the decision this summer not to continue school next fall. And why shouldn't they decide in favor of a job? Haven't they got a pretty good argument if they intend to work? After all, think of the valuable work they'll be doing over the next several years, the taxes they'll pay and the money they'll be earning while other kids are going to school classes at public expense. Isn't this a factor the educators and the politicians forget when they moan about the "drop out"?

ANSWER: When it sends a young person to school, society is not wasting money. It is investing in human capital.

Standard Oil Co. is not noted as a promoter of bad investments. So consider the following remark by that company's chief executive officer, M. J. Rathbone:

"Take two boys graduating from the eighth grade, one of whom goes on through high school and college, while the other leaves school and goes to work. The cost of the college man's extra eight years of schooling, plus the wages he would have earned if he had spent those years in a job, might total as much as $25,000. But experience shows that his lifetime earnings once he does go to work will exceed those of the grade-school graduate by an average of $280,000. That is better than a 10-to-1 return on his investment. . . .

"The most important capital that any economy possesses is in the skills which people carry around in their heads."

It's a hard economic fact that the youngster who continues his schooling usually does more for his own future and for society than the one who quits early to get a job.

QUESTION: Was "educational TV" just a fad that's dying out?

ANSWER: Far from being a dying fad, educational TV is making vast strides. Between now and next June, reports the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, 65 new educational television stations are expected to go into operation.

Cards for Company

By Frances Edelman

WHEN guests are invited to sit down to a luncheon or dinner, hostesses have noticed they feel better when seats have been assigned to them. Making place cards can be a creative satisfaction, and they are easy to do.

Unlined index cards measuring 3x5 inches are suitable for this project. They may be creased lengthwise at the center so as to stand by themselves, as shown in the accompanying illustration.

A simple and elegant card can be made by banding the edges narrowly with aluminum foil. First mark a one-fourth-inch border with a ruled pencil line on the index card face. Cut half-inch strips of foil. Apply a thin line of liquid glue along the penciled border and spread it thinly with the finger tip, (keep a damp cloth handy for fingers). Place the foil at the pencil line, smoothing it flat. Either square or mitre the corners. Press the foil to the underside of the card after adding the glue.

Unlined index cards may be creased, trimmed with foil and made into place cards.

FOILS ARE now available in blue, green, red, gold and other combinations of colors for gift wrapping. These may be substituted for the silver foil, so as to match or blend with any table decor.

If foil is not on hand, use a pen, a colored pencil, a crayon or felt marker pen to make a series of diagonal border lines, sketch flowers in corners of card or draw symmetrical or asymmetrical designs around the card, leaving room in the center for the name.

Cinema Club

Six club members, headed by John J. Lloyd, were strategically spotted in various ground locations to give greater depth and feel to the motion picture. Used locally as a training and public relations aid, this particular film, there is reason to believe, may some day gain even greater stature and more widespread use.

ACCORDING to Everett Hosking, Sunday editor of the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, the movie has received a new sound track and has been re-edited into a 12-minute film suitable for television and/or recruiting. Eventually, it will be forwarded to the Pentagon where it will be decided whether or not to adopt it for use throughout the United States.

Naturally, all Cinema Club members haven't the time, opportunity, or actual ability to shoot films earmarked for national importance. Nor can all members gain the prestige which must naturally come to makers of such a movie.

Every club member can, however, gain a certain measure of experience and ease in the handling of his movie equipment; the opportunity to share his hobby with people of like interests; knowledge of new products and methods in the field of movie-making; education, participation, and often the chance to serve his fellow man.

When you think about it—that's quite a bit, isn't it?

He Created Frank Merriwell

GEO. F. KENNAN
Author of "On DEALING WITH THE COMMUNIST WORLD," based on Elihu Root lectures (Harper & Row, $3).

COL. JOHN PARR, explorer, romantic and heroic rebel from a long line of prosaic Parrs, climbs to the top of the Andes and discovers a lost tribe, living primitively but under a code of peace and coexistence superior to "civilization."

"THE WINTER PEOPLE" (Simon and Schuster, $4.50) by Gilbert Phelps is a story within a story. Parr's great nephew, David Parr, inherits the adventurer's journal and injects himself, as well as the colonel, into the narration, which is literate science fiction or, perhaps, a midwinter night's dream.

Phelps maintains the distinct styles and characters of the two Parrs as they probe the significance of their Utopian villagers who, for example, wage symbolic war with a nearby community to release hatred without bloodshed.

Here is provocative and stimulating imagination—and not disproved.

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

LIKE Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn and Horatio Alger, Frank Merriwell became one of the best known figures in American literature. He was a super hero to generations of American boys.

Calling a boy "a regular Frank Merriwell" was part of the U.S. idiom and produced, for millions, the image of a healthy, straight-shooting athletic hero who used truth, honor and fair play to outfight and outwit scallawags.

But virtually nothing—until now—is known or has been written about the man who created Frank Merriwell and his no less unusual fictional brother, Dick.

The story of this remarkable man who produced the fabulous nickel and dime novels for nearly 20 years is told in "FRANK MERRIWELL'S FATHER," an autobiography by Gilbert Patten edited by Harriett Hinsdale, assisted by Tony London (University of Oklahoma Press, $5.95).

This is no mean biographical study since Gilbert Patten, whose pen name was Burt L. Standish, wrote books which have had a terrific impact on the molding of American character. The Merriwell books—which first appeared in 1896—have sold 500 million copies. Merriwell was a prototype of the all-American boy—succeeded in later times by Jack Armstrong, Andy Hardy and others—and is still an important part of Americana.

Patten had not completed his autobiography—a story almost as exciting and unbelievable as the exploits of the Frank Merriwell boys—but it has been possible, from his papers for novelist Hinsdale and motion picture producer London to complete his story.

SOCIAL historian Harry Golden believes John F. Kennedy should be called our "second emancipator president" because of his total and effective commitment to the destruction of segregation.

For years, from his ringside seat in Charlotte, N. C., Golden has watched and recorded the struggle for racial equality, with special interest in the administrations of the contemporary presidents.

The result, "MR. KENNEDY AND THE NEGROES" (World, $4.95), is in typical Golden conversational logic, based on fact and news events. Harry Truman lost southern votes because of his civil rights stand and the author notes Dwight Eisenhower was virtually silent on the subject, while white supremacists vented their hatred, instead, on Justice Earl Warren.

Golden contends that the American Negro will achieve his ultimate objectives because Kennedy used the power and prestige of the presidency in a personal crusade, abetted by brother Robert and the clergy of the three major denominations.

Somehow, you get the idea that Golden's other books set the stage for this one.

ESSAYS and comments on the late president by 51 authors, journalists and world leaders comprise "A TRIBUTE TO JOHN F. KENNEDY" (Encyclopaedia Britannica distributed by Atheneum, $5.) Editors are Pierre Salinger and Sander Vanocur, with a dedication by President Lyndon B. Johnson and foreword by Theodore Sorensen. Included is a watercolor painting by Mrs. Kennedy reproduced from the original which the president kept near his desk. Net proceeds go to the John F. Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass.

Lowering the Language Barrier

By Virginia M. Crill

TIMES when neighbors communicated only with sign language could be returning. No longer, however, because of a difference in origin but because the speed and ease of travel rushes the language barrier on wings of a jet.

Adults of all ages — from the young married to the active retired—yearning for the pleasures of vacation travel or temporary foreign living experiments, recognize the importance of learning one, or perhaps even two foreign languages. For the old familiar viewpoint of "We'll never be able to travel abroad so why study another language?" no longer is a reasonable question. "Go Now, Pay Later" plans transport people swiftly anywhere on earth. Many who prefer the family auto find Spanish - speaking neighbors only a two-hour drive away.

IN MEXICO as in other foreign countries the larger shops employ English speaking clerks. But the best bargains abound on the small side streets. If you don't know at least a little Spanish, shopping through them may become as dull as watching a stage play or TV drama with the sound equipment broken.

A few months of study in new methods of presenting foreign languages will result in much pleasure and perhaps lower prices as well as you ask, "Cuanto vale, por favor?" and then listen carefully and perhaps ask the clerk to repeat answer more slowly as you attempt to understand it.

And the clerks happily repeat more slowly. Even those who speak English well seem pleased by a visitor trying to use their language and are happy to aid him.

On a side street in Ensenada, a Long Beach woman found a small store that specialized in parrots. Yellow parrots, green parrots, and vari-colored parrots of all sizes and types obviously young and eager to talk.

IN THE U.S., parrots are relatively expensive, but the woman wanted one. With her struggling, newly acquired Spanish and the few words of English which the proprietor knew, they had almost arrived at an agreement of $20 for a particularly attractive bird when her husband reminded her of the border quarantine. The proprietor was ready for this problem. He explained carefully in mixed Spanish and English how it could be handled.

Sadly the lady decided to let him keep both his bird and smuggling lesson. She was not yet ready to become a criminal.

But she enjoyed the bartering. With her husband following resolutely, wondering what she might want next, she made friends as well as purchases and returned home that evening thoroughly tired as well as equipped with enough exotic perfumes and linens to take care of the next half-dozen birthdays and wedding showers to which she might be invited.

She also continued to enjoy the study of Spanish. She plans person-to-person practice of the language more often and in various other places. She and many other adults particularly appreciate the new improved method of teaching languages as compared with the methods used only a few years ago.

THE THEORY that since Latin is the base of many languages it must also be the first new language studied, has now been replaced with the idea of teaching live languages by living, useful methods. They are taught by phrases and sentences orally in class, connected with everyday objects and habits. The old method of drillwork in reading and writing but little oral use has nearly disappeared.

A woman who well knows the difficulties and advantages of learning another language as an adult is Mrs. Georgina Ragone, adult education Spanish instructor of the Long Beach Unified School District. Until five years ago she lived in Argentina, and learned English only after moving here. Very much in favor of the new teaching method for languages, she says "The new approach in teaching foreign languages to adults is based mainly on a child's way of learning. Just as a child first hears words and attaches meanings to them long before he learns to read and write, so adults are taught, by sound and speaking practice of words and phrases, learning their meanings and using them in class practice as they progress. They use the books as little as possible except for home study."

BECAUSE of this new educational approach to languages, many adults, once discouraged with the old drill method, are studying a new language. They eagerly look forward to foreign travel — both short visits and retirement stays—as a challenge to their ability to understand and communicate. As speed and ease of travel increase, boundaries disappear.

The morning cup of coffee with a neighbor would suddenly taste very bitter if not accompanied by a cheery "Hello." The shopping trip to the local market would become drab and uninteresting if we could only buy and were denied the pleasure of greeting friends and neighbors along the way. So trips in the rocket-age future also may become drab and friendless unless we studiously lift the other expressions of communication besides our own.

Jet travel and more opportunities to go places increase adult desire to learn one or more languages. Above, Mrs. Georgina Ragone teaches conversational Spanish class.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on BONNER—J.B., Anaheim.

J.B.: BONNER is an Anglicized French surname first used eight centuries ago as Bon-Air." This denoted "kind, courteous, civil person," and had the same source as the modern term "debonair." Quaint 14th century marriage vows in Britain state, "In sykenesse and in helthe, to be boneere (bonair) and buxum in bed and at bord tyll deth us depart." Ancestors include William Le Bonere of Oxford, 1273. The Bonner shield is red, decorated with an ermine covered crescent, wreathed with a circle of gold birds. The family motto is "Forever faithful." Two American towns were named for early Bonner settlers, Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, and Bonner Springs, Mo.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain DISHON.—R.A., Long Beach.

R.A.: DISHON is an American spelling of the French surname Dijon. This name originated as the town-name Dijon, in Burgundy, France, where the family originated. Dijon was first called Divionem by the Romans, a term believed to signify "divine locality."

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on MAGEE.—A.B., Long Beach.

A.B.: MAGEE and Maghee are Scotch, although the lineage later moved to Ireland. The forefather was Eymor MacEye, meaning "son of the man with strong intellect." This Gaelic chieftain lived over eight centuries ago. The family shield is black, emblazoned with three silver leopard faces. Magees of Ireland lived in Donegal and Tyrone.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish data on HOLGUIN.—M.H., Garden Grove.

M.H.: HOLGUIN is an old French surname developed from a Teutonic warrior title used many centuries ago. Holguin began as "Hold-win" meaning "gracious and benevolent friend or protector." There can also be a Spanish source for Holguin, with the meaning "sons of the merry-maker."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on MARTINEZ.—A.M., Long Beach.

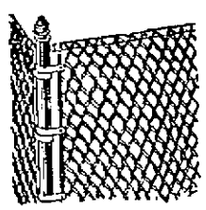

A.M.: MARTINEZ, meaning "sons of the warlike one," is a development of the Roman Latin baptismal name Martinus. The Martinez lineage were among high Spanish nobility. Their coat-of-arms from medieval Castile has a green tree on a small green hill centered on a gold shield. Around the shield's border is a blue stripe decorated with eight silver stars. Ignacio Martinez, born in Mexico City in 1774, was commandant of the Presidio of San Francisco, 1822-1827.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give genealogy on CARLISLE.—R.M., Long Beach.

R.M.: CARLISLE was inherited from an ancestor from the north English town of Carlisle in Cumberland. Carlisle, a descriptive term, devolved from the Celtic-English words "Caer-lug," meaning "fortress-tower," combined with the Latin word "Vallum" for "wall." The complete name interprets figuratively as "fortress with towers on its walls." The town name emerged from Caer-lug-vallum to Caerluel, then Carlisle and Carlyle. The family shield is gold, emblazoned with a red cross.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like data on LEONE.—V.V., Bellflower.

V.V.: LEONE is Italian, meaning "lion." This name was first adopted in medieval times by the family ancestor from the striking insignia emblazoned on his battle shield. This shield, granted at Padua, has a gold-crowned, silver lion centered on a blue background.

Short Course in Facts on Fido

By Eleanor Avery Price

WITH SO many breeds of dogs having fascinating ancestry; with humane organizations working around the clock to help unfortunate animals; and with pet ownership being the largest hobby in the nation, one wonders why there isn't a course on some school grade level about animals. (In San Francisco, the SPCA has a teaching representative, Dale Robbins, who goes from classroom to classroom helping children with their pets.)

How many children, for example know there is a tiny butterfly dog, the Papillon, that appears in paintings dating to 1688? Or that there is a little monkey dog, the Affenpinscher, that comes from Germany and whose blood flows in the Brussels Griffon? For that matter, how many children ever heard of a Brussels Griffon?

French butterfly dog, the Papillon, is of an ancient origin. This one owned by Fran-Oaks Kennel, Temple City.

THE FOLLOWING is a brief selection of material on dog data. Just for fun, check with your child (or yourself) to see if he has somewhere along in his school studies learned some of these facts.

Five dogs in this country are entitled to the label, "Made in America." They are the American water spaniel, Boston terrier, Chesapeake Buy retriever, black and tan coonhound, and, more recently, the Alaskan malamute.

Plains Indians used large dogs as pack animals before the Spaniards brought horses to the West in 1540. Kootenay Indians of British Columbia, having no word for horse, called the first horses "elk dogs."

Egyptian pharoahs had sculptures of favorite dogs placed in their tombs. Alexander the Great built and named a city in honor of a large, courageous dog named Perites. King Henry VIII sent 400 war dogs to aid Charles V of Spain in his war with France.

A GREAT DANE named Genesk saved the life of Frederick the Great of Prussia by giving a warning of the approach of a band of Cossacks. William of Orange was once saved by a spaniel, Pompey. A Newfoundland saved Napoleon from drowning when the emperor fell from a boat in his escape from Elba.

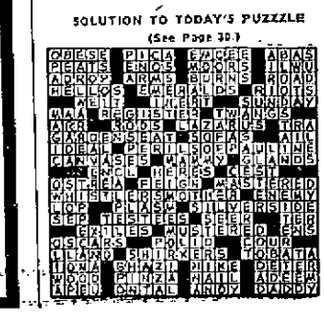

King Christian I of Denmark was deserted during a plague by all except his dog, Wild Bret. Thisbe, pet of Marie Antoinette, killed herself when not allowed to visit her mistress in prison. A spaniel owned by Mary, Queen of Scots, hid beneath her mistress' robe when the queen went to her execution.

Several years of records of Sir Isaac Newton's discoveries went up in smoke when his beloved greyhound, Diamond, accidentally upset a candle on his desk.

George Washington, upon learning that the dog belonging to his adversary, Gen. Howe, had been captured at the outpost line, promptly ordered the dog sent back to Howe under a flag of truce.

Theodore Roosevelt had more dogs than any other president, and he fancied unusual pets, among them a kangaroo.

Carefree Daisy

Gerberia Jamesonii is better known to gardeners as the African daisy, considered by many as the most elegantly textured and sophisticated of all daisy types.

There is a choice of varieties . . . the gray-green basal, small cluster of leaves can be in a lobed or cut style. The slightly curving stems are a graceful support for the slender petaled daisies of about four inches in diameter. You can have single or double blooms in shades of yellow, white, cream, pink, coral, deep rose, pale orange, and red.

These blooms will grace garden or house border from May to December and also make delightful indoor accents in cut flower arrangements, as they are exceptionally long lasting.

These lovelies are relatively carefree. Place them in an area that affords some shelter from wind. Give them good drainage. Place them in the ground with no less than ¼ inch of the crown showing above the soil. Water deeply but infrequently.

Every three years they should be divided in the springtime for a neater appearance and healthier plants. Plant them singly or in clusters of harmonizing colors.

Needle-Book for One Who Sews

Sunbonnet Baby pattern for a bright needle-book. She measures 5 inches from tip of bonnet to skirt edge.

By Elsa DeBra

WITH SO MANY days throughout the year for special family gift-giving, there is a time, no matter what month, to make the one who sews a bright needle-book to slip as a surprise into her mending basket. She will adore it, not only because you made it, but because the sunbonnet baby pattern—a replica of Eulalie Osgood Grover's characters Mollie and May—brings nostalgic memories of early reading and drawing days in grade school.

First select brightly colored felt and cut into a Sunbonnet Baby, by pattern shown in the accompanying illustration. Leave it plain. Or why not make her bouquet of solid french-knots with narrow lace gathered full around it? And also lace on the edge of the bonnet. Other decorative possibilities, sequin or bead-trimmed, perhaps, will come to you.

NOW CUT another felt piece by the pattern—a skirt only, from neck down, omitting head and feet. This makes a firm back for the needle-book. Now cut, with pinking shears (so it won't ravel), from pattern shown, several smaller inside pieces out of scraps of heavy woolen material. Use plaids, or stripes in loud colors. Stick these pieces full of assorted sizes of needles, pins and safety pins.

Now you're ready to put the book together, like a sandwich. Whip these inside pieces to the felt backing, at neck only, then whip the back to the main Sunbonnet Baby, also at neck. The pieces fit together neatly.

Needles or pins can't get lost or misplaced while housed in this ever-ready felt book.

Fuchsia Code

When the fuchsia hybridizer finds a new variety worthy of introduction, he is faced with the decision—is it to be classified as upright, or trailing? This is very important to the best of fuchsia hanging basket fans thirsting for new color combinations to enjoy. Obviously, they are going to be displeased if the new release fails to send out gracefully arching branches displaying myriads of flowers best enjoyed from below.

The result of the hybridizer's decision can be found on the labels of the fuchsias on display at the nursery. The symbols TR or HB indicate that the decision favored trailing or hanging basket type. Other symbols on these label's give further information about the variety: C-red means the flower petals (or corolla) are red, and S-white means the sepals (wrapped around the petals) are a contrasting white. With this information you can pretty well picture the flower before the plants are in bloom.

Rest easy with flameless electric air conditioning

No doubt about it! You know you've made the wise, modern choice when you air condition with clean, quiet, flameless electricity. So far ahead in comfort, so easy to afford and maintain—electric air conditioning is the overwhelming choice in Southern California.

Clean as electric light. Electric air conditioning filters the air of dust and pollen. So quiet, you're aware of nothing but pleasant coolness. It's the only system that keeps both temperature and humidity in ideal balance.

Simplest to install. With electric air conditioning there is no need for an unsightly cooling tower or plumbing. It's the only kind that can be added to an existing heating system with little or no remodeling.

Far easier to maintain. Electric air conditioning doesn't need the frequent service calls that other systems require.

Thriftiest to buy. Only with electric air conditioning is there the right size at the right price for every need. You can be sure of ideal cooling and economical operation at low Edison rates.

Planning to buy a new home? For better living today and lasting value in the all-electric future, look for the GOLD MEDALLION HOME AWARD. It's given only to new homes that meet a specific list of modern electrical requirements, plus proper insulation for ideal, economical air conditioning.

Soon You May Use a Space Phone

By Walter Finch

YOU CAN phone your gadding wife in Paris or your aging mother in Dublin, you can watch a "live" telecast of a bull fight in Madrid or a ski meet in the Alps, all via commercial communications satellite, all in your American living room, and all by 1965.

That, says Dr. Allen E. Puckett, vice president of Hughes Aircraft Co., will be the impact of "Public Satellite No. 1," the world's first commercial communications satellite, which Hughes is building for the Communications Satellite Corp. The reverse will of course also be true, with Europeans being able to talk to America and watch American telecasts, he added.

"The satellite, called Early Bird, will be completed less than a year from now and be ready for launching a month later," Dr. Puckett said. "It will enable the average citizen to place telephone calls via space and view direct transatlantic television broadcasts by 1965.

"This will mark the real beginning of the Space Age for the man in the street," he added.

A Comsat Corporation contract with Hughes calls for two satellites and spare parts costing approximately $8 million.

"AWARD OF the contract to build the commercial satellite followed the unprecedented success of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Syncom satellite," Dr. Puckett said. "This satellite has logged more than twice as much communications time as all other American satellites combined."

Comsat's first commercial version of Syncom, Dr. Puckett reported, will be able to handle a volume of traffic equal to that of all transatlantic voice cables now in use. It will be capable of carrying 240 two-way telephone calls simultaneously, or could carry TV broadcasts or a combination of telephone, teletype and wirephoto transmissions.

"This satellite is the first step of a global system that will permit anyone to pick up a telephone and call another party on any other continent," Dr. Puckett said.

In "hovering" orbit, 22,300 miles "up," the first public communications satellite will look something like this artist's sketch. It will have phone and television impact.

Outdoor Screens

Vines are nature's outdoor screens, needing only the assistance of the home gardener to bring their beauty and utility into play, covering a blank wall, softening a harsh line of fence or providing overhead shade in warm weather.

Nearly every home garden can use a vine, but what kind and how to employ it are propositions that are more complex than may at first seem. For instance, for a concrete or brick wall choose a clinging type such as Boston or other climbing ivies, creeping fig or Virginia creeper.

For trellis or pergola, try wisteria or grape, evergreen bougainvillea or honeysuckle. Silver Lace vine is another. For fence or roof overhang, Armanda clematis is good but needs guidance with string or cord. Giant Burmese honeysuckle or blood-red trumpet vine are good on lattice.

Deadline Now for Azalea Pruning

By Joe Littlefield

There is no set rule for pruning azaleas as to how to cut the branches, but experts agree July is deadline.

SOME azalea specialists suggest last time azaleas may be pruned is no later than about July, in order to allow plenty of time for new growth to develop, mature, then flower.

However, there seems to be specific pruning rule for these plants. Decide where you want to cut to shape the plant, then cut. Just below the cuts, new growth will appear. Azaleas are one of the easiest of shrubby plants to prune.

The most important factor for successful azalea culture is firmness of the planting medium around the root. If the material is loosely packed, the plants rarely grow well or bloom their best.

To correct loose planting, firm the planting medium with your fingers, not with round end of trowel or shovel handle. Finger firming causes the peat moss or peat and leaf mold mixture to pack much tighter, thereby catching and holding moisture so the roots get all the water they need. And, more important, the plant food grains don't filter through the planting medium, but generally stay put, and supply all the food value for the plant roots.

Azaleas, like the camellias, and other shade loving plants need periodic foliage baths for best growth.

ONE OF THE garden vegetables that are problem plants for many gardeners are tomatoes. Lush plants often show many blooms but these drop off before forming fruit.

Some gardeners use one of the sprays recommended to set fruit, and this probably helps. The successful factor for setting lots of fruit mainly is warm nights and hot days.

We tried growing tomatoes several times. Those we planted early in July produced the largest crops!

WHY DON'T YOU try try growing a few? Plant them right away. One hobby-gardener had exceptionally good crops of tomatoes by planting them differently than most gardeners do. He set them in the bottoms of 6x6-inch holes. As the plants grew he filled soil around the trunks to the garden level. This factor helped the plants produce more roots which grew out from the soil covered trunks, hence sturdier growth. He harvested bumper crops of tomatoes.

Tomatoes are highly sensitive plants to fungus diseases. Gardeners can help the plants by regularly dusting them with one of the pesticide-fungicide products recommended for fruits and vegetables.

When the Gardener Goes Vacationing

Conscientious gardeners have their qualms about their home grounds when they go away for vacation trips. Here are some suggestions that will help to ease such worry:

Our rainless summers guarantee us good weather for our vacations but solve no watering problems during our absence, so it is a good idea to irrigate thoroughly beforehand and avoid moisture loss by mulching plants and shrubs.

Several good mulching materials are available from California Association of Nurserymen members. The list includes peat moss, shredded bark, shavings and steer manure. Let them provide the one they think best for your garden.

The strategy against vacation moisture loss is to first build a shallow basin around the plants you irrigate once a week or oftener, then fill with a slow stream of water. Pour or shovel in the mulch from the bag until the basins are full, then irrigate again to moisten the mulch. Be sure to check the mulch for thorough wetting.

Flower beds that have just been planted should be mulched between plants. First, cultivate lightly, then spread the mulch to a depth of one-half to one inch, then irrigate with a stationary sprinkler. Test the soil with a stick to assure yourself that moisture has penetrated to a depth of three or four inches.

Well-fed lawns do not require as much water, so give the grass in your garden a light feeding with a well-balanced lawn food, liquid or dry, before you leave. Soak the food in thoroughly. And don't forget to mow before you go!

Bugs don't take vacations in summer—only in winter. Use a good general-purpose insecticide recommended by your nurseryman, applied with an efficient hose-end or pressure-tank sprayer. Scatter snail pellets in flower beds and under shrubs.

Large house plants may be thoroughly soaked before going away. Small indoor plants likely to dry out quickly may be enclosed in freezer bags slipped over the top and tied under the pot. Set them in a place shaded from direct sunlight.

Garden Clubs

South Coast Orchid Society will hear a talk by John Miller, grower of orchids, on Phalaenopsis, the "Moth" orchid, at a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park clubhouse, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue. The public is invited.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . . make use of all the blooms this time of year and lavishly decorate your home with cut flower arrangements. Now you can enjoy these garden prizes both indoors and out.

To determine if you are watering in sufficient amounts, insert a sharp stick or other implement into the ground. If it doesn't show moisture to a depth of three to four inches, additional watering is needed.

Cushion mums are now available in gallon cans at your local C.A.N. nursery. For a quick lift of color, buy these delicate plants now.

Dampen the soil or walks with water around your begonias and fuchsias on hot days. This raises the humidity and helps cool the soil around them. A fine spray applied directly on the plants is, of course, the best arrangement.

ANDY GASSAWAY
The Good Land

AT TIMES we live in a mad absurd world with far too many people scurrying around trying frantically to get ahead and caring very little about what's happening to the next fellow in the race.

But among us there are still some who believe in the old fundamentals, who don't neglect their friends and principles as they forge on to success. Foremost among these is a man named Andy Gassaway, whose big kindly face is well-known to hundreds of Long Beach citizens. Andy started out 15 years ago with a tiny cafe at 643½ Pine Ave. which he called Andy's Hotcake House. Although he maintained impossibly long working hours for himself, he always had a smile for his patrons and did his very best to give them the finest quality foods. Each year he donated vast sums to charity. His high standards brought Andy more and more success. Repeatedly he expanded the size of his restaurant. Recently Andy's long-time hopes and aspirations culminated magnificently as he reopened the Hotcake House and revealed changes making it one of the finest, largest restaurants in town. Smiling happily, Andy disclosed such improvements as a broad, elegant exterior; a longer serving counter displaying more of his food treasures; a new salad-sandwich area and two checker-cashiers to speed service. But, more important, Andy revealed that he has not forgotten the people who made his success possible. His prices (just about the lowest in town) have not been increased. And Andy's philosophy of thankfulness to God and kindness to your fellow man can be seen throughout the restaurant, from the "good land" mosaic out front to the Flag flying proudly on his roof.

(Closed Sundays, Andy's is now open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.)

'Sea Hunt' Goes to Fair
(See Page 4)

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Doctors are in for a ribbing on television next fall.

Steve Franklin thinks it's a healthy situation.

Steve plays an intern in "Tom, Dick and Mary," one of the three 30-minute situation comedy segments of NBC-TV's upcoming "90 Bristol Court."

As Dick, Steve is a doctor who can't do anything right. He can't order aspirin without consulting a medical dictionary to check the spelling.

It's a new-type role for a familiar television face.

In the long-lived "Dobie Gillis" series, Steve played Chatworth Osborne Jr., the rich boy. In "The Lieutenant," he was Lt. Sam Panosian. In "Mr. Novak," he plays Jerry Allen, music teacher.

And he feels the part of the bumbling intern is a good prescription for him and for the public.

"WE NEED A COMDEY about things we take so seriously as 'Dr. Kildare' and 'Ben Casey,'" he said.

"A sense of perspective can be reached by making fun of most anything."

Steve hopes the program will be accepted by the American Medical Assn. in the spirit in which it's offered — that spirit simply being humor.

"However," said Steve, "doctors are just people, not arbiters of faith.

"They're subject to the same doubts and inadequacy everyone else is.

"A fun show about them is healthy and in the tradition of the French playwright, Moliere, who ribbed them in the 17th century with his play, 'The Doctor, in Spite of Himself.'

"Personally, the only doctors I have anything against are those who don't take pleasure and gratification from their work."

STEVE TAKES PLEASURE and gratification from his work. He does more. He takes comedy seriously.

There are several reasons.

First, "blessedly," he feels his talents lie in the field of comedy.

Second, he doesn't feel that everything on television or the movies or the stage must be a problem play.

Third, he feels that comedy can entertain and, at the same time, serve a social function.

"Every man must dignify his profession," said Steve. "I would like to think I'll reach a plateau where I'll express myself socially the way Charlie Chaplin did with his 'Modern Times.'"

HE KNOWS he has not yet reached that "plateau," although the comic-medic role might be a step toward it.

Ironically, Steve, a scholastic-scholarship student, started his college career at Cornell University in New York as a pre-med major.

After appearing in several college plays, he decided on a professional acting career instead of majoring in medicine.

"I thought I'd have more talent as an actor than as a doctor," he said.

As a combination actor-doctor, Steve hopes the operation will be a success.

'SEA HUNT' AT FAIR

No Waterloo for Lloyd Bridges

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Lloyd Bridges is finally resigned to staying psychologically wet.

For four years, he swam around in a diving lung making 156 episodes of Sea Hunt, a highly successful syndicated series. Then the show stopped production and Bridges became a regular on network television with an anthology series, The Lloyd Bridges Show.

But that show was not a success ("I guess Richard Boone and I have proved that there is not much chance for an anthology series to be a hit on television," he smiled), so Lloyd spent the next season making guest appearances on other people's shows.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, Sea Hunt goes on, and Bridges says he stays "psychologically wet."

He has an interest in a Sea Hunt exhibit at the Travel and Transportation Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. His voice narrates the show, which consists of three skindivers—a good guy, a bad guy and a beautiful girl—and one personable rubber octopus.

"These swimmers do a pretty realistic version of a typical Sea Hunt show. Mike Nelson is searching for treasure, and he meets a girl, an octopus and a villain." Bridges paused and smiled.

"THAT'S THE KIND of plot I used to fight against when I was doing the show. I thought we could do scientific and education shows which were also entertaining. But the sponsor wanted straight adventure. I can't blame them. Trying to be too artistic on television is a mistake. Viewers want to see physical action which is relaxing. If they want deeper entertainment, they will go someplace else.

"It's just that always finding a beautiful girl skindiving was so coincidental. The girl's father was always an oceanographer, but he wasn't in the water, she was."

Included in the picture are the Black Muslim movement, violence on New York subways, accusations of police brutality in Harlem and the place of the white liberal in the Negro Revolution.

Pan and Fan Mail

Why was "Blast-Off," the space-quiz series that aired only three weeks at 9:30 a.m. on channel 11, taken off the air?

Gerry F. Beychok, Long Beach

Couldn't get off the ground.

* * * *

I understand that four Elvis Presley movies have been purchased for television.

One of them, "Loving You," has been shown.

Could you please tell me when the others are scheduled to be shown and on what channel?

E. Youngs, Lakewood

"Loving You" was shown a total of 13 times on channel 9. The same channel will nightly show Elvis in "King Creole" the week of Oct. 19.

* * * *

Channel 7, which has the other two Elvis movies, has "Kid Galahad" slated for airing on Nov. 15 and "Follow That Dream" scheduled for Jan. 24 next year.

* * * *

In a recent "Wagon Train" episode a 50-star Flag was used.

Was this an accident, purposely done or was it pure stupidity?

It seems to me that a 90-minute western spectacular could afford to use the correct props.

Frank Whitney, Long Beach

Floyd Farrington, who checks the props for Revue Studios, says you've got stars in your eyes, Frank.

His department has Flags from every period in American history, he maintains. And they "never" goof in the Flag department or on "Wagon Train."

* * * *

So how does Bob Parker know anything about the teenagers of today—he never has them on his show if he can help it, it seems.

He has thoroughly denounced the whole generation.

If that is the way he feels, then why shouldn't our attitude be resentment and aloofness?

If he and more people like him tried to understand and help us, why then he could help us to get out of those subways he mentioned.

Diana Petersen, Long Beach

Understanding is a two-way street.

Barker, according to the story that ran in this magazine last week, didn't denounce the whole generation. To the contrary, he commended some teenagers as "well-mannered, bright kids."

VACATION PLAYHOUSE —Jim Novak is a wolf! At least James Franciscus plays a Madison Ave. version as he tries to maintain his bachelor status against cleaning-mending-cooking marital plot of a petite French actress (Suzanne Pleshette). Pilot film, made prior to Mr. Novak's" debut and after Franciscus' departure from "Naked City," could be better than the average for this summer anthology of rejects. At 8:30 p.m., ch. 2, it was produced by Norman Lear and directed by Bud Yorkin, and features Jack Weston, Fifi D'Orsay and J. Pat O'Malley.

HOLLYWOOD AT NIGHT —Herschel Bernardi hosts an hour-long night on the town, from the Sunset Strip to intimate cafes, with more than 20 production numbers spotlighted at 8:30 p.m., ch. 5. Seen performing at the clubs where they entertain the paying guests are Ruth Olay, Jack Costanzo, the Page Cavanaugh band, Bud and Travis, The Condors, Calvin Jackson, Terrea Lea and the Kip Walton Trio.

NEWHART IN FRESH TV START

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Bob Newhart returns to television this fall in a series called "The Entertainer," which it had better be or Robert will be looking for another job.

Newhart, one of the top cerebral comedians, appears on the new CBS-TV series with Carol Burnett. Between the two of them there should be a lot of laughs.

This is Bob's second series. His last one went off the air in 1962 and he's spent more than half his time since then traveling around the nation working nightclubs and colleges.

The personal appearance road is a tough one for a comedian, especially Bob who would prefer to be home with his wife and young son in Hollywood. The series changes all that.

* * * *

"I WANTED to get back on television," he said, "I think I belong more on TV than I do on the road. My stuff is low key—I'm not a screamer. It belongs more on television than nightclubs."

Newhart and Miss Burnett will appear occasionally in a comedy skit for the series, but they are not to be considered as a regular team. Bob will still do the monologues which made him famous.

It won't be easy; television rarely is. Comedians are a prominent part of video's graveyard and Newhart knows this.

"I have the luxury now of going on the road and trying out a monologue," said Bob, explaining how he brushes up for his infrequent television appearances.

* * * *

"FOR INSTANCE, I tried out the monologue I used on Jack Paar's show five or six times on the road."

He hopes to be able to do the same with material he'll be using in 27 out of the 36 "Entertainer" segments.

"When the series starts I think I'll go out one night a week to a college or a club and try material we'll be doing in the show," he said. "That way we'll get some idea how it will work.

"Recently I was down in Palm Springs and talked with Harpo Marx. He told me the brothers used to go out on the road and try out scenes before they used them in a picture. They would never put something in a picture if it didn't work on the road."

Such testing can give you some insurance against a flop performance, said Newhart.

"It's better than going out there and not having an idea how the monologue is going to work," he said. "I've gone on with a piece of material that I thought was sensational and got seven minutes of silence.

"And I've also used a piece of material I planned to throw away and found that it was great."

All of which proves that television comedy is no laughing matter — especially when nobody laughs.

SPECIAL

STAR PARADE—The Marines really landed at CBS Television City, as 1,050 of them take part in Meredith Willson's third hour-long special at 10 p.m., ch. 2, a musical salute to young America. A thousand Marines from Camp Pendleton (given compensating liberty the weekend after taping) join in a musical physical fitness exercise drill of push-ups and straddle jumps, and in a flag-waving medley of patriotic songs, reminiscent of George M. Cohan. Also featured are the 50-man official Marine Drum and Bugle Corps from Washington; singers Jack Jones, Vikki Carr, Joe and Eddie and The Young Americans; plus saxophonist Fred Hemke and Presidential assistant Brooks Hays with his Arkansas-flavored political humor. (Final Willson hour will be a repeat of an earlier special on Aug. 31.)

TELEPHONE HOUR—Florence Henderson is singing hostess to a group of rising young stars in the first of series' new theatre-in-the-round summer format to continue until Oct. 6. Opener, at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 4, features British singer-comedienne Shani Wallis, pop singer Ethel Ennis, jazz pianist Bobby Troup, Canadian singer Doug Crosley, Met tenor Rolf Bjoerling, teenage concert violinist Glenn Dicterow and dancers Liane Plane and Allen Knowles.

VACATION FROM TV 'GRIND'

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

So Merv Griffin Spends It on Summer-Stock Stage

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Merv Griffin is "on vacation," but you'd never think so from the surface evidence.

The personable performer is appearing five mornings a week on his "Word for Word" NBC television show as usual, and if you range widely enough around the Eastern seaboard, you also can find him on some theater stage six nights a week, not to mention a couple of matinees.

"But to me," Griffin said, "it is like a vacation to get away from the television grind for a few weeks and travel around to these summer stock theaters and play in 'Broadway.' Julann, my wife, and our son, Tony, who is four years old, go with me, and, since I enjoy doing the play, it is like a holiday."

MERV GRIFFIN

* * * *

THE FACT that Griffin still appears regularly on his own created-and-produced program, "Word for Word," is possible because he worked overtime in June to put on video tape enough of these shows to span the July-August period.

"And it was quite a chore there for a couple of weeks," Griffin said. "You see, we started the play June 15 at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, Pa., for a two-week engagement, and all during that time I was coming back to New York daily to tape the television advances. Part of the time I commuted by helicopter. But that double-duty is now over, and I can relax just doing the play."

* * * *

GRIFFIN will get a pair of really carefree weeks the latter part of August after his nine-week tour in "Broadway" ends at the John Drew Playhouse in East Hampton, Long Island.

But why does a well-employed and financially assured star want to racket around like this when he might be having a really relaxed summer?

"I enjoy it," Griffin said. "You know, I'm not a theater personality. I was a singer with bands, I did some movie work, and I got into radio and television.

"Last summer, I took a chance at appearing in the stage comedy, 'The Moon is Blue,' for Mike Ellis at the Bucks County Playhouse. I'm not bragging when I say we set a record for reciepts in a theater that is now in its 25th season and that has had a lot of real stage stars. I guess that did it. I got bitten by the stage bug.

"And you know something. The only reason people came to see me then was because of that afternoon television hour I had on NBC that the network cancelled a little over a year ago.

When Lovable Jane Socks Youngster, All Is Forgiven

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jane Wyatt, the serene mother of "Father Knows Best," slugs a kid in a new television show, but that won't dispel her image as lovable Margaret Anderson.

Anyone who belts a kid actor can't be all bad, and such is the case with Miss Wyatt.

But she is so firmly established in the minds of televiewers as the ideal housewife and mother that she could spend the rest of her career strangling smallfry on television with impunity.

JANE WYATT

"I played the role of Margaret Anderson for six years," she said during a lunch break at Universal Studios. "And the show has been running ever since (four years). Everywhere I go people call me Mrs. Anderson. And because I played Robert Young's wife, they frequently refer to me as Mrs. Young. It's all very confusing."

* * * *

FOR HER ROLE in NBC's "Project 120," a two-hour special titled "The Window-Makers," Miss Wyat has donned a blonde wig to help disguise her identity. But it won't help much. She still looks like Margaret Anderson.

"I have no objection to being so closely identified with that role," she smiled. "She was a generous, intelligent and decent woman. I'll always be thought of in that light.

"Even the crew members of this special I'm doing call me Margaret from time to time. I don't mind a bit."

In private life Miss Wyatt is Mrs. Edgar Ward, and she has been married 29 years. She is the mother of two sons, Christopher, 27, and Michael, 20. Christopher recently made her a grandmother.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to her own family, Jane considers herself mother by proxy to the youngsters who portrayed her children for 234 segments of "Father Knows Best." She corresponds regularly with Elinor Donahue (now Mrs. Harry Ackerman. and Billy Gray.

"They call me from time to time just to talk things over," Miss Wyatt said. "I find it very flattering.

"And, of course, Bob Young and I have remained good friends since the show went off the air. He is a wonderful man and a really terrific father to his own children."

* * * *

"THE WINDOW-MAKERS" will be seen this fall and later released in Europe as a feature movie. In it Miss Wyatt plays a disagreeable maiden aunt who is stuck with three orphaned children, one of which she socks in the kisser, as noted earlier.

It isn't the first time Jane Wyatt-Margaret Anderson has departed from her sweet-as-honey image. In a recent segment of "The Virginian" she played a psychopath who murdered her daughter.

You'd think that would have been enough to blow the Margaret Anderson bit for good and all.

"Not so," said Jane. "I guess I'm one of the few actresses in Hollywood who can get away with murder."

The summer warmth sometimes makes all our tempers short. This is particularly true if the foods selected at a store don't measure up to what we expect when we prepare them at home.

Many of you have had the experience of purchasing some ground beef or pork sausage that looked o.k. in a store, but when you put it in the frypan at home, you ended up with very little meat and a lot of fat.

And how many times have you wound up at home trying to eat fruits and vegetables that just weren't as nice and fresh as they appeared to be at the store?

All of us here at CHERRY AVE. FOOD & LIQUOR MART, (1429 CHERRY AVE. —1½ blks. north of Anaheim St.) are intensely dedicated to not letting this sort of thing happen to you, our customers.

We like to think we do a pretty fair job of this, because new customers seem to keep coming back regularly, and to tell their friends and neighbors about our cheerful, friendly store, and the high quality foods and low prices we offer.

For instance, in our meat department (THORNDIKE'S FINE MEATS), we put just enough fat for flavor (and to cook it with) in our pork sausage and ground beef items, and NO MORE! That and the special painstaking way we use only the finest eastern corn-fed pork and season it just right must be why many folks come from considerable distance regularly to buy it. They claim they haven't found the quality duplicated anywhere else at ANY price.

Our fruits and vegetables have to be field-fresh or we just won't offer them to you.

Alongside Del Monte and all the other great national brands we carry at lowest competitive prices, the only private label we carry is Springfield, whose quality is attested to by the hundreds of grocers who belong to the gigantic Certified Grocers buying cooperative.

It's a lot of trouble to stick to standards like this, but we think it's well worth it!

SPECIAL

CHOOSING A CANDIDATE —How Sen. Barry Goldwater and his forces achieved their convention victory is told through editing 120,000 feet of film taken starting last March in New Hampshire. Highlight is an extensive, and frank, interview with Goldwater, embodying his own interpretation of the strategy used. Full-hour news special, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4, also looks ahead to how the Democrats will select their Vice-Presidential candidate.

WORLD FAIR DIARY — NBC correspondent Edwin Newman takes a look at the New York World's Fair, offering his personal advice to fairgoers based on his own tour of the fairgrounds, during an hour-long color special at 10 p.m., ch. 4. In a fun-and-pun-filled look at the major exhibits and pavilions, from the trouble-ridden Belgian village to a 95c, 3-min. log flume ride, Newman notes the good-natured patience of tired Americans whiling away the long waits in lines by reading, taking pictures, having lunch or just meditating.

SPECIAL

STEVE ALLEN SHOW — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, first woman to win election to both the House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, first 3-term woman Senator and now first woman placed in nomination for President by a major political party, joins Steve for some candid conversation about the GOP convention at 11:15 p.m., ch. 5. She discusses her appeal to the voting public, male prejudice she has encountered in Washington and her disagreement on most issues with Sen. Barry Goldwater. The Chad Mitchell Trio, which Wed. night offered the banned-on-radio "Barry's Boys," returns with a new song ribbing JBS.

CARMEN PHILLIPS is involved in a drama about a bachelor running from marriage during "Destry" at 7:30 p. m. Friday, channel 7.

Sports Today

FIGHT OF WEEK, 10 p.m., ch. 7, has tapes of tonight's 10-round middleweight Garden bout between Jose Gonzalez and former champion Dick Tiger.

MAKE THAT SPARE, 10:45 p.m., ch. 7, has Johnny King challenging last week's Schroeder-McCoy winner.

Local Area Students Win Scholastic Bout

Whittier College recently won the title of "Retired Undefeated Champion" on the Sunday "GE College Bowl" color series.

Representing the college on the television program were Janice Kelke Takahashi of La Mirada, Chester Arthur Larue Jr. of Anaheim, John T. Guidas Jr. of San Gabriel and Joellen Mann of Sacramento.

To earn the title, the Whittier students in scholastic competition consecutively defeated representatives of five other colleges. They earned $10,500 in scholarship grants for Whittier College.

Law Clerk

William Tallman, district attorney on "Perry Mason," has worked as a law clerk, laborer, auto salesman and tennis professional.

Launch Air Traffic Watch

The helicopter air watch is coming to Orange County on Monday, courtesy radio station KWIZ (1480) and a Santa Ana new car dealer.

Traffic congestion, rapidly a rising problem throughout metropolitan Orange County and the adjacent Long Beach area, will be broadcast daily to motorists during peak traffic hours.

Raymond T. McKenzie, general manager of KWIZ, said four Hughes 300 helicopters will patrol freeways and major traffic arterials throughout the area, and will advise motorists of adverse traffic conditions.

Heading the traffic monitoring operation will be Maj. Chuck Weitzel Jr., retired Marine air ace, a veteran of 22 years service.

Also being considered, air watch officials reported, is the possibility helicopters may be used to fly doctors to accident scenes where heavy traffic would delay ground rescue operations.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is fiberglass FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION
Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglass FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglass brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS
FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN
FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

LICENSED & INSURED
Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a state licensed Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach & Orange County area. OAS IN CUBA CRACKDOWN

WASHINGTON, Sunday (AP) — Foreign ministers of the American republics by a 15-4 vote early today slapped diplomatic and economic sanctions on Communist Cuba, denounced the Fidel Castro regime for aggression against Venezuela, and threatened to use armed force if the Havana government continues its subversive activities against hemisphere nations.

The historic decision of the hemisphere's foreign ministers, meeting in their ninth consultative session, was voted shortly after midnight Saturday at a plenary session in the Organization of American States' headquarters building.

It was one of the toughest actions taken collectively by American nations since Castro came into power Jan. 1, 1959. It will be formally signed at 11 a.m. today.

It went far beyond the declaration of the eighth conference of foreign ministers, held at Punta del Este, Uruguay, in January, 1962, which declared the Castro regime incompatible with the inter-American system.

An attempt was made at the seventh conference, held in August, 1960 at San Jose, Costa Rica, to outlaw the Castro regime but the pressure there was so strong against denunciation of Cuba that a watered-down declaration resulted. It attacked instead, a threat of Soviet Russia to rain rockets on the United States if it committed aggression against Cuba, but did not even mention Cuba by name.

Today's action represented a mandatory call—without a time limit — on all American republics not to maintain diplomatic or consular relations with Cuba so long as that country is under Communist domination. It also orders a suspension of all trade with Cuba except for foods, medicines and medical supplies required for humanitarian reasons, and forbids all sea transportation between Latin America and Cuba.

How Mexico and the other countries which opposed sanctions will respond to the majority decision remains to be seen. Bolivia announced it would comply and Uruguay is expected to follow suit. Chile might do so after its September presidential elections if an anti-Communist government is elected there.

The conference voted to "condemn energetically the present government of Cuba for its acts of aggression and of intervention" against Venezuela, which brought the complaint against the Castro regime to the Organization of American States last year.

The declaration also contained a provision authorizing any American republic, singly or in groups, to use armed force against Cuba if the Castro regime continues its aggression against hemisphere nations.

Aimed chiefly at Great Britain and France, which have been selling transport equipment to Cuba, was a provision urging non-hemisphere states outside the Communist bloc to "examine the possibility" of sup-

Boy, 10, Safe; Kept His Spirits and Pants Up

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP)—A 10-year-old boy, whose biggest worry was keeping his pants up, was found Saturday by two rangers after being missing for one week in a lonely, remote area of Yosemite National Park.

The discovery came as a massive search was being disbanded and the rangers were heading back to their camp.

John Ireland Jr., an unfrightened city boy from Los Angeles, walked in circles for seven days and lived off his own fat, doctors at Lewis Memorial Hospital said. He lost so much weight he had to hold up his trousers with his hand.

Rangers Gil Hall and Jim Riley found the youngster only three miles from the Harden Lake campsite 7,000 feet up near Tuolumne Meadow from which he had wandered last Saturday, July 18. He walked three miles back to camp with the rangers and then was driven 35 miles to the hospital, where doctors said he was in good condition.

* * * *

HE DISAPPEARED about 10 minutes after he and his family had arrived for the first wilderness campout of their lives.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ireland, and their 12-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, were ready to return to Los Angeles when news came about 4 p.m. that John was found.

The discovery, about one-half mile from a road, ended a search in which nearly 350 men had participated.

In addition, a helicopter with a loudspeaker hovered over the area all week calling for the boy.

* * * *

"IT'S AMAZING," said one doctor. "He ate nothing but water. The boy is talking—you'd hardly know he had taken a hike."

Jack Nolan, a Yosemite management aide, said young Ireland apparently could have lasted an additional five days. The boy curled up at night in a protected spot that shielded him. Temperatures ranged in the high 30s.

"Now that he's been found, we don't have to go home," his father said at the hospital. "We're all going to stay and go fishing."

L.B. Man Lost Over Park Falls

Kenneth W. Gelston, 22, of Long Beach, a summer employe at Glacier National Park, Mont., was missing and presumed dead Saturday after tumbling about 70 feet over St. Mary Falls on the east side of the northern Rocky Mountain park.

Searchers worked until dark in a rugged gorge below the falls searching for his body.

This was Gelston's fifth season as an employe of Glacier Park, Inc. He was an auditor at Rising Sun Motor Inn. Park officials said he was at the top of his first year law school class at Stanford University.

The youth, a graduate of Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn., was at Stanford on a law scholarship. He had been elected to the University's Law Review last month.

* * * *

PARK SUPT. Keith Neison said Gelston and a companion were hiking at the top of the falls. Gelston apparently went to the edge to look over the cliff or to get a drink. The companion heard a scream and Gelston had disappeared.

Gelston was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gelston of 1916 San Anseline Ave.

He is survived by three sisters, one a waitress at the East Glacier Lodge. The other two, Sally, 14, and Kay, 6, are at the Long Beach home. The Gelston family moved here from Dolan, South Dakota, a year ago.

Laughing Gypsies to Bury King

Serbian Gypsies from all over the nation are converging today on Los Angeles to laugh at the funeral of their king.

Tall, handlebar-mustached George Adams, king since 1940 to the nation's 75,000 Serbian Gypsies, died Friday at 62.

As the word spread through the Gypsy world, his followers began the trek to Southern California to pay homage to their monarch and elect his successor.

Although funeral arrangements for the Romany monarch were not completed Saturday, a step-grandson said he would receive the last rites of the Catholic Church and be buried at rites in accordance with Gypsy custom.

* * * *

MOURNERS will laugh, not cry, at Adams' funeral, said John Stevens. He added, "We will probably have a procession through the streets with a brass band and throw money in the casket to speed him to heaven."

Adams' death, after an illness of several months, was the signal for ancient mourning rites in Gypsy colonies throughout the nation, tribe spokesmen said.

Traditionally, at the death of their monarch, women remove their long gold earrings and other jewelry and leave their hair uncombed. Men do not shave and no one washes with soap.

Adams' father, Mark, had been elected king in 1931 at a national encampment of Serbian Gypsies in San Pedro. The elder Adams died in 1940 in Los Angeles, and George, eldest of his three sons, succeeded him.

* * * *

ADAMS' leadership was contended in a 1957 Superior Court suit brought by his fromer brother-in-law, Thomas Merino, but the suit was dropped after an amicable settlement out-of-court.

$189,514 Find Helps in a Pinch

Multimillionaire George H. Capron paid a return visit to Orange County Saturday — and it almost cost him a lot of money.

Capron, evicted from his home in a divorce action, staying with friends in Long Beach, and "really busted," as he told a Los Angeles judge last week, went to his real estate office in Huntington Beach "to buy a little piece of land."

Capron told Huntington Beach police that his wallet turned up missing when he reached for money to close the land deal.

Tracing his journey — and stops — police asked Seal Beach authorities to check the rest room in a service station at Marine Avenue and Pacific Coast Highway, where Capron had stopped.

On the white tile floor, Capron's black leather wallet was found: In it were a cashier's check for $166,038, and $23,476 cash.

GUEST OF L.B. FRIENDS

Multimillionaire Capron 'Homeless'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Multimillionaire George H. Capron, the former baseball player turned real estate magnate, has hit on hard times—again.

His wife got $16 million of his estimated $30 million estate last week and, as Capron puts it:

"I don't even have a home to go to now."

* * * *

THE DIVORCE settlement, believed to be one of the largest ever, gave Mrs. Ednah Race Capron, 74, their Newport Beach home, a $180,000 apartment house and 860 acres of land in a valuable residential development near Laguna Beach.

Capron, who'll be 78 Monday, is staying with friends, the C. W. Artmans, of 6515 Seaside Walk in Long Beach while he plans the next move in a fabulous financial career.

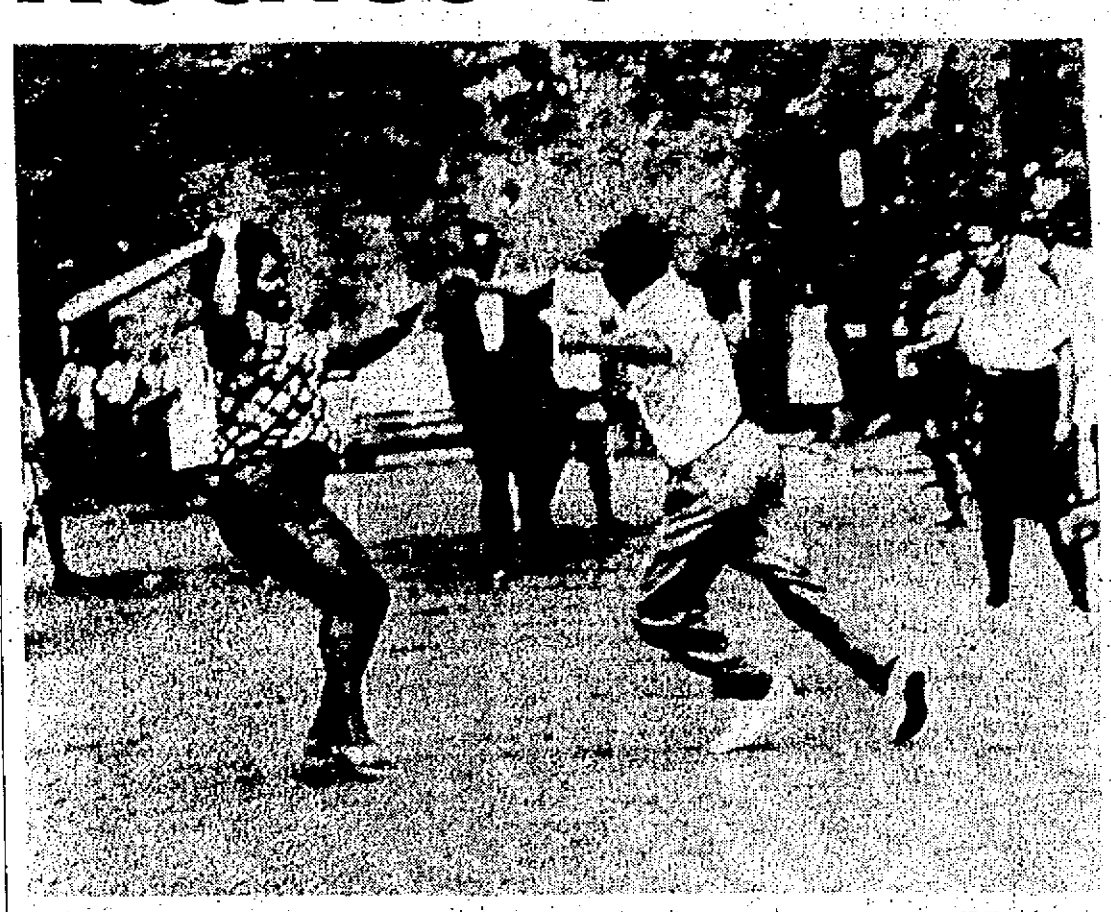

* * * *

BORN IN Minneapolis, Capron grew up in a poor but hard-working family, then won an athletic scholarship to Sattuck Military Academy in Minnesota.

He quit school at 15 to play professional baseball for minor leagues in the South, then returned to the University of Minnesota

DEADLY ROCHESTER STREET FIGHT

Mobs Defy Curfew in Rampage

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—One white man was reported killed Saturday night as new racial riots erupted in defiance of a curfew ordered in an effort to prevent renewal of violence that began Friday night.

Police said the man reportedly was knocked down in mid-street by a looter who left him to be run over by an automobile.

* * * *

ANOTHER death was reported in a riot area but it was not known immediately whether that death was connected with the violence.

Groups of Negroes in automobiles sped from one part of the city to another, hurling stones, smashing windows and looting stores in a hit-and-run manner.

The worst outbreak was on the west side of the city, a neat, residential area into which Negroes have been moving recently.

It was subdued by about 100 state troopers rushed to the scene by bus. They fired tear gas and one policeman fired a shot into the air.

* * * *

THIS section is about a mile and a half from Joseph Avenue, a Negro tenement section where the rioting began Friday night.

When the temporary truce settled during daylight Saturday, police counted more than 90 persons injured and more than 100 in jail on the felony charge of rioting.

Only an occasional rock or bottle was tossed Saturday night in the Joseph Avenue section, where police cleared the streets at the curfew deadline.

* * * *

HUNDREDS of police patrolled the area at the start of the night but the number was cut sharply as rein-

Crews Gain on Big Fire

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Tired firefighting crews Saturday brought a five-day brush - and - timber fire that has blackened more than 17,000 acres so close to containment that some crews were expected to be released during the night.

"We fully expect to have the fire contained by 6 a.m. Sunday," a spokesman for the California Division of Forestry said.

He said some state crews would probably be released Saturday night and that the U.S. Forest Service was establishing a rest camp at nearby Norton Air Force Base where some of its crews could be kept on a standby basis for several days in event of flareups.

There were a few hot spots to be mopped up along the fireline before full containment could be announced.

Winds that had hampered firefighters for several days did not become as strong Saturday.

Blast Razes Home, Burns Woman, 27

A 27-year-old Compton woman, Mrs. Clarice Stokes, of 2640 W. Caldwell St., was burned seriously Saturday night when an explosion destroyed her home.

The woman, admitted to Las Campanas Hospital with second and third-degree burns, told police she disconnected a gas line to her stove, connected a garden hose to the outlet and placed the hose in the living room to await death.

The blast rocked the area and exploded debris over a 100-foot-square area.

Ranger-7 Poised for Trip to Moon

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) America's Ranger-7 spacecraft was reported in top working condition Saturday for a scheduled Monday blastoff on a picture-taking mission to the moon.

The 806-pound camera-laden craft is designed to snap 4,000 closeup photos of the unknown lunar surface before it crashes on the moon.

Communist Held, N.Y. Parade Isn't

NEW YORK (AP) — Police broke up an intended anti-police parade in strife-torn Harlem Saturday, dispersed the intended marchers and arrested their Communist ringleader.

The leader, William Epton, a Negro and avowed Communist, was bundled into a police car shortly after he arrived at the starting point at Lenox Avenue and 116th Street.

He protested that his followers only intended a peaceful walk but a Negro policeman told him:

"You are under arrest."

Instead of the thousands of paraders that Epton had predicted only about 300 marchers and spectators were on hand at the scheduled 4 p.m. starting time.

* * * *

A HEAVY DETAIL of helmeted police waded into them, shoving them from the intersection and shouting to them to go home.

The parade was intended to stress Negro charges of police brutality — a recurring complaint since rioting broke out in Harlem a week ago.

The disorders were sparked by the fatal shooting of a 15-year-old Negro boy by a white policeman who said the boy was coming at him with a knife.

Police who broke up the parade also arrested Conrad J. Lynn, Epton's attorney.

Bandit Kills Store Clerk

A "blackface" bandit Saturday night shot and killed a San Pedro clerk in the robbery of McCowan's Market, 157 N. Bandini St.

A man described as a Mexican, 5 feet 3, who had covered his face with black shoe polish, shot three times at Neal Pilato, about 47 years old, of 860 W. Third St., San Pedro, according to sheriff's investigators. Pilato was pronounced dead on arrival at San Pedro Community Hospital.

Marine Jet Plows Into House, 3 Die

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI)—A jet fighter plowed through a house where two spinster sisters were entertaining guests Saturday, killing three persons.

Dead were the pilot of the plane and the two spinsters, Miss I. V. Cassidy, 61, and her sister Estelle, 58.

A friend, Miss Idell Pickens, 58, was critically burned. She was found in the yard crying for help.

A third sister was shopping at a grocery store when the Marine fighter rammed the house, and a Baptist minister visiting the sisters had left only a few minutes before the crash.

The FIE Fury was making an approach to land at the Naval air station a mile from here when it ripped through the small frame house from one end to another, leveling it and setting the wreckage afire.

Chunks of the plane bounded across the lawn and into the street.

James Moss said he and a companion saw one of the women in the burning house and tried to rescue her. She was alive, he said, when they reached her but her clothing was afire. They tried to pull her out but she was trapped in the wreckage.

L.A.C. Says:
This Is Inflation in This Country

A friend of many years brought to me his income-tax form for 1925 which he found among his papers. He was a salesman and 1925 was a good year for him. His net earnings for the year were $6,000. His federal income tax was $5.46. By comparison, he had the 1964 tax estimate for his 30-year-old son, whose income will be just about $6,000 for the year. On this $6,000 the son will pay $377—an increase of 70 times. In each case, the family was composed of the man, wife and two children. This does not include Social Security taxes as there were none in 1925—but they total over $350 for the average worker and employer in 1964.

These comparisons caused me to look at the cost-of-living index. In 1925 the inflation trend was in full force which resulted four years later in the great 1929-39 depression. By comparison, in 1925 the cost-of-living index stood at 124 of the 1939 level of 100. In 1964 it stands at 222. If all increased taxes and living-cost increases are considered, it would take over $12,000 income today to equal $6,000 40 years ago.

After the 1929 crash, the cost of living dropped rapidly and by 1939 it stood at 100—considered a normal year. But then it started up and today it is 222. This means it takes $13,000 to equal what $6,000 would buy only 25 years ago. The pension or insurance dollar of 1939 is worth 45 cents today. It is being eroded each year. Another inflation spurt can quickly reduce it further. It is tragic to all who must live on fixed incomes.

The 1925 federal income-tax form allowed exemption of $3,500 for the man and wife plus $400 for each child. That is $3,900 exemption for a family of four. Today it is $2,400. The itemized deductions are about the same for the 1925 father and his 1964 son. But the tax on the net was 1.5% in 1925. It is over 14 times as much today.

In 1925, the federal debt was $21 billion compared to $324 billion today. This year we will pay interest on this debt equal to 50% of the total debt 40 years ago. Of course, a large part of the increased debt is due to the cost of World War II and the Korean War. But we have increased the debt by $50 billion the past 10 peacetime years. Each year we add to it and the cost of interest.

In 1925, the federal government expenditures totaled $2.8 billion. This year the federal expenditures will total an estimated $122.1 billion. This includes about $98 billion for the general budget and $24 billion for Social Security and other similar programs. But it means total federal spending is up 430% for a period when population has increased about 67%. In other words, federal expenditures have increased six times more than population.

The older man was concerned because he was past his earning years. On his accumulated savings and Social Security he now has a total income of slightly less than the income he had in 1925. But his $6,000 now will buy less than half of what it bought in 1925. He gets along with comforts. But he points out that only 15% of over-65-year-old-man-and-wife families have this much income. Half of them have less than $2,000 a year. These people really know what inflation has done—and fear what it may be in the future.

The young man has not been concerned because he has grown up during this inflation. He lives on his $6,000 which is about the average income for those now employed. But, when his father showed him how his living standards had been reduced by inflation, the young man started to get worried. If it could cut the value of the dollar in half in 25 years—what will it be when he reaches his father's present age? The young family is now more interested in their government's deficits and the mounting debt that has largely been responsible for depreciation of the dollar's buying power.—L.A.C.

BUMPS AND GRINDS with a difference keep Judette Banket, 24, of San Francisco busy day times in the auto-body shop of which she is part owner. At night she poses for the house artist in a barroom. Her hometown is Hamtramck, Mich., a Detroit suburb.

BLONDE MOONLIGHTERS

She Makes Bodies Pay: Cars' and Hers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Judette Banket has a double interest in bodies—car bodies and her own.

She makes both pay off.

Daytime, the 24-year-old music major graduate of Wayne State University, Detroit, works with a partner in a car-body shop.

At night she poses nude in a bar for a house artist and patrons.

Of her day job:

"My father gave me an old Lincoln when I was 17. When the generator pooped out, I took it out, determined that the shaft was bent and replaced it. That taught me a girl can live in what used to be a man's world."

Of her night work:

"After the first shock value has worn off, there is more to be found of grace, beauty line and form in a body than many people assume. People are civilized. They see what they are looking for. I think most of them see something beautiful.

Driver Held After L.B. Woman Dies in Crash

A Long Beach woman was killed and two persons were in serious condition at Pacific Hospital Saturday following a three-car collision at Pacific Coast Highway and Magnolia Avenue.

Dead is Ruth Marcum, 49, of 2260 Eucalyptus Ave., a passenger in a fiberglass sports car which shattered when a pickup truck crashed into it at 4:20 p.m. She is Long Beach's 38th traffic fatality this year.

Warren Buckboro, 50, of 505 Marine St., driver of the sports car, was pronounced in serious condition.

* * * *

HELD on felony-manslaugter charges is Raymond Pheil, 51, of 10806 Cord St., Downey. Investigating officers Paul Chastain and Al Covarubias, said Pheil's pick-up truck, eastbound on PCH, ran a red light, just missed a city bus and crashed into the sports car which was southbound on Magnolia.

Pheil's wife, Isolle, 41, is also in serious condition. Also injured was Mrs. Margaret Adams, 45, a passenger in a third car which was struck by the careening sports car. Her husband, William, 54, of 3224 Oregon Ave., the driver, was uninjured.

Thant Visits Homeland; 1st in 3½ Years

RANGOON, Burma (UPI)—United Nations Secretary General Thant returned to his homeland Saturday for the first time in 3½ years and said force is not the answer to the problems of Communist-beset Southeast Asia.

Thant said on his arrival at Rangoon Airport that a political solution should be found to end the fighting in South Viet Nam and Laos. He added that he was speaking as a private citizen since neither dispute has been placed before the United Nations.

The secretary general also said he expected France to play an increasingly active role in all aspect of U.N. affairs. Thant conferred with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris earlier this week.

Demo Candidate Conference Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 350 Democratic candidates for the House and Senate have been invited to a three-day conference featuring a meeting with President Johnson at the White House.

The Democratic National Committee announced Saturday that its 1964 Congressional Candidates Conference will be held here Aug. 6.

The candidates, including incumbents, will take part in discussions with cabinet officers, agency heads and White House aides.

Dangerous Texas Oil Fire Halted

KILGORE, Tex. (UPI)—An oil well fire that threatened to turn downtown Kilgore into an inferno was tapped out at 8:35 p.m. EDT Saturday.

The fire had raged out of control for several hours in a half-block section that contains 15 producing wells.

Flames boiled up as high as 100 feet at the height of the fire and thick, black smoke was seen as far as five miles away.

Eleven firemen were hospitalized from exhaustion and smoke inhalation but none of the injuries was serious.

* * * *

UNITS FROM Kilgore, Longview and Overton fought the fire with a water and foam spray but the best they could do was keep the rig from collapsing and setting the whole block on fire.

It was a special unit from the Texas Eastman Co., an oil well servicing firm, that finally put out the blaze with a special chemical powder mixed with water and sprayed under high pressure.

There was no estimate of damage.

Maribel, Who Fought Mystery Illness, Dies

SAN LUIS, Sonora, Mex. (UPI)—Maribel Olea, the two-year-old tyke who drew nationwide attention while she battled an unknown ailment for months in a Los Angeles hospital, died early Saturday.

The tot became ill Friday and was treated at a doctor's office. Her mother, Mrs. Blanca Olea, 34, took her home, but the girl's condition grew worse and she died about 1:30 a.m. at the office of another doctor. Cause of death was not determined.

Maribel's medical history started last Oct. 15, when she was brought to Yuma suffering a massive infection from what was believed to be an insect or reptile bite. She was transferred to Los Angeles where she underwent extensive treatment at Children's Hospital.

During the course of her stay there, is was estimated that as many as 200 staff doctors had worked to save her life. After the infection was halted, she had to undergo repeated skin grafts to repair the damage caused by the unknown infection.

She was released from the hospital last May and doctors called her recovery a "medical miracle."

Funeral service was held at noon Saturday.

Mrs. Olea is a waitress in this border town south of Yuma. The father is dead.

Goldwater to Huddle on Staff Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater and the men who will be top hands in the Republican's bid for the presidency sit down Monday to go over organizational plans.

On hand will be Dean Burch, the young new chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Denison Kitchel, the Arizona senator's campaign director, as well as staff aides.

One of the major tasks to be decided is the filling of a dozen top staff spots within the national committee.

* * * *

"THIS IS where you take a look at what you've done and start gluing it together," an aide to Goldwater said of the campaign-talk gathering.

Here, too, more than likely, will be given the first look at the numerous requests from state Republican chairmen and others who want Goldwater for campaign appearances.

The GOP nominee continued Saturday working at his apartment, as he has since returning from the nominating convention at San Francisco.

It was assumed the staff appointments to be made probably will come before Goldwater leaves Thursday for a week of rest in California.

* * * *

HE IS scheduled to fly to Bohemia Grove, north of San Francisco, Thursday, then Saturday go to Newport Beach to join Mrs. Goldwater. They have vacationed there for several years.

By the time Goldwater returns to Washington around Aug. 6, he will have less than two weeks before kicking off his campaign.

The formal kickoff of the nominee is to come at Prescott, Ariz., sometime the week of Aug. 16-22, although the exact date is still to be nailed down. This will be about a week before the Democrats hold their national convention in Atlantic City, N. J.

"Lucky Prescott" is where Goldwater has kicked off each of his successful political campaigns.

Klan Leader Declares for Goldwater

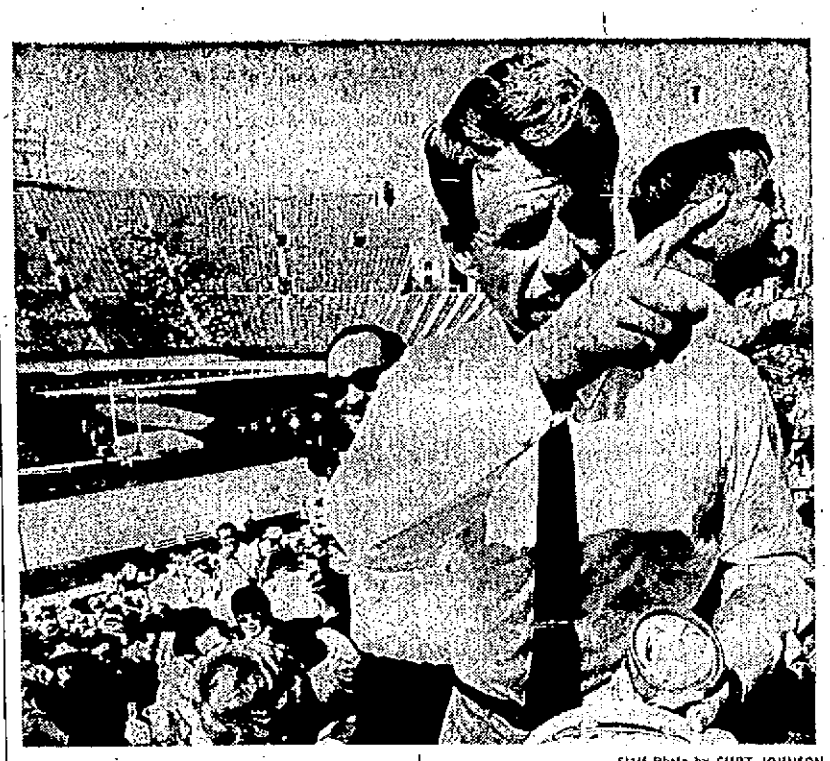

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia's top Ku Klux Klan official joined other dissident Democrats Saturday in support of Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidency.

Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta became the first Klan leader to announce endorsement of the Republican nominee, whose convention victory followed a floor fight in which the Klan was the target of an unsuccessful censure effort.

Craig, 32, emphasized that his decision to support Goldwater was based not on personality but the issues between the major parties. He is a candidate for the state Senate in the Sept. 9 Democratic primary.

"I'm going to be a Goldwater Democrat," Craig said. "It is not necessarily Goldwater himself; it is just that the people are going to have a choice of voting for states rights and constitutional government or for going down the road to socialism.

"With Goldwater, we've got a chance to regain states rights."

"I'LL SIT DOWN IF YOU WILL!" Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, a surprise spectator at the USA-USSR track meet Saturday at the Los Angeles Coliseum, created near bedlam when autograph seekers crowded around his party in the stands. Freeman Says Barry War Threat

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said Saturday that Sen. Barry Goldwater's political philosophy would make him a "trigger-happy" President.

Attacking Goldwater for a "lack of faith" in America, Freeman told a Democratic fund-raising rally that the Republican presidential nominee was actually a threat to world peace.

"The last thing this nation can afford in this nuclear age is the election of a trigger-happy President," Freeman said.

The real answer to the problem of finding peace, Freeman said, was not "bluster and bluff," but the proven ways followed by the Democratic administrations.

He urged his audience to reject "extremism of the right or the left," and continue to support the "traditional and time proven American system of government."

* * * *

TURNING to farm matters, Freeman said that under a Democratic administration agriculture exports in 1964 soared to an all-time high of $6.2 billion—a 20% increase over last year. Net income per farm was up 17% since 1960, and employment at an all time high.

In contrast to the "positive" Democratic program, Freeman said the only thing Goldwater had to offer was an acceptance speech that showed "once again that what GOP really stands for is grouchy old pessimists."

At their San Francisco convention, Freeman said the Republicans showed contempt for simple "courtesy and decency."

"We witnessed and heard an absence of tolerance . . . a lack of respect for the right of opposition to be heard fairly," Freeman said.

According to Freeman, what the demonstrations showed was that the Republicans lacked respect for the "American spirit of fair play." There was awesome disregard for the responsibilities of power, Freeman said.

LBJ Confident His Economies Pay Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson is firmly confident that his economy-in-government program is paying rich dividends — not only in reduced federal spending, but with an improved relationship with business, labor and the public.

And he intends to keep pushing his economy program with a slogan for the nation: Prosperity with stability.

It is possible to report these and other views of the chief executive from conversations with White House sources who requested no direct attribution.

* * * *

JOHNSON realizes that some people may attempt to laugh off some of the smaller savings achieved in government. But he believes these small economies mount up rapidly and serve to instill greater confidence in government and the national economy by business, labor unions and consumers.

The President at times become preoccupied by the steady stream of statistical government reports—from the Budget Bureau, his Council of Economic Advisers, the Treasury and the Commerce Department. He is seldom without sheets of late figures in his hands or close by on his desk.

For example, the chief executive was particularly pleased Saturday to hear from the Budget Bureau that in the three months ended June 30, management and improvement programs within the government produced "verified savings" of more than $100 million on an annual basis.

He met late Saturday with Budget Director Kermit Gordon to discuss guidelines for the future.

As the President devoted most of Saturday to working in his office with staff members and going over his beloved economic reports, these other Johnson positions were described authentically by White House officials:

—He has not yet made up a list from which he will select a vice-presidential choice. When he has discussed this with his staff and intimates, his position has been that what he wants in a running mate is a man with some extensive political experience, background training and wisdom sufficient to enable him to take over the presidency if it became necessary.

The President declined to describe what he considered an ideal running mate when asked for such an appraisal at a news conference Friday.

Louisiana's Rep. Hebert Leads Voting

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)— F. Edward Hebert, dean of the Louisiana delegation in the House of Representatives, appeared headed for a first primary victory Saturday in his bid for a 13th straight term in Congress.

Hebert, of New Orleans, ran up 5,845 votes to a combined 2,294 for his three opponents in the first 39 of 257 precincts reported.

He was one of four incumbent congressmen challenged by fellow Democrats in the primaries.

Rep. Gillis Long of Alexandria appeared headed for a neck-and-neck fight with his distant cousin, Speedy O. Long of Jena, in their 8th District race.

Sixth District Congressman James Morrison of Hammond took a commanding lead over his six opponents in their southeast Louisiana primary.

President, Reporters Talk, Walk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson had reporters in for coffee and conversation Saturday — almost a regular occurrence when he remains in Washington over the weekend—then swung around the south lawn of the White House to the delight of tourists.

Johnson chatted informally with reporters for about an hour in his White House office. The First Lady, seated slightly behind the President in his big oval office, made one of her rare appearances at such a session.

* * * *

JOHNSON held a televised news conference Friday, so few reporters expected any activity at the White House Saturday. However, Johnson's reputation is such that 35 to 40 were on hand when Press Secretary George Reedy invited them into the President's office.

As the session ended, Johnson said, "I'm going for a walk around the block, if you want to come along."

Most of the reporters did, and much of the time Lady Bird had trouble finding a place beside her husband in the crush around the President. Before the walk was over, she was trailing behind, conducting her own informal session with female reporters.

* * * *

WALKING around the driveway, Johnson swung down to the southeast gate and shook hands with the few tourists that spotted him. He stayed there about 10 minutes, as the tourists swarmed about the gate.

Then the President and First Lady, accompanied by reporters, strolled back up to the White House.

LIGHTBURN FOR PRESIDENT!

Backroom Grocery Campaign Launched

JANE LEW, W. Va., (UPI) —Joseph B. Lightburn, new presidential nominee of the Constitution Party of the United States, plans to conduct his campaign from the backroom of his grocery in this rural community.

Lightburn, who wrested the nomination from Bert Ellis of Houston, Tex., at the party's national convention in Houston on Friday, had supported Alabama Gov. George Wallace until Wallace pulled his hat from the ring.

While the 60 delegates held meetings on how to get Lightburn into the White House, his family was busy cleaning up the back room.

LIGHTBURN'S SON, Joseph Jr., 34, said he was planning to help by running a mimeograph machine. "I'm the only one who can run it," he said.

The younger Lightburn said he and his father would spend about eight hours a day clerking in the store during the campaign. "It will be primarily a mailing campaign," he said.

He said the only other active campaigner in this north-central West Virginia community of 500 would be his mother, Mrs. Susan Lightburn, 64. "But we have other workers in several West Virginia cities,' he added.

St. Louis Smog Worse Than L.A.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service reported Saturday that at least three other major U.S. cities have smog just as bad and in some cases worse than that in Los Angeles and it is growing more severe.

The latest compilation of air pollution statistics in eight cities shows that St. Louis, Mo., had the heaviest concentration of smog during the last six months.

SMOG, caused by photochemical reaction, is measured in "oxidants," which are oxidizing agents present in the air. The higher the number of parts of oxidants per 100 million parts of air, the worse it gets. When the concentration of oxidants reaches 15, residents of an area will frequently experience smarting of the eyes, vegetation can be affected, and a heavy, unpleasant haze usually hangs over the city.

At the Taft Sanitary Engineering Center here, the U.S. Public Health Service correlates and analyzes data from eight continuous air monitoring program (camp) stations in the country. They are located in Los Angeles, Chicago, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, San Francisco, St. Louis, New York and here.

In Cincinnati the past week, the oxidant content of the air measured as high as 34 parts per 100 million parts of air.

Through the first six months of this year, Washington, Philadelphia and St. Louis have shown smog conditions about equal to that of Los Angeles. St. Louis was the highest with a peak concentration of 44, while Los Angeles had 34 and Philadelphia 32.

WASHINGTON, the nation's capital which lacks the heavy industry commonly associated with smog, had a reading of 29, or 14 over the point where eye irritation begins.

The figures caused smiles of justification to light the faces of many air pollution engineers who claimed for years that smog was a problem not only native to Los Angeles but to other cities throughout the country. With these new studies, they have the evidence to back their claims.

"It's a rather concrete demonstration of what air pollution engineers have claimed for years," said Raymond Smith, chief of the air quality section of the Division of Air Pollution, P.H.S., here.

Park Chief May Take 'Save Redwoods' Fight to Court

ARCATA, Calif. (UPI) — The possibility of a court battle between the State Park Commission and the State Division of Highways loomed Saturday over the routing of a freeway through Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park.

"The issue most surely will go into the courts if the division of highways makes any effort to proceed with the beach route or enlarge the present route at Prairie Creek," state parks chief Charles A. DeTurk told an assembly committee.

And DeTurk said it was "not inconceivable" that such a case would be decided in favor of the parks.

DeTurk made his remarks before the assembly interim committee on natural resources, planning and public works which held a public hearing here on the broad problem of the relationship of freeways to park values.

* * * *

MUCH OF the discussion was focused on the widening and proposed re-routing of U.S. 101 in the vicinity of the Prairie Creek redwoods.

Four possible routes have been suggested — along the beach, along the bluffs above the beach, through the forest where the present road runs and along ridges to the east of the park. The first three suggestions have come under fire from conservationists who claim they would ruin the integrity of the forest-beach unit.

The case for the highways division was presented by John Erreca, state diector of public works.

He said that no highway planner "has yet come up with a way to modernize the Redwood Highway without cutting some virgin redwoods." He said that even the route to the east of the park would take a number of redwood trees.

* * * *

"I THINK it is fair to say that the highway commission's primary objective is to preserve the maximum number of virgin redwood trees and to damage or destroy the smallest number of virgin redwood trees," Erreca said.

"It is the highway commission's conviction that these two objectives . . . can be achieved, and that is our goal."

Erreca added that it was "unfair because it is untrue" to say that the highway commission has a practice of picking the shortest, cheapest route. He said related values are weighed heavily in selecting routes.

DeTurk, claiming that engineers have no business "telling us how to run a park," asked the legislature to give the state park commission veto power over "encroachment onto state parks land."

IT'LL BE NO PICNIC

UAW and Ford Battle Brewing

By CHARLES SUTTON

Ford Motor Co. carried its talks now going on in Detriennial feud with the United troit.
Auto Workers into Southern California last week and offered further evidence that its current contract negotiations with the union are going to be no picnic in the weeks ahead.

Moreover, officials hinted, the company expects to fight one of the toughest if not bitterest skirmishes of the summer along a battle line marked WORKING CONDITIONS.

Henry Ford II already has said his company will risk a strike rather than agree to some of the union's demands, and last week's statement by Ford officials here merely served to emphasize the company's apparent no-nonsense attitude in the latest round of bargaining.

* * * *

JOHN REESE, manager of labor relations for the firm's automotive assembly division, said the company feels there's been too much talk about "gold-plated sweatshops in the auto industry" — a phrase used recently by UAW President Walter Reuther—and the company's not about to let the charge go unanswered, he declared.

Accordingly, officials invited newsmen to inspect Ford's huge assembly plant in Pico-Rivera last week to see for themselves whether there was any truth to the charge.

If the results of the guided tour were inconclusive, they nevertheless were illuminating.

* * * *

THE ASSEMBLY line, though it has undergone innumerable refinements, still is essentially the same operation it was years ago.

The men—in this case about 1,500 hourly employes—stand on both sides of a long, winding conveyor system and put the cars together in four stages.

First, the body is welded together; then the paint is applied; then a whole series of trimmings is welded, screwed or otherwise attached to the frame—such things as mouldings, windows, door panels, and taillights. Finally, the running gear is bolted on.

ACCOMPANYING this marvelous orchestral movement, refined to a peak of precision by Ford's time-and-motion-study men, are the sounds of thousands of hand and power tools, all converging into a roar that spreads out into every corner of the plant and beats against the eardrums like a never-ending avalanche.

It is Charlie Chaplin's "Modern Times" all over again—but carefully modulated to a civilized pace, in the opinion of the Ford people.

This is not to say that factory work is a lark. Admittedly, a banker or a white-collar worker might find it abnormally tough and tiring, officials said.

* * * *

BUT THE things to keep in mind, said Reese, are that the plant is a factory, that the automobile is a product of heavy industry and that "cars cannot be manufactured in surroundings to which a banker is accustomed."

"For most factory jobs, a fair day's work necessarily involves physical fatigue."

What Ford is careful to do, however, it to keep that fatigue "within reasonable limits," he said.

* * * *

"IT'S TRUE," concluded Reese, who was here from Detroit, "that we have no palace or living room here, but neither do we have a sweatshop, whatever the UAW may say."

Reuther's characterization of auto plants as latter-day sweatshops is more than mere rhetoric this year.

There's every reason to believe that the UAW's rank and file is not exactly pleased with present working conditions in the industry. At the last UAW convention, held in Atlantic City last March, there were "angrier" demands for improved working conditions during one debate than for economic gains. As a result, the convention gave priority to the curbing of alleged speedups and to a demand for more rest periods.

* * * *

THIS emphasis, given public expression by Reuther, is bound to be reflected in the talks now going on in Detroit.

The company's position is not expected to be one of acquiescence, though. As J. B. Howard, manager of the Pico-Rivera facility put it, "there's going to be a hard battle ahead."

Reuther and his aides, of course, are not confining their demands to improved working conditions alone. They're also seeking earlier retirement, larger pensions, higher pay, longer vacations and possibly even a shorter work week.

But where previous postwar bargaining sessions tended to put working conditions relatively low on the UAW list of priorities, this year's talks are expected to push the issue close to the top.

* * * *

THUS A standoff on the matter is not unlikely.

At the Pico-Rivera plant, a good example of a Ford operation, workers now get two relief breaks of 12 minutes each—one in the morning and one in the afternoon. In addition to this normal relief, employes are provided emergency relief "when a need for it is evident."

In the opinion of Ford officials, the rest "breaks," plus the "reasonable" work pace and the general cleanliness of the plant, prove that Ford is certainly not running a sweatshop here. And any charge to the contrary, they indicated, makes about as much sense as calling a horse a racoon.

But UAW officials take exception to the Ford argument. Paul Schrade, western regional director of the union, points out that "with management always encroaching on the workers, it's a constant fight to keep up."

* * * *

"BUT EVEN assuming they're right, that their time-and-motion studies show our men to be working at a 'reasonable' pace, what's to say the pace shouldn't be changed?" said Shrade. "Why should it be what it was 20 years ago?

"With machines taking over," he went on, "there's been increased productivity. And some of that increased productivity should be taken up by improved working conditions."

That's why the UAW is pushing for increased rest periods and a reduced work pace, he said.

"We're simply demanding humane working conditions," he declared.

But what are "humane" conditions?

* * * *

FORD SAYS it has regulated the work pace so that fatigue is kept at a reasonable minimum. The UAW says the time-and-motion studies fail to take into account changing standards. What was reasonable two and three decades ago is intolerable today, it asserts.

Beyond that, and underlining any serious discussion of assembly-line work, is the nature of the job itself. Few people regard it as rewarding work, although Ford officials say the money isn't bad.

It is, by most standards, a monotonous, soul-killing activity. Yet, until something better comes along, it must be done, say auto officials. The question is: how fast, and with how many rest breaks?

The current auto talks between the UAW and the Big Three auto companies, including Ford, will, to a large degree, turn on that very question.

Plant Official Denies Reports of A-Blast

CHARLESTOWN, R. I. (AP) —Officials of United Nuclear Corp. said Saturday night that, contrary to earlier reports, there was no atomic explosion at the plant here Friday night in an accident in which one worker suffered a large dose of uranium poisoning.

Robert C. Johnson, manager of chemicals operation of the fuels division, said the incident consisted of "the fissioning of a solution which produced a flash boiling" and the radioactive material "remained within a localized 25-foot square area of the plant."

U.S. Seen as Rich, Arrogant—Douglas

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) —Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court William O. Douglas Saturday called on this country to create humility, tolerance and understanding toward other nations rather than an era of "arrogance" which he said appeared to be approaching.

Douglas, speaking before a dinner sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, said America is viewed in a different light from abroad than at home.

"America seen from abroad is rich and arrogant," Douglas said. "She is great in military prowess but weak in principle.

* * * *

"SHE SEEMS weak in principle when her so-called bastions of strength are corrupt reactionary regimes such as Iran and Formosa . . . Our measure of the amount of foreign aid we give is not dependent on the extent to which the recipient nation is moving toward a free society but it's anti-Communist attitude. (And anti-Communist does not necessarily mean pro-free society.)"

Douglas said throughout the world it is known that the American government is on the side of the extreme conservatives.

"The arrogance we feel at home reflects in part the uneasiness of the rich who are surrounded by slums and know not what to do but police them," he said. "The psychology of fear and apprehension produces the radical right."

Douglas said the system of government and its free enterprise that has worked successfully in this country does not always work as well in other countries.

* * * *

"ISRAEL, STOUTLY democratic, has socialist patterns in some parts of her economy," he said. "Bolivia, 12 years after her basic revolutionary prowess but weak in principle.

Douglas said the major problem of the world today was to make it safe for diversity.

"The world's diversity is indeed exciting," the justice said. "Are we really afraid to compete? Do we really want to drop the bomb in the name of freedom and produce a holocaust which will destroy all freedom?"

Wages, Salaries Rise to 71% of U.S. Income

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The nation's wage and salary workers collect more than two-thirds of the national income for their labors, Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. said Saturday.

"Back in the Gay 90's and early 1900s," the company said, wage and salary workers pocketed only slightly more than half the total national income. Today, the firm said, it's 71%.

The rest of the total income is divided up among all other groups—farmers, self-employed persons such as doctors and attorneys, landlords, lenders and businesses.

The life insurance company's Family Economics Bureau, which made a study of the situation, said "there are several reasons for the spectacular expansion in the workers' slice of the national income."

The bureau pointed to "large and continuing increases in wage and salary rates and in fringe benefits." It said the rapid growth of savings also has provided huge capital supplies to energize expansion and enlarge the demand for employes with greater skills and education.

This in turn has led to a larger proportion of workers in higher-income occupations with correspondingly fewer in low-paid jobs, the bureau said.

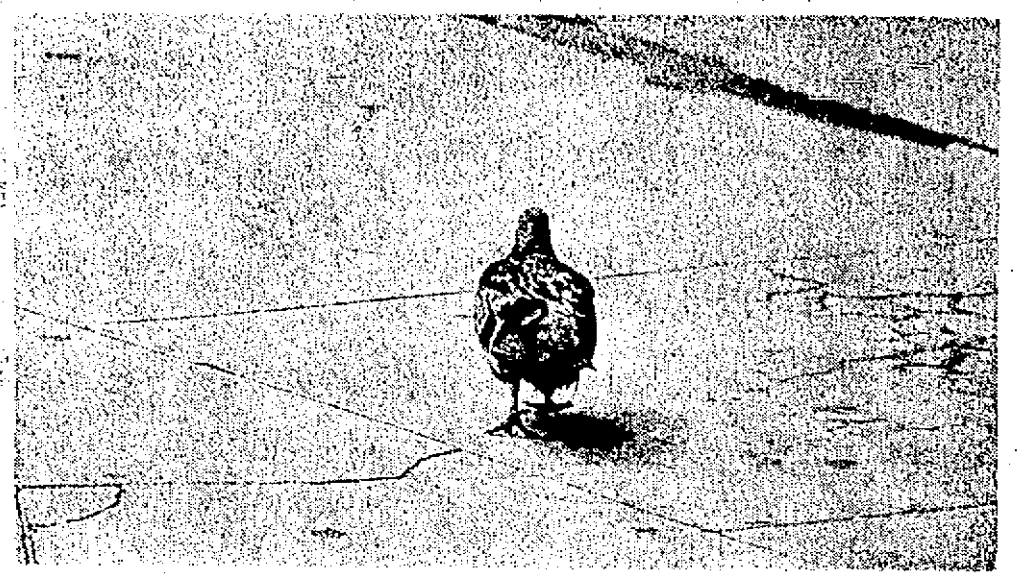

Looking for economic groups which lost the ground, the bureau noted that "the farmers' slice took the deepest cut—from over 12% at the turn of the centudy to less than 3% of the 1963 national income."

Sonic Booms to Continue, Court Rules

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Sonic boom opponents here have less than two weeks to put up with the Federal Aviation Agency's boom testing program, but they had hoped their ordeal would be over last week.

But it wasn't to be. U.S. District Judge Stephen Chandler ruled for the third time that the booms could continue. He turned down a request for injunction.

Chandler refused twice previously to grant such an injunction by simply refusing to accept jurisdiction. But the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overruled Chandler's decision that he lacked jurisdiction, thus setting up the

THE PIGEON DEBATE:

Too Much Local 'Color'?

By GEORGE ERES

People have strong feelings about pigeons when they think about them at all. They're either for 'em or agin' 'em.

The pigeons in Lincoln Park, for example, are a delight to bench-sitters, and a bane to others trying to find a clean spot to sit.

"They're friendly, tame delightful birds."

"They're damned nuisances and should be wiped out."

And so on. . . .

* * * *

ONE THING, the pigeons have friends who are always on the prowl to see to it that they are not molested by small boys.

Two lads attempting to catch pigeons in Lincoln Park with a butterfly type net the other day, suddenly saw their quarry flap off as an elderly lady swooped into the arena shaking a wrinkled finger at the boys and warning them off with: "It's against the law to trap pigeons."

It isn't quite clear—just what or if there is a law on pigeons.

The city attorney's office referred the question into the city prosecutor's office which handles "pigeon drop" cases.

The city prosecutor's office dropped the question into the lap of the State Division of Fish & Game. lap.

Wardens at the F&G were not interested. "We don't have jurisdiction. They're 'domestic' not 'wild' birds."

Apparently they don't belong to anyone. They're free as pigeons.

* * * *

THE FACT remains, however, pigeons are a problem.

In some communities—Boston, Fresno and Philadelphia—the people in charge of such things have taken action against the birds. Some of the pigeon exterminators have made their calling a closely guarded secret. Tony D'Amto, 63, of Philadelphia, for instance, reduced the 10,000 to 15,000 pigeon population around the city hall to a handful and won fame of sorts. He refuses to tell people how he does it. His boss doesn't pry—just so the job's done.

Pigeons are not exactly a health problem. They're a potential health problem, a doctor said. They do not currently pose a health problem in Long Beach. "They are known to be carriers of disease, but I know of no instance of pigeons causing a disease here," said the doctor. Actually, the pigeons that are pets are more of a health menace than the "wild" pigeons.

* * * *

A WHILE back they were a pressing problem at city hall. They began building nests around air vents and mites, which fancy pigeons, began showing up in drapes and carpeting. The city's Public Service Department handled the problem by screening off areas around outlets to bar nest space.

But the basic problem at the main library, Veterans Building and Municipal Recreation Center is the nuisance the pigeons create. They deface property and sometimes humans. The washing down chore is a must every morning.

Attempts to discourage the pigeons by using a bird repellent are looked on with anger by the pigeon fanciers, who constitute quite a lobby and consider the practice cruelty to animals. They counter repellants with food handouts so pigeons will appreciate that not all humans are beasts.

"Pigeons strutting in the park lend color to our city," protest the bird watchers.

"Pigeons squatting on a ledge," answer the bird-watchful, "are a pain in the neck."

Heat, Hate Simmer in East's Cities

By WALTER T. RIDDER
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The long, hot summer has begun. The weather here in the east is hot, heavy, humid and dank. The political climate is the same. The scorching airless nights are already filled with the sounds of party strife.

The steamy nights make sleep all but impossible in the close quarter of the east's larger cities. And in them, the nights are filled with the sound of things other than mere political strife. They are filled with the sounds of gunfire, of night-sticks thudding against human skulls, of switch-knives clicking open, and of voices raised in all-out, deep-rooted racial hatred.

* * * *

THE VAIN HOPE that tumult and shouting and shooting and pillaging could be avoided has already been shattered. Man has set himself against man. The net result is that fear and violence permeate the land where it all will end no one knows.

"Hey, Whitey, whatcha doin here?" shouts the Negro in Harlem. There's no affection in the use of that term "Whitey" and as often as not it is accompanied by a brick or other object hurled at the white man's head. Or a white man becomes trigger-happy and shoots down a Negro before the latter has made any move and an infuriated mob damages white property and Negro property and does injury to itself and to others as it marches the streets in pursuit of lawlessness.

Each side blames the other and to a large degree they are both right. There are rights and wrongs on either side and because there are, solution to the problems offer appalling difficulties. The people, white and black, are demanding solutions, not sometime in the future, but now, so that peace can once again descend upon our embattled cities. But there is no one who has the answer to the problem or if there is his voice has been drowned in the din of literal combat.

* * * *

THE LAW ENFORCEMENT authorities are all too often inundated by the immensity of the problem. Indeed, in some places, notably Harlem, they are accused of aggravating the very problem they are trying to solve and relations between policemen and citizens in Harlem has degenerated into a kind of jungle warfare.

It's not a pretty picture and it is made no prettier by the thought that not only is it not likely to get better soon, but that it may well get worse.

Certainly the upcoming political campaign will do nothing to calm things down. The issue is a major one and has already done much to disturb the unity of one of our great political parties. In the days ahead, it will do much to disturb the unity of the country. Summer is not, one is afraid, the only season in the foreseeable future which will be long and hot.

N.Y. RIOTS COST POLICE $1.5 MILLION

NEW YORK (AP)—The past weekweek of riots in Harlem and Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section has cost the police department $1.5 million, deputy police commissioner Walter Arm said Saturday.

He said the estimate includes the cost of overtime, additional ammunition, repairs for damaged vehicles, hospital bills and other expenses. Ninety percent of the $1.5 million is for overtime.

Arm said hundreds of policemen had been sent from low-crime sections of the city to handle the violence in Harlem and Brooklyn.

Haiti Reports Invaders Routed

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The Haitian government said Saturday an invasion force which had established itself in mountains east of this capital had been defeated and sent fleeing into the Dominican Republic.

President Francois Duvalier's government had claimed on July 9 the rebel band was surrounded and would have to "surrender or be wiped out." Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers said the invasion force crossed into Haiti from the Dominican Republic on June 29 at Lagon des Huites.

Communist Held, N.Y. Parade Isn't

we are under arrest," Epton shouted as they were taken away. Both were charged with disorderly conduct on the ground they had caused a crowd to collect.

* * * *

A HALF HOUR after the arrests, the intersection was virtually back to normal except for a number of onlookers strolling the sidewalks and peering from tenement windows. Police kept the strollers moving.

Police brushed off an argument by Epton that his followers only intended a peaceful walk.

Almost simultaneously with the fizzling of the parade, the city obtained a State Supreme Court order to prohibit the march, but notice had not been served on Epton at the time of his arrest.

Shortly before the city made its court move, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller issued a statement saying he was willing to furnish National Guard troops if necessary both in New York City and in Rochester, N.Y., where Negroes rioted Friday night and early Saturday.

* * * *

THE GOVERNOR, in a statement issued through his Albany office from his Tarrytown home, said rioting and looting "from whatever source or for whatever reason will be met by the full force of the law."

Sponsors of the parade had distributed mimeographed posters telling the marchers: "Do not panic."

But leaders of other Harlem groups issued counter-pamphlets urging the people of Harlem not to participate.

In the forefront in the anti-parade move was the Harlem Unity Committee, composed of representatives of 69 organizations.

Most Negro leaders, while opposing the parade itself, also opposed the police ban on it as a blow at civil rights.

Man Killed as Rochester Mobs Riot

forcements were rushed to other embattled sections.

Police set up roadblocks to stop 12 carloads of people who were reported heading toward the riot-scarred cit. It was not known whether they were Negroes.

All persons had been ordered off the city streets by 8 p.m.

A detail of city police and state troopers was struck with stones and bottles as they marched down Jefferson Avenue.

One policeman was hit by a brick and fell out of line, clutching his ankle.

OTHER objects thrown at police included beer and milk bottles, a box of detergent and a gallon box of ice cream, apparently stolen from a grocery store.

Looters took liquor from a cafe on Jefferson Avenue and tried to set the cafe on fire, police said. Officers who saw men running from the place with bottles spotted the fire and put it out before it did any damage.

A restaurant and a grocery store on opposite corners of Clifton Avenue were virtually destroyed by looters—all the windows were smashed and contents thrown into the street.

POLICE stopped a car carrying four Negro men and took away several cans of beer. A search of the car turned up two knives.

One man was arrested after struggle when he refused to move.

Few of the hundreds who defied the curfew were arrested, however. Police appealed to them to return to their homes and most did.

The one man known dead was struck near the intersection of Clarissa and Atkinson streets.

Residents said one of several youths tossed rocks through a grocery-store window. The man, wearing a white helmet, appeared suddenly in the middle of the street. He said nothing, but stared at the youths.

* * * *

WITNESSES said the rock-hurler walked out and began punching the man and the man fell to the street unconscious.

A Negro resident rushed to the spot to flag away passing cars. One car veered but a second, close behind, struck the man and dragged him about 100 feet.

One woman who shouted obscenities at police was taken to jail. A busload of prisoners was taken from the downtown jail to the Monroe County Penitentiary at mid-evening to relieve crowded conditions at the city lockup.

* * * *

AN 82-YEAR-OLD white barber closing his shop on the corner of Frost and Jefferson was cut about the face by flying glass when a brick was hurled through his shop window.

For a time, Negroes set up a barricade of furniture and lumber to halt cars at Jefferson and Clifton streets but police broke this up.

Thousands of Negro families stood on their porches or in their yards, watching as the rioting flared and subsided.

Some looting was reported Friday night in the Jefferson Avenue area but the main action was on Joseph Avenue, which is near the downtown business section.

* * * *

AS THE curfew hour neared Saturday, city and state police moved quietly along Joseph Avenue clearing it of pedestrians. The section previously had been closed to automobile traffic.

But in the other trouble section, hundreds of Negroes still were on the street an hour after curfew.

The state troopers were rushed across the city on city buses. They were greeted by a shower of bricks from the Negroes.

The trouble centered at the corner of Jefferson and Bartlett streets, a neighborhood of neat, well-kept homes with lawns and flowers that make it a far better neighborhood than Joseph Avenue.

* * * *

HUNDREDS of Negroes, some holding beer cans, hooted and jeered at the troopers as they hurried off the buses, lined up in military fashion and double-timed down the street.

The jagged, red bricks were hurled from second-story porches and rooftops.

Burglar alarms, set off as store windows were smashed, jangled in the dark.

Rochester city patrol cars cruised the area, six of them bumper to bumper at one point.

One Negro man rushed up to a state police sergeant screaming:

"You're only making it worse by bringing all these armed men in here. You're the ones who are causing the riot."

* * * *

RUBBISH littered the streets in many places, dumped there by angry demonstrtors.

One man screamed:

"Where's Rockefeller? Bring Rockefeller and let him see what you're doing," in a reference to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who earlier Saturday vowed that such rioting as in Rochester and in New York City earlier in the week "will be met by the full force of the law."

NEGRO TELLS OF 'GYPS'

Resentment Long Building to Climax

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—The chaos and destruction which ripped through the predominantly Negro Seventh Ward Saturday shocked white residents who believed their city free of racial strife.

But many of the 5,000 Negroes who live in the ward claim the trouble has been on the way for years.

"They've been kept down here too long, like dogs," a Negro insurance salesman said. "They've been stuck in this low-rent housing, they've been exploited by the merchants . . . It's almost a ghetto here."

* * * *

FOOD stores in the district have been charging higher prices and permitting credit for the premium, he said. One clothing store made a practice of overcharging, extending credit, then seizing the goods after some of the payments had been made, he said.

"If they (authorities) didn't know this trouble was coming, if nobody knew, how come I haven't been able to sell any plate-glass insurance around here for years. The company just wouldn't take the risk.

"No wonder they wrecked these places. They need the credit, but they know that they are being taken to the cleaners. But I don't know why they wrecked George's place over there," he said, pointing to a small men's store. "He has always tried to be fair."

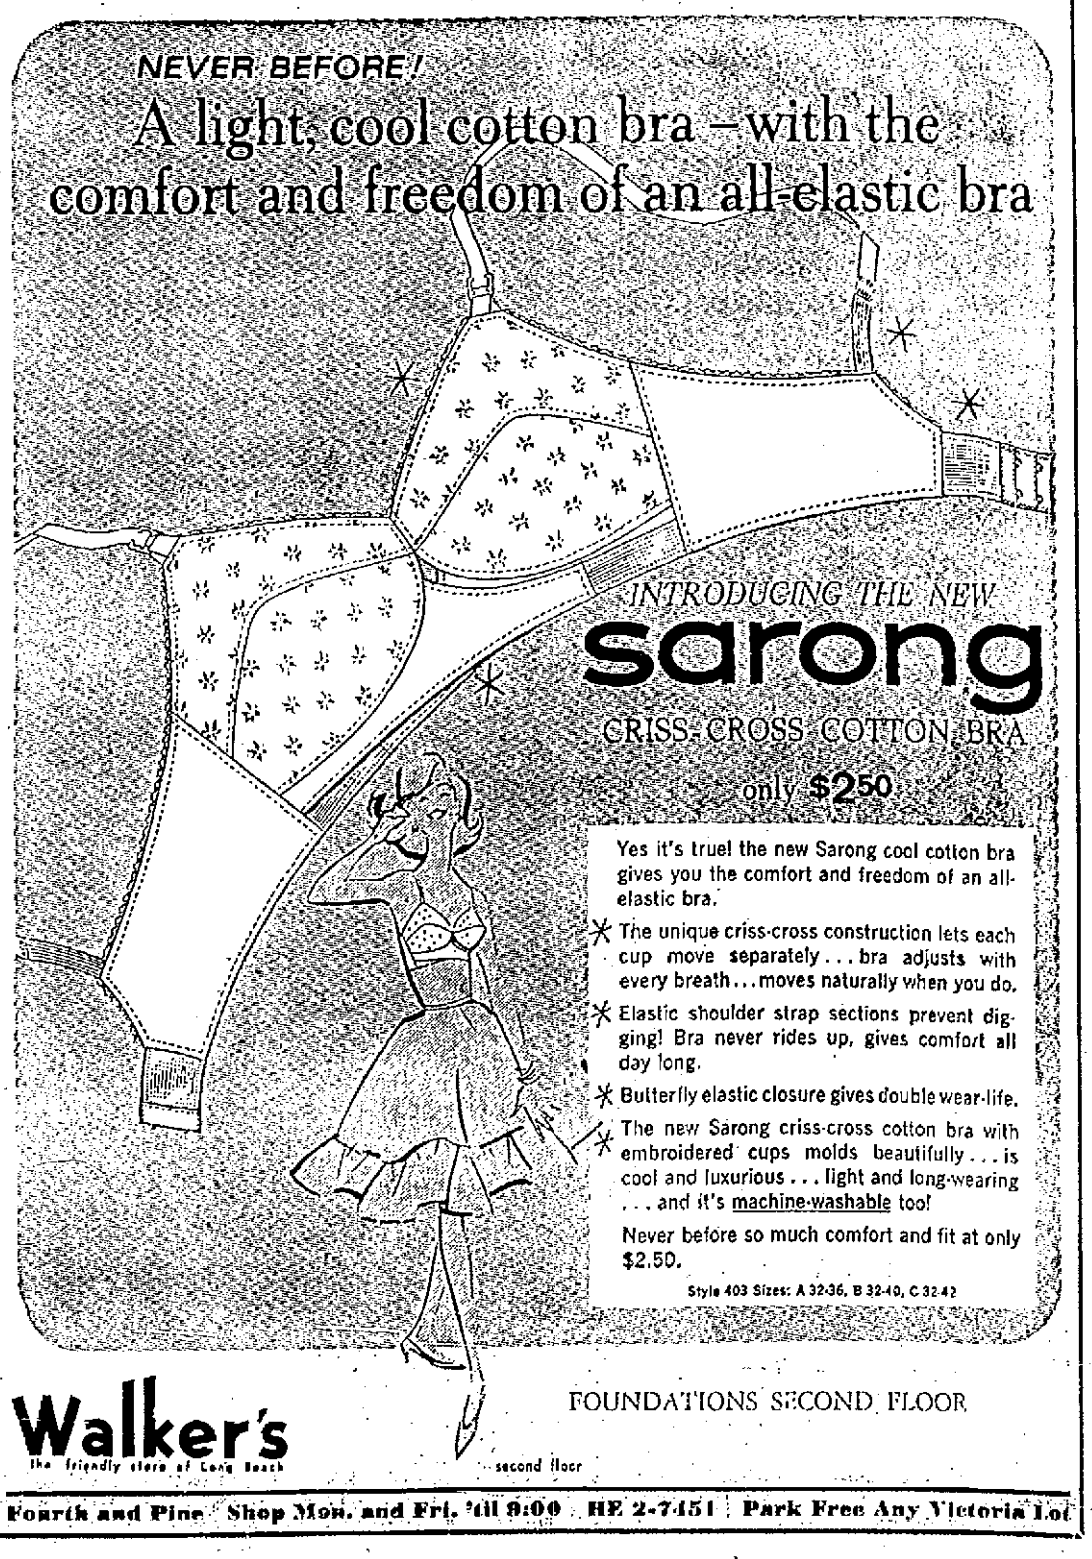

* * * *

"BUT WHAT happens, the old people get taken, then their children get a little more education and they get mad. They see what's going on, and when they get a chance, they do this, see? It had to happen.

"Maybe the answer is to leave the country. They don't have this stuff in Canada, in places like Toronto and Montreal. We here fight for our country. We're good enough for that, but the rest of the time we're animals."

Only Negro businesses were left unscathed by the rioters. The Salvation Army Family Thrift Store had only a small hole punched in a plate-glass window, but nothing was stolen.

Presidential Candidates Face Dilemmas

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

The rival presidential candidates, Sen. Barry Goldwater and President Johnson, were brought face to face with major political dilemmas last week.

The conservative Goldwater had a burgeoning moderate GOP bolt on his hands. He had to decide whether to let the defectors go their way or try to wean them back by renouncing some of his principles. He said he planned a "summit" meeting on party unity, but hinted at no concessions.

* * * *

JOHNSON had similar trouble in the deep South. Anti-desegregation Democrats, fired up by enforcement of the new Civil Rights Law, turned their backs to the chief executive. Some switched to Goldwater who vehemently opposed two major sections of the law — public accommodations and fair employment — and voted against the entire bill.

Goldwater sought in a personally requested conference with Johnson to tone down civil rights as a campaign issue. But the President, in a national televised press conference preceding the meeting, declared he did not believe any issue could be kept out of the campaign if the voters were interested in it.

The President made it clear that he planned a fighting election campaign. He said the purpose of a campaign is to air the issues and let the electors choose between the candidates on the basis of issues. "Therefore," he said, "we must have views and I believe all are entitled to hear them."

* * * *

WHEN ASKED whether he thought some statements by Goldwater had encouraged extremist actions, Johnson said: "I will leave that to the judgment of the American people."

These developments came against a backdrop of bloody racial violence in New York City, more Negro church-burnings in Mississippi, the first FBI arrests under the new racial rights law, and an edict by a three-judge Atlanta federal court that the public accommodations clause of the statute is constitutional.

The President faces the problem of ironing out his party's schism at the Democratic National Convention next month. A strong civil rights plank, probably dictated by him, is certain. He made it clear at his press conference and in White House meetings with the nation's business and labor leaders that he would not give ground.

"I fully intend," he declared, "to use all the resources I have to make sure that those who claim rights and those who deny them bend their passions to peaceful obedience of the law."

* * * *

THE New York City violence exploded after an off-duty policeman killed a 15-year-old Negro boy who allegedly came at him with a knife. Creaming, missile-throwing Negroes battled police in the streets in Harlem and Brooklyn night after night. Windows of hundreds of stores were broken and looters ran rampant. Some were shot by police. Scores were arrested. Some of the rioters screamed "Kill or be killed!"

President Johnson rushed FBI agents into the city. He said such violence could not be tolerated. City officials charged that Communists working with hate groups and black nationalists stimulated the strife. Nationally known Negro leaders accused the police of deliberate brutality.

Heading up the anti-Goldwater bolt were New York's moderate Republican senators, Kenneth B. Keating, who is up for re-election, and Jacob K. Javits, both original Nelson Rockefeller supporters. Both said they would remain Republicans, but that they could not support the national ticket unless Goldwater backtracks on civil rights and other issues pushed by moderates whose long party reign was ended by Goldwater's nomination.

* * * *

OTHER announced holdouts were Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., and three congressmen. Many more were "on the fence," awaiting developments. In proposing a unity summit meeting with former President Eisenhower and other party bigwigs, Goldwater declared that "Republicans have to stick together." An aide said, however, that the senator was "not sitting in his apartment trembling" over the defections.

In his talks with business and labor leaders the President warned against political acts in the coming campaign that would damage the health of the national economy. He asked them to join in a crusade of persuasion to see that the Civil Rights Law is obeyed and to display statesmanship at the collective bargaining table. In another obvious shot at Goldwater, he enjoined against extremism in any form, domestic or international, that would rock the economic boat.

* * * *

IN ANOTHER speech to the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., Johnson told his youthful audience that while the problems of Washington may be difficult to understand, the government should be neither feared nor attacked. He said it exists to "protect the freedom and enlarge the opportunities of every citizen."

In the course of his press conference, the President disclosed development of a new long-range military reconnaissance plane — the SR71. He called it "the most advanced in the world" and said it would travel three times the speed of sound at altitude "in excess of 80,000 feet."

* * * *

HE REJECTED outright French President Charles de Gaulle's call for an international conference of South Viet Nam and Southeast Asia. He said the United States was determined to preserve Viet Nam and Laos and would not attend a conference to "ratify" Communist terror.

The President also blistered De Gaulle's implication that the United States is trying to dominate Europe. Johnson reminded the French executive that the welfare of Europe and this country are tied together and that they must continue that way for the sake of world peace.

In Congress, the Senate passed and sent back to the House Johnson's $947.5 million war-on-poverty program. Goldwater voted against it. The Senate also approved at $207.5 million pay hike for 1/8 million officers and enlisted men in the armed services.

Riots, Barry Discussed

Editorial comment on affairs in the United States by foreign newspapers last week centered on Sen. Barry Goldwater's nomination and the racial violence in New York City.

The Austrian Voksblatt said the Harlem rioting ". . . must be blamed on the basic attitude of part of the American society as it was expressed at the Republican convention when Goldwater was nominated . . ."

The Belgian Gazet Van Antwerpen said, "Goldwater is painfully experiencing to what lengths his approval of extremism in the fight for freedom can be interpreted . . ."

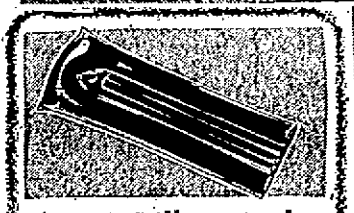

The Paris newspaper Le Monde said, "If Goldwater became president he would have to take into consideration realities which, it appears, he does not realize exist."

The Swedish Dagens Nyheter said, "Riots in the biggest city in the United States are serious in themselves but can become disastrous when national feelings are overexcited after the defeat of the progressive forces in San Francisco . . . force and violence can only serve the Goldwater movement."

Foreign Girls Losing Out in Hollywood Bid

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Playwright-scripter Lawrence Roman says the flood of foreign love goddesses into Hollywood has slowed—and he's glad, along with some producer and director friends.

"Any man will look twice at a beautiful girl," says the writer of 'Under the Yum Yum Tree,' but a producer needs talented, hard-working actresses. Very few of these foreign flowers can act."

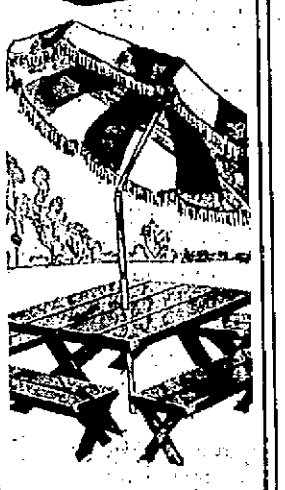

Roman argues that the public interest in cute accents has long since passed.

"We've not had a major personality among these girls in five years."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Downtown L.A. Fire Kills One

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fire roared through an old Bunker Hill apartment house near the Los Angeles Civic Center Saturday, killing one man and injuring 10 other person, two critically.

The spectacular blaze, visible for miles, was in the Dome Apartments at Second Street and Grand Avenue, a turn-of-the-century landmark. Firemen said it was destined for demolition within two years for Bunker Hill's redevelopment.

Firemen estimated loss at $25,000.

The dead man was so badly burned he could not be indentified immediately. The injured included four firemen, treated at the scene for burns and cuts. Nineteen fire trucks and 100 firemen quelled the blaze.

Hoffa Jury Kept Under Guard

CHICAGO (AP)—The jury deliberating the $20-million mail-fraud and conspiracy case against Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa and six codefendants quit for the day at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Deliberations will be resumed at 9:30 a.m. today.

The jury of eight men and four women was taken to hotel accomodations at the Great Lakes Naval Station, 30 miles north of Chicago. The jury has been kept there under guard since the trial began.

White House Denies China Contact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House Saturday denied the existence of letters reported to have been exchanged between President Johnson and Chinese Communist Premier Chou en-lai on Southeast Asia.

"There have been no such letters," said Presidential Press Secretary George E. Reedy.

The State Department refused to comment.

The report came for Paris early Saturday. French government sources said the two leaders had exchanged letters through Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan. It was not known in Paris when the exchange was supposed to have taken place. No details were given except that the letters were said to have concerned Southeast Asian problems.

Tug Rips Out 200 Feet of Bridge

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A tugboat pushed two barges into the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway Saturday, tearing out 200 feet of the 24-mile-long bridge.

A bus carrying 20 passengers had just passed over the danger spot when the crash came. Six lives were lost in a similar accident six weeks ago.

A bus passenger, Riley B. Kimball, 46, of nearby Mandeville, told the New Orleans States-Item that there was no one at the wheel of the tug at the time of the accident. Kimball was one of 20 passengers on a private bus headed for work at Avondale Shipyards.

The tug, the Red Poll, hit the causeway, said to be the world's longest bridge over water, at an angle, about two and a quarter miles from the north shore of the lake. The toll bridge carries much of the north-south traffic to and from New Orleans.

Katanga Ex-Gendarmes Riot

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—About 500 former Katagan gendarmes rioted at the provincial presidential palace Saturday, throwing stones and attempting to overturn cars.

The 500 former gendarmes asked to be integrated into the National Congolese Army (ANC). They rioted in an apparent protest because they had not been given clothing and food by the ANC.

Navy Confirms Russ Ship Checked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department confirmed Saturday that a Navy jet and a destroyer made a "routine" check on a Soviet cargo ship in international waters off the Florida Coast.

A spokesman for the department said the destroyer Kreschmer and a Navy P2 twin-engine jet encountered the Soviet cargo ship Svoboda about noon Friday.

KEEPING PACE

Klan Takes to Air to Deliver Message

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The Ku Klux Klan has become airborne in Mississippi.

The anti-Negro organization, whose hooded riders once roamed the South on horseback carrying flaming torches, used small airplanes— possibly the same one— to drop pro-segregation leaflets in two area.

Hundreds of the leaflets fluttered down outside a civil rights rally in a Greenwood church while integrationist Martin Luther King was speaking.

"The local government in Lefflore (Greenwond) County is amply fortified and quite capable of handling this matter legally," the leaflet said. "However, if the agitators should overrun the law and a violent disorder erupts, it will be the right, duty and moral obligation of the white men in Leflore County to restore law and order."

The plane swooped about 300 feet over the church, its lights out, to release the leaflets.

A similar drop was made a few weeks earlier at Moss Point.

Actual Klan membership in Mississippi— as in other southern states— is hard to estimate. Some of its spokesmen say the total is close to 90,000. This is not substantiated, however, and a rally that draws several thousand is considered a success.

NATIONAL, INTERNATIONAL LEADERS EXPECTED

Salvation Army's Camp Meeting Here Aug. 22-30 to Draw 10,000

National and international leaders of the Salvation Army will be in Long Beach for the Seventh Annual Camp Meetings to be held in municipal Auditorium Aug. 22-30.

Commissioner Holland French, Salvation Army national commander, will open the series of revival meetings on Saturday, Aug. 22, and Commissioner Erik Wikberg, international chief of staff from London, will give the final address Sunday, Aug. 30.

Highlight of the 10-day series will be a festival of music in the Auditorium arena Saturday, Aug. 29, at 7:45 p.m. The festival will feature the Hamilton Citadel Band from Ontario, Canada, with Wilfred Mountain as bandmaster. Winnifred Watson, also of the Hamilton Citadel, will be soloist.

Participating will be the Salvation Army bands of Inglewood, with James Fogg as bandmaster; the Los Angeles Congress Hall Band, with Harry B. Stillwell, Jr., as bandmaster; and the Hollywood Tabernacle Band, with Ronald Smart as bandmaster.

* * * *

THE HOLLYWOOD Tabernacle Band completed a triumphal concert tour of England and the continent in June. The Hamilton Citadel Band which will perform at the Saturday music festival is one of the world's finest Salvation Army bands.

Plans for the Camp Meetings, expected to attract over 10,000 people from all over the West, were completed at a meeting this week of Southern California Divisional Commander Lt. Col. Harold G. Barry, Long Beach Corps Officer Major Kenneth Anderson, and Ray Greene Sr., chairman of the Long Beach Salvation Army advisory board camp meeting committee.

Three meetings will be held on each Sunday, Aug. 23 and Aug. 30, at 10:30; 2:30 and 7:30. On each Sunday afternoon there will be a traditional "open air" meeting at 5:45 followed by a parade of Salvation Army bands. On week days throughout the series meetings will be held at 2, 3 and 7:30 p.m.

Commissioner Robert Hoggard, famed Salvationist writer and lecturer, will conduct Bible study classes at 3 p.m. while prayer meetings at 2 p.m. will be led by Major Arthur Smith, Congress Hall Corps officer.

* * * *

COMMISSIONER French, the national commander, will address the evening evangelistic meetings from Saturday through Thursday. A rally with emphasis on youth will be held Friday evening with Commissioner Wikberg as the main speaker. Commissioner Wikberg will also address a luncheon meeting of veteran officers on Saturday, Aug. 29 and the concluding evangelistic meetings on Sunday, Aug. 30.

A Women's Fellowship dinner is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 27, at the Lafayette Hotel as part of the social activities in connection with the Camp Meetings. The Nurses Fellowship of the Salvation Army will have a luncheon meeting, also at the Lafayette Hotel, on Friday, Aug. 28.

All meetings, most of which are open to the public, will be held in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. The public meetings include those on Sunday and the daily prayer Bible study and evening evangelistic meetings.

PLAN CAMP MEETING

At a meeting last week plans for the forthcoming annual Camp Meeting of the Salvation Army here Aug. 22-30 were discussed. From left are Ray Greene St., chairman of the Camp Meeting planning committee; Lt. Col. Harold G. Barry, Southern California Divisional Commander, Salvation Army; and Maj. Kenneth Anderson, Long Beach Corps Officer, Salvation Army.

Fire Damages Cabin Cruiser

A 55-foot cabin cruiser, the "Porque No," owned by Tom Ballard, president of Ballard Motors, Anaheim, was extensively damaged by fire shortly after 2 p.m. Saturday.

The cruiser, moored at Ken Niles' Villa Marina in Balboa Bay, burned for almost an hour after an electrical fire started inside, according to the Orange County Harbor Patrol.

Ballard is in New York on business and no one was aboard the boat when the fire broke out.

NEW DENTAL PROGRAM FOR PENSIONERS NOW IN EFFECT

DR. RAYMOND has been advised by the California Department of Social Welfare that the following program is now in effect for pensioners.

AND WE QUOTE

"As a result of additional funds available for Medical Care, all necessary dental services for Old Age Security recipients will be provided through the Medical Care Trust Fund to cover the entire caseload."

This means that on presentation of your Old Age Security "identification" card, the following can be done WITHOUT FURTHER AUTHORIZATION.

1. EXAMINATION
2. NECESSARY DIAGNOSTIC X-RAYS
3. EMERGENCY CARE
4. DENTURE REPAIRS
5. DENTURE ADJUSTMENTS

To complete your new dental plates, a report is turned in for final authorization after which the county will pay for your dentures.

MODERN DENTAL PLATES aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques" used in the construction of dental plates. Dental Science has followed a progressive path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, uppers and lowers and partials. Good dental plates need not be expensive. The cost is small.

Hard Times Hit Realty Tycoon

where he played football for one year.

"They barred me from football because I had played professional baseball," Capron said, "so I turned into a tramp athlete and real estate man."

While picking up grounders in baseball circuits through the West, Capron began picking up cash making real estate deals on boom-town areas.

Capron said he married in Portland, Ore., in 1909, when he was playing for Seattle.

"But I didn't play much after that. It was the money I was after and I couldn't make enough in baseball," he said.

But he made it, and lost it, in real estate.

He started in boom towns of Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma, but didn't hit it big until he moved to California.

* * * *

"I ONCE traded 800 acres of land in Hollywood for some property in Colorado and only made a small profit," he said. "You couldn't buy that Hollywood land now.

"I always had lots of property. I bought it cheap, with a small down payment and low interest, but by the 1920s I was losing much of it through foreclosures."

He estimates he lost $20 million in the 1929 stock-market crash.

"After the 1930s, I really went to town. I worked like a dog and had a lot of ups and downs, but I'm awfully strong, you know.

"Trouble is, I was never much of a man for details and I bet I've been beaten out of half a billion dollars' worth of property."

* * * *

REGARDING his wife's charges that he kept his riches a secret and would not hire a nurse when she broke her leg, Capron said:

"I am really tight, but that's because I was brought up so poor. But what she says is all nonsense. Her nurses cost me $2,500 a month and I didn't object to paying it.

"I could give you the names of 50 persons I've supported over the years, including a lot of famous athletes."

Clarence Hunt, Capron's lawyer, said Capron actually was solicitous about his wife's health.

* * * *

"HE'S VERY close with his money, there's no doubt of that. He's had to be, to scrape up money to pay his taxes and maintenance on his land holdings. He's what you might call 'land poor' because whenever he's had money, he's invested it, mostly in unimproved land," Hunt said.

"I'm still wheeling and dealing in real estate," Capron said, "and I love it."

"But my wife has caused me too much trouble in the past few months. It's a woman's world, especially in California.

"These high taxes are killing me, too. I don't know what I'll do now."

Rain Halts Midwest's HeatWave

By United Press International

Cool Pacific air which broke a week-long heat wave in the Midwest Saturday splashed sections of three states with up to 3½ inches of rain, further easing a three-month drought.

West Allis, Wis., had 3.5 inches of rain. Buffalo Grove, Ill., had 2.20 inches of rain in three hours early Saturday.

Milwaukee, Wis., had an inch of rain, raising its total for the month to 7.65 inches, greatest ever in July and breaking a record set 79 years ago.

* * * *

MARQUETTE, Mich., measured 2 inches of rain.

The edge of the cool front was marked by thunderstorms from the southern Rockies to the Great Lakes.

Heavy rain caused flash flooding at Marshfield and Stevens Point, Wis. Near Wausau, Wis., lightning touched off a barn fire, felled trees and power failures were widespread in Wisconsin.

Scorpion Stings Actor Gil Roland

BEATTY, Nev. (UPI) — Actor Gilbert Roland underwent treatment for a scorpion sting Saturday in this small Nevada community near the Death Valley location where he has been filming scenes for a 20th Century-Fox production.

Roland was stung by a 2½-inch scorpion during filming of "The Reward." He was taken to Beatty for medical treatment. Ice

United Crusade Drive Chairmen Are Selected

Community campaign chairmen for five cities within the United Crusade Long Beach area were introduced last week by N. L. McLaughlin, area campaign chairman for the fall appeal of United Way and the American Red Cross.

Gordon Young will head divisions soliciting in Long Beach and Dominguez. Young, assistant vice president of the Bank of America at Fourth and Pine, had been selected to head the 1965 Red Cross campaign.

"Since Red Cross now will not have a drive next March, Young was our logical choice for this responsible position," McLaughlin stated. "And having served several years on Chest and United Way budget committees, he is a man familiar and dedicated to both our organizations."

* * * *

LAKEWOOD'S United Way board of directors selected Mrs. Ora Knudson, Lakewood's acting postmaster, as their community campaign chairman.

Mrs. Knudson was vice chairman of Lakewood's United Way campaign last year and has acted as residential division chairman for past Community Chest drives. She is a former president of Camp Fire Girls and currently is a member of the Community Welfare Council and Lakewood YMCA, all United Way agencies.

Heading the Paramount campaign will be James Carnes, attorney.

Carnes is a member of the United Way county board of directors, president of the Paramount United Way board and vice president of the area board. He has been an active worker in the Chamber of Commerce, Elks and Masons.

* * * *

DR. JACK W. Mears, president of Cerritos College, has been chosen Bellflower's campaign chairman. He was Red Cross campaign chairman in 1963 in Bellflower and is a board member of the Norwalk Chamber of Commerce.

A well-known educator, Dr. Mears helped organize the training program for loan executives and solicitors for last year's United Way campaign.

For the first time Signal Hill will have a separate campaign organization under the leadership of Fred W. Baxter, Signal Hill city administrator. A member of the Red Cross board of directors, Baxter led the last drive for them in Signal Hill.

McLaughlin said that separate campaign goals will be set for each city with a $1.51 million goal expected for the entire area.

"We must make a point of reminding everyone that this will be a campaign for 310 United Way agencies as well as the services of 13 Red Cross chapters in Los Angeles County that will need an estimated $22 million dollars," the chairman added.

"To raise enough for local services everywhere, people must be prepared to give more."

Treasury Lays Plans for Coin Reservoirs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury officials said Saturday that once the acute coin shortage is licked they hope to set up what would amount to a coin "fire brigade" to meet any further deficiencies.

Simply producing enough coins for the nation's commerce isn't going to be enough, they said.

The Treasury's plan is to build up a full year's supply of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and halves—as many as five billion—and store them in strategic locations around the country.

Then the market could be flooded at a moment's notice in case more shortages developed either locally or nationally, because of speculation or for any other reason.

Officials say that stepped-up production should end the coin shortage by "early next year." Then they plan to go to work building up a year's reserve, which would take at least a year to accumulate.

The idea of a reserve is not new. The Treasury always has favored having one on hand for emergencies. But in past years, when the Budget Bureau or Congress saw a large inventory of coins building up, they usually reduced Treasury appropriations by that much.

Hard of Hearing?

It is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, we have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else. Many who have tried this new and proven method are overjoyed. Just like magic in certain cases, they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the very first treatment.

The treatment is simple and painless, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition, a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given.

If you have a hearing loss no matter how slight or how bad, it may be helped. Why not find out?

We are one of the busiest offices in Southern California, so if we cannot help you, be assured that we will not take your case.

The total charge is $3.00 for the first treatment and the examination. And if you see no improvement from the first treatment, you are under no obligation to return. Assure your appointment by calling GA 6-6166 or GA 6-6167, 2067 Atlantic Ave., L.B. Dr. H. L. Hutchings, D.C., director.

porting the purposes of the resolution.

The formal vote by the conference early today was foretold Saturday night by approval by the conference's general committee of the same declaration.

At the committee meeting, Conference Resolution Number 12—the one which became the declaration of sanctions and condemnation against Cuba—got 15 votes, two more than necessary for approval. Bolivia abstained in that voting, and Chile, Mexico and Uruguay voted no.

In today's balloting, Mexico, Chile, Bolivia and Uruguay voted no.

Countries approving the measures against Cuba are Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, the United States and the Dominican Republic.

Venezuela, as complainant, was not entitled to vote.

SEN. GEORGE SMATHERS, D-Fla., member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, praised the foreign ministers' action as "a positive and historic blow at the insidious efforts of world-wide communism to dominate the Western Hemisphere."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke out Saturday in favor of the sanctions and condemnation of the Castro regime and told a closed-door meeting in the day that "failure to act now might create a situation of the highest possible danger."

Uruguay and Bolivia are expected to abide by the sanctions.

The sanctions are to be mandatory, but no time limit is provided in putting them into effect.

Latin-American delegates opposing the Castro regime said they are pleased that final act of the conference is to be signed today. July 26 is observed by Cuban communists as a day of festivity marking the start of the Castro revolution in Cuba.

"This will give the Castroites something to think about," said a Venezuelan delegate, "and make July 26 a day of true rejoicing in the hemisphere."

MEXICO AND Chile expressed objections to sanctions as a mid-day Saturday session of the conference.

CASTRO INVITES OUR MAN TO CUBA -He Accepts-

Fidel Castro has invited a newsman from the Independent, Press-Telegram to cover the 26th of July celebrations in Cuba. This marks the day in 1953 when Castro led an attack on the Moncada Barracks in Santiago which was the start of Castro's battle against the Batista regime.

The Independent, Press-Telegram is one of 22 daily newspapers in the U.S. to be invited. Bill Broom, Washington correspondent for these newspapers, will make the trip on July 22 to Santiago in Oriete Province, Castro's stronghold. He will spend 3 days touring the province with other newspapermen.

BILL BROOM, Independent, Press-Telegram Washington News Bureau writer who will cover the 26th of July celebrations in Cuba.

These invitations are the first that Castro has made to the American press since Washington severed relations with Cuba in 1961.

LONG STRIDE AHEAD

Everybody Joins LBJ Park Stroll

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY

It could only happen in the United States that the chief executive would like people enough to invite them for a walk.

A big man, accustomed to the outdoors, President Johnson has a giant stride that would make Davy Crockett step lively.

When the temperature is 95°, it is not easy to walk with the President, especially if the walker is a five-foot three-inch woman wearing high heels.

A few days ago, President Johnson told the White House press in the Executive Wing lobby of the White House, that he and Mrs. Johnson were off for a walk in Lafayette Park.

• • • •

WHEN THE PRESIDENT walks, everyone walks: Secret Service agents; a covey of top aides (Jack Valenti, Horace Busby, Press Secretary Reedy and his assistant Malcolm Kilduff) and reporters—including this writer.

With petite Mrs. Johnson taking two steps for every one of his, the President strode off down the White House driveway. At Pennsylvania Avenue, hundreds were waiting to tour the White House. While he waited for the traffic light to change, the President and Lady Bird shook hands with the homefolks, the American people.

Brakes screeched as popeyed motorists watched the President and first lady cross Pennsylvania Avenue and enter Lafayette Park followed by a crowd of several hundred. Many people carried babies or dragged toddlers by their hands. Small boys raced. A fox terrier barked excitedly. One woman shouted to her lagging family, "Hurry or you'll miss seeing them. Isn't the President tall? Isn't Lady Bird darling?"

The President and Mrs. Johnson walked to Decatur House on Lafayette Square. He read the plaque and admired the Federalist architecture of the house built by Commodore Decatur, naval hero who defeated the Algerian pirates in 1815.

Then the President walked back through the park, with reporters, cameramen, and the public in hot pursuit. Seeing the writer loping along in spiked heels, the always kindly President and first lady encouraged me. He said, "Are you managing to keep up, Virginia?"

• • • •

BACK ACROSS Pennsylvania Avenue and into the White House grounds, the Secret Service were frantically trying to separate the White House press corps from the public who could not bear to tear themselves away from the President and his wife.

Inside the White House lobby, Jack Valenti and Horace Busby ventured, "The next time, Virginia, wear hiking boots."

One puffing six-foot reporter accused towering Reedy of "chickening out" and not going on the walk. Reedy replied, "I was there but I am unobtrusive."

Brown's Pesticide Unit Gives 13-Point Plan

SACRAMENTO (UP) — California's food supply is safe from pesticide dangers, but much more must be done to protect the land, air, water and fish and wildlife, a special study committee reported to Gov. Brown Saturday.

The governor's Pesticide Review Committee, in a preliminary report, called for a 13-point, $640,000 program stressing research as the first step toward providing the needed safeguards.

Key recommendations included:

—Intensive monitoring of people, animals and the environment to determine the levels of pesticide residues.

—Strengthening the state's hand in controlling the use of pesticides.

—Increased study of pesticides to provide basic knowledge of their effects and of means to assure the best control.

"Californians enjoy a high degree of safety from the dangers of pesticide in their food," said Hugo Fisher, resources administrator and chairman of the committee.

"But a great deal remains to be done before the same thing can be said of the air, waters, lands and fish and wildlife of this state."

* * * *

"A KEY committee finding is that the state of California is exercising better control of pesticides than any other state in the nation or even the federal government, primarily in an effort to prevent residues of pesticides from contaminating human foodstuffs."

Brown, who appointed the committee last year in response to concern over poisonings of fish and wildlife, praised the report.

The governor said he'll decide what action to take when the final report is made.

The report recommended that the committee — comprised of top officials and technicians from the departments of agriculture, fish and game, public health, water resources and the University of California—be made permanent.

The Michigan State picnic will be held in Bixby Park from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. today. Guests may bring a basket lunch or purchase lunch on the site. The Long Beach Municipal Band will play.

GATOR THIEVES

Modern Rustlers Are Brave Souls

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Rustlers in cowboy boots made off with some "critters" in a case the Old West would have been hard pressed to match.

The critters, authorities said, were 50 to 60 sharp-toothed alligators weighing about three to five pounds each. The only clue to the rustlers was a short trail of prints of cowboy boots on the farm where the alligators were stolen.

LBJ, Barry Agree on Oil Problems

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Oil problems should not figure too prominently in a presidential campaign between President Lyndon B. Johnson and Senator Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Congressional records of both men, as members of the Senate, show almost identical roll call votes on major oil and gas problems.

Rep. William Miller, R-N.Y., Goldwater's vice presidential running mate, also cast favorable house votes on major oil issues in 1953 and 1955.

Johnson drew support from Goldwater when he guided the submerged lands act through the Senate in 1953.

Goldwater also voted with Johnson when the then senior Senator from Texas championed the controversial Harris-Fulbright Natural Gas Bill on the Senate floor in 1956 after having held public hearings on the measure as a subcommittee chairman.

* * * *

BOTH JOHNSON and Goldwater were with the majority when efforts to cut oil's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance were beaten in the Senate in 1958 and 1959. Goldwater was absent, but had announced his position against a cut when Johnson made his final Senate defense of the depletion allowance in 1960.

Four more Senate floor amendments attacking oil's depletion tax have been defeated since Johnson was elected vice president—twice in 1962 and twice last Feb. 6. Goldwater was absent all four times but had announced his opposition each time.

The natural gas bill that both Johnson and Goldwater voted for on Feb. 6, 1956, was vetoed 11 days later by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

About two weeks before the final Senate action, however, Goldwater had told the Senate poor regulations at the municipal or distribution level were responsible for high gas prices that might exist in some areas.

* * * *

"I HAVE BEEN unable to find one instance when the federal government came into the picture that the ultimate cost of the consumer did not increase," Goldwater said.

The Harris-Fulbright Bill would have removed federal controls over wellhead prices of natural gas sold into Interstate commerce. Former President Harry S. Truman vetoed a similar bill in 1950. Eisenhower blamed his 1956 veto on what he said was arrogant actions in behalf of the bill by a small segment of the gas industry.

The submerged lands act supported by Johnson, Goldwater and Miller in 1953 recognized tidelands title claims to the historic boundaries of the individual states. Miller also voted for the Harris-Fulbright Bill when it received early House approval in 1955. There has been no House roll call vote on the depletion allowance; however, since Miller was elected to Congress in 1950.

* * * *

JOHNSON also championed the 1955 legislation that led to the current mandatory program to control oil imports. The defense amendment to the reciprocal trade agreements act was added in committee, however, thus preventing a direct roll call vote on the imports issue.

Johnson and Goldwater supported the 1955 Trade Act, but Miller did not. Johnson and Miller supported a four-year extension, with the defense clause, in 1958 but Goldwater voted for the bill only after it came back to the Senate in the form of a House-Senate conference report.

The defense clause was retained in the Kennedy Trade Expansion Act that replaced the reciprocal agreements last year. Goldwater voted against the Kennedy bill, but Miller voted for it.

Bonus Offer Brings in Coins by Buckets

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Blue Ridge Bank, in an outlying shopping center, gave $2 bills in exchange for $1.95 in coins last week and drew a swarm of customers.

One collector turned in $1,950 in coins.

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Market Takes Breather, Drifts Off Historic High

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market drifted lower most of last week from its historic high, but it did not give ground without a fight. Its modest retreat came on relatively light volume.

Stock prices staged a small rally Wednesday but surrendered further territory in the final two sessions.

Some brokers traced the failure of the market to extend its record advance to a "natural correction" or breathing spell after the arduous climb upwards. They noted that the underpinning of the stock market is extremely sound. With virtually no speculative fever to distort the price structure.

* * * *

OTHER Wallstreeters feel that until the recent racial outbursts and political future of the nation is resolved, the market place will continue to reflect the uncertainties inherent in these situations.

One analyst found cause for concern, "on a historical basis," in the fact that the dividend yield from stocks has fallen below the 3% level.

He added, however, that "the steady flow of good corporate earnings and the prospect of increased dividends this year appear to be laying the foundation for a solid base to the over-all picture."

The corporate profit performance was indeed good. The auto industry showed to best advantage with the "big three' all reporting record results. The General business backdrop also left little to be desired.

* * * *

STEEL production turned up after seven weeks of less-than-usual seasonal decline. President Johnson also came up with news that the federal deficit will be less than originally anticipated.

The widely-watched Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 5.71 on th week to 845.64. The rail average was off 0.50 to 220.48. The utilities, however, climbed 1.11 to a new peak of 149.36. Standard & Poor's wider yardstick of 500 stocks was off 0.55 to 83.46.

Sales on the "big board" totaled 22,289,750 shares compared with 23,454,580 shares a week earlier and 16,234,722 shares last year.

A total of 1,505 issues crossed the tape. Of these 698 declined and 613 advanced. However, 240 stocks hit new 1964 highs as against only 30 which touched new lows.

* * * *

CHRYSLER led off the most active list for the week. The stock closed unchanged on sales of 441,100 shares. The company reported record second quarter and first half sales and earnings. However, traders were somewhat disappointed that the dividend was not increased.

Sunshine Mining, with relatively few shares outstanding, placed second on the list. The issue picked up 1¾ on 252,900 shares. A recurrent rumor on Wall Street has it that a group is buying into the company.

Ford Motor was the third most active issue gaining ⅛ on a 231,100 share turnover. The No. 2 auto maker also reported peak profits and sales. General Motors was the fifth most actively traded issue. Despite the fact that it earned more and sold more in the first half of this year than any other corporation in history, the issue dipped ¾.

* * * *

RCA WAS the sixth most active stock and fell 1⅞. The company in mid-week announced it was slashing prices on one of its major computer systems. Price cutting and growing competition in the computer field apparently was responsible for the sharp collapse of many issues on the list.

IBM tumbled 15¼ on the week. Control Data gave up 8¼ and Honeywell 4¾. Sperry Rand, which said it does not plan to reduce computer prices, was active and gained ⅛.

American Telephone was the third most active issue. The deep-blue chip gave up ⅞. The stock had a sharp run-up after the stock was split two-for-one. General Dynamics was actively traded and gained ¾ on a favorable recommendation by an advisory service.

Steel issues retreated after their recent advances on favorable comment and prospects for a record production year. U.S. Steel fell 2¼, Bethlehem ⅞, Jones & Laughlin 2⅜ and Republic 1⅝.

* * * *

IN THE RAILS, the New York Central was up 1 on the best first six months profit in eight years. The Pennsy gained ⅞ on sharply improved earnings. The Chicago Great Western shed ⅞ and the Chicago & North Western was off ⅝. Late Friday the two roads announced agreement on merger terms.

In the oils, Richfield gained 2⅜ on a rumored take-over by British Petroleum. Occidental fell 2⅛ on false expectations of some important news development. Jersey Standard dropped 2⅜.

Alco Products was up ⅜ and Worthington up 2. Worthington plans to acquire Alco. General Electric was down ½ on fairly active trading. G.E. has agreed to take over nearly 50% of a big French computer manufacturer to get a foothold in the European computer market.

First Charter Financial, a savings & loan holding company, dropped 2⅞ on active trading. Most savings & loan issues weakened on lower profits as a result of the new tax laws.

Weatherman to Aid Medical Research

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Baltimore weatherman retires next month to take a position as research associate in medicine in the division of pulmonary diseases at University Hospital.

Herbert L. Alkire, 35-year veteran with the Weather Bureau, admitted that he wasn't too well versed on medicine.

But University Hospital wants him for his knowledge of meteorology, not medicine.

Dr. William Spicer, head of the pulmonary disease division at the hospital, said Alkire will map the Baltimore area meteorologically in an attempt to predict "bad spots" for sickness in future planning.

Topless Dress Used for Housework

DERBY, England (UPI)—A Derby storeowner who has sold 170 topless dresses said they have a very practical use for women who are too shy to wear them in public. "Some of my customers," she said, "tell me that they like to wear them to do the housework."

Plans and specifications for improvement of Paramount Boulevard between 54th and South Streets; for improvement of Palo Verde Avenue between Anaheim Road and Atherton Street; for beach parking lot adjacent to Marina Basin 3.

L.B. Fire Prevention Panel Formed

Formation of a committee designed to make private citizens aware of the costly and tragic results of fire was announced last week by the Long Beach Safety Council.

Martin L. Halbritter, chief of the fire department at the Long Beach Naval Base, was named chairman.

Programs to stimulate local residents in the necessity of fire prevention are planned. The group will attempt to accomplish this through a "person to person" approach, fire demonstrations, appearances before civic groups and other public relations efforts. It will be stressed that higher insurance rates are a direct result of negligence in fire prevention.

Special observances are planned during Fire Prevention Week which is observed in October.

* * * *

COMMITTEE MEMBERS include Capt. J. C. Woelfel, USN (ret.), manager, tanker division, Richfield Oil Co.; C. V. Krieger, Long Beach Naval Shipyard, safety superintendent; C. D. Sheppard, Douglas Aircraft plant protection head; Mrs. Pauline Kincaid, Kincaid Insurance Co.; Gary Spongberg, Spongberg Insurance Co.; Mrs. Joanne Affronte Moran, Dal-Je Coiffures of Leisure World; Chaplain Ward McCaby, Navy Housing Chapel; Gene Curtis, Curtis Advertising Agency, and Paul Worthington, Worthington Wright Associates.

Russia Expanding Department Stores

MOSCOW (AP)—GUM, Moscow's Macy's, is going to have more competition from big, bright new department stores.

D. V. Pavlov, trade minister of the Russian federation, wrote in the labor newspaper Trud that new stores are planned along the lines of the modernistic Moskva store.

Many Moscovites now travel to the edge of the city to shop in the Moskva. They say it has a wider range of goods of better design than GUM, in the center of the capital.

Pavlov reported that production of TV sets, transistor radios and synthetic goods will be boosted next year.

Lakes to Reveal Tilt of Land in Alaska Quakes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists plan to use 18 Alaskan lakes as "level bubbles" to find out how much earthquakes have made the southern part of the state tilt.

G. Donald Everlein of the U.S. Geological Survey said that the use of lakes "may be compared to the carpenter's use of level. We will know when and how the land tilts by making periodic checks on the distances between special markers and the lake surface."

He said 49 markers would be placed at spaced intervals around 18 lakes, including Kenai, Illiamna, Tustumena, Chakaohamna, Clark, Lutina and Ugashik.

Drowns in Balboa Club Pool

A 25-year-old housekeeper for a Newport Beach family died Saturday 12 hours after she was discovered unconscious at the bottom of the children's swimming pool at the Balboa Bay Club in Newport Beach.

Although revived by a lifeguard, the condition of Virginia Garcia grew steadily worse, and she died at 2:30 a.m. in Hoag Memorial Hospital.

Miss Garcia, native of Zacatecaf, Mexico, was employed by Merrill G. Bothalmey, who was staying at the private club at 1221 W. Pacific Coast Highway, Newport Beach, with his family.

* * * *

POLICE SAID Miss Garcia had recently completed a swimming course and had told Mrs. Bothalmey around noon that she was going out to the pool to swim. She was found at 1:50 p.m. Friday by lifeguard Tom Parke, 20, of 2500 Spaulding St., Long Beach.

Parke, who was making one of his periodic checks of the children's plunge, lifted the woman from the water and gave her mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

But doctors at the hospital said she apparently had been without oxygen too long while in the pool, and died from brain damage.

Rites Slated for 3 Young Car Victims

Funeral services will be held Monday for two Lakewood brothers who were killed with a third Lakewood youth in a Tulare county accident Friday.

Funeral for Fred William Hill Jr., 19, and his brother, Richard Eric, 16, of 4802 Briercrest Ave., is set for 10:30 a.m. Monday at Bellflower Mortuary Chapel.

Rosary for the third victim, Harold Glenn Olmstead, 17, of 4528 Nipoma Ave., is scheduled Monday night at 7 in St. Marie Goretti Catholic Church. Funeral Mass will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the same church.

DICK DALE, current rage of the surfing set, rides Nu-Pike ferris wheel with surfers Charlena and Vivian Spurrier to call attention to American Cancer Society benefit next Sunday in the Nu-Pike fun zone.

Fun Day on Nu-Pike to Aid Cancer Foe

Have fun and fight cancer is the motto for the first annual family fun day next Sunday at the Nu-Pike.

John Wells, harbor district crusade chairman of the American Cancer Society, said a percentage of receipts from the fun park's 170 rides, games and cafes will go to the society.

Dick Dale and his Del-Tones, current rage of the surfing set, will make two appearances in the Nu-Pike's Lido Ballroom.

At both performances, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. and from 4 to 5:30 p.m., a surfboard and hundreds of record albums and single records will be given away.

Mrs. Betty Seaman, harbor district director of the American Cancer Society, said a donation of $1 will be asked from those attending the Dick Dale performances. All the money will go to the Cancer Society, she added.

Clyde F. Seek, general manager of the Nu-Pike, said prices would not be raised at the eight-block family amusement zone for the special day and hoped a record crowd would attend and "help speed victory over the dread killer disease."

Miss. Parley Due, No Nominee Yet

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi Democrats, most of them in a quandry, will gather here Tuesday for their state convention without a candidate in sight.

To date, none of Mississippi's Democratic Party leaders has spoken out for President Johnson. But a number of them have thrown their support to GOP presidential contender Barry Goldwater.

And the withdrawal of Alabama, Gov. George C. Wallace from the presidential race has left them in the air—they had been bound to follow his unpledged electors movement.

* * * *

WHILE MISSISSIPPI'S Democrats are convening, a splinter party group is attempting to supplant the regular party delegation at the nation convention in August. This is the Freedom Democratic Party, consisting mainly of Negroes, which the secretary of state has declined to register as a new party.

Integration leader Martin Luther King Jr. has been in Mississippi beating the bushes in support for the party.

Mississippi's Democrats have held a number of pre-convention meetings in efforts to decide which way to move. Many sources say the most likely move may be a continued push behind unpledged electors who might later vote for Goldwater or a southern Democratic leader.

* * * *

THE PICTURE was further snarled by a unique Democratic presidential preference primary to be held in the state in September, after both national party conventions.

Under Mississippi law, 10% of the delegates at the state convention can place a slate of electors on the September primary ballot. They could be pledged to anyone or unpledged.

In September, Democrats go to the polls to choose among the slates of electors. The winners go on the November general election ballot along with the Republican electors pledged to Goldwater.

Former Gov. Ross Barnett, leader of the unpledged forces, devised the September primary to augment his unpledged program.

* * * *

THE DEMOCRATIC convention, held at the state coliseum in Jackson, was expected to see a strong fight.

At least two state Democratic executive committee members have broken off to support Goldwater and efforts were expected to turn the state's Democratic machinery into a pro-Goldwater organization.

State chairman Bidwell Adam, a 70-year-old party loyalist, was expected to fight the moves.

He said this week the only prediction he would make was "there's going to be a hot time in this old country before this thing is over."

"The Republican Party has never done a thing for Mississippi," he said, "why should Mississippi stick with the Republicans."

Broke Escapee Befriended by His Ex-Jailers

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Otto Don Smith was sentenced to serve four months in city jail for being drunk last July 1. Two weeks later, while working as a trusty, he walked off.

That was the last heard of him until Friday when jailer Buck Julian received this letter, postmarked Tulsa, from Smith:

"Dear Buck:

"I got this far. Broke. I cannot work yet because of a broken hand. Could you send me out my property, my Social Security card, driver's license and also the $5?"

Tom McGuire, city prosecutor, sent the items to Smith at Tulsa. He said the offense is non-extraditable but that if Smith ever returned here he could be arrested and prosecuted for breaking custody.

Bloody Strike Ends in Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—The 5½-month-old strike of British Guiana's sugar industry workers was called off Saturday by the Guiana Agricultural Workers Union, the trade union arm of the ruling Peoples Progressive Party. It ordered members back to work Monday.

Since the stoppage began, millions of dollars worth of sugar cane has been burned. The strike also sparked racial violence between East Indians and Negroes. More than 150 have been killed.

WHO'S TALKING?

Moviemaker Ousts Loquacious Birds

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When Otto Preminger directs a picture no one talks—not even mynah birds.

Hugh O'Brian, back from shooting some Hawaiian scenes in "Harm's Way," says the fiery Preminger evicted the famed mynahs from Don the Beachcomber's bistro in Honolulu.

The birds, familiar to tourists, have been fed peanuts for years. In return they say "Hello" or "goodbye."

Preminger, shooting a fight sequence in the restaurant, demanded to know who was doing offstage talking.

"I'll fire whoever it is," he shouted. So the birds were fired for the afternoon.

Hughes Battles to Regain Airline Control

NEW YORK (AP)—Another round is being fought in the long and costly battle for control of Trans World Airlines.

This one possibly could be climactic.

The struggle is being waged by phantom financier Howard Hughes and the management of the international airline. It has been going on since 1960.

Hughes, the mystery man of American industry, owns 78.2 per cent of the common stock of TWA through his Hughes Tool Co., a fabulously rich maker of oil well drilling equipment.

But he lost control of TWA four years ago when his stock was placed in the hands of trustees at the insistence of Metropolitan and Equitable Life Insurance Cos., and Irving Trust Co., which had lent money for the purchase of planes.

* * * *

THE LATEST development in the long and complicated legal tangle came this week when TWA went to the federal appeals court in an attempt to block Hughes Tool from regaining control.

TWA is trying to upset a Civil Aeronautics Board ruling earlier this month that would allow Hughes Tool to buy $92.6 million in TWA notes provided Hughes Tool divests itself of Northeast Airlines.

TWA asked a temporary restraining order to suspend the CAB ruling pending a court review.

The newest maneuver was initiated by Hughes Tool last April when it filed with the CAB a motion asking the agency either to approve purchase of the TWA notes or to disclaim jurisdiction.

The board's approval, which TWA is challenging, gave Hughes Tool the power to end the voting trust by which control over TWA passed from Hughes Tool to Metropolitan and Equitable.

The insurance companies now designate two of the three trustees who vote the 78 per cent of TWA's stock that is held by Howard Hughes as owner of Hughes Tool.

* * * *

HUGHES TOOL contended that the insurance companies, in exercising control of TWA, were violating federal regulations prohibiting such control by any organization engaged in any phase of aeronautics. It argued that the companies were engaged in aeronautics as creditors of various airlines.

TWA started the legal battle in 1961 by filing suit for $115 million in damages allegedly suffered while Hughes Tool had control of the airline. The amount of damages sought later was raised to $145 million.

Hughes Tool filed a $366 million counterclaim.

TWA spent thousands of dollars on lawyers and investigators in an attempt to force Howard Hughes to make a personal appearance to answer their allegations. They failed.

Hughes, a will-o'-the-wisp recluse, hasn't been photographed or interviewed in 10 years.

Two TWA presidents during his reign never even saw him.

* * * *

THE U.S. COURT for the southern district of New York entered a default judgment for TWA in its damage suit but did not set damages.

The 5 Franks Hear, Answer Call of The Wild

By RALPH McCLURG

Reminiscing and planning are half of the excitement of big-game safaris, and the Richard A. Franks family of 12131 E. 195th St., Dairy Valley, is in the midst of two years of such adventures.

The family of big-game hunters is scheduled to leave Aug. 16 for Kodiak, Alaska, in search of brown bear, moose and caribou.

The entire family, Mr. and Mrs. Franks, sons Richard Jr. (Dick), 17, and Gary, 8, and daughter Marilyn, 15, will make the trip.

However, the shooting is limited to Franks and his eldest son. Mrs. Franks, young Gary and Marilyn will confine their activities to the camp areas.

* * * *

THE FRANKS' hunting stories are not tall tales. They have the trophies, certificates and pictures to verify their game.

Last week Richard Jr. received two certificates indicating that the 12th edition of Rowland Ward's Records of Big Game, to be released later this year, will note the record sizes of the impala and dik-dik he bagged in Africa in 1962.

The impala was the 10th largest and the dik-dik the 16th largest of their species ever shot in East Africa.

The animals were among 30 killed by the father and son hunting team during a 16-day shooting safari in Kenya during the family's 66-day world tour two years ago.

* * * *

THE TROPHIES which Franks and son shot were processed and mounted by a London taxidermist and served as the home record of the successful hunt. Young Franks is believed to be the youngest American ever to shoot a leopard.

The trophies include head mounts of a 2,000-pound eland, impala, oryx, Grant's gazelle, Thompson gazelle, and hartebeest; skull and horns of wildebeest and hartebeest; and full mounts of dik-dik and leopard.

Besides the Franks family, the hunting group included two professional hunters, a photographer, and 18 native trackers, skinners, tent boys, cooks and waiters.

The safari traveled in two Land-Rover hunting cars followed by two transport trucks which carried camp equipment and personnel.

The Franks said, "Camp-life had all the comforts of home—even laundry was done daily. Food was tastefully prepared and served."

* * * *

AN OIL BURNING refrigerator kept 500 bottles of soft drinks cold.

"The three campsites made during the East African safari ranged from 5,300 to 7,500 feet elevation levels, and, although we were near the Equator, the weather was very cold with some warmth at midday," Franks said.

Arrangements are being made for the family to go on another sojourn in the summer of 1965, in Bechuanaland, Africa, just west of upper Southern Rhodesia.

White Hunters (Africa) Ltd., with headquarters in Nairobi, Kenya, arranged the family's trip in 1962 and will be in charge of the one in 1965.

People Outnumbered Hot Dogs at Parley

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Final facts and figures on the Republican National Convention at the Cow Palace showed that more people attended than hot dogs were sold.

Secretary-manager Edward Diran said attendance hit an all-time high for a four-day event—106,857. More people, 31,317, attended the Wednesday, July 15, session, than any other day.

Duchess Catering sold 95,000 sandwiches and hot dogs, 41,000 glasses of milk, 73,000 cups of coffee and 68,000 glasses of pop.

Couple Reties Knot —After 22 Years

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carpenter were married 45 years ago.

But 23 years later they were divorced.

This week they tied the knot again.

The couple celebrated their 67th birthdays Tuesday by remarrying.

PER YEAR

Today's dynamic job market is loaded with challenging opportunities for the individual interested in securing increased responsibility job satisfaction and higher pay. Companies from coast to coast are searching for qualified individuals to fill these key slots. Some of these searches are publicly announced . . . others are not. Some companies promote from within . . . others choose from without. Some individuals will progress, others will not. How are the selections made and who will get the nod? Some people say "Success is based on luck" (or timing, or friends. Ask anyone who has failed!) Others will explore, evaluate and take advantage of the opportunities that do exist. A few will create their own opportunities and progress at will!
As professional Executive Career Managers we specialize in merchandising people . . . moving them up. Opportunities are explored, secured or created and the desired results achieved. To correlate our unique services to your needs call the office nearest you. An exploratory interview will be arranged without cost or obligation. No resumes, please.

A. G. PANEK
Champion Predictor

ISABEL LONG
$50 for Second

A Navy shipyard electrician will have an extra hundred to celebrate his retirement next month because he's got a good nose for news before it happens.

He's A. G. Panek, 58, 1942 Florida St. in Long Beach, who is the $100 first prize winner in Beach Combing's "Predict the June Headlines" contest.

Panek had the right answers for all questions in the contest except the June 15 standings of the Dodgers and Angels, a toughie that tripped most of the more than 1000 entrants in the contest.

Equaling his performance on basic questions was Isabel Long, 2781 Bellflower Blvd., a kindergarten teacher, but she dropped to second place and $50 because Panek beat her out on the tiebreaker question. That called for an estimate of the difference between Rockefeller and Goldwater votes at the June primary. The difference was 68,350—Panek guessed 40,000, Miss Long 159,000.

Third prize of $10 went to Robert Brown, 3102 Ostrom, and here are the other prize winners, all missing three and receiving $5 each:

Myrtle Selby, 1610 E. First St.

Mrs. F. Fulton, 224 Atlantic Ave.

Frank Satariano, 4310 Rosada Ave.

G. LaPay, 1925 Nipomo Ave.

E. E. Zahrt, 1824 San Anseline Ave.

Don Schoenfeldt, 2109 Fidler.

Howard Furst, Box 125, Garden Grove.

Congratulations to all winners and thanks to all who participated in this interesting competition.

TO REFRESH memories, the contest questions included the outcome of the Rockefeller - Goldwater Republican presidential preference contest in the state, Los Angeles and Orange counties; the senatorial Democratic and Republican U. S. nomination contests; Congressman Craig Hosmer's vote in the primary; the county district attorney race; a New York Stock exchange 500-stock average question; time of passage of the Civil Rights Bill in Congress, and the Dodger and Angel standings. And of course, the aforementioned tiebreaker.

The election results were a surprise to many people, including some of the top pollsters, and that adds to the luster of the contest winners.

PANEK, the champ, says he entered last year's headlines contest but didn't do too well. He's a close follower of the news, has always been interested in history and politics, and has been pretty good at predicting things for years.

Miss Long teaches at Douglas A. Newcomb school. She's a great contest fan, entering many of them. She reads the papers as much as she can in her busy days, but she admits she doesn't know much about sports.

WELL, THAT'S about it on our contest, except that I plan tomorrow to run the names of all who put the Dodgers and Angels in right place (8th and 9th respectively) as of June 15. We may try it again for November.

When the Plane Lands to Bring Medical, Dental and Educational Aid to Baja California, Friendly Natives Shout

'Viva Los Gringos!'

By LARRY LYNCH

A twin-engine Cessna wags its wings, then dips between the walls of a curving canyon. With a steady hand the pilot, Bruce Jacobs of Newport Beach, plants the craft firmly on the makeshift runway at Tepoco, Mexico.

Other planes follow Jacobs down.

As the arriving planes disgorge a cargo of "gringo" physicians and dentists, resident Mexicans drift in from the countryside on foot and horseback.

Soon there's a crowd around the bright red Cessna and the focus of attention is Dr. Clarence Nelson, a Fullerton surgeon, who's tossing out packets of flower and vegetable seeds.

THE LIGA MEXICO PAN AMERICANA —a group of some 200 Californians, mostly doctors, dentists and pilots bent on medical, dental and educational work—has arrived.

One of the newest and most enthusiastic members of the Liga is Dr. Ralph L. Christensen, a dentist who practices at 10917 S. Paramount Blvd. in Downey.

Lean, blond and youthful appearing, the 43-year-old family man learned of Liga through a patient.

In Mexico, his work is all gratis. To date, most of his visits have been to the area east of Navojoa in the state of Sonora. He extracts teeth and performs what other dental surgery is possible under the rudimentary conditions of the rural Mexican villages.

ON EACH TRIP Dr. Christensen is accompanied by 50 to 75 other professional men occupied with similar efforts.

Dr. Victor Sabo, a Long Beach dentist, recently set up an assembly line that enabled him to remove 400 of the villagers' bad teeth in one day.

The present patriach of Liga, formed 18 years ago by a Calexico, Calif., physician who had treated Mexican politicians, is Dr. Nelson, 68.

During a youthful practice in Nicaragua, Dr.

Dr. Nelson (on plane) tosses packets of flower seeds to rural Mexicans whose barren lands are starved for color. The natives' favorite: violets.

Interested village children at Quiergo watch Dr. Christensen, working at roadside chair, extract tooth from man who insists on keeping hat on head.

School Employes to Convene Here

The 25,000-member California School Employes Association will hold its 38th annual conference at the Lafayette Hotel, Long Beach, Tuesday through Saturday.

Nine hundred delegates have been elected to represent the 400 chapters of the association in public school districts throughout the state.

The CSEA represents non-teaching school personnel before local school boards and before the state legislature and other governmental bodies.

* * * *

OFFICIAL opening ceremonies for the conference will be held at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday with Dr. Jack W. Mears, president of Cerritos College, presenting the keynote address.

Other guest speakers for the opening rite will be Mayor Edwin W. Wade; W. Odie Wright, superintendent of the Long Beach schools; and C. C. Trillingham, county superintendent of schools.

The conference delegates will set association policy and elect officers for the coming year. Current state president is Clinton R. Mortenson of 5615 Canehill Ave., Lakewood.

* * * *

MORE THAN 2,000 members will join the delegates for conference "Education Day" Friday. Featured will be films, lectures, exhibits and more than 50 guest speakers.

A slate of 17 newly elected delegates will represent the Long Beach chapter, including C. Kenneth Brown, president.

The conference will close at 12:30 p.m. Friday following installation of officers.

Second Day Added to Fair Hearing

L. A. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — A second day of testimony-taking has been added to the agenda of a legislative subcommittee, which is investigating the California World's Fair.

Chairman Jerome R. Waldie, D-Antioch, said the hearing will get under way at 10 a.m. both Aug. 13 and 14 in the Long Beach Harbor Department Administration Building.

Previously, Assemblyman Joseph M. Kennick was advised that the hearing would be Aug. 13.

The subcommittee is exploring whether the state should participate in the fair.

This is a 13-man subcommittee of the ways and means committee, the group charged with making fiscal recommendations to the Assembly.

AMERICAN BEAUTY

$2.5 Million Building Project at L.B. Airport Will Start Soon

By GEORGE WEEKS

First-stage construction of a $2.5 million complex of office buildings and hangars at Long Beach Airport — the largest privately financed development of its kind at the municipal air center—will begin soon under terms of a lease just approved by city officials.

The lease area covers 11 acres of airport land east of the former Lakewood Boulevard alignment and south of Wardlow Road.

The builder is the Air Oasis Investment Co., a partnership of Larry W. Hunt, president of the Air Oasis Co., and Millie & Severson, Long Beach engineering and construction firm which uses business aircraft in projects in California, Nevada and Arizona.

A long-time lessee at the airport, the Air Oasis Co. was described by City Manager John R. Mansell as the foremost aircraft distributor in the world. Its operations touch virtually all kinds of business and general aviation.

* * * *

FIRST CONSTRUCTION phase calls for an office building of 30,000 square feet and a large hangar complex, with an investment of $750,000. Three more office buildings of similar design and two hangars are planned in later stages. There also will be three helipads adjacent to the parking area.

Long Beach architect Kenneth Wing is designing the structures. Construction is scheduled to begin within three months, with completion of the first building set for March 1, 1965.

Hunt and Noble Millie, president of Millie & Severson, said they propose to rent office and hangar space to aviation-related business firms. Many of the tenants are expected to be large companies with main offices in the East but with West Coast interests. Their executives and others will make use of the hangar space as an adjunct to the branch business headquarters.

* * * *

SITUATED MIDWAY between the centers of gravity in Los Angeles and Orange counties, the airport has increased its operations from 215,401 in 1953-54 to 402,526 in 1963-64, the lessees noted. Locally based aircraft have increased in the same period from 286 to 713.

Hunt and Millie also pointed out that the project complements the development of an industrial subdivision on City Water Department land adjoining the airport.

Rental payments to the city include $861 a month for one parcel containing 5.9 acres, the main site of the buildings and hangars.

For the balance of the land, most of it reserved for aircraft tiedown and parking facilities because of an oil easement, the rental ranges from $1,500 to $1,750 per acre per year. Term of the lease is 50 years.

SIGHT-SEEING FOR SIGHTLESS

The smell of fresh ocean air and the feel of salt spray on their faces helped some 125 blind children see the sights of a cruise to Catalina Island Saturday. As part of the Baille Institute's summer youth program, the children, ages 8 to 18, cruised to the island on 17 Coast Guard Auxiliary boats escorted by a Coast Guard cutter. Coast Guard Capt. T. K. Brown, right, helps Danny Ramirez, 17, and Rennie Rhinehart, 16, into life jackets before leaving.

Compton Man Called Intruder, Beaten to Death

A Compton man was free Saturday on a writ of habeas corpus after he was booked by police for allegedly beating a man to death with a shotgun.

Lee A. Pierson, 28, an insurance salesman who lives at 845 W. Stockwell Ave., told police he struck Robert L. Washington, of 1326 W. Magnolia Ave., in his home Saturday morning after Washington had followed his wife home and attempted to enter his house.

Washington, who had been hit repeatedly in the head and shoulders according to detectives, was pronounced dead on arrival at Las Campanas Hospital, Compton.

It's Barry's Turn

A WEEK OF WILD interpretative exercise has followed Sen. Goldwater's declaration at the Republican convention that "extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice." Many politicians and virtually every commentator in the country have had a go at it. Results have been confusing.

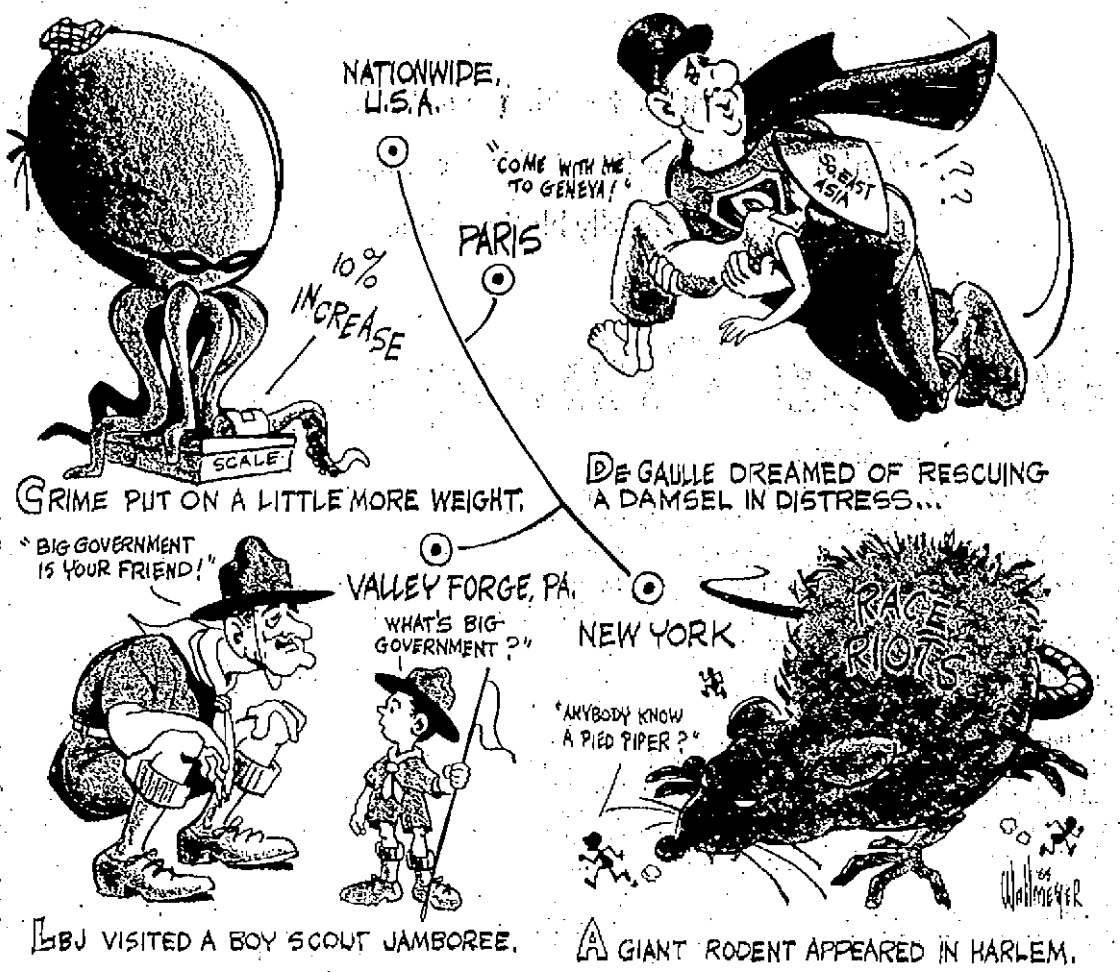

Now it would seem to be Sen. Goldwater's turn. True, the Senator did, right after convention, make some vague comments suggesting some acts of extremism that were obviously no vice, but he left open some wide holes through which others have been pouring a flood of diverse and contradictory interpretations.

The only man who can clear up the confusion is the nominee. He must know that the statement, made at a political convention and in a period when political extremism is under intense discussion, would be given political interpretation.

The fact the two sentences on extremism and moderation were underlined in official press copies of Sen. Goldwater's speech—the only full sentences given such treatment—indicates that he or his advisers regarded them as key passages of the acceptance address. Evidently the Goldwater speech experts rated them as more than a mere indulgence in oratorical flight. And even if they were intended as merely that, the impact and subsequent confusion would seem to call for a further statement on the subject from the Senator.

He would do us all a great service by stating clearly and forthrightly his views on political extremism of the kind that everybody, except possibly he, thought of immediately when he pronounced those underlined sentences in his acceptance speech.

Need Amendment to Retain State's Two-House System

I, P-T Political Editor

PRESERVATION OF ANY semblance of the so-called federal system in a state's two-house legislative setup seems to depend on amending the U.S. Constitution, State Sen. Thomas M. Rees of Los Angeles County believes.

The federal system parallels that of the nation's House of Representatives—435 members elected on a basis of population—and of the U.S. Senate—100 members elected on the basis of two for each state regardless of population disparity.

HOUSER

Thus, California's Assembly has 80 members elected on a population basis while the 40-member State Senate is elected one to a county, except in a few instances in the North where a senator represents two or three small-population counties.

California's system is "undoubtedly unconstitutional," Los Angeles County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy said Friday. His opinion was requested by the Board of Supervisors after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in six state cases that state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population.

Rees points out the current imbalance here in his own Senate—one state senator representing 14,000 in Alpine, Inyo and Mono Counties, while he represents 6.7 million in Los Angeles County, a disparity of about 478 to 1.

REES DOUBTS that Congress can change the effect of the court decision by passing a federal law, since the ruling is grounded in Section I of the Constitution's 14th Amendment, the "equal protection" clause affirming equality of each citizen's vote.

The amendment which Rees feels has the best chance of passage—two-thirds approval by the Congress and three-fourths ratification by the states (38)—is one which proposes that if a state has a two-house legislature, one house must be apportioned strictly by population and that the other house may be apportioned on a basis other than population, but that the plan must be approved by the voters of that state.

This system would allow vote-heavy Southern California to weaken the power of tiny-constituency Northern cow counties on Senate legislation.

SPECIFICALLY, in Rees' view, approval of the amendment might pave the way for a state constitutional amendment of the type proposed unsuccessfully by Supervisor Frank Bonelli in 1962. That one would have increased State Senate membership to 50 with the 10 new seats going to metropolitan counties, one new seat for each 1.5 million population.

Harold Kennedy's official opinion and Rees' unofficial one tended to soften the wrath of the criticism of Chief Justice Earl Warren on the reapportionment decision. Kennedy's opinion concurred in the view that the present system here is unconstitutional. Rees argued that Warren was only one of a clear majority on the court who ratified the decision.

HE NOTED FURTHER that Warren, as Governor of California, took a strong stand that there should be some balance between metropolitan and rural areas in legislative representation, and also opposed the 1948 state ballot measure which would have reapportioned the State Senate. So, Rees says, "he is doing nothing more than his duty in giving the Court's interpretation of the Constitution without regard to his specific feelings."

A Funless Fiesta

TODAY marks the 11th anniversary of Fidel Castro's attack on the Moncada Fortress that launched his "liberation" of Cuba. The 26th of July observance is a day of government-decreed celebration in Cuba, but Castro must find little to celebrate this year. Things have changed.

Communism has isolated his island, politically and economically, from much of this hemisphere. This isolation has imposed all manner of hardships upon the Cuban people. Instead of the freedom Castro promised them when his crusade began, they find themselves the vassals of a dictatorial regime that is itself totally dependent on the Soviet Union.

Now, the strutting demagogue who shouted insults at the United States in his famous day-long telethons has lost much of his bluster. Now, he makes vague suggestions that the time has come for discussions with Washington on Cuban-American difficulties, using Spain as an intermediary.

It would seem that much of the fun has gone out of Havana's fiesta, and things are not likely to get merrier by next July 26.

A Solved Problem

A COUPLE of years ago the news and editorial columns of these newspapers devoted considerable space to discussion of one of the city's long-range and most vexing problems—local bus transportation.

The subject was brought to mind by a story this past week in which the Long Beach Public Transportation Co. announced that it is buying 10 more new big blue "Dreamliner" buses.

When these new vehicles are delivered July 31, it will raise the total purchased since the non-profit corporation took over the bus lines to 35. Coupled with the 15 modern buses already owned by the previous company this will raise the fleet to a 50-50 proposition—half of the buses are new and half old.

William F. Farell, executive vice president and general manager of the bus line, also announced that he hopes to add 16 more new units within another six or seven months. In another piece of good news, Farell disclosed that the company's patronage has been rising, reversing a downward trend that had been going on almost without interruption since World War II.

This favorable set of conditions concerning our bus system has not just happened. It was accomplished by a remarkable amount of effort that involved the City Council, city administration, a group of public-spirited citizens who are operating the new company, top quality management and lastly (but certainly most important) the citizens of the city who were willing to vote tax funds to rescue our faltering transportation system.

In the light of all the current problems and difficulties that constantly confront our community, it is a pleasure to be able to report that here is one problem that was met head on and solved. We hope that the spirit that prevailed in this instance can be brought to bear fruitfully in other areas.

Delegation of Nuclear Decision

WASHINGTON—Because of the multitude of distortions already emerging in the current presidential campaign, millions of Americans have been misled into thinking that Senator Goldwater, if elected President, would start a nuclear war.

But sooner or later truth catches up with fiction. The criticism of the statement made by Senator Goldwater some time ago was that he was willing to let military commanders in the field exercise their own judgment as to when nuclear weapons would be used. Actually, the Arizona Senator was discussing a specific military problem that might arise in Europe, and he was describing the importance of delegated authority.

LAWRENCE

Nobody who stops to think of the surprise attack that could come would wish to require a military commander to get on the telephone and try to find the President of the United States—while he may be traveling around the country—in order to get authority to retaliate as American troops were meanwhile being slaughtered every minute of the time.

The essence of military procedure is that there must be delegated authority — a prescribed course of action that can be used instantly in an emergency. This is all that Senator Goldwater had in mind, and he wanted such delegated authority given to the commander of the NATO forces, not to subordinate military commanders indiscriminately.

As a matter of fact, the United States government under the Johnson administration, and previously under the Kennedy administration, has been giving careful study to a plan known as the "multi-lateral force," which would use nuclear weapons from vantage points along the coast of a European country. The plan calls for 25 surface ships, each equipped with eight Polaris missiles. Under current proposals, each country could exercise a veto but, if there were unanimous agreement among the senior officers on a ship, they could fire the missiles in an emergency. Since there would be mixed crews, all the commanders of the participating nations would agree before pulling the trigger. But plainly it would be the U.S. commander in the field who would be agreeing to the use of missiles in the event of attack.

The details of these plans have not yet been completed, but in theory they are all based upon the concept of delegated authority.

Again and again in the past there have been discussions as to who should really pull the trigger, and there has been an impression that this has been left entirely to the President of the United States. But, more and more, the European military men, as well as high officials like President De Gaulle, have come to regard such a remote control as dangerous to their safety. Thus the discussion has turned to the delegation of authority in certain kinds of emergencies.

It is, therefore, an illusion to imply that Senator Goldwater has initiated the controversy or that anything he has said justifies the interpretation given to his speeches or comments in the past on the subject of delegated authority. Senator Goldwater, as a reserve officer in the Air Force, is well acquainted with military procedures, and would be the last man to advocate that any commander be given authority to pull the trigger and start a nuclear war.

MARGUERITE HIGGINS

LBJ Takes Personal Role to Implement Civil Rights

WASHINGTON—In recent weeks, President Johnson has been acting—not just as commander in chief — but battalion leader in his psychological campaign to win the smoothest possible implementation of the civil rights law. There have been hundreds of telephone calls weekly to little people as well as VIPs involved. One call may be to a Southern governor; the next to a Mississippi sheriff; a third to some students engaged in civil rights work. The President has also taken to attending personally to many letters and telegrams that reach the White House on the civil rights issue.

President Johnson's worries over New York City riots have been matched, aides say, by his deepening concern over reports from J. Edgar Hoover that activities of the Ku Klux Klan are on the rise.

All this leads, further, to presidential anxieties over America's image abroad. He has been consulting with Frank Stanton of CBS, among others, about how to soften the impact of news of racial strife and how to project the positive side such as his ambitions to create a "great society" that will fully utilize America's affluence, freedom and comparative security.

* * * *

THERE IS more to Jacqueline Kennedy's departure from Washington than desire for a change and annoyance over crowds that thronged the streets before her Georgetown house.

There is a very human reality contained in the cry: "The king is dead, long live the king!" But it has been understandably hard for Jacqueline Kennedy to see the speed with which—in her opinion at least — the memory of her husband has been dimmed by the rush of events.

"I don't think we should forget President Kennedy," Mrs. Kennedy has said to acquaintances and friends, at times angrily, at times wistfully.

Here in Washington, the newspapers with their intensive chronicling of the doings of the new administration, were a daily reminder to her of how swiftly power comes and goes and how quickly—in some cases—loyalties can shift. Mrs. Kennedy has been upset at how some men and women who owed so much to her husband seem so easily to have forgotten their debt.

And Washington is a provincial city. There are, as compared to New York, few top restaurants, few theatres and few places to go. And in this provincial atmosphere Mrs. Kennedy was unable to venture out from her home without immediately attracting a throng of reporters. It is her feeling that in celebrity-filled New York, she will have more of an opportunity to be lost in the crowd. And many of her friends are not at all convinced that the move to New York will be permanent. David Powers, long time friend of the President's and companion to John-John, was surprised at her decision to move to New York permanently. Originally, the intention was to move there only for six months or so. And Powers is betting that after the passage of time, Mrs. Kennedy will change her mind again and come back to Washington.

* * * *

IF VICTORY goes to the Democrats in December, President Johnson can be expected to launch an impressive series of overseas visits in execution of his own style of personal diplomacy.

No time or place has been set for a rendezvous with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. But the White House aides take it as axiomatic that President Johnson, once he has his own mandate from the American people, will want to take personal measure of his most powerful adversary.

As vice president, Mr. Johnson vastly enjoyed his overseas assignments and opportunities for personal diplomacy. He has ruled out overseas trips since November 22 for the reason that without a vice president to handle things in his absence, it would not be fair to the American people for him to leave the country.

One of his earliest trips will probably be to France—unless President De Gaulle reverses himself and shows a desire to come to Washington.

Says Walker True Patriot

EDITOR:

Because Gen. Edwin A. Walker is a true American patriot, he is now classified, and referred to by the socialistic left-wing element, as "right-wing extremist" and a member of "the radical right" or "the lunatic fringe." That element also adds emphasis to their arrogant slurs by stating that such patriots are "more dangerous than Communists and communism."

The Walter Reuther Secret Memorandum (available from Christian Crusade, Tulsa 2, Oklahoma) recommends that such patriots be listed in the Attorney General's files as "subversives."

Taking into account the source of this suggestion and the slurs, I am proud to assert that I am also a member of that same "lunatic fringe." In the event, therefore, that I should find my own name listed among such "subversives" on the Attorney General's list, because I likewise am intensely patriotic, I feel that I shall then, indeed, be in the excellent company of the elite hardcore Americans who are the bone, sinew and lifeblood of this great Republic.

A 'Well Done' for the Library

EDITOR:

Fifty-five years of service to the residents of Long Beach is a record hard to beat. Imagine, as you go on the historical tour suggested by this paper, a population of 17,000 and a Library of 17,052 square feet. That is just a mite over a foot of library space for each resident of Long Beach in 1909.

Today the population is almost 22 times that of 1909 and the square footage increase of the library in 55 years has only been 11,586 feet. From the original 15,088 volumes, there are now 170,544, or 155,456 more books. Other statistics show equally startling changes.

Many in Long Beach say, "Thank you for a job well done. Happy Birthday and may you celebrate your next birthday in new facilities adequate to the times and tempo of Long Beach."

Appeals for Johnson Support

EDITOR:

I realize now—I hope not too late—how vitally important it is for every individual who values the ideals set down by our forefathers and reinforced by the blood of our heroes to become involved, totally involved, in the machinery of our government.

We cannot, we must not let the bigoted few throw sand in our gears. Apathetic Americans—like me—awake! If we don't step forth now to take our part in the political scene we may in a few short years find to our horror that there is no scene left.

Now is the time to shake our sluggish selves. Now is the time to blend our separate individual murmurs of protest into one horrified roar that will reverberate throughout the land. Let this sound be the voice of all those people who, like me, never wanted to be involved in politics before but now feel from fright and revulsion that we simply must do something.

Won't those who agree stand up and be counted? Perhaps we can throw our hitherto untapped efforts into the political arena in time to help sweep it clean of extremism. Let us all, regardless of affiliation, rally behind Mr. Johnson so that we, not the bigots, can truly be the cogs in the wheels of Washington.

Sees Negligence by N.Y. Authorities

EDITOR:

The administration of our largest city has shown negligence in duties it was elected to carry out.

The governor of New York should have moved in and taken over the administration of the city when he saw that the mayor was lax in his duties, in protection of public and private properties from common thieves, looters and bombers.

The Negroes are playing into Goldwater's hands and helping him to be elected. They want their civil rights. But are they able to handle those same rights? It surely don't look like it by their actions. We want the police to protect us. Even to the extent of giving their lives.

LBJ-Barry Talks Aimed at Hi Road

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has moved swiftly to capitalize on the extremist cloud which hangs over the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater on the Republican ticket.

FLEESON

His invitation to "a partnership of moderation" was delivered personally to an adroitly chosen audience of leaders in industry, finance and communications. He has already made substantial inroads in this area where Republican sentiment is normally strong.

Woven into his remarks was the suggestion that extremism in any form, white, or black, domestic or international, would menace present economic stability. Prosperity is a strong argument for any administration, and Johnson intends to make the most of it.

In essence, the speech opened his campaign for reelection. It puts him firmly in the center in the conciliator role so congenial to him during his six years as Senate majority leader while General Eisenhower was President.

As he was speaking he learned that the high road will not be yielded to him without a struggle. Goldwater announced he had asked for a conference on keeping the racial issue out of the campaign. It is a confrontation of some delicacy which only veteran politicians could carry on under the Queensberry rules.

As a Texas Senator, Johnson was far from the champion of civil rights that he is now as President. Republicans attacked him during their convention on his old record, with the labels "fake" and "hypocrite" freely used from the top down. They will continue to use it they said, to "get Lyndon's goat" in the campaign.

For his part, the southern President understands, none better, that the Goldwater nomination is the product of a lily-white convention, put together by Texas oil money and Southern political skills: The Senator is not personally a racist, but he prefers to leave the problem to the states. He made it respectable to be a Republican in the South, and his hope of victory in November is built upon that segregationist section.

Thus the protagonists of the coming struggle are not in a position to cry "foul" at one another. They won't really want to, for they served in the Senate together where it's not done.

But they know the facts. Their parties are walking down different sides of the racial street. The President will get the Negro vote and the Senator will get the segregationists'. No amount of elevated language can cloak these elements of the 1964 fight for presidential power.

Yet the conference will be useful. Racial unrest is serious and nationwide. It could cut both ways. The voters will be able to judge the actions of the candidates from now to November by the standards they themselves proclaim.

The President, of course, has the advantage of the presidency. It is enormous, but it carries with it the fact of responsibility; and the public knows the President's staff as well. The adept Goldwater organization is shadowy still, and it has proved itself able to operate without always involving its candidate. Its hope is to keep him on the high road, toward which the White House racial conference is a first step.

And Peter opened his mouth and said: Truly I perceive that God shows no partiality.—Acts 10:34.

North-South Hate Campaign Waged Within State Border

I. P-T Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO — The Deep South of Dixie isn't the only area where geopraphical "hate" campaign are fed by public demigods.

California's own North-South "hate" campaigns are being waged within the state's border —partially at public expense, Northern California senators, mostly representing sparsely-settled rural areas, are fighting to save their political skins from reapportionment of the State Senate. The Senate, now based on gengraphical representation, would be due for a complete overhaul if a federal court orders representation by population for the California Senate. Most rural northern senators would face the ax.

McCAULEY

So some are planting the seeds of geographical hatred to inflame public opinion against reapportionment.

There is a sharp difference how the North and South of California engage in geographical rivalry. In the South, the rivalry confines itself pretty well to Dodgers-Giants, Rams-49ers, etc . . . and a few acid-lettings from the Mayor Sam Yorty stripe of politician.

But the North, longtime political and economic capital of California, is almost paranoid as it yields increasing influence to the more densly populated Southland.

Many Northerners confide privately that they genuinely dislike Southern Californians. They write letters to newspaper editors urging partition of the state. They take more potshots at Los Angeles than Peiping, more offense at County Supervisors Frank Bonelli than Public Enemy No. 1.

They talk more about dangers of a Los Angeles County takeover of Northern California than they do of Communist subversion or right-wing extremists. They are convinced that Southland visitors despoil the forests, beaches, bars and highways of Northern California.

"Prevent the power grab," read Northern billboards in 1962 when the last Senate reapportionment ballot proposition was on the ballot.

Northern hostility is a shocking experience to an alien transplanted from the milk-and-honey Southland—where Southern California rivalry with the North is directed mostly in jest and athletic contests.

When you first encounter it, you are tempted to think it is something isolated, personal or that you have misinterpreted it.

However, you compare notes with other Southern California newsmen on duty in Northern California. You find they have the same initial reaction.

When some one talks about the "Southern Problem" in Northern California, one must ask: "Which South?"

Northern California senators are using public funds to finance a court battle against Senate reapportionment. Though most of those same public funds come from Southern California taxpayers, the fiscal irony doesn't seem to bother them.

For the North, the end justifies the means in the battle to retain control of the Senate.

Sen. Edwin J. Regan, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, clearly outlined the North's deep-seated fears about the Southland in recent testimony before a Congressional committee.

Declared Sen. Regan in a handout written and published at public expense: "It is possible that a metropolitan population controlling all governmental power —executive and legislative —and driven to desperate or pressing immediate needs, would arrogate to itself all or most of the available supply of water to the prejudice and injury of the rest of the state."

Regan contended that California's schools, water-system and other resources might be plundered if Southern California is given equal representation.

WALTER T. RIDDER

Goal of Short Campaigns Unlikely to Be Successful

WASHINGTON — Both Barry Goldwater and Lyndon B. Johnson are letting it be known that they will conduct short campaigns this fall. They are going to abandon the wild dashes which characterized the 1960 battle and leave as much of the baby-kissing and hand-shaking as possible to their running-mates.

RIDDER

This is indeed a laudable objective and we can only hope that the two men can achieve this goal. The betting here is however that they won't make it. The pressure of an American national election are simply too great and whilly-nilly they'll find themselves falling into the same old pattern.

Former President Eisenhower determined that he wasn't going to campaign the way it was done in the past, but at the end of both his election tries, he had been zooming around the country just as had dozens of candidates before him.

The trouble stems largely from the state and local politicians. They put the heat on the President or the candidate of their party. Politicians being politicians the candidates have tried to withstand the heat, but invariably have finally caved in.

What happens is very simple. Let's say Casper Milquetoast is running for the Senate from some Pacific Coast state. He isn't doing very well and his campaign needs a shot in the arm. The best thing anyone can think of is to get the party's presidential nominee out there and give a speech or two plugging Milquetoast. His advisers fly to campaign headquarters, argue, cajole, plead, threaten and beg the candidate to give Milquetoast a helping hand. The candidate finally surrenders and goes on the trip which he originally was determined not to make.

The jet plane, far from simplifying the problem of campaigns has actually increased them. Time was when the candidate could simply tell the supporters of Milquetoast that the Pacific Coast was too far away and he didn't have the time to make a special trip for good old Casper. That's true no longer. Milquetoast's advisers tell the candidate the trip is only five hours and certainly isn't much of a juant, etc., etc., and again the candidate finds himself hooked.

Being men of some force of will and determination perhaps Goldwater and Johnson can hold to their determinations. As they both see it now, they are going to rely very heavily on television appearances and make a few appearances in major cities for big party rallies, but will leave the usual barnstorming to others.

We wish them luck in their plans. Certainly American political campaigns could use some curtailing, but our guess is that as election day looms and as the contest waxes hotter, the boys will forget all about their plans and be zooming around the country like guided missiles.

Four Love Affair Influenced History

WASHINGTON—It has been said that women can't lead the nation in politics. But there have been four great love affairs in my lifetime which have changed the history of the world—and the most recent nominated Barry Goldwater. They were:

The love affair between Woodrow Wilson and a Virginia beauty who finally became the second Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and who guarded him so zealously that the League of Nations was rejected by the United States.

PEARSON

The love affair between the King of England and Mrs. Wallis Simpson which probably contributed to the British appeasement of Hitler.

The love affair between Wendell Willkie and Irita Van Doren which charted a liberal course for the Republican Party.

Finally the recent love affair between the Governor of New York and the wife of a New York doctor lost him the Republican nomination for president.

Of these the first had its greatest impact on peace, though the Rockefeller drama, which has not yet run its course, may in the end likewise influence peace even more.

Edith Bolling Galt, the second Mrs. Wilson, had an inferiority complex. Society frowned on her. This plus the jealous love of her husband kept him away from Senate leaders at a time when the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations were up for confirmation. As a result, the League was rebuffed and the United States entered a disastrous period of isolation under Republican Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

* * * *

THE ROMANCE between King Edward VIII and Wally Simpson probably helped Hitler. Certainly it changed history. Wally was a vivacious divorcee whom every Washington bachelor fell in love with, including this one.

When she went to London to visit her friend, Mrs. Ben Thaw, whose husband was counselor of the American Embassy, the Prince of Wales fell in love with her. When he became King, the romance continued.

It was in 1936 that Edward stepped down, just as Hitler was cementing his power, the same year he seized the Ruhr and the Rhineland. If Edward, an energetic monarch, had been on the throne, England under Prime Minister Chamberlain might not have gone through the humiliating bows to Hitler at Munich, which helped precipitate the invasion of Poland.

* * * *

THE ROMANCE of Wendell Willkie did not change world history, but it did influence the policy of the Republican Party. Willkie, a buoyant charmer, fell in love with the editor of the New York Herald Tribune book section, Irita Van Doren, an intellectual and a liberal. Willkie's politics veered as a result. He became just as liberal as Franklin Roosevelt, wrote a book, "One World" which virtually advocated world government and helped set the stage for the United Nations. He cut the ground out from under the old isolation of the Republican Party, and helped the Democrats set the stage for world cooperation.

* * * *

THE ROMANCE of Nelson Rockefeller is so recent that it needs no review here. Undoubtedly Rockefeller would have been the Republican nominee had it not been for his divorce, and marriage to Mrs. "Happy" Murphy. He had all the ingredients for political success.

Yet, like Edward VIII of England he blew it on a woman.

Even at the last minute he might have achieved success, or at least stopped Goldwater, had it not been for the immediate result of his remarriage. At the climax of the California Primary, just as the polls indicated he would win, a baby was born.

It reminded voters that Rockefeller had ditched a wife of 31 years standing for a younger woman with four children. He lost—by a very narrow margin. Had he won, the Goldwater boom would have burst. Goldwater would not be the nominee today. And the Republican Party would not be launched on its present course of isolation.

Thus do women influence history.

ANNIVERSARY MONDAY

Korean Armistice in Effect 11 Years

By LEROY HANSEN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At exactly 10:01 a.m. 11 years ago Monday, two stony-faced generals signed a piece of paper ending vicious fighting that had begun three years, 32 days, five hours and one minute earlier.

By affixing their signatures to the Korean armistice documents in the Panmunjom Peace Pagoda of No-Man's Land, U.S. Army Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., and North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il brought to a close what was perhaps the costliest war in world history.

The toll of the battle for the Utah-sized peninsula that juts into the Yellow Sea was astronomical.

Nearly 2.5 million persons —Allied and Communists, military and civilian—had been reported killed, wounded or missing since that fateful hour of 5 a.m. June 25, 1950, when 75,000 North Korean Communists launched their attack across Korea's 38th Parallel.

Once every 40 seconds for more than three years, someone, somewhere in Korea had become a victim of Communist ambitions.

The Americans had 157,530 casualties, of whom 33,629 were killed in combat and 20,617 died nonbattle deaths.

Communist China's dead and wounded were estimated at 945,000 and North Korea's at 520,000.

Remains of Dinosaur Sought by Geologists

MARMATH, N.D. (AP)—University of North Dakota geologists are trying to dig up the remains of a dinosaur believed to be 80 million years old.

The partially exposed skeleton of a triceratops was found by a student mapping an area of Southwestern North Dakota last summer. The beast appeared to be about 20 feet long and 10 feet high, said Prof. F. D. Holland of the university.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Hard to Realize, But Elvis is 30 — Still a Star

By EARL WILSON

BEVERLY HILLS — He had only one crazy haircut to their four . . . he was handicapped by a pretty good voice . . . but I think the historians of show business will say that Elvis Presley was bigger then . . . and will be bigger tomorrow . . . than your Beatles.

His Rolls-Royce with the two phones—one in front and one in back—sits somewhat grandly these days alongside the MGM lot.

Inside, the young hillbilly multimillionaire is filming his 17th picture.

It's hard to realize that Elvis the Pelvis will be 30 next Jan. 8.

Age will happen to the Beatles, too. Elvis has stayed big . . . BIG . . . for 8 years. The Beatles—and I happen to love them—by 1972 will be just a bad, embarrassing dream to the little girls who twitch and shriek over them today.

"Do you remember when we came out here?" asks Elvis' manager, colorful Colonel Tom Parker, with a laugh. "They didn't give up six weeks!

"Elvuss" — that's how Tom pronounces it — "is signed for five more. That'll make 22 in 9 years—and don't forget, two years Elvuss was in the service!"

* * * *

"THERE'S A rumor, Colonel," I ventured, "that if Elvis ever gets married, you're going to have it in the Hollywood Bowl, and sell tickets."

"Untrue!" The Colonel pointed a fat finger warningly, "I always figgered on a nice quiet wedding on top of an elephant."

Elvis was as quietly noncircusy as his manager was the carnival barker when I found him in his portable dressing room at Joe Pasternak's "Girl Happy."

He wore a thin red sweater and dark slacks, and his hair was smartly combed. He has retained the nice habit of saying "Sir" and "Ma'am" that he brought from Nashville.

"Do you think you will ever get married?" I got around to asking.

"Yes, sir, I probably will some day." He glanced down embarrassedly.

* * * *

"DO YOU have anybody in mind?"

We had heard all those stories about Ann-Margret and every leading lady.

"No, sir, I can't really say that I do have," Elvis said in another shy reply.

"We've heard all these stories . . ."

Elvis tossed back his proud head with the good head of hair.

"It's very unpredictable when I will," he said. "I guess I'm like a dog that keeps picking up scents."

Girl-Happy, like the picture says, like other guys edging 30 years . . .

* * * *

SIR ALEC GUINESS, receiving a dramatic award for "Dylan," jokingly thanked the audience, the press "and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton for relinquishing Page One long enough for me to receive the award" . . Sophia Loren asked for (and got) Peter Finch of "Girl With Green Eyes" as her co-star in "Judith" . . . Otto Preminger refused to give John Wayne and Kirk Douglas script approval in "Harm's Way": "The script is my job—acting is theirs."

Barbara Streisand shrugs off praise for her song phrasing: "What they call phrasing is really indigestion. I gulp my dinner—and I'm usually covering up a burp" . . . Comic Rip Taylor was invited by Princess Grace to entertain at Monaco's Red Cross Ball . . . Anne Bancroft, whose London apt. was burgled, took no jewelry to the "Pumpkin Eater" premiere there: "I love the English — but I wouldn't even take rhinestones there!" . . . Vi Velasco will appear on the "On the B'way Tonight" TV'er Monday . . . Comic Jackie Vernon's a contender for the "Marty" TV series lead . . . Jackie Mason commuted daily by helicopter from an Atlantic City cafe date to a World's Fair TV taping . . . Neil Sedaka has a warm touch to his act—he uses a stool covered with mink . . . The Rainbow Grill will be used for a dance sequence in the film version of "Any Wednesday."

* * * *

JOHNNY RAY'S co-star in his "Bus Stop" summer stock stint will be Betty Kean . . . Singer Bobby Breen got the help of his discoverer, Eddie Cantor, in preparing his act for an Australian tour . . . A new tune titled "Lynda and Luci" was recorded by a group called the Demo O'Crats. . . Every broadcasting booth at a major network carries one album: Leonard Bernstein's recording of Brahms Symphony No. 2 in D, with the notice: "To be played immediately upon notification of the death of a top important person, Play second movement."

Fred Astaire was asked if he thinks of himself now as a singer or a dancer. He said, "I'll tell you this—singers think of me as a dancer, and dancers think of me as a singer."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow explained why he was so unhappy: "My ulcer just healed, and now my boss thinks I've lost interest in my job."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Retirement is when a man who thought he'd go fishing seven times a week finds himself doing dishes three times a day.—Harold Coffin.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A conversation is like a good meal. You should leave it before you have had enough."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: When it comes to knowing what's happening, count on a politician with his ear to the ground or a teen-ager with his ear to the transistor.

Sargent Shriver asked comic Jackie Clark (who weighs 123 lbs.) to entertain at a show in Washington. A Shriver aide said, "He's a fine example of why we need our physical fitness program." . . . that's earl, brother.

ANYBODY SEEN KELLEY?

Kelley Anne Homes gives a sample of what to expect from this year's Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus when it comes to town. Kelley, among other things, adds a bit of eye-appeal to the show's production numbers. The circus is scheduled in the Long Beach area Aug. 6-9.

LINDA JONES IS ALL BOTTLED UP BY SABRI

GIRLS SEE TO IT

Empty Bottles Do Good for Orphans

By ANDY PARK

If a young lady knocked at your door Saturday and requested all your old bottles, she was NOT a census taker for the WCTU. Chances are, she was a member of the SABRI Club of Los Altos YMCA and she was just living up to the motto of her club.

SABRI, as any one of 36 East Long Beach girls will hasten to tell you, is the goddess of love and adventure. And Los Altos "Y" SABRI Club, under the adult supervision of Mrs. Betty Murray, is composed of a group of young Millikan High School goddesses who just "love" adventure.

• • • •

THE PROJECT for Saturday—a brainchild of committee head Linda Jones, 16—was to collect pop bottles in order to raise money to support a Korean orphan.

Linda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jones, of 6101 Marita Ave., got 20 of the girls together at 9 a.m. and sent them throughout the neighborhood rounding up bottles. Carload by carload they brought them back to the Jones house and dumped them on the lawn of patient Charles Jones.

According to club president Linda Fauls, 18, the girls spend Saturdays on money-raising projects to support their charities and goods works.

By 4 p.m., the girls had more than 1,000 bottles of all shapes and sizes inundating Mr. Jones's crabgrass. Club treasurer Teri Aiello, 17, then issued the clarion call, "Head for the store."

• • • •

AS THEY vanished into the dust, 20 girls loaded down with 3-cent-deposit bottles were attacking every small market and drugstore in the neighborhood.

And the shopkeepers were boarding up the windows and putting up the "closed" sign.

But Linda, reasoning like a good committee chairman, persuaded the merchants to fork over the pennies with:

"After all, it's for a good cause!"

POLITICS

Ex-Cuban to Speak to Group

BY BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Margarita Fraser Alexander, a native of Havana, Cuba, will give a talk, "Behind the Sugar Cane Curtain" for the Long-Wood Constitutional Republicans at 8 p.m. Monday in Ruth Bach Library, 4055 Beliflower Blvd.

Miss Alexander, who became a United States citizen in 1960, is third vice president of Los Angeles County Young Republicans and a board member of Continental Young Republicans. She is sponsored by the Coast Federal Savings Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau. The public is invited.

TRANSIT ON TV

Mrs. C. E. Crittenden, former president of the Long Beach League of Women Voters and a board member of the California League, will take part in a panel discussion, "Mass Transportation: Dream or Possibility?" at 2:30 p.m. today on Channel 2.

The program is 13th in LWV's "Political Primer" series. It is moderated by KNXT newsman Maury Green.

Other panelists are State Sen. Thomas M. Rees, author of the bill which created the new Southern California Rapid Transit District; A. J. Eyraud Jr., chairman of the Metropolitan Transit Authority, and Mrs. William Keim, president of the Whittier LWV.

Gringo Doctors Arrive!

Nelson developed an intense interest in Latin Americans.

He joined Liga 15 years ago, served as its president for a number of years, and guided it through the founding of an agricultural school in Navajoa that now has 200 students.

Ten years ago he was decorated by the Mexican government for his service to its people. Today he serves as an interpreter, lecturer on diets and diagnostician on many of Liga's monthly jaunts south.

• • • •

DR. NELSON says Liga's work in Mexico and other Latin American countries, including the establishment of medical and dental clinics in remote villages, costs its members and supporters about $50,000 a year.

Much equipment, supplies and clothing is donated by Liga's friends.

Individually, the expenses may run high. Dr. Christensen reports each trip he makes costs him about $200 in supplies, drugs and personal expenses.

Jacobs and the other pilots donate their aircraft and time. Some of the doctors fly their own planes.

• • • •

ALTHOUGH Liga members treat the diseases of unsanitary conditions and poor diet, they refrain from deprecating the villagers.

"These are a proud people and you don't pity them. Their problems — malnutrition, worms, bad teeth, skin ailments—mostly stem from living conditions. But it's the way of life they are used to. We simply do what we can to help," explains Dr. Christensen.

Those villagers who might be healed, but only under hospital conditions, often are brought to the U.S. for an operation.

Several residents of a village where goiters are chronic have been flown to California for operations. (Iodized salt is taken to the villagers who must remain there.)

• • • •

IN ANOTHER instance, 3-year-old Lupita Robles from Tesopaco, near Navajoi, recently was brought to the U.S. with her mother by an Inglewood physician for surgery that might restore the girl's sight.

What motivates Liga members in what they call a "privately financed peace corps" work? Mainly, a fascination for the villagers, their problems and colorful history, Dr. Christenson said.

"If I didn't have a family I could become sort of a traveling bum over this Liga thing. I'd keep my office in Downey open just long enough to finance some more drugs and another trip. Then off I'd go again."

Search Resumes Monday for Two Plane Victims

Search for the bodies of two men aboard a small private plane which crashed into Long Beach harbor Thursday will resume Monday morning.

Coast Guard vessels and two Navy minesweepers, equipped with sonar gear and scuba divers, searched the harbor bottom from Thursday afternoon until Saturday night, but failed to uncover any wreckage. Wheels and seat cushions were found floating where the plane plummeted into the harbor.

Believed aboard were Rolfe Olson, 65, and John B. Fletcher, 36, both of Lynwood.

County Curbs on Politics Termed Invalid

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff, P-T, Los Angeles Bureau

The county's ban on political activity for its employes, which permits them only to vote and express private opinions, is almost entirely invalid, according to County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy.

Kennedy will so advise county supervisors Tuesday on the basis of two recent State Supreme Court rulings and a June 26 decision of a Los Angeles Superior Court.

The county counsel emphasized, however, that this does not mean county employes "are now at liberty to engage in unlimited political activity." They still are restricted by other provisions of the county charter and government code.

• • • •

UNDER THE NEW rulings, ployes may not:

- Directly or indirectly solicit or receive assessments or contributions for any political party or purpose whatsoever.
- Use their office or authority to get any person a job or keep him from getting a job on the basis that such a person use his vote or political influence for or against any candidate, office or party.
- Participate in any political activities while in uniform.
- Take an active part in any campaign for or against any candidate, other than themselves, for an office in the governmental agency in which they are employed.

The charter provision, Section 43, which Kennedy now says is invalid, prohibits county employes from taking "any part in political management or affairs or in political campaigns further than to cast his vote and to express privately his opinions."

The State Supreme Court ruled on May 28, in the case of an Alameda County employe discharged for political activity in the 1962 gubernatorial race, that a provision almost identical to Los Angeles Section 43 was invalid.

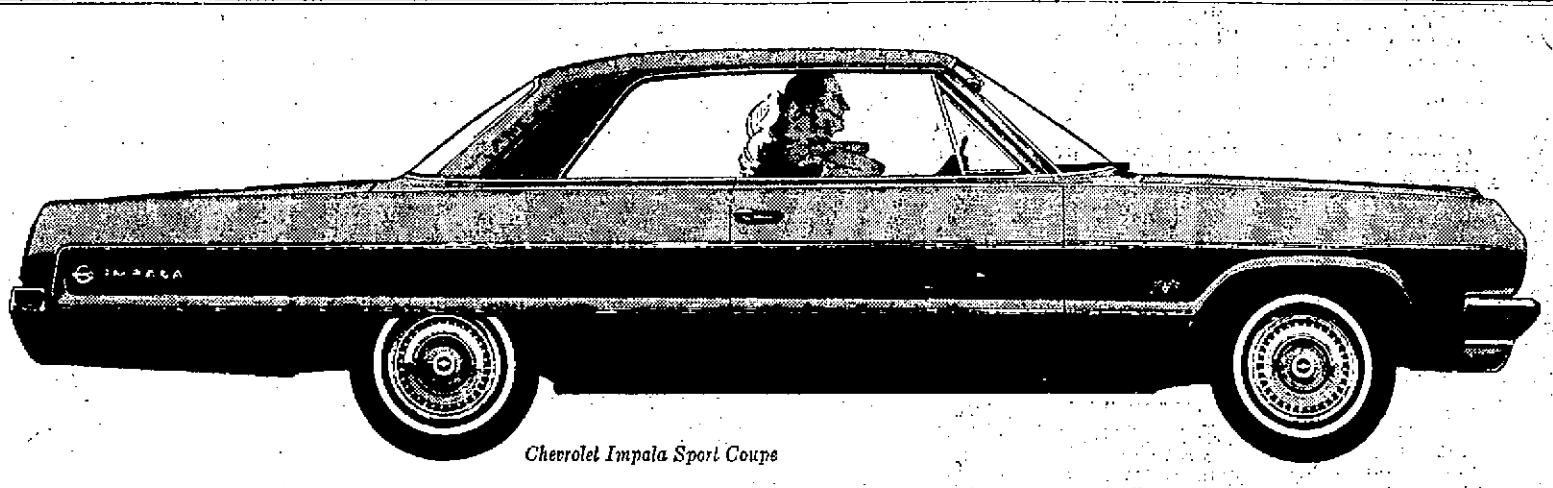

• • • •

THE COURT HELD that the Alameda charter restrictions were too broad. Freedom of the individual to participate in political activity is a fundamental principle of a democratic society, the high court said, and the county can curtail such rights only if it can prove a "compelling" interest in such limitation.

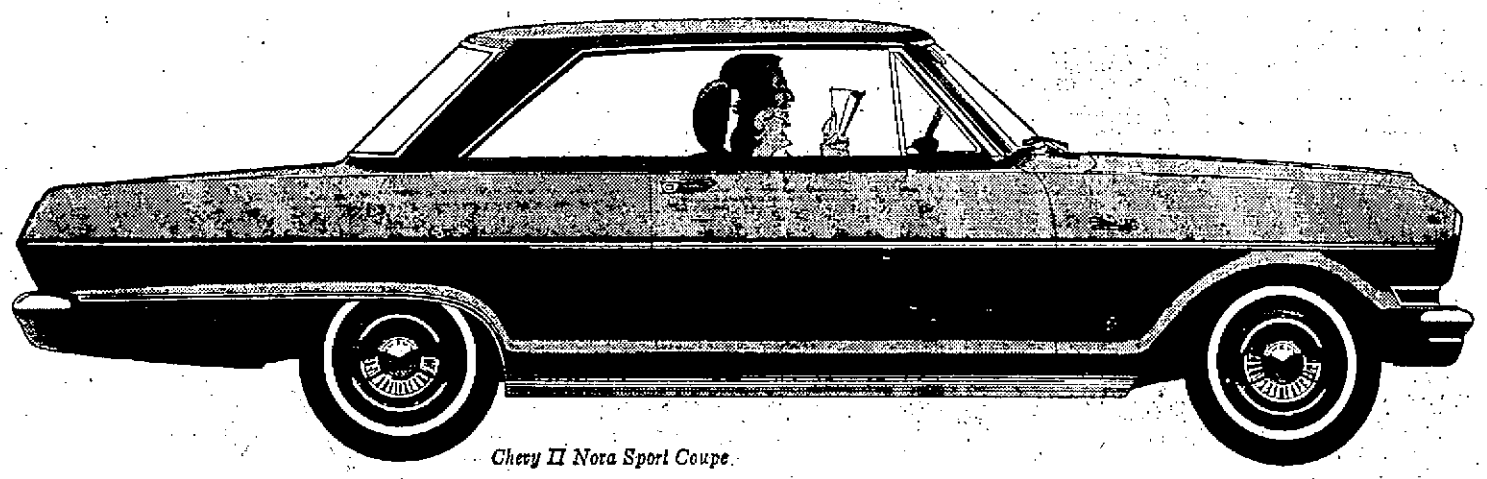

The court said its decisions "do not admit of wholesale restrictions on political activities merely because the persons affected are public employes, particularly when it is considered that there are millions of such persons."

The Los Angeles Superior Court decision involved Howard Schumann, who was discharged in March, 1963 from his position as a social case worker with the county's bureau of public assistance because of his political activity.

Superior Judge Harold F. Collins ordered Schumann reinstated on June 26.

...Farm-style home, that combines grace with beauty — The whole house has been remodeled and the results are fantastic. Boy, it's big, looks like 1,400 sq. ft. and it's Dutch Girl clean. Picture this yellow & white jumbo home located among many fine homes in lovely Orange and only steps to Orange College. Sitting way back from the street and behind many trees, this will surely add to your privacy & boast loads of room for your boat, trailer, camper or what have you.
3 king-sized bedrooms. Loads of storage & wardrobe closets, boasting real tile in the master bath. Wow! There's room for 2 sectionals and a grand piano in this ballroom-sized living room. Boy, oh boy, is it ever big & it's carpeted from wall to wall. Remember grandma's kitchen where we all used to gather? Well this will bring back many memories & it's also been remodeled too. Folks, seeing is believing and if you want something different, where, here it is.

Your Car . . .
. . . is not only one of the most important single investments of a lifetime; it is a treasured reflection of your WAY OF LIFE. *This basic fact is recognized by every used car dealer of good conscience. This concept, held by such a dealer, is a prime reason why he is attempting always to be a guide to your selection of the proper car for you. We, as dealers in this association, trust that you may discover the true value of our experience and integrity in making the purchase of a used car a most happy experience.

The Cardinal and the Young Priest

EDITOR'S NOTE: When the priest wrote the Pope and told him to fire the cardinal, Catholics were astonished. Plainly, this was no ordinary ecclesiastical controversy. What's behind it is a question that has been nagging, in these racially troubled times, at churchmen and laymen alike.

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the post-World War II years, when the Roman Catholic Church in America began bursting at its parish seams, one of the highest compliments a prelate could earn was to be called "a good brick and mortar man."

For a decade and a half James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, has been regarded as one of the best brick and mortar men in the church.

Since he came to Los Angeles in 1948, Cardinal McIntyre, who gave up a career on Wall Street to enter the priesthood, has amazed his fellow prelates by building a new parochial school every month and new parish every 66 days to keep up with the needs of a flock that is swelling at the rate of 1,000 a week and numbers 1.5 million.

Today, to the shock of Catholics from coast to coast, Cardinal McIntyre has become a central figure in a controversy that has nothing to do with brick and mortar but which many consider even more basic.

* * * *

HE HAS been accused of "gross malfeasance in office" with failure to provide moral leadership in the race struggle and, moreover, of intimidating priests and laymen who have attempted to give such leadership.

But what has been equally shocking, if not scandalous, to many Catholics who have grown up in respect of their church's hierarchial system, is that the accuser of the venerable cardinal was a 29-year-old priest just four years out of the seminary, and that his accusation was in the form of a letter written to the Pope himself. In the letter, the priest suggested that the Pope ought to fire the cardinal.

He was afraid, explained the priest, that a private communication would merely be ignored.

The priest, the Rev. William H. DuBay, plainly hasn't been ignored.

* * * *

HIS BOLDNESS has set seminary lounges buzzing, has become a chief topic of discussion in rectories and parish halls, has been a major item for Catholic newspapers and magazines, has raised questions about what the church's role should be in the civil rights field, and has caused Catholics everywhere to wonder what's behind the controversy in Los Angeles.

Cardinal McIntyre has declined comment on Father DuBay's statements.

However it was disclosed last week that Father DuBay has been transferred to a parish in Anaheim. The parishoners are white.

The Tidings, official weekly organ of the archdiocese, has likened his silence to that of Christ before Pilate and has called the affair an "ill-contrived and frenetic attempt" by "a small and vociferous group" to cloud and besmirch a record of accomplishment.

The paper noted that the cardinal, along with other U.S. bishops, has signed three statements urging equal rights for Negroes.

* * * *

HOWEVER, about a dozen of the 1,311 priests in the archdiocese share a little joke. They say they are members of the "Cardinal's Carpet Club," or C.C.C.

The club, which includes at least one nun, has one membership qualification: Each member has been called on the cardinal's carpet for speaking or acting on racial issues.

"It used to be funny," says one priest. "Maybe it still is." Another said he got "the business" both from the cardinal and the chancellor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Benjamin G. Hawkes, administrator of the archdiocese.

"It's called the stereo treatment," the priest said. "The cardinal talks into one ear and the monsignor into the other."

IN OTHER developments, Negroes and whites calling themselves CURE—Catholics United for Racial Equality—have sat in at the chancery and marched with torches at the guarded gates of a private residential park where the cardinal lives. CURE is small, said to number about 50.

A 250-member lay group telegraphed the Vatican's Washington representative: "We implore an immediate investigation. The Catholic Human Relations Council of Los Angeles is convinced that the substance of these charges is true."

Fellow priests are loath publicly to support Father DuBay. One who did is the Rev. Terrance Halloran. He told newsmen he advised Father DuBay not to send the letter, "but the charges are substantially true."

* * * *

THE 78-year-old cardinal, according to one informed source, considers the young priest's action an intramural administrative matter and by his silence is trying to salvage as much dignity as possible both for the church and Father DuBay.

In the wake of his letter, the mild-mannered young white priest was suspended from administrative duties in his predominantly Negro parish in suburban Compton. Later, he repeated his oath of loyalty to the cardinal.

Father DuBay's obedential relationship to the cardinal connotes a submission to all of the cardinal's major decisions affecting the archdiocese unless those decisions are clearly out of conformity with the natural or divine law.

If there is a precedent for the spectacle of a fledgling priest so brashly suggesting the removal of so august a superior, a prince of the church, local sources do not know of it.

* * * *

A MORE unlikely pair for such a confrontation would be hard to find.

First, there is the cardinal. He is powerful, respected, and in rank next to the Pope. He has been called strong-minded, ultraconservative, ascetic and humble. A high-ranked clerical friend calls him sincere, affable and good. Francis Cardinal Spellman has called him "a human idealist and a divine realist."

In two years he was assistant chancellor of the New York archdiocese. Pope Pius XII appointed him auxiliary bishop of New York in 1940 and archbishop of Los Angeles in 1948.

Father DuBay, the priest, is slight, sandy-haired and bespectacled.

He was born in nearby Long Beach, Calif., where his father has a sign business. He won a high school scholarship but turned it down to enter a seminary instead. He chose the priesthood as "the best way to help people and change the world."

* * * *

WHILE an assistant pastor, he wrote in the church bulletin: "It is obligatory upon every Catholic of the parish to support the multi-racial integration of our community. Get acquainted with Negroes in the same business or profession. Invite them to our homes, and visit in their homes."

The result, Father DuBay has said, was word from the cardinal to write no more on racial matters. Transferred to another parish, he preached one Sunday that segregation was wrong. This, he said, drew a telephone admonishment from Hawkes.

The next incident, the letter to the Pope, came after Father DuBay had been working in the parish south of downtown Los Angeles where most of the city's 435,000 Negroes live.

Father DuBay announced his letter at a news conference. Five days later, he was called to the chancery and promised newsmen a statement afterward. But when he emerged he said, "I have no comment."

* * * *

TWO DAYS later, in the presence of 250 priests attending a retreat with the cardinal, Father DuBay knelt and repeated his oath of loyalty to Cardinal McIntyre. He kissed the cardinal's ring and both of his hands.

"From the beginning," a friend says, "Father DuBay has protested his loyalty to the archbishop. Cardinal McIntyre is still his superior. He has to obey the law even if he's trying to get the guy out of office. It's just like company policy. Until you can change it you have to obey it."

What Father DuBay wants to change is Cardinal McIntyre's silence.

Has the cardinal been negligent in this respect?

A source close to him says no, pointing to past statements on equal rights. The cardinal felt editorials in the archdiocese newspaper were answer enough for Father DuBay, the source said.

* * * *

ONE NATIONAL Catholic magazine published by laymen, The Commonweal, devoted 17 pages of its July 10 issue to the DuBay case and has been in the forefront of subsequent discussion.

Quoting a priest of the archdiocese, The Commonweal said most pastors in the Los Angeles area "think DuBay is a young whippersnapper who deserves everything he's going to get." Most of the others disapproved of publicizing the call for the cardinal's dismissal. "Make your case to Rome, ok, but don't spill it all out in the open."

A smaller school of thought, reported The Commonweal, was typified by the remark of a layman:

"His head will roll, sure. And I seriously doubt if it will have any effect on the cardinal's thinking. But now the pressures on him Cardinal McIntyre across the country will grow, and we may see the other bishops twisting his arm into joining the rest of the church on this issue."

THE LETTER CAME LATER

The cardinal accused by a young priest, James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles (right) with Pope Paul VI in the Vatican last March 12. The Rev. William H. DuBay, Compton parish priest, in a June 11 letter to the Pope suggested that the cardinal be ousted.

FORECAST FOR TODAY

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Be especially realistic where friendships are concerned. If you take persons, situations for granted . . . you will be disillusioned. Strive to COMPLETE PROJECTS.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Probe deep—beneath surface indications. You can be aided by spiritual advisor. Message due from long distance. Exercise INDEPENDENCE. Highlight original ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be flexible; follow hunch. The more you keep an open mind . . . the greater your chance to succeed. Break from habit patterns. Relative wants to aid your cause.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Greater relaxation available if you forget money question. You cannot solve dilemma by arguing. Inspiration for solution of problem due. Attend church of your choice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Study details. Especially applies to partnership proposal. Make this a day of CREATIVE RELAXATION. Gain emotional, physical strength. Obtain hint from CANCER message.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your way of ASKING determines whether you RECEIVE answers. Be diplomatic. But if you attempt to bluff, you will be rebuffed. Member of opposite sex on "your side."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Favorable lunar aspect highlights romance, creative endeavors—activities associated with children. But avoid sticking your neck out. Trouble available—IF you ask for it.

SCORPIO—(Oct. 23—Nov. 22): Conflict exists between those who want to go on a "spree" and more practical elements. Exercise power of will. Avoid being drawn into expensive, foolish activity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Could be mixup where communications are concerned. Be sure of directions. Luck in your favor . . . IF you express GOOD WILL. Many look to you as example of competence.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan. 19): Your decision to hold on to funds was wise. Now, back it with warmth of added security. Know that you did right thing. Good time for "relaxed studies" . . . research on subjects of special interest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Now you can "call the tune," but you must be aware, alert, capable of leadership. Important to do some "homework. Then you will know what to ask for—and why.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): There might be behind-the-scenes activity of which you are not aware. Be thorough. Important to understand those with whom you are dealing. Strest CAREFUL APPROACH.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: . . . you are generous but firm, shy but capable of being a showman—you are a series of contradictions and some of your friends will say "amen" to that!

* * *

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for PISCES, ARIES, TAURUS. Special word to AQUARIUS: Your cycle also remains at the top. But you exhibit a tendency to skip details. This not advisable if you want to advance.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): You will begin to see the light." Ideas sparkle. Recognize responsibilities . . . but enjoy pleasure of accomplishment. Fine time for new starts in new directions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): A time when you collect debts . . . but perhaps incur some of your own. Inability not a force to be rash or overly independent. Seek advice from authorities. Be a good listener.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Disputes within the family circle possible. Exhibit VERSATILITY, sense of humor. Otherwise time and emotional energy can be wasted. Remain understanding, sympathetic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect highlights journeys, reading for pleasure. You can gain through intellectual pursuits, hobby. Be especially aware of long-range effects.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Wonderful day for pursuing "secret" interests. Includes that movie you want to see . . . or book you desire to read . . . or restaurant that intrigues. BE ADVENTUROUS.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Attention centered on diet, health, "partnership" harmony. Day to tread easily. Do more listening than asserting. Size up your opposition. Be ready for surprises.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis on illusion, DECEPTION. No day to take things for granted. Demand promises in writing. One who takes many claims . . . may not be able to back them up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your intuition works overtime. You may sense "ally in disguise." Exercise fair amount of caution. Do your own checking. Especially where proposed CHANGES are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Arguments with those in authority will prove fruitless. Go with the tide. Attend to details. Wait for better conditions. Financial security depends upon DIPLOMACY.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Avoid unnecessary travel. If travel you must —obey rules. Check directions. Indications are that confusion exists. Day could be productive if you TAKE YOUR TIME.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold fast to principles—and purse strings. Many offers are due. But few contain real merit. React accordingly. You can go places—but you will require SAVINGS PROGRAM.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Time when you prove you are capable. Be ready. Extra responsibility due to come your way. Have facts, figures at hand. Volunteer personal services. You'll be handier as result.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: . . . you are unique in that people automatically gravitate toward you. You inspire trust. Thus, you could excel as nurse, attorney, advertising-public relations consultant.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for PISCES. Special word to VIRGO: Situation definitely NOT what it appears.

3. Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No print, enlargement, or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negative from which they are made or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4. To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the picture entered. (See classes.)

5. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED. Do not submit negatives with your prints. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted). This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6. At the close of the contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $31,000.

7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8. It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the twenty-sixth annual (1964) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one of more than eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

CLASSES

A. BABIES AND CHILDREN — One or more youngsters to be judged for cuteness, expression of character, or mood. Subjects may be engaged in any activity or interest. Adults may appear if they are not the principal interest.

B. ACTIVITIES — Teen-agers or adults. They may be engaged in any activity outdoors or indoors, at any season: occupations, hobbies, sports, and recreations; any picture that tells a story of an interesting phase of everyday life. Children may appear if they are not the principal interest.

C. SCENES AND "TABLETOPS" Judged for scenic or pictorial appeal — landscapes, marine views, historical spots, street scenes, buildings; or unusual "still-life" subjects including "tabletop" or miniature arrangements.

D. ANIMAL LIFE — Household pets, farm animals, forest wild life, zoo animals, etc.; any situation in which the aforesaid subjects are of principal interest.

Color Entries Will Be Judged in the Same Four Classes Listed Above

IMPORTANT: If you shop a picture which you expect to enter in the contest and in which a person or persons appear, be sure to get their names and addresses. This is necessary because, before your picture can become eligible for entry in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, the written consent of such recognizable person or persons to the use of the picture for advertising purposes must be obtained.

'Sunday Will Be Our Day' Insists Soviet Coach

Total Victory Possible for Yanks — Bell

'Greatest Thrill' Puffs Lindgren—and Coach Agrees

By BOB SCHMIDT

"Today was your day," Soviet track coach Gavriil Korobkov told U.S. coach Sam Bell late Saturday, "but tomorrow will be ours."

The two coaches laughed and didn't continue the conversation, but Bell, speaking to reporters in a tunnel hidden from the 50,519 fans in the Coliseum, acknowledged that the United States men and women's track team was on the verge of its first combined score victory over the Soviet Union in the sixth meeting between the nations.

* * * *

THE SLENDER Oregon State University coach said he thought that if his women athletes could give the U. S. 20 points in today's competition, the men could score enough to give the red, white, and blue its first triumph.

Bell shared the sentiments of the fans at Saturday's sun-drenched opener when he said that little Gerry Lindgren's runaway victory in the 10,000-meter run gave him his biggest thrill.

But he said any coaching credit for Lindgren's performance should go to the 18-year-old wonder's high school coach, Tracy Walters.

"He's the one who brought him this far," Bell said. "I'm not about to bust up a winning combination."

* * * *

BELL SAID he was a little disappointed in the showing of some of his men athletes. He said he had doped the U.S. to have 65 points at the end of the first day's competition.

The U.S. men scored 61, the Russians 46.

But the athlete the reporters wanted to talk to was Lindgren.

The perspiring youngster said he didn't expect to win before the race "although my coach told me I could," and still didn't expect to come home first he spurted ahead with nine laps to go in the gruelling six mile-plus grind.

* * * *

"THE CROWD was a tremendous help," Lindgren said. "I was scared to death I wasn't going to be able to hang on. I knew they'd be disappointed if I lost."

The 5-ft. 6-in., 118-lb. running machine said he had intended to merely hang onto the pace set by Russia's Leonid Ivanov and Nikolay Dutov as long as he could, but spurted into the lead on the 15th lap when Bell hollered at him to go.

"This is the most wonderful thing that's ever happened to me," the blushing champion told reporters. "I want to call my folks as soon as I can."

* * * *

IF LINDGREN was the most elated athlete on the field, defending Olympic champion long jump champion Ralph Boston was the most dejected.

Boston was beaten by a quarter of an inch by Leonid Barkovskiy's final jump of 26-4-¼.

"I was discouraged because I fouled my best two jumps," Boston said. "That's never happened to me before."

He said the jumps were measured at 27, which would have been a world record, and 26-9.

Barkovskiy said the jump was the best he had ever turned in, but said he thought he would do better at the Olympic Games in October.

Dallas Long and Fred Hansen, who set world records in the shotput and pole vault during the day, each said they felt they could do better.

SATURDAY WAS A great day for the Americans, and two of the greatest performers in the rout of Russia were midget Gerry Lindgren (left) and giant Dallas Long. Long, Hansen Set Records; Lindgren Ace

By JOHN DIXON

As far as the Russians are concerned, you can tow yesterday into the Pacific and sink it.

United States track and field athletes never had a more enjoyable or productive day.

They turned the Reds blue with a fantastic series of performances, featured by world records in the shotput and pole vault and a courageous victory in the 10,000 meters by a little fellow who never had a chance.

As the Americans frolic this morning and the Russians draw a lecture from commisar Leonid Khomenkov, the U.S. boasts a record 61-46 lead in men's competition and for the first time leads in women's activities, 27-25.

The rout ends today in the Coliseum, beginning at 4 p.m. Will it be another Black Sunday for the Reds?

Dallas Long, a USC dental student with a phenomenal girth, put together the most phenomenal series since Nero fixed the chariot races.

The 260-pounder bettered his existing shotput record of 65 feet, 10½ inches four times, and four times surpassed his pending mark of 66-3½.

The modernday Hercules sent the 16-pound iron ball 65-6¼, 66-9¼, 67-10, 67-1 and 66-5¼. His first fling was a foul.

Thus Long has become the first man to throw 66 feet, the first to throw 67—and he says there's more to come.

Wouldn't it be more economical to let Long launch the next missile?

Long drew thundering raves from the crowd of 50,519, but that was nothing as compared to the tumultuous shouting as Gerry Lindgren, an 18-year-old with different insides than other boys his age, won the man-killing 10,000 meter run.

Crowd of 50,519 Thunders Approval

Lindgren, a Spokane, Wash. high school June graduate who must now be ranked the most remarkable youngster in the annals of track, didn't score a "fluke" win. He routed two Russian veterans of the international marathons.

It was a supremely deserved victory.

Lindgren, who looks as though he would have to put on 10 pounds to become a 98-pound weakling, didn't resort to tactical maneuvers or tricks, but daringly, resolutely and courageously took the lead when he wanted it and challenged the Reds to take it away from him.

They couldn't.

Leonid Ivanov and Nikolai Dutov alternated the lead until the 15th lap, when Lindgren, trailing by a few strides, turned on a Jesse Owens sprint, passed them both and steadily drew out.

As he breasted the tape he led Ivanov by 110 yards, Dutov by 400 and teammate John Gutknecht by 600. He was saluted with an ear-puncturing, standing ovation throughout the final lap and a victory lap.

Lindgren, running the six mile-plus distance for only the second time, stopped the timepieces at 29:17.6, a new Coliseum record.

There was heavy applause for Fred Hansen too.

The Rice U. post-graduate student lifted his pending pole vault record of 17-2 to 17-4 and had one narrow miss at 17-7. If he goes any higher he'll have to be equipped with retro rockets to shoot him back to earth.

U.S. Men Capture 7 of 10 Events

The U.S. male bellwethers won seven of their 10 events.

Ralph Boston suffered a stunning long jump loss to Leonid Barkovskiy, 26-4¼ to 26-4; Hal Connolly was a disappointing third in the hammer throw at only 221-2, and the walkers were trounced, as usual.

One of the most popular victories was put together by Mike Larrabee, a hometown boy now teaching in Ventura.

Larrabee threw some hot figures at the Russians. They added up to a 46.0 400 and a three-yard victory over teammate Ollan Cassell.

Cassell moved out fast but Larrabee, running on the pole, caught up on the second curve and simply ran away. Cassell ran out of air but so did the Russians and he had two safety yards at the tape.

Larrabee, so long between victories that in comparison the Whig Party was on a winning streak, won the silver bowl despite being too old (30), over his head, and in almost constant pain from a stomach ailment.

Jones Overtaken by Blaine Lindgren

But you don't always improve with age, Hayes Jones discovered in the 110 meter hurdles.

The 25-year-old, who has won more championships than the Yankees, led to the halfway point, where Blaine Lindgren drew even. They stayed that way until the final hurdle, from where Lindgren pulled out to a solid stride victory, 13.6 to 13.7. Jones drubbed Red star Antoliy Mikhailov for the fifth time in six meetings.

Dodgers Bump S.F., 7-4

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers' front office appraisal of relief pitcher Bob Miller is as complimentary as it is succinct: "For three innings his stuff is as good or better as that of any pitcher in the league."

Miller almost tripled the rating Saturday night.

Called from the bullpen as an emergency starter for the injured Don Drysdale, Miller came through with his first career victory over the Giants. The score was 7-4, which doesn't say much for Miller. It does say that the Dodgers miss Miller as a reliever.

For 8⅓ innings Miller reduced the Giants to Lilliputians. He was within two outs of his first major league shutout when his motor sputtered, and understandably so.

This was Miller's first starting assignment since April 16. He hadn't pitched nine innings since July 13 of last season and his longest relief job of the year was six innings, May 23, against the Phillies.

Thus, after four successive hits in the ninth and after 152 pitches Miller ran out of gas. The normal procedure for manager Walter Alston would be to call for Bob Miller to face a right-handed pinch-hitter.

Alston, however, had little choice but to send for Ron Perranoski, who hasn't been up to snuff for a month. Perranoski did strike out pinch-hitter Cap Peterson for out No. 2, but had to yield to Phil Ortega after run-scoring singles by Harvey Kuenn and Hal Lanier.

By this time Willie Mays represented the tying run at the plate. He was long overdue, too, having been blanked in seven trips in this series.

Mays still is overdue. To the relief and delight of a ladies night turnout of 55,266, Ortega needed only two pitches to retire Mays on a game-ending fly to right field.

The paid attendance was 52,975, bringing the Dodgers' home total to 1,512,057 for 47 dates.

The home stand, in which the Dodgers have a 5-5 record, concludes this afternoon. Sandy Koufax (15-4) will be seeking his 12th successive win and first against the Giants this year. Rookie Ron Herbel (7-5) is the party of the second part.

After six lifetime losses to the Giants, Miller could thank Frank Howard for his first success. The Dodger giant ended a home run drought of 23 days with a tured a four-run seventh in-

L.A. REAPS BONANZA AT SPORTS GATE

A total of more than 150,000 sports fans Saturday attended three events in Los Angeles.

The largest crowd, 55,293, was at Hollywood Park for the running of two $75,000-added divisions of the Juvenile Championships for 2-year-olds.

Coliseum officials counted 50,519 fans at the first day of the United States-Russia Track and Field meet.

And the San Francisco Giants-Dodgers' game drew a gate of 55,266.

Neke, 'Kin Juvenile Champs

By RICH ROBERTS

Sheer juvenile delinquency — that's what it was when Neke, a 20-1 shot, stole the second section of the split Hollywood Juvenile Championship before 55,293 at Hollywood Park Saturday.

And if Charger's Kin hadn't threaded his way through the other 13-horse pack in the first section, a 27-1 shot named Azure Te would be giving his 2-year-old rivals the horse laugh, too.

Charger's Kin, a 7-1 pick in an open field, and Neke were a couple of real bonus babies in the richest split stakes ever staged on a single card anywhere.

Each collected $86,075 from the combined purse of $240,150, topping the record of $225,100 set by the Man O'War Stakes at New York's Aqueduct on Oct. 24, 1959.

Azure Te almost got away with the first section in a daring bit of riding by Rudy Campas, but Charger's Kin nailed him red-handed in the stretch by 2½ lengths—the red hand belonging to the rider Pete Moreno, who applied a vigorous whip to the wire.

"I took a hold of him and got a perfect position," said Moreno, who had his steed sixth until the big run. "We were lucky to get through, and when I saw that leader tiring I knew we had him, because I hadn't even asked my colt to run."

Charger's Kin broke from the big pack at the head of the stretch and had more than enough room to overtake Azure Te.

"We had it locked up until the eighth when he began to get leg weary," Campas said. "He was rattling off those early fractions so easily I didn't realize we were going that fast. I got after him pretty good but he was stopping and we couldn't stall off that winner."

Charger's Kin's trainer, Lou Carno, had few anxious moments.

"Pete give him a perfect ride," Carno said. "I thought the horse was a stayer and I'm sure he'll go on and on."

Charger's Kin paid $16.60, $8.20 and $5.40, Azure Te $19.80 and $8.40 and third-place Gummo $6.80.

In the other section, Neke, under Larry Gilligan, got his fans even at $39.40, $17.40 and $11.60, while Donson paid $19.60 and $11.60 and Old Mose $9.40. Time was identical for both sections —1:09-4/5.

Gilligan had to hold on or be left behind when Neke exploded out of the gate, immediately eliminating any disadvantage that could have been created by

Man to Man

WYNN

WIETECHA

By JERRY WYNN

If baseball had its "Iron Horse" in Lou Gehrig then football has its "Man of Steel" in Ray Wietecha.

Born under the shadow of the steel mills in East Chicago, Ind., Wietecha never missed a game during high school, college at Northwestern and 10 seasons and 133 contests as a five-time all-pro center for the New York Giants.

Today the jut-jawed 35-year-old father of four is striving to transfer his own dedication to football, pride as an athlete and tenacity of purpose to the Rams as chief assistant to coach Harland Svare.

Wietecha did such an outstanding job as offensive line coach last season, he was appointed to guide the entire offense and call the plays this year.

As a former lineman, Ray, do you think you are equipped to call plays for the backs?

"I have confidence in myself and think I know football as well as anyone. As captain of the Giants, I worked closely with our offensive coaches, Vince Lombardi and Allie Sherman, and learned a lot from them. Just because you start out as a ditch-digger doesn't mean that you can't make a good foreman."

Are you optimistic about the chances of the Rams this season?

"Put it this way, I'm not pessimistic. We've got a long way to go, but we are moving ahead. The attitude in camp this year is tremendous. It's very encouraging."

What is your chief objective as offensive coach?

"To improve our running attack. A sound, basic running game will make everything else go. Our passing is no worry. Gabriel looks fantastic and we have good receivers. We also have the halfbacks in Bass, Shannon and Atkins. Fullback is the problem."

You played on five Eastern Divisions and one World championship team in New York. What was the key to the Giants' success?

"Overall attitude. The team had great confidence in itself and great morale. It learned that it is not hard to win if you are willing to pay the price. It learned how to get up for a game and win the big ones. And once we knew what it was to win, we didn't want anything else."

Through your 133 consecutive games, weren't you ever injured?

"Sure, but never badly enough to keep me out of a game. I always felt the guys needed me and I needed them and I forgot whatever it was that hurt. I think everybody gets to feel this way when you get a taste of a championship."

When you were a boy, did you have any football idols?

"Not really. I liked Bulldog Turner of the Bears, but I was more interested in baseball. I wanted to become a right-handed Ted Williams. I played first base and spent a few months with the Washington Senators after I finished college."

Have you ever regretted choosing football over baseball?

"No, never. I had 10 great years with the Giants, and there's more coming with the Rams."

As a Midwesterner who lived in the East and now in the West, which section is your favorite?

"My wife and I love California. This is the place for us. We wouldn't trade it for anything."

What do you like to do most outside of football?

"As a coach you work around the clock most of the year so there isn't much time for outside interests. I just enjoy spending time with my family. When I was a player I had more time and used to take pride in gardening in our home in New Jersey. Now I have a gardener."

Cultivating a new winning spirit on the Rams is Ray Wietecha, that "Man of Steel."

5 Blows for Smith in 19-Hit Assault Behind Belinsky

By ROSS NEWHAN
I.-P-T Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY—Louisville forfeited all claims to the A's Saturday. So, probably, did Kansas City.

Gene Autry rode into town and the Angels corraled their most hits and runs of the season and virtually rewrote their record book in the process. Limited to nine runs in their previous six games, the Angels cracked 19 hits, including four home runs, en route to an 18-2 massacre which left Finley's fashion plates black and blue, rather than green and gold.

Bo Belinsky, who fainted when his mates scored six times for him in the first inning, recovered to register his third complete game of the season while yielding only five hits.

* * * *

THE ANGELS matched their half dozen tallies of the opening round again in the sixth and they scored four additional unearned runs in the eighth. Eleven of the runs came off Orlando Pena, who previously had won seven of 10 decisions from the Angels.

The Angels assembled 37 total bases, eclipsing the former club mark of 34 also set at Kansas City. They fell one shy of club marks for hits and runs, but by collecting five hits, Willie Smith equalled a club record held by Lee Thomas and Leon Wagner.

Included amidst the onslaught was Joe Adcock's 1,000th run batted in. With the bases loaded in the first frame, Adcock cleared the sacks for Moe Drabowksy by belting a double to left. The three RBI gave the 36-year-old veteran 39 for the season and 1,002 for his career and he thus becomes the 78th major leaguer to better that "grand" mark.

Drabowsky's career continues at a "record" pace. He was the victim of Stan Musial's 3,000th hit. Dave Nicholson's 573-foot homer and he pitched in the same game which produced Early Wynn's 300th victory.

ANGEL OF DAY

WILLIE SMITH

Had five hits, including homer, as Angels crushed A's, 18-2.

The Angels collected more records than Music City and included was a club high for July wins. During the month of firecrackers, the Angels have declared their independence from the second division by registering 16 victories in 25 contests. They have won eight of 11 on this trip and are 27-13 since June 16.

* * * *

BESIDES the quartet of circuit clouts, the Angels plastered Drabowsky, Dan Pfister and Pena for four doubles, one triple and 10 singles. Every member of the starting lineup collected at lease one hit and even Belinsky singled twice.

They twice loaded the bases in the first inning with first Adcock clearing them with his double and then Bobby Knoop lacing a double to sweep them clean. It was with embarrasment that they scored only once in the third before exploding for six off Pena in the sixth.

Smith, who tripled and singled three times, cracked a two-run homer, his sixth, and one out later Buck Rodgers smashed his second homer into the rightfield sheep pasture.

Belinsky lowered his ERA to 2.71 and raised his record to 9-5 while receiving only 11 runs less than Dean Chance has collected in 19 starts.

Prior to the game, Charles Finley had distributed 10,000 free bats to youngsters. The Angels returned the favor by driving Finley bats.

* * * *

ANGEL AGLES: Danny Osinski makes his first start since Aug. 25 when the duels ex-teammate Ted Bowsfield, (3-4) in this afternoon's second game. The opener pits Aubrey Gatewood (1-0) and Jose Santiago (0-2). It will be televised by KTLA (5) at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Gene Autry was presented with a Little League Louisville Slugger by Charles Finley. Autry feted the Angel writers at dinner Saturday evening.

Adcock needs four homers to equal another career milestone, that of 300 homers. Joe has socked 13 this season. A's had won four in a row prior to Saturday. Adcock was forced to leave after his double with a slightly pulled right thigh muscle.

Smith previewed his game hero's during batting practice when he belted a 450-foot drive which hit the top of the outer rightfield wall and bounced into the street. The same ball struck in Dodger Stadium would probably have bounced off the back wall of the rightfield bullpen.

Munson Ace of Ram Fray

Quarterback Bill Munson made his debut as a pro against a pro pass defense and was an instant hit.

The rookie from Utah State completed his first six passes and engineered an 80-yard scoring drive upon his entry into the Rams' scrimmage at Chapman College Saturday.

Munson wound up completing eight of nine attempts for 94 yards to draw praise from coach Harland Svare.

"I thought Roman Gabriel passed well, too," said Svare, "but the primary difference was that when Gabriel was directing the attack Deacon Jones was playing defensive end. He was all over Gabriel every time he tried to pass."

Gabriel connected on 9 of 19 passes for 99 yards and had two dropped. Neither qb had an interception.

* * * *

THE HITTING was so hard that tempers flared for the first time since the Rams began practice two weeks ago.

Svare said he had mixed feelings over the workout. "I want the defense to hold them, but on the other hand I want the offense to score. Both sides showed real spark today."

Munson didn't waste any time finding paydirt. Taking over the offense on the 20-yard line, Bill drove the team 80 yards in 12 plays.

On the drive he completed five successive passes for 45 yards, including gains of 14 yards to Marlin McKeever, 13 to Bucky Pope and 10 to Dick Bass. Art Perkins rammed into the end zone from three yards out.

* * * *

PERVIS ATKINS was the day's leading rusher, gaining 30 yards on 11 carries. Perkins netted 10 yards on six carries and rookie fullback Buddy Soefker gained 14 yards on seven tries.

Carroll Dale wound up leading receiver, catching six passes for 72 yards. McKeever pulled in two passes for 33 yards.

Svare will stage two-a-day drills one more week, climaxed by next Saturday's annual Chapman College Athletic Fund game.

ning against reliever Bob Shaw.

Howard's 20th home run and fifth against the Giants came after singles by Maury Wills, Jim Gilliam and Willie Davis had produced the first run of the inning. Willie's run-scoring hit was his 100th of the year.

The Dodgers fired a three-run salvo against loser Bob Hendley (9-6) in their first turn after Wills started an inning-ending double play with the bases full.

Wills also started the attack with a two-strike bunt single, then stole his 32nd base of the year. Successive singles by W. Davis, Tommy Davis, Howard and Ron Fairly made it 3-0 and sent Hendley to his premature Saturday night bath.

Miller held the Giants to three hits, struck out eight and had retired 14 in a row when Orlando Cepeda singled with one one in the ninth. Willie McCovey also singled, Tom Haller doubled and Jose Pagan singled before Perranoski entered.

The Giants wound up with nine hits and the Dodgers had a dozen, not daily by any stretch of the imagination.

The Dodgers lost the services of second baseman Nate Oliver, who pulled a groin muscle while running out an infield hit in the fourth inning. Oliver, who had nine hits in his last 18 times up to raise his average to .271, will be sidelined two or three days.

Orioles Remain on Top, Rally to Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jerry Adair's run-scoring single capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning that vaulted Baltimore to a 5-4 victory over Washington Saturday night.

The triumph kept the first-place Orioles one game ahead of New York in the American League race.

Sam Bowens delivered a key single in the uprising, driving in two runs with two out and the bases loaded. His hit came off Ron Kline, who had just relieved starter Bennie Daniels.

Kasko's Liner Nets Colts a 5-3 Triumph Over Cubbies

HOUSTON (UPI) — Eddie Kasko drilled a two-run double with two out in the eighth inning Saturday night to lift the Houston Colts to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Joe Gaines led off the eighth for the Colts with a single and Walt Bond was safe on a sacrifice. After Cub pitcher Bob Buhl struck out Bob Aspromonte and Mike White, Kasko lined his game-winning double to left center.

Two Boyer HRs, 10-9

DETROIT (AP)—Bobby Richardson stroked four hits and Joe Pepitone drove in four runs as the New York Yankees buried Detroit 14-2 Saturday under a 20-hit assault.

New York knocked out starter Dave Wickersham in a four-run first inning and tattooed two Tiger relief pitchers for eight runs and eight hits in the second before rain halted play for 48 minutes.

Bailey's Three Hits Help Bucs Rap Reds

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Bob Bailey, Bill Virdon and Bill Mazeroski drove out three hits each Saturday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Mazeroski's hits included his eighth homer of the season, one of two hit by the Pirates as they tagged left-hander Joe Nuxhall with his fifth loss in 13 decisions.

Pirate relief ace Al McBean blanked the Reds over the last 2⅓ innings to preserve starter Vern Law's eighth victory in 16 decisions.

Mazeroski's homer, coming in the second inning, matched a first-inning homer by Cincinnati's Vada Pinson. The Pirates bunched four hits, one a double by Bailey, with a balk to score three runs in the fourth inning.

APPLAUSE BOOMS THROUGH COLISEUM

Thrills...Pomp...and Records

By JOHN CASH

Seldom, if ever, has any track and field event held on American soil caused as much excitement, initiated as many thrills or revealed the pomp and splendor as that witnessed Saturday in the sixth USA-USSR extravaganza at the Coliseum.

To the staid veteran track and field observer who has seen many such attractions, and to the novice viewer who was watching his first meet, the ceremonies and achievements ignited a spontaneous applause which reverberated for the entire program.

The meet opened with the parade of athletes led by team flag bearers Bob Hayes (USA) and Adolphus Varanauskas (USSR) who proceeded under the main arch at the peristyle and continued down the steps to the platform. The remaining athletes filed past in twosomes and formed a semi-circle around Hayes and Varanauskas.

Amidst four canvasses bearing the national colors of both countries, the San Fernando Valley Youth Band played the "March of the Olympians" as the participants paraded. The band then presented the national anthems of both countries.

Jay Ehret Mahoney, president of the AAU in the United States, and Leonid Khomenkov, vice chairman of the USSR Sports Federation, were introduced and gave short welcoming speeches stressing friendship and peaceful unity through athletic participation.

At this stage, U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy was introduced and a flock of doves signifying peace was released. There was a fervor of laughter from a small portion of the audience as one of the spectators was given a somewhat ignoble welcome by one of the birds.

The three most electrifying occurrences were the announcement of Kennedy's presence, 18-year-old high school phenom Gerry Lindgren's unbelievable 10,000-meter thrashing of his Soviet adversaries, and the first-day score showing the U.S. women leading the Russians, 27-25.

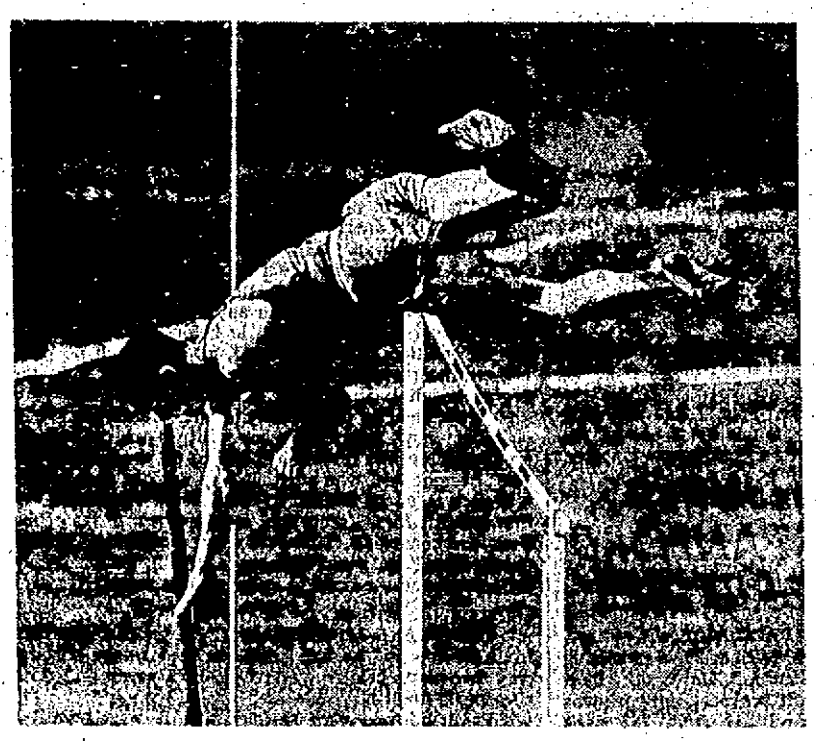

Lindgren was given a rousing ovation by the throng of 50,519 as he passed each straightaway. It was the first win for the Americans in this race and only the second time Lindgren had run the distance.

If Saturday's performances were indicative of what is to come today, there's no way to anticipate how many will be in attendance when the ceremonies open at 4 p.m.

In any event Long Beach will be well represented. Marvin Marker and his Long Beach Junior Concert band will provide the musical accompaniment for the opening and closing ceremonies.

In addition to the musical festivities, three L.B. athletes will be vying for first-place accolades. They are high jumper John Rambo, Martha Watson (long jump) and Frank Covelli (javelin).

U.S. Girls Surprise With 3 Victories

The 100 meters was another no contest event as far as the Russians were concerned.

The U.S. first team was in sick bay, but it made no difference down the 100 meter speedway.

Substitute Henry Carr ran 10.3, just three ticks off the world record, and won by two yards eased up. Reserve John Moon jumped, then got off to an abysmal start in the re-run. He finally cinched second by a hair over the Soviet perennial also-ran, Edvin Ozolin, with hand reach of the wire.

The Yankee lasses, competing against the most awesome array of behemoths in the world, were as good as they were bad last year.

They won three of the five events contested, losing only the two tests of strength, shotput and javelin.

Last year, at Moscow, the Americans won no events and failed to achieve even a "minimum" score when two girls were disqualified and another did not finish.

But Saturday they ran and jumped as though failure meant liquidation.

Edith McGuire and Wyomia Tyus started one-two in the 100 and finished that way.

The Yanks never had won the high jump, but Saturday Eleanor Montgomery (5-7¼) and Terrezene Brown (5-5¼) were first and second.

The 400 meter relay was close but decisive, with the U.S. to the fore throughout.

Today there will be more pomp and ceremony, and apparently more American victories, too.

...AND DON'T FORGET THE LADIES

EDITH McGUIRE (right) and Wyomia Tyus score easy sweep for U.S. in women's 100. Third and fourth are Russia's Galina Popova and Mariya Itkina. Winning time was 11.5. The surprising victory helped propel U.S. gals to 27-25 lead.

Once Over Lightly

Hutchinson Describes Cancer Battle

Fred Hutchinson's description of his treatment for cancer sends shivers up and down your spine.

But probably the most calm person regarding the subject, is Hutch himself. Except for the night when he was first told he had cancer, he says he has never lost any sleep over it. In fact, thinking about the problems of baseball has caused him to lose much more sleep.

FRED HUTCHINSON
Party Before Pain

Hutch first revealed the treatment he underwent to Al Hirschberg for an article in True . . . and since has confirmed his statements.

Fred points out that he first learned he had cancer the day before last Christmas. He had taken his annual physical examination in September and passed with flying colors . . . but a month later he started to get pains in his chest and back.

He didn't think much of it at first, but then he began having trouble swallowing. So he stopped smoking. He had been a heavy smoker, good for at least a couple of packs a day.

When the pains persisted, he got into the habit of kneading his neck to see if he could feel anything. One night a small lump . . . and the next day went to see a doctor.

When they wanted to take a byopsy, he immediately called his brother, who, like his late father, is a doctor. His brother asked him to fly out to Seattle immediately so he could look him over.

The night before he flew to Seattle, Hutch and his wife threw a Christmas-New Year's party for some 80 friends. The only ones Fred told outside his immediate family, though, were Birdie Tebbetts and Hoot Evers, two old teammates and golfing partners who live near him outside Bradenton, Florida.

TEBBETTS, THE CLEVELAND MANAGER who was destined to be stricken by a heart attack during spring training three months later, was the Detroit catcher when Hutch broke in with the Tigers as a pitcher.

Hutch reveals that Birdie, "who always has been something of a hypochondriac, was stunned and said 'I'd have expected something like this to happen to me, but not to you. I always thought of you as being indestructible.'"

Once in Seattle last January, doctors decided that the situation was inoperable . . . but that they thought they might be able to kill or shrink the malignant tumor with super-voltage radiation in a hyperbaric chamber, a method so new it is still considered more or less experimental.

The chamber, as Hutch describes it, looks like an iron lung, except that you are completely sealed inside of it.

"I SURE WOULDN'T RECOMMED IT for people who can't cope with claustrophobia. And it helps if you have the soul and nerves of an astronaut or a deep sea diver," Fred says.

"You lie on a table and they slide you into it like a side of beef and then slam the door. The top is plastic so you can see out and the doctors and nurses can see in. There also is a built-in communications system.

"Once they get up into the thing, they pour on the pressure . . . giving you 30 pounds of oxygen so you can absorb two million volts of radiation. This shortens the length of the treatment and also practically eliminates the risk of hurting healthy tissue.

"Usually, it takes 10 minutes getting you 'down,' seven minutes of radiation, and another 10 minutes getting you 'up.'

"They use those terms because the effect is like that of a deep sea diver, who has to go down and come up in stages so he won't get the bends. You can get the bends in the chamber, too.

"THE ONLY DOUBT I HAD WAS that sometimes I get a hemmed in feeling in crowded places . . . like elevators," he reveals.

"The doctors advised me of what to expect. They said I'd feel it most in the ears; that I'd get a headache; that I might think I was going to burst in small pieces, and that I'd probably be hit by claustrophobia whether or not I was normally subject to the feeling," Fred goes on.

"They said if I didn't think I could take it, I could have an anesthetic, which many patients need. I was tempted, but I asked them which they preferred, and they said it was better if I didn't take it.

"That was enough for me. I wanted get the full benefit, so I went into the chamber fully conscious. I had to give myself a pep talk, telling myself it wouldn't be so bad . . . but it was just as bad as the doctors said it would be. I was in there 40 minutes the first time, although it seemed a lifetime.

"WHEN I GOT OUT I WONDERED how I had been able to stay in there that long. But worse, I wondered how I could make myself go back in there five more times. But I kept giving myself pep talks, and it got a little more bearable as the week passed although it still was rough. Before it was over, I was able to go through the whole bit in 23 minutes," Fred declares.

Twice since the season has started, Hutch has flown to Seattle for X-rays and checkups. Some improvement has been noted.

Hutch says "I have a big scar on the upper right side of my chest where the radiation was concentrated. It looks like a bad sunburn . . . and it serves as a reminder of those punishing hours in the chamber; as if I could ever forget them.

"But they were well worth it . . . if the malignancy is controlled."

Billie Jean Top-Seeded

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. (AP) — America's second-ranked players, Dennis Ralston and Billie Jean Moffitt, head the field for the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships, which begin Monday at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Seeded behind Ralston are Frank Froehling, defending champion Gene Scott, Marty Riessen, Arthur Ashe, Mike Sangster, Abe Segal and Charles Pararell.

In the women's bracket, Miss Moffitt, of Long Beach, Calif., now the ranking amateur in the country since Darline Hard decided to turn pro, tops the list of six seeds. Behind her come Nancy Richey, Carole Caldwell Graebner, Karen Hantze Susman, Judy Alvarez and Carol Hanks.

Miss Moffitt was runnerup at Wimbledon last year.

Preps Open Grid Season Thursday

By DOUG IVES

Long Beach's trio of gridders for the Shrine football game, Wilson's Bob Heckman and Poly's Marv Motley and Earl McCullouch, have won starting positions.

Heckman will open at offensive center and Motley at offensive left half, while McCullouch will play the middle safety spot on defense when the North and South tangle Thursday in the Coliseum.

Co-coaches Jim Pendleton and Dick Coury of the South, in revealing that L.B. would have three starters, also said that McCullouch would see some duty on offense.

The versatile Rabbit, expected to vie with Randy Key for the flanker position, has instead been backing up Motley, who will be the principle running back with Muir fullback Ron Pritchard.

All the South backs except quarterback Carleton Kelley, who stands 6-6 and weighs 220, can run the 100 in 10.1 or better. McCullouch does 9.7, Key 9.9, Motley 10.0 and Pritchard 10.1.

The South's vaunted speed will be the North's main worry, while the Rebels will have problems with the North's huge line, which averages 223 to the South's 202.

Biggest man for both squads is 250-pounder Jack O'Malley of Banning, who'll start at middle guard on defense. Other area players, El Rancho's Ron Drake and Steve Swanson and Santa Ana's Ted Parks, will start, too—Drake at end, Swanson as the rover backer and Parks flanking McCullouch.

Practices will taper off this week after rugged two-a-day drills since Tuesday. The head-knocking thus far has hurt the North more than the South as it already has lost guard Dan Flores.

Moreover, star QB Ray Calcagno, whose S. F. Ignatius team was 19-0 the past two seasons, strained a knee Friday and limped off the field. His health could be the key factor in the game's outcome.

The 13th annual contest promises to be one of the most wide-open offensive battles ever. Both teams are employing wing-T attacks, featuring flanker backs and split ends. With Kelley and Calcagno highly touted passers, there should be plenty of aerial dynamics.

* * * *

PREP PANORAMA: Motley has been the sensation of the South camp, according to reports emanating from there. . . . Kelley's long passes, and the bass-catching of Drake also have warranted rave notices. . . . Four North linemen are hobbling with assorted injuries, but as yet only Flores has been definitely sidelined; one casualty is end Tim Rossovich, the No. Calif. Lineman of the Year from St. Francis in Mountain View. . . . According to the advance ticket sales, about 60,000 should witness the game, an increase over last year and some 12,000 over the 12-game average. . . . Both squads will see the U.S.-Russian track meet today. . . . The South backfield averages only 184 pounds, smallest in Shrine Game history.

SHRINE QB VISITS HOSPITAL

'Playing Our Hearts Out'

(The following article was written by 18-year-old Terry Shea, one of the 50 California football players who will compete in the Shrine's North-South Football Game in Memorial Coliseum Thursday. A quarterback from San Jose's Bellarmine Prep and sports editor of that school's newspaper, Terry wrote this story after visiting with the beneficiaries of the event—patients in the Los Angeles unit of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

By TERRY SHEA
Special To The I-P-T

While visiting the boys and girls in the hospital, I learned the true meaning of the slogan that is synonymous with all Shrine football games: "Strong Legs Run That Weak Legs May Walk."

When I walked into the girls' ward and saw a leg with no foot, I knew immediately what this game was all about.

I looked away from that leg as quickly as possible for fear that I would embarrass the patient, a pretty blonde about 15 years old.

By the time my eyes reached hers, I had a sinking feeling in my stomach. Simply, I felt as if one of my passes had been intercepted at a crucial point in a crucial game.

Carol gave me a big smile and I gave it right back to her.

I didn't know what to talk about at first, but I guess it went OK because she said she would say a prayer for me just before the game.

As I left Carol, I noticed that dance music was coming from the radio atop her bed stand. I turned to my guide, hospital administrator Mary Jane Krantz, and said in a low tone:

"Gosh, that girl will never dance."

Mrs. Krantz replied:

"Oh, she'll dance—and soon. We're in the process of fitting her with an artificial foot and, I assure you, by the time she leaves us she'll be able to twist."

As I mingled with the patients, I realized that this game would be different than any I (or the other North-South players) had ever been in before.

In addition to victory itself, all of us will be playing our hearts out for the 60 children we met in the Shrine hospital. They deserve nothing less of us.

The memories of the hospital are haunting.

Even now, hours after my visit, I can picture the broken youngsters for whom I will be playing—Jacks and Jills, I might add, who got that way without ever having a chance to go up the hill to fetch a pail of water. I say that because Mrs. Krantz told me that most of the afflictions are congenital. That last word (congenital) is new to me. Mrs. Krantz told me how to spell it, but I had only to look around the ward to know what it meant.

LET'S TAKE LITTLE RAYMOND, for example. He's from Mexico and he had been admitted to the hospital only two days before my arrival. He's seven and does not speak English.

Raymond was very serious, and it wasn't until I called upon some of the Spanish I learned at Bellarmine Prep that I finally got through to him. He has never walked. His legs, which were thrown a "curve" by polio, are as thin as the crutches that support him.

I remember Steve, too. He was the polite one. Steve called me "sir" and he showed me a lot for a 12-year-old. He had a v-e-r-y strong hand shake, one that was triggered from broad shoulders. Like Raymond, however, his legs were coiled and tender.

Steve wants to be a quarterback. Well, if Carol will dance, maybe Steve will call signals for an Oklahoma team. That's where he's from.

Generally speaking, I noticed that none of the patients felt sorry for themselves. They were happy and, as a result, fun to be with.

Venturi, Besselink Tie

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—U.S. Open Champion Ken Venturi and strapping Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., a couple of comeback stars, fired duplicate rounds of 69 Saturday to share the third-round lead at 202 in the $50,000 Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Venturi, 33, who had not won a major tournament since 1960 before capturing the Open in June, remained deadlocked with Besselink with just one round remaining by shooting a one-under-par 34 on the front nine and cutting the 36-par back nine by one stroke on the 6,569-yard Wethersfield Country Club.

Besselink, 40-year-old Merchantville, N.J., native, who was out of action with a lung condition for the past three years, stayed with Venturi at the top of the field of 85 in quest of a $7,500 first prize by matching his 34-35 round in warm but windy weather.

Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., who ranked one stroke behind the three deadlocked leaders at the 36-hole mark, went around in par 71 Saturday for a 205.

TENNIS BRIEFS

Compiled From Wire Reports

Peaches Bartkowicz Saturday won her second singles championship in the national under-16 girls tennis tournament at Chicago by beating a nervous Patty Rippy, 6-3, 6-3. . . . Miss Bartkowicz, 15, Hamtramck, Mich., has another year to look forward to in the tournament. She overpowered Miss Rippy, Shawnee, Okla., with booming serves.

AUSTRALIA'S Davis Cup tennis team practiced for seven hours in Mexico City Saturday, indicating the seriousness with which it takes its next opponent, Mexico. . . . Australia's two stars, Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, bore the brunt of the long workout, as coach Harry Hopman helped them polish their ground strokes. He also worked on overhead smashes and drop shots. Australia meets Mexico Aug. 1-3.

Ken Fletcher of Australia defeated Allen Fox of Los Angeles, 6-3, 7-5, in one semi-final match of the Swiss International tennis tourney. Jose Mandarino of Brazil beat Martin Mulligan of Australia, 6-0, 7-5, in the other.

Mac Claffin of Coral Gables, Fla., pulled another upset to defeat first-seeded George Taylor of Houston, Tex., and win the National Boys Wonder tennis championship at Chattanooga, Tenn. The title game went three sets: 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Bill Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., won the junior crown and Albert Carrera of Santurce, Puerto Rico, took the boys title in the Western Open Tennis championships at Springfield, Ohio. . . . Harris, winner of the boys' division the last two years, won 5-7, 7-5 and 6-1 over Bob Lutz of Los Angeles. Carrera went down 1-3 in games to James Rennbeau of Studio City, Calif., in the first set but came back to win, 6-4, 6-2.

McIntyre on Swim Spree

Patty McIntyre of the Greta Andersen Swim School had a big day in the SPAAAU invitational age-group swimming championships at Lynwood Natatorium Saturday.

Competing in three events in the girls 7-8 age group, Patty won the 50-meter butterfly in 49.3, placed second in the 100-meter freestyle and finished third in the 50-meter backstroke. Mike McIntyre finished sixth in the 100-meter butterfly in boys 13-14.

INJURED STANFORD GRID DIES

PALO ALTO (AP) — Lowell Wilson, 20, a promising Stanford University football prospect until he was paralyzed from the neck down during a dummy scrimmage, died Saturday.

Wilson, of Hawaii, entered Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital Friday for treatment of urological and lung infections.

A 218-pound guard, Wilson was practicing with the Stanford team as a sophomore in May, 1963, when he fractured his spine while hitting a blocking bag.

He returned to the university this summer in a wheelchair.

Wilson had been a star football player, student body vice president and editor of the school paper at Kamehameha School before entering Stanford.

His mother was with him when he died.

Del Mar Opens Tuesday

DEL MAR—A full field of fast fillies and mares for the $7,500 Inaugural Handicap—highlight of Tuesday's opening-day program here—was assured Saturday with the release of 21 nominations for the six-furlong dash. Post-time of 2 p.m. will be in effect for the 42-day summer session of the Del Mar Turf Club.

Elmendorf Farm's Researcher, recent winner of the Wilshire Handicap at Hollywood, and Lou Rowan's Curious Clover, feminine star of the Santa Anita winter meeting, are among the inaugural candidates.

Gablich's Jet Drag Car Bests Southerland

Gary Gablich of Long Beach driving the "Valkyrie" jet dragster, defeated Paul Southerland's fuel dragster in their two-out-of-three match race before 5,891 fans Saturday at Mickey Thompson's Fontana International Dragway.

Gablich reached a speed of 218.44 mph in winning the first race, lost the second and came back with a 216.86 mph run to win the third and deciding race.

Sachs Tops Jones in Hot Midget Duel

Lowell Sachs waged a head-on duel with Parnelli Jones' younger brother, Paul, for 40 laps, took the lead when Jones developed car trouble and went on to win the USAC midget car race at Ascot Park Saturday night before 3,836.

Maine event (50 laps)—Lowell Sachs (San Diego), Mike McGreevey (San Jose), Bob Wente (St. Louis), Paul Jones (Gardena), 16:17.37.

Semi-main (15 laps) — Bob Behemer (Bellflower), Jack Devill (Los Angeles), Edgar Elder Jr. (Fresno), 4:46.66.

GRAND PRIZE

Grand Trophy in International Karate Tournament at the Long Beach Arena next Sunday night will be the target for such ace fighters as Dan Inosanto and Larry Hartsel.

300 Karate Champions Clash in L.B. Sunday

It appears that the first International Karate Championships will be a smashing success.

More than 300 of the world's greatest karate fighters already have entered the big affair which is set for Sunday night, Aug. 2, at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium. Rapid ticket sales indicate a sellout.

Karate (pronounced kah-rah-tay) is one of the oldest and most effective means of hand-to-hand combat and only lately has come into its own in this country.

But despite its newness here, the United States will be well represented in the tourney. Such entrants as members of the U.S. Army and U.S. Marine karate team will compete as well as an 88-man delegation from Texas.

The foreign fighters are expected to be early favorites. Included are such luminaries as Japan's Takayuki Kubota and Zenpo Shimbuku and Canada's Quai Wong.

Many of the world's legendary karate teachers will attend the tourney and give demonstrations. Expected are Jhoon Rhee of Korea, Bruce Lee of Hong Kong, Tsumo Ohshima of Japan, Anthony Mirakian of Okinawa, Ben Largusa of the Philippines and Ed Parker of Hawaii.

MESSAGE FROM BEYOND?

Clay Decked by 'Pug'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Cassius Clay, heavyweight champion, says he got a million dollar message from the beyond when a club fighter decked him during a training bout.

Chip Johnson, who has a 7-5 record, startled the champion with a short right hand to Clay's unprotected chin Friday.

Cassius shook his head and got up quickly, just as the bell rang. Johnson didn't wait to be told that the workout was finished.

"Let me out of here," he said, jumping from the ring. "Tell me Clay was jiving."

Clay insisted that he was not jiving.

"I was tagged," said Clay, "this is a warning. Somebody is telling me, 'You're not ready for this.' Your heart has got to be in tune with what you're doing.

"I've been living on doughnuts and milk. I've got to eat some more steaks."

It was the first knockdown in a gym for Clay since he turned professional, said his trainer, Angelo Dundee.

Clay weighed 226. When he won the championship from Sonny Liston in February he weighed 210.

ALL-AMERICA BRADDS WILL SHUN PROS

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—All-America Gary Bradds of Ohio State apparently has decided to forego a professional basketball career.

A top draft choice of the National Basketball Association Baltimore Bullets, Bradds intends to teach school this winter, according to an announcement Saturday from nearby Beavercreek Township.

70 Turn Out for Falcons' Grid Drills

By AL LARSON

"They just keep coming and coming," a perplexed coach Al Williams said Saturday as he mapped training plans for his Long Beach Falcons football team.

"So far we've had 70 players report and we've only been practicing two weeks. We never dreamed we'd have such a fine response here in Long Beach. But we're always ready to greet new personnel," Williams added.

The Falcons, members of the Western Football League, will hold their first scrimmage, either Aug. 5 or 10. Working out Monday and Wednesday nights at 6:30 on the Dominquez High field, Long Beach's semi-pro team opens league play Aug. 30.

Prospects:

Bennie Allen, Frank Allen, Bill Alexander, Gary Alexander, Al Blanchard, Walt Buncom, John Barry, John Barrilva, Floyd Bowman, Henry Bradshaw, Charlie Cunningham, Dave Cunningham, Ron Chronister, John Cammon, Purcell Daniels, Dick Earthman, Harold Feldhan.

Jim Fowler, Dick Gomez, Bob Gomez, Bill Grace, Frank George, Al Holsington, Jim Houston, Ellis Houston, Chuck Hammond, Fletcher Harding, Fred Horn, Lonzo Irvin, Joe Ibarra, Leo Johnson, Jack Johnson, Gordon Jackson, Nate Johnson, Dick Jacoby.

said. And Hansen volunteered that 17-6 was an intermediate goal."

"I should have made 17-7 today," the Rice University student said. "And that's certainly not the limit."

Long said he thought he "really had a good one" on a put that eventually went "only" 67-1, "but I didn't plant my left foot fast enough and the put didn't have enough height."

Unsung hero of the Americans was walker Ron Zinn. The 25-year-old soldier was right with the world record holder and Olympic champion Vladimir Golubnichiy at the halfway point in the 12-mile jaunt, but eventually finished several hundred yards behind.

What the fans didn't know was that Zinn had been wearing new shoes, which, teammate Ron Laird said, "made a mess of his feet."

With three miles to go, Zinn took off the offending shoes, handed them to an official, and finished the event in his socks.

HOMETOWN hero Mike Larrabee said he had been told to run a faster first 200 meters than he usually does, and he credited that with his breezing victory over teammate Ollan Cassell in the 400 meters.

"That's the fourth time in a month I've run 46 seconds flat," Larrabee said. The 31-year-old USC alumnus said his troublesome stomach had not bothered him.

Hayes Jones, beaten in the 110-meter hurdles by Blaine Lindgren, said he had been unable to "raise up" after coming out of the blocks and never was able to get over the hurdles properly.

He said he hit the eighth, ninth, and tenth hurdles, and that he was "satisfied" with his 13.7 time under those circumstances.

AMONG THE happy winners were two girls, sprinter Edith McGuire and high jumper Eleanor Montgomery. Both agreed that their victories should not be considered upsets.

"We've worked hard, all of us," Miss Montgomery said. "We're tired of hearing about American women athletes being 'second-raters.'"

Miss McGuire agreed. "We have a tremendous team spirit," she said. "We're going to surprise a lot of people, but not ourselves."

Korobkov said he was not surprised at the performances of the U.S. girls or of Lindgren. "I was only surprised at the performances of some of the Russian athletes.

"Tomorrow," he repeated, "will be different."

Pentathlon Record Win for Toomey

WESTBRROK, Maine (UPI)—Track wizard Bill Toomey made a clean sweep of five track and field events Saturday to break his own record and win his fourth National AAU pentathlon championship.

Toomey, a graduate student at Stanford University, posted a total of 3,687 points to smash his old record of 3,482 set in a 1961 National AAU Pentathlon meet in California.

The 25-year-Toomey won the broad jump with a leap of 23-9¾ and won first place in the javelin with a throw of 193-4.

TOOMEY, who is currently in training as an alternate for the U.S. Olympic team, negotiated the 200-meter dash in 22 seconds flat, threw the discus 125-10 and won the 1,500 meter run in 4:21.4.

Navy Lt. Bill Ramson won second place with 2,802 points and also came in second in the 200-meter dash with a time of 23.02.

having the inside pole position.

For most of the race it appeared that this was just another Azure Te who would run out of oats, but only one challenger came out in the stretch and he was way too late.

Gilligan was looking over his shoulder, and it appeared that Neke was, too, when apprentice Senen Trevino brought Donson at him in the last quarter, cutting off a 3½-length advantage to a still cozy 1½, the finish.

Gilligan grinned, "He was standing perfect at the break, looking down the race track and ready to go. I was a little worried when I hit the half-mile pole on top that he might not keep rolling, but they were false fears. He was run all the way."

Trainer Joe Dunn revealed that Neke had "blown two races by his habit of ducking in. We tried blinkers and then changed to an extension bit which apparently helped. I was worried about drawing that No. 1 position and told Larry to rush him out of there. He just whooshed out and that was it."

Jockey Ray York rode three winners Saturday, equalling his feat on Gold Cup day a week earlier but not quite matching I, P-T handicapper Roy Betz, who was on four winners, including Charger's Kin.

The Hollypark meeting closes Monday when Colorado King, South African-bred winner of the Gold Cup and American Handicap, takes on similar competition in the $85,150 Sunset Handicap at a mile and five-eighths—his longest test.

Bill Shoemaker will return to the King's saddle after Ray York's successes in the American and Gold cup.

KELSO FAR, FAR BACK

Gun Bow Shatters Mark, Wins by 12

Compiled from Wire Reports

Gun Bow ran the fastest 1¼ miles in New York racing history Saturday as he galloped to a 12-length triumph in the 76th running of the $110,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

The 4-year-old son of Gun Shot-Ribbon from the Gedney Farms reeled off the distance in 1:59 3/5 under 123 pounds.

Kelso, favorite in the field of eight handicap stars, could do no better than fifth as Rex C. Ellsworth's Olden Times nosed Sunrise Flight of the Little M. Farms out of the runnerup position before a crowd of 49,074.

Iron Peg, unbeaten in four previous 1964 starts, lost the show spot by a head.

* * * *

IN WINNING the classic finale of New York's handicap triple crown, Gun Bow clipped three-fifths of a second off the former New York record held by Whisk Broom, Kelso and Beau Purple and came within one and two-fifths seconds of matching the world standard hung up by Noor at Golden Gate Fields in 1950.

Gun Bow was an outsider to take down the $71,500 purse and paid $24.60, $10.60 and $7.60. Olden Times, another outsider, returned $23.20 and $11.20. Sunrise Flight paid $9.50 to show.

William Haggin Perry's Knightly Manner, the favorite, scored his seventh victory of the year over a well-matched field of three-year-olds in the 27th running of the $44,700 Choice Stakes.

ITALIAN DRIVER KILLED IN RACE

FRANCORCHAMPS, Belgium (UPI) — Italian race car driver Pietro Frescobaldi was killed Saturday night when his Lancia 1800 swerved off the road and into a ravine during the 24 hours Francorchamps race.

The Lancia shot out of the Malmedy Bend about three miles from the stands. Frescobaldi was killed instantly, the reports said.

Fishin' Around

Now We Can Brag About Albacore

This weekend, for the first time, Long Beach, San Pedro and Newport Beach sportfishing landings don't have to play second fiddle to San Diego in albacore catches. At this writing Saturday morning anglers on a score of boats from this area were screaming with happiness as rod after rod bent over the rails.

It seemed certain at that early hour that the Friday catch would be exceeded. It was highly possible that plenty of 10-fish limits would be landed later in the day and early evening.

Friday broke a strange spell when Pierpoint's America, Pacific's Fisherman, Norm's new 75-foot Electra (San Pedro) and Skipper's 22nd Street Landing's Sharpshooter (San Pedro) fished the 43-Fathom Bank and came home with 312 fish.

The Electra with Dick Helgren as skipper, was high boat with 127 for 24 passengers. Pacific's Fisherman, with Pat Jackson as skipper, came back with 100. The America had 63 and the Sharpshooter 22.

Meanwhile, Newport Beach sent three boats to the same area Friday and collected 112 fish. So, all in all, San Diego's daily total of 1,000 for 24 or 25 boats didn't worry local operators in the least.

ALL ALBACORE SPECIALS in this area had been trying to fish a few miles off the east end of San Clemente Island with varying results, ranging from zero to possibly 30 or 40 fish. The shift to the 43-Fathom Bank, possibly an hour longer in cruising, did the trick. The faster boats can make it there in 4½ to 5 hours.

An oddity occurred Friday when a small boat trolling a jig hooked an albacore on the 14-Mile Bank, directly between Newport Beach and Avalon. That fish was landed, but two others, hooked on bait, broke off. That ended the action.

The 14-Mile Bank, easy to reach, always intrigues small boaters, and it's a place where a few albacore strays are caught, but it's too early to predict that the main schools might get in that close to shore.

Currents around San Clemente Island are so erratic so far that it's guesswork about the longfins' migration that way. One skipper, taking temperatures earlier this week, found one patch of 62-degree water, then discovered another patch of 70-degree water a few hundred feet away. Neither suits the albacore, which prefer 64 and 65 degrees.

A severe case of red tide is affecting water inside the harbor and anchovies are leaping everywhere for a breath of oxygen out of the atmosphere. However, the bait situation so far is excellent.

JUST BECAUSE A PERSON walks into a sporting good store and buys a fishing or hunting license doesn't make him a gentleman or a saint. Some are meat hogs who know that they will be fined unless they have licenses. Others are even criminals, even though on a small scale.

Take for instance the incident that occurred in Ball and Frank's Sporting Goods Store, 345 Long Beach Blvd. Cyril Ball and Johnny Frank were displaying 50 dozen flies, hand-tied by Bart Peterson, one of the Long Beach Casting Club fly-tying instructors. While 50 dozen flies sound like a great quantity, those were contained in a compact case.

Numerous customers and window shoppers dropped by to take a look. While Johnny, Cyril and Cyril's son, Jim, were busy with the trade, somebody took the case and all and left no trace.

Cyril, commenting on the thievery, said he hoped the person who took the flies really can fish with them. "If he took those flies out of plain curiosity," said Cyril, "I hope he falls down and sits on the 50 dozen."

Meanwhile, it's interesting to note that in June 481 persons were cited for fishing without licenses and 165 were fined for hunting without licenses and 44 for loaded guns in cars. Only legal game now is jackrabbits.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Utah's general deer season will run from Oct. 17 through Oct. 27, according to information from that state's Fish and Game Department. The state's general archery hunt runs from Aug. 22 through Sept. 7.

The Ute Indians of Utah are planning another special hunt on their lands from Aug. 15 through Nov. 15, limiting the hunters to 15 at one time. It's a rather expensive deal, but all funds go to the tribe's welfare fund.

Glacier Falls Figure Skating Club is presenting its second annual ice revue in four performances, starting with a Sunday matinee today at the Glacier Falls Ice Rink, 211 W. Katella, Anaheim. While this doesn't come under the usual outdoors title, the A-1 Carson Trailer Sales, Torrance, thinks enough of the Orange County event to give a Field and Stream trailer as the grand prize.

Shell Chemical Company, which for several years has manufactured liquid Vapona insecticides for use in farm buildings, milk barns and for commercial purposes, has formulated the chemical in a 10x2½-inch strip which you hang in a room.

Shell says it keeps all flying insects out of that room for at least three months. It vaporizes very slowly and the flies, gnats and mosquitoes just don't like it. Wish I had had a strip or two of that on that recent trip into British Columbia.

Peterson Scores 4-3 Triumph

By BRUCE YOUNG

Oscar Brown raced home from third base on a passed ball in the bottom of the sixth inning with the winning run as Peterson Post tripped Sunshine Acres 4-3 Saturday at Blair Field in the 19th District American Legion playoffs.

Peterson and Sunshine Acres collide today at noon for the District Championship with two lefthanders slated to pitch. Randy Humphrey will take the hill for Gale Taylor's national champs while 5-6 curveball artist Perry Warren will hurl for Sunshine Acres.

Brown, pushed into a starting role for the first time in four weeks, was impressive stealing two bases and making a fine catch deep in centerfield. He reached base in the sixth on a fielder's choice and went to second on a two-base throwing error, which scored Ken Whitmer from first.

* * * *

BROWN promptly stole third and romped home on Pat Kuehner's passed ball. Whitmer led off the frame with a single.

Chuck Moore paced Peterson at the plate, collecting a run-producing single, double and a walk in three trips. Moore's two-out single to left-field in the second scored Bob Wiswell from second base and gave the winners a brief 1-0 lead.

Moore started off the fifth frame with a booming double to center, advanced to third on catcher Ron Henkel's single and scored on Gary Lamb's ground ball to first.

Juniors Free at Hawks' Contest

The Nitehawks are riding gingerly in their WSC campaign but, despite injuries to five stars, they will take the field tonight at 8:15 against the Oxnard Merchants at Park Ave. field. All junior baseball players in uniforms will be admitted free.

On the injured list are: Stan White, broken bone in ankle; Larry Silvas, hip injury; Eddie Waymire, bruised thumb; Jack Randall, injured leg and Cleo Goyette, swollen ankle.

The Lakewood Lancers go to Etiwanda tonight. A Lancer win would insure second place in the WSC.

LYNNE FRANTZ EYES ONE OF HIS SIGNS

IT'S AN AD, AD, AD WORLD

By DON KIRKLAND

REDONDO BEACH—That old soft-sell routine never has been softer, thanks to the 34-year-old "think director" at South Bay Shopping Center.

He's Lynne Frantz, promotion director and all-around idea man at the bustling, 48-store shopping beehive that grossed $40 million last year alone.

His secrets to success?

"A never-ending supply of ideas," Frantz concedes.

Among them are the eye-catching, off-beat slogans that stare down at passing motorists with only one thought in mind: "make people smile."

The slogans, no doubt, have become South Bay Center's biggest claim to fame.

They range from the terse, post-Christmas remark,

WHEW!

to the slump-season appeal,

WHERE ARE YOU
NOW THAT WE NEED YOU?

At commencement time in June, 1960, Frantz punned:

CONGRAUZTIONS
TO YOUSE
WICH GRADULATED

At the height of the elephant-joke craze, the sign suggested:

PARKING FOR
2,900 ELEPHANTS
Or 5,800 Cars

Having spent the early years of his career as a newspaper ad salesman, Frantz knows the ropes of promotion. Nonetheless, he occasionally runs out of ideas for new and laughable billboard appeals, so reverts to a mockery of radio and TV ads, calls on his secretary for help or simply sticks to the routine of:

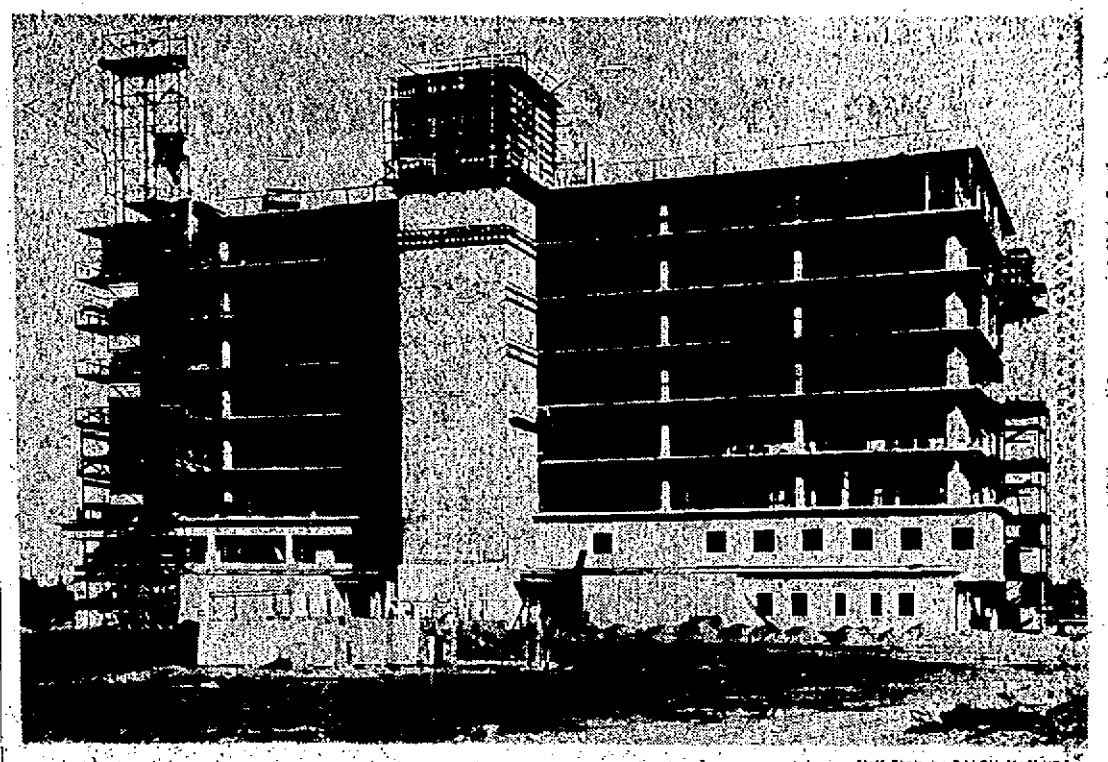

ANNUAL WHITE SALE

Some businessmen as far away as Beverly Hills drive past the center periodically to plagiarize Frantz' ideas, and one woman said the signs made her "feel like dropping everything and running in to shop."

Frantz' success is obvious. He has been with the center 6½ years, and has helped it grow to one of the biggest-selling shopping complexes of its kind in the nation.

Sometimes, Frantz admits, he won't "get cute:"

"If the center is open on a certain night when stores aren't normally open, we feel it is imperative to say this straightforward. Then we forget about "cute copy."

BELLFLOWER'S FIRST HIGH-RISE

Construction of $6.5 million hospital in Bellflower for Kaiser Foundation is on schedule, Russell Mills, project engineer of 1839 Stevely Ave., Long Beach, announced Saturday. Basic contract for the city's first high-rise building was awarded last year to Huber-Hunt & Nichols Co. for $3.7 million. The hospital is being constructed on a 14-acre tract at the southeast corner of Rosecrans and Clark Avenues. Completion is scheduled for April 1965. Interior work and surfacing of parking lots will get under way in the next few weeks, Mills said. With Kaiser Hospital first under construction, two more high-rise buildings now are known to be in the planning stage at Bellflower.

Rights Objectives Told by State Realty Chief

BY VERN ANTHONY
Editor of Progress Section

"There is no freedom without choice," President Arthur S. Leitch of the California Real Estate Association declared last week at a joint meeting of Realtors, held at Bateman Hall in Lynwood.

The occasion was a breakfast session at which the Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors hosted Realtors from the Downey board as well as representatives from other boards of the 22nd District.

Discussing conditions in the real estate industry, Leitch stressed the expanded educational program for Realtors now under way in California.

* * * *

HE FOCUSED his speech on the Rumford Act and efforts of the CREA, Apartment House Association, home building industry, property owner organizations and others in pushing a property rights initiative to a vote in the November election.

"Like all Americans" Leitch said, "the members of CREA are deeply concerned with the preservation of human rights and property rights. We believe that the two are inseparable.

"The right to own property is a great human right. The California Real Estate Association supports adequate housing for all Americans, regardless of race, creed, color, or national origin."

Leitch referred to the Rumford Act and the association's

LONG BEACH, CALIF., SUNDAY, JULY 26, 1964

Area Leaders to Receive L.B. Industrial Data

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce will present copies of a major industrial land report to Southern California financial and industrial leaders Tuesday in the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Robert L. Irvin, chairman of the Chamber's Economic-Industrial Development Committee, said introduction of the report covering 3,500 acres of industrial tracts in southern Los Angeles and western Orange counties will be accompanied by distribution of a four-color publication entitled "The Power of Long Beach" which was published recently by Long Beach Promotion, Inc.

* * * *

"THESE COULD be the most effective industrial development pieces to come out of this community in recent years," Irvin declared. "We now have a one-two punch, from a publications standpoint, that will stand up against the best offered in this highly competitive field."

The land report was published under the direction of Bob Reid, chairman of the Chamber's industrial publications and promotion subcommittee.

Reid, who is vice president and general manager of United California Bank and chairman of the Long Beach Board of Harbor Commissioners, was assisted in the project by the following committee members:

Nicholas Dallas, director of aeronautics, Long Beach Airport; Al Code, former district manager, Southern California Edison; R. W. Connell, general traffic agent, Union Pacific Railroad; Vern Baker, manager, Long Beach Promotion, Inc.; Bill Brooks, president, Brooks Realty; Paul Elmquist, leasing agent, Bixby Land Co.; Hal Levy, senior engineering superintendent, Long Beach Water Department; Don Smith, division freight agent, Santa Fe Railway Company, and Neb Smith, district freight and passenger agent, Southern Pacific Railway Company.

* * * *

THE REPORT which was unveiled by Reid at Friday's meeting of the Economic-Industrial Development Committee, includes a regional map of all rail lines serving Southern California, an aerial map of southeastern Los Angeles and western Orange counties, plus aerial photographs showing boundaries and specifications of 16 major tracts.

Reid emphasized that the publication's design was flexible enough to accommodate expansion and updating, as required.

"We are especially grateful for recommendations of the Becker Advertising Agency, for the excellent lab work performed by Pacific Air Industries and for the fine printing job that was turned out by Green's, Inc.," Reid said.

De Luxe Dorms Readied at Cal State, Fullerton

FULLERTON — Othreys Hall, first permanent student housing facility on the campus of California State College here, is scheduled for occupancy by nearly 300 students at the beginning of the fall semester in September.

"In addition to the design and choice of building materials that are already attracting national recognition," said Dr. William B. Langsdorf, Cal State president, last week, "Othrys Hall has the distinction of being one of California's first privately financed residence halls for college students."

* * * *

FINANCED and constructed through a long-term lease agreement between the College Foundation and Cypress Park Properties, Inc., the residence hall was cited by Dr. Langsdorf as an example of California State's initiative in meeting student housing requirements through private enterprise rather than federal or state loans.

Othrys Hall is the first of six similar residence halls slated to be built for California State at Fullerton.

Located adjacent to the front entrance of the campus, it is part of the master-planned College Park that will occupy the surrounding area. This entire community, including a research center and recreational facilities, is designed around a series of walking and cycling malls which are inter-connected to

Tile Institute Conference Set

G. N. Lavenberg, managing director of the Ceramic Tile Institute, has announced that the tenth annual industry Educational Conference and Seminar largest ceramic tile show held nationwide, will be staged at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, Feb. 11 to 13, 1965.

Lavenberg revealed that the Seminar Committee has chosen the theme, "Carnival of Tile," to salute the anniversary.

Because of attendance figures ranging at close to 2,000 people, the committee voted to hold its main programs in Biltmore Bowl.

AT SAN PEDRO

Huge Concrete Pads to Support High-Rise

SAN PEDRO — Sidewalk observers at the Pacific Trade Center Construction site, Fifth and Centre streets, these days are viewing another Southern California construction record — the heaviest reinforcing steel ever used in any office building.

Workmen on San Pedro's first high-rise structure are winding their way through a dense network of three-inch steel reinforcing bars, more than twice the thickness ordinarily used in local construction.

Nine hundred tons of the specially cast bars form a dense supporting core inside two concrete footing pads.

* * * *

THE TWO PADS, each 45 feet wide and 64 feet long, are the second stage of the foundation for the high-rise office building.

Previously the construction workers drove hundreds of concrete and steel pilings into the earth 40 feet below the pads. Concrete is being youred over the reinforcing steel to complete what is called the finest foundation in Southern California building history for the $4 million Harbor area skyscraper.

Specially made reinforcing, custom sized to the specifications of the pads, was produced by Bethlehem Steel Corp. and requires no splicing, according to Earl Mayes of Loma Linda, construction superintendent. Each steel core will be encased in 750 cubic yards of concrete.

* * * *

THIS FOUNDATION work meets the newly formulated building department requirements set up after the Alaska earthquake.

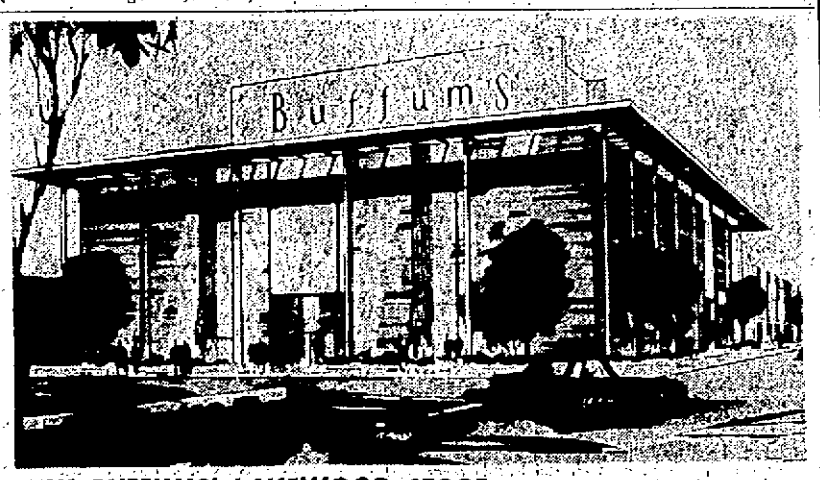

In all the foundation goes down five stories deep and will anchor the two utility towers of the building which will house elevators, plumbing and electrical wiring.

The building will be the most modern structure in the area both in design and engineering.

Office occupants will enjoy such features and conveniences as carpeted corridors, individual room controls of air conditioning, background music, on-site post office and recessed poforized fluorescent light fixtures.

San Sebastian Development Co., owner and developer of the building.

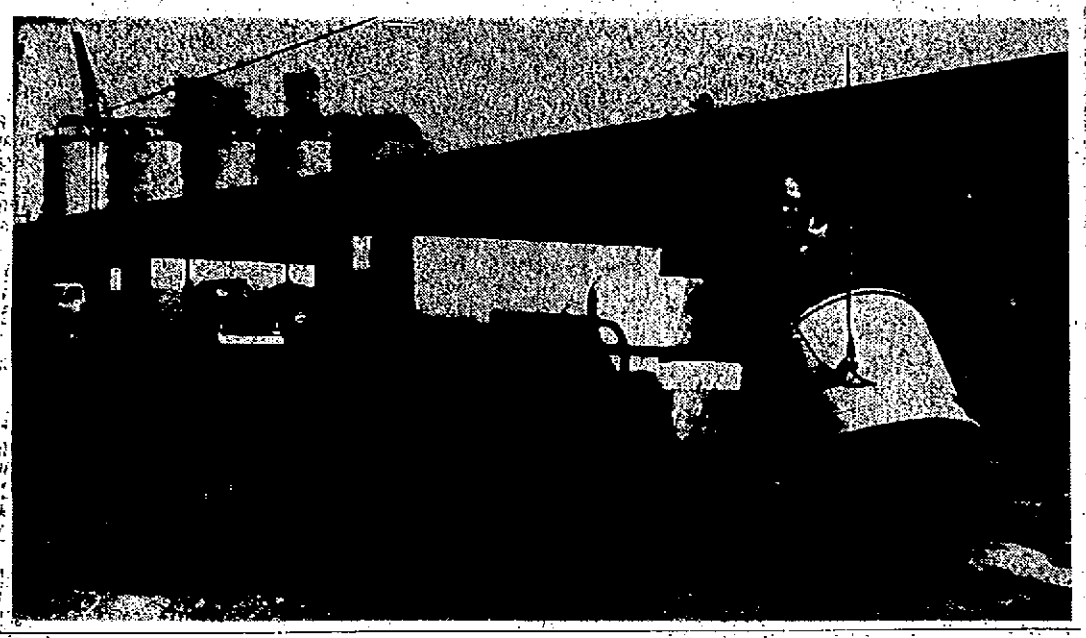

Progress on the building has moved along rapidly with completion expected early next year.

NEW BUFFUMS' LAKEWOOD STORE

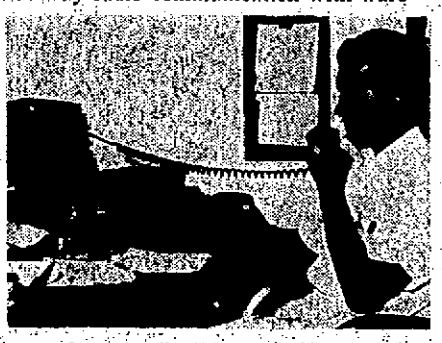

Construction will get under way within 60 days on this $2,500,000 store for Buffums' in Lakewood Center, Vaile G. Young, president of the department store, has announced. This will be the sixth Buffums' unit. The store will be at the southeast section of the Center, on Del Amo Boulevard and just west of Bullock's and adjacent to the new Desmond's store. Opening is planned about Aug. 1, 1965.

Two-Way Communication Speeds Action at L.B. Plant

COORDINATION of plant activities by use of a new radio communications system is stepping up efficiency at the Procter & Gamble facility in Long Beach.

Varied sizes and brands of P&G products go to and from storage areas in the 4½-acre warehouse through the 27 truck loading spots and eight boxcar spots there, as well as 10 truck loading and four boxcar areas at the main plant across the street. Shown here (at desk) is Bob Pugh, job study engineer, in main shipping department office which maintains two-way radio communication with warehouse foreman (in this case John Monahan, shown at left touring yard in electric car) and with nine take-off slides at the warehouse.

The foreman is kept informed to the last detail on products to be shipped, as well as incoming production and consignment items.

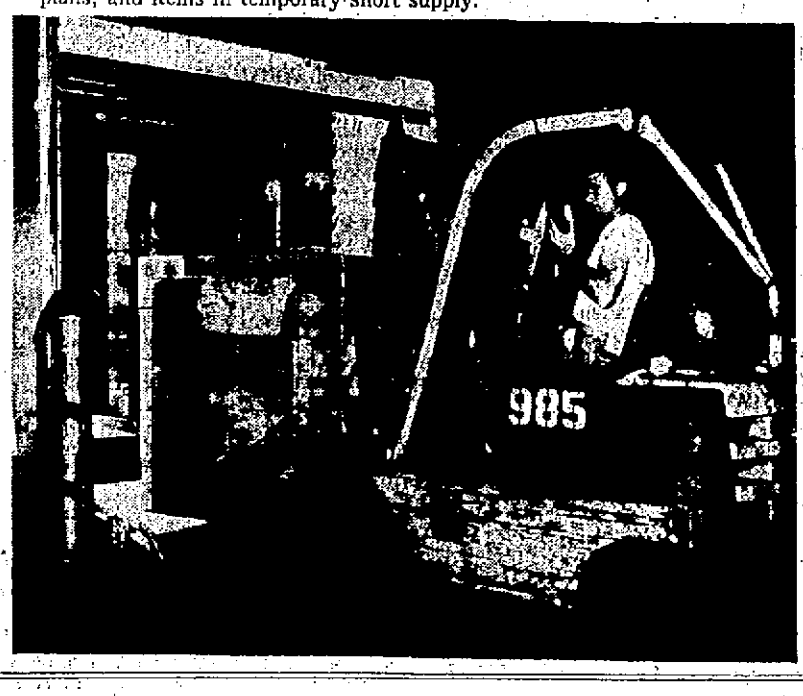

He in turn keeps in touch with tractor operators (as shown below where Gene Payne is getting instructions on loading in the warehouse).

Pool car line operators place orders with tractor operators for necessary products to be loaded into trucks and for supplying products to pool car conveyors (as G. A. Wilburn is doing in photo at right).

This communications setup saves many steps and much time. It expedites answers to such questions as:

Arrival and departure of trucks as scheduled; product codes and special packs; changes in shipping and production plans; and items in temporary short supply.

Tax Balm for 'Over-65' Group Explained by Realtor President

Under the provisions of the new federal law, persons of 65 or older who sell their homes will be allowed a tax-free gain if the adjusted sales price is $20,000 or less, John T. Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, pointed out last week.

'Adjusted sales price means the sales price less the broker's commission and repair expenses incurred within 90 days preceding sale and paid within 30 days of sale, Webster said.

* * * *

"IF THE SALES PRICE is in excess of $20,000, the gain is tax-exempt in the ratio that $20,000 is to such price," he explained. "Thus, if the sales price is $30,000 and the gain is $12,000, the tax-exempt portion of the gain would be $8,000 — ($20,000/$30,000 or two-thirds of $12,000.)"

Calling attention to new Section 121 of the Internal Revenue Code, Webster explained that the seller must have owned and used the residence five of the last eight years, and that such exemption is available only once in a tax-payer's lifetime.

He made the explanation as a public service on the basis of information supplied by the National Association of Real Estate Boards with which the Long Beach Board of Realtors is affiliated.

A widow or widower would meet the five to eight year test if the deceased spouse, had he lived, would have met the requirement, Webster said. However, he added the surviving spouse must be age 65 or over for this exclusion to apply.

* * * *

THE NEW section applies to dispositions made after Dec. 31, 1963, for taxable years ending after that date, Webster said.

Cooperative apartments qualify as principal residences under this provision, and where only part of the property is used as a principal residence during the five and eight year period, only the gain on the residential portion qualifies for the benefits of the new section, he said.

An individual is considered to be married or single according to his status on the date of the sale or exchange, Webster said. An individual who is separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance of the date of the sale or exchange is not considered as married.

Hughes Names Naval Systems Marketing Head

FULLERTON — H. N. Opland of Claremont has been appointed marketing manager for naval systems for Huges Aircraft Company's system division, according to Dr. Nicholas A. Begovich, a Hughes vice president and assistant group exectuive.

H. N. OPLAND

Dr. Norman H. Enenstein, division manager, said Opland will be responsible for the marketing of naval systems developed by the division, including surface-to-air-weapon control systems and undersea warfare systems.

He will report to George D. Reish, the division's marketing manager, Dr. Enenstein said. The system division is responsible for systems engineering of major weapons systems projects at Hughes-Fullerton.

Prior to joining Hughes in April of this year, Opland conducted advanced development planning at Aerojet General, Azusa.

Computer to Aid Braille Printing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—An electric computer, worth $2 million, was donated recently to the American Printing House for the Blind.

The computer, a gift from International Business Machines Corporation, will translate ink print into Braille at the rate of more than 1,000 words a minute.

Motorists Want Service for Cars

NEW YORK (UPI)—Do-it-yourself apparently hasn't extended to some of the simplest tasks connected with maintaining a car. A survey discloses that more than half of those queried purchase their anti-freeze at service stations—where the job of installing it is usually done by attendants. The service stations also garnered 37.4% of storage battery sales.

Lippincott Named Manager at Todd

SAN PEDRO—Carl M. Lippincott has been named general manager of the local yard of Todd Shipyards Corp., succeeding James F. Goodrich.

Lippincott, who has been general manager of the Galveston Division since 1959, will take over the post Sept. 1. Goodrich will leave to become executive vice president of the Bath Iron Works Corp., Bath, Me.

THE NEW general manager was a principal inspector on the staff of the supervisor of shipping for the Navy at the Todd-operated plant of Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock in San Pedro during World War II.

He later joined the Todd organization and in 1945 was transferred to the San Pedro yard, where he served successively as ship superintendent, chief estimator and assistant to the general manager on planning and production for all government work.

Before becoming general manager at Galveston, Lippincott was general manager of the New Orleans Division.

U.S. National Pays Dividend

United States National Bank directors have declared a regular quarterly cash dividend of 25c per share payable Aug. 31, 1964, to shareholders of record Aug. 17, 1964.

The dividend amounts to $151,506.50, applying to the bank's 606,026 shares outstanding.

The dividend action, taken at the board's regular July meeting, made this United States National's 23rd consecutive quarterly 25c cash dividend payment since 1958.

C. Arnold Smith, president and board chairman of the 33-branch, San Diego-headquartered banking system, said the bank's growth was continuing satisfactorily throughout Southern California.

CONSTRUCTION PLANS ANNOUNCED
Architect's rendering shows proposed new offices and manufacturing plant for Aer-o-lite Draperies at Nutwood Street and Park Avenue in Garden Grove. It will more than double existing plant space.

Realtor District Officers to Meet

BELLFLOWER—Al Sykes regional vice president, California Real Estate Association and past president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors, has announced a meeting of the presidents and executive secretaries of the 22nd District of the association will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the offices of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be Art Leitch, president of the California Real Estate Association. Leitch will discuss the Exchange Symposium which will be sponsored by the district at Long Beach in September and also the financing of the campaign for a "yes" vote on Proposition No. 14 on the November ballot.

Need Garage Attic

CHICAGO (AP) — According to the National Safety Council, a number of the 4.3 million injuries and 28,500 fatalities incurred annually in home accidents are traceable to the family garage.

Neil W. Stewart, executive vice president of a garage door firm, said household furnishings and equipment have a way of overflowing into the garage. The overhead rafters serve as the most likely storage area.

"All too often, metal lawn furniture or other bulky articles perched precariously on crossbeams have slipped off, causing serious personal injury and property damage below."

Stewart says heavy plywood can be used to create an attic area by nailing it to crossbeams. It eliminates the danger of falling objects.

Drapery Plant at Grove to Expand

Maury Silverman, president of Aer-o-lite Draperies, has announced that his firm will move into new enlarged quarters at 10400 Park Ave., Garden Grove.

The new 16,000 square foot facility will more than double the existing manufacturing space.

Construction is scheduled to begin the first of August and the new facilities will be in operation in January.

The architect, LeRoy Rose, A.I.A., has designed a building of concrete tilt-up walls and steel frame to enable the owner to take care of its growth.

Aer-o-lite presently has 32 employes; and with the new facilities the staff will be enlarged to approximately 65.

Aer-o-lite is one of the four licensed drapery manufacturers in Southern California. It handles contracts from firms throughout California and Nevada. It does not handle retail, but deals only with general contractors for the complete installation.

Aer-o-lite was founded in 1952 and moved to Garden Grove in 1959.

To Regulate Weight of Garage Doors

A new regulation on overhead garage doors will become effective Aug. 1, for all applications for FHA loan applications, James Berry, director of the Los Angeles office of the Federal Housing Administration announced.

"The new requirements limit the weight of the door to 350 pounds and set forth new standards for garage door hardware and extension springs," said Berry.

"These changes were necessitated by failure of door springs and the hazard of excessively heavy doors being carried on lightweight hardware."

Multiple Listing Sales Up

Greatest volume of sales in the history of the multiple listing service of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors occurred last month, according to Joe E. Dalton, chairman of the board's Multiple Listing Committee.

There was a total of $7,366,615 in volume of June sales compared to $4,685,245 in June of 1963.

Of great significance, Dalton said, is the increase in percentage of listings sold in June of this year as compared to June of 1963, there being a gain of 57.2%. The total dollar volume for June of this year compared to June of last year increased by almost 60%.

Increased cooperative sales has been evidenced, too, by an analysis of these sales showing that 43% of the sales were 'co-op' sales among the members of the multiple listing service.

REALTOR OFFICIALS MEET AT LYNWOOD

Area realty board executives were among more than 200 persons in attendance last week at joint meeting to hear Arthur S. Leitch of San Diego, president of California Real Estate Association. Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors hosted Downey board and others at breakfast meeting held in Bateman Hall, 11331 Ernestine, Lynwood. In photo from left: Board presidents Paul Williams, Bellflower; John Webster, Long Beach; and Bea Axton, Downey; Leitch; H. H. Stratford, president of Compton-Lynwood board; Albert C. Sykes, regional vice president, 22nd District; and Merle E. Thomas, president, Norwalk-La Mirada board.

Leitch Tells Rights Goals

position on this new law.

* * * *

"THE ISSUE HERE," he stated, "is a new concept of law in that under this Rumford Bill it declares the defendant, the property owner, guilty and requires that he must prove himself innocent. The plaintiff has the full support of the state and its financial resources.

"The property owner must stand his own expenses and is subject to loss of rental income from his property and a possible loss of a sale during the course of his proving himself innocent of any discriminatory practice.

"Property owners now carrying a heavy tax burden, are faced with the fear of further government control under such legislation. The constitutional amendment would protect the property owners against such encroachment.

"The further issue," Leitch emphasized, "is equality — should the individual citizen of California have the right to freely decide for himself, without dictation by the state, to whom he wishes to sell or rent his own property?

* * * *

"WE ARE TALKING about everyone — not a minority or a majority — but everyone equally.

"The California Real Estate Association believes the individual should not be declared guilty upon a mere complaint, and that the right of free choice is too precious to give up without the people's consent. We have supported the opportunity for all the public to vote for their freedom.

"The Initiative Constitutional Amendment we are supporting says the state must remain neutral. It says the state must not use state funds unfairly to force anyone against his will to choose a particular buyer or renter of his property. We intend to do all we can to inform the people about this issue so that they can decide it for themselves at the polls."

The association president pointed out that membership in CREA through the local boards is open to members of all races.

* * * *

LEITCH ASSERTED that economic freedom is fundamental to the American way of life, and that business is greatly concerned over trends toward governmental controls. He said his travels over the nation had convinced him that business leaders in other states are closely watching the initiative fight in California.

President H. H. Stratford of the Compton-Lynwood board presided at the breakfast meeting. More than 200 attended.

* * * *

LEITCH was accompanied by H. Jackson Pontius, state secretary of the CREA.

Special guests included Mayors Joseph McMillan of Lynwood, Chester Crain of Compton and Thomas Morton of Downey.

Also present were Albert C. Sykes, vice president, 22nd District, and Burt Smith, CREA Executive Committee member.

Business Tabloids

A regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on Trust and Savings Association capital stock was declared last week by the bank's board of directors meeting in San Francisco. The dividend, which is at the annual rate of $2 per share, is payable Aug. 31 to shareholders of record July 31.

ASTRODATA, Inc., of Anaheim, manufacturer of electronic data control systems, has announced the award of two contracts, totalling $786,000 from the U. S. Air Force at Edwards A. F. B., California. Astrodata President Wallace E. Rianda said these contracts help swell June bookings for the Anaheim firm to a record $3.5 million. Sales for the fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1964, would be over $14 million according to Rianda, up from $8.7 million a year ago.

PURCHASE of a downtown Los Angeles building site, by Far West Financial Corp. has been announced by Robert H. Greene, president. Nearly $4 million was paid by Far West for the 20,000 square foot parking area located at the southeast corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Hope Street, and for the adjoining Parsons Building, formerly known as the Union Oil Building. Construction of a high-rise office building, to be the new home of State Mutual Savings and Loan Association, will begin late this year. State Mutual is the principal subsidiary of Far West.

WILLIAM D. LESLIE of 7234 Killdee St., Long Beach, has joined Mechanical Specialties Co., Los Angeles, as an estimator. He formerly was manager of estimating and planning at Acme Machine Works, Inc.

WM. LESLIE GEORGE BEIN

GEORGE E. BEIN has been named to head a new West Coast office for General Kinetics, Inc., at 2633 Palos Verdes Drive, West, Palos Verdes Estates. He is in charge of an 11-state area for the Arlington, Va., research, development and manufacturing firm.

facilitate ease of access and convenience.

THE INITIAL building to be completed in the College Park development, the new residence hall was designed specifically for Cal State by architect Walter Beesoh. The four-story structure is divided into four wings, two each for men and women. Each living unit will accommodate four students in spacious comfort.

Every room includes a private bath and each student is furnished, in addition to his or her own sleeping alcove and individual study area, a personal wardrobe, chest of drawers and book storage.

The rooms are fully carpeted and draped and feature tiled floors in study areas. The open space plan provides the means to facilitate group discussions and informal socializing.

* * * *

ALL ROOMS have sliding glass doors leading to an open-air patio or balcony terrace. There are two washer-dryer rooms, one each for men and women. Laundry facilities, ironing boards, and other sustaining necessities also are available.

In the main-floor lobby and lounge, a sunken natural stone fireplace is capable of handling six-foot logs. This lounge is also spacious enough to accommodate small informal dances and other social functions.

A class-A building, Othrys Hall is air-conditioned, and its all-concrete construction provides maximum soundproofing. One centrally located air conditioning and heating system will control temperatures in the dormitory and all other buildings in the College Park development.

* * * *

THE "IN-RESIDENCE" program operates on a combined room-and-board plan at a cost of $500 per semester, plus a $25 refundable breakage deposit. The fee includes the room and 17 meals per week.

Pending completion of a dining room to be built in conjunction with an adjacent dormitory next year — this will double student capacity to 600 during the 1965-66 academic year — residents will take meals at the campus cafeteria.

14% Gain Shown in Median Price of Homes

Median price of homes sold in May was 14 per cent higher than a year earlier, the Census Bureau has disclosed.

The median price was $19,700. This means that approximately half were sold at lower prices and half at higher prices.

This was 4 per cent above the April figure of $19,000.

Sales of one-family homes in May totaled 52,000, some 6 per cent above April but 12 per cent below May 1963.

Despite a long term trend away from one-family homes and toward apartments, there were 238,000 one-family homes sold in the first five months of 1964. This was 7,000 more than during the corresponding period last year.

WARNINGS RENEWED

'Sight-Unseen' Purchase of Property Seen Unwise

Recurrent reports of land fraud by mail have once again made it necessary to repeat earlier warnings against purchasing of property sight unseen, John Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, said last week.

Land fraud suits involving huge sums of money have resulted in indictments and convictions recently, particularly in the Western states, said Webster.

"Eleven men were indicted on mail fraud charges in connection with a Nevada-Utah land development which attracted payments of $1 million from 3,000 persons," he said.

* * * *

"THREE men were ordered to pay fines totaling $50,400 in a for-sale-by-mail land promotion scandal in Oregon. There have been similar cases in other parts of the country."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which the Long Beach Board is a member, periodically issues news releases warning the unwary of get-rich-quick investment schemes or unusually cheap retirement sites advertised through the mails.

The association stresses, however, that some legitimate land developers advertise extensively and seek leads by mail—so this system is not the object of warning, but the property.

"One of the reasons why questionable promoters are so successful is that they operate on the fringe of a respectable business and copy the methods of legitimate real estate practitioners," Webster explained. "The important difference is that the sharpies are selling practically worthless land.

* * * *

HOW THEN can the prospective buyer be sure he is buying good land? Webster listed several courses of action:

1. Personally inspect, before purchase, any property offered for sale.
2. Employ independent real estate counsel to analyze investment or use values before entering into purchase or lease agreements.
3. Contact the real estate commission of the state where the land is located.

Motor Industry Giving Depth to Mexico Economy

Conversion of Mexico "to an automobile-based economy like that of its neighbors, the United States and Canada, will provide new drive and depth to Mexican economic growth—already the fastest-moving in the Western Hemisphere."

So says Juan Sanchez Navarro, one of Mexico's top industrial leaders and recently retired president of its largest business association, Confederacion Cameras Industriales.

Now on the eve of full-scale automobile and truck production, Mexico within a decade will produce more than a half-million vehicles annually, according to Sanchez.

* * * *

THE IMPACT of the new dustry will be unprecedented in Mexican experience:

—Investment in new plants and equipment—much of it inducted from abroad—will reach $200 million;
—automobile and truck production will generate 15,000 new jobs;
—foreign exchange savings, made possible by ending Mexico's dependence on automotive imports, will reach $80 million.

Equal benefits in investment, jobs and foreign exchange savings are expected from the development of parts manufacturers and other auxiliary industries.

The infusion of $400 million into the Mexican economy by the investment of automobile and auxiliary manufacturers will equal almost 30 per cent of Mexico's 1963 GNP.

* * * *

PRODUCTION in excess of 500,000 cars and trucks, as predicted by Sanchez, might not seem too extraordinary compared to U. S. production. However, the Mexican industrialist pointed out, the figure is only 18 per cent less than Canada's 1963 output, more than double that of Australia and nearly triple that of Brazil.

Mexican vehicular output should, in fact, Sanchez forecasts, reach a level of about 320,000 units by 1970, approximately 65 per cent greater than the nation's projected production for 1965, Mexico's first full year of all-out production.

The Mexican government first announced its plan for developing the industry in August, 1962.

* * * *

THE GOVERNMENT'S plan for pushing automotive production entailed winnowing the very large firms then importing and/or assembling cars down to eight willing and able to go into near complete manufacturing. Those finally selected were to be able to make a major investment in Mexico, as well as generally provide competitive "balance" to the new Mexican industry.

After months of deliberation, the firms finally chosen included:

—General Motors de Mexico, to produce Opels and Chevrolets.
—Ford de Mexico, to produce the Ford 200 and Galaxies.
—Fabricas Auto - Mex (in which Chrysler has a strong interest), to produce Valiants and Plymouths.
—Diesel Nacional—"Dina" (a corporation controlled by the Mexican government) to produce the Renault.
—Vehiculos Automotores Mexicanos (created from the long-established Willys Mexicana, plus partipations from Kaiser Jeep and American Motors and local Mexican interests) to produce the Rambler.
—Promexa (recently acquired by Volkswagen), to produce Volkswagens.

* * * *

THE TWO REMAINING members of "the" eight still are somewhat questionable starters.

Impulsora Automotriz Mexicana is a Mexican corporation which last year bought out the bankrupt German manufacturer, Borgward, and reassembled part of its plant in Monterey. The "new" Borgward is, therefore, to be 100 per cent Mexican-made. The controlling group also intends to produce parts for the hundreds of thousands of Borgwards still in operation in Europe.

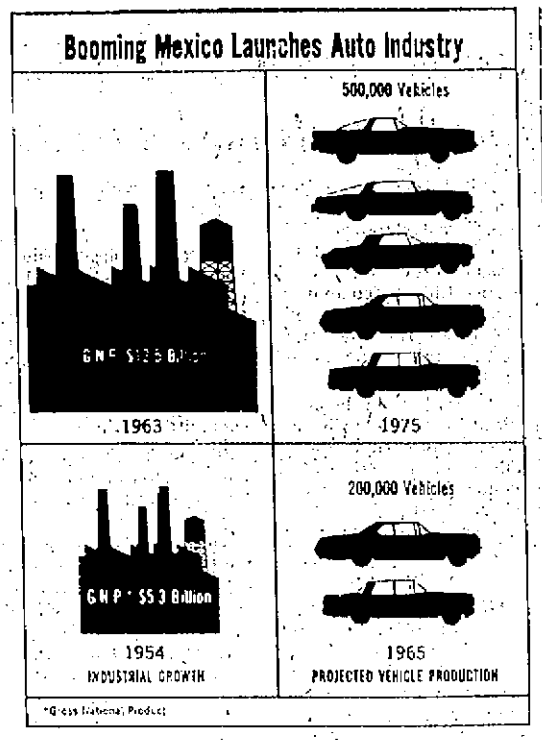

Unfortunately, technical "bugs" have hampered the new operation and attainment of the firm's initial "quota" from the Mexican government —8,500 Borgwards — still seems over the horizon.

The eighth firm chosen, Planta REO de Mexico, was designed to produce the Toyota. It is not clear the Japanese producer of the Toyota will agree to go along, however.

* * * *

GENERAL MOTORS investment in plant for its new Mexican manufacturing operation is slated to exceed $32 million. Ford de Mexico will spend $35 million; Fabricas Auto-Mex (Chrysler), $22.4 million; Diesel Nacional "Dina"—$38 million and Vehiculos Automotores Mexicano, $7 million. The Volkswagen investment in Promexa has not become public.

The dimension of these investments indicate that the Mexican and international interest in Mexican automotive industry foresee development of an important market in Mexico. Initial output, however, will be modest, not in scale with the major investments being made.

Pylon Gets $172,000 Job

COMPTON — Pylon, Inc., of Compton was awarded a $172,000 contract last week for preliminary work on the Kern County reach of the California aqueduct.

The contract covers the furnishing and installing of two 900-horsepower turbine pumps and two 75-horsepower booster pumps on water wells at Tecuya Creek and Grapevine Creek.

Water from the wells will be use to form ponds to preconsolidate the earth in the area, which is subject to subsidence.

The Department of Water Resources said the bid of Pylon, Inc., was about 7% under the state engineers' estimate of $185,001 for the job.

Reroofing

NEW YORK (UPI)—If your house needs reroofing this year, ask your contractor about the possibility of applying new asphalt shingles directly over the old, suggest roofing specialists at Allied Chemical's Barrel Division. This technique, they said, may cost less and provide greater insulation and protection.

KEYNOTER NAMED

Employment Agencies Will Hold State Convention in Long Beach

Plans for the September convention in Long Beach of the California Employment Agencies Association moved ahead last week with naming of the keynote speaker.

He will be Milford Alway, employee relations consultant of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, a veteran in the field of personnel and industrial relations. He is personnel manager for the Grayson Controls Division of Robertshaw Fulton Co.

The state convention, to be headquartered at the Edgewater Inn Hotel, is expected to be the largest in the association's history, according to Mrs. Claire Carmody.

The sessions will run four days. Priority will ge given to analysis of proposed business and professional legislation.

* * * *

SEPARATE SEMINARS will be held for counselors and managers and a special examination will be given by the California Institute of Employment Consulants.

Chairman of the convention will be George Amey, president of the host South Coast Chapter; Joseph Filing will supervise the program; Edith Gaylord, registrations; Laura Glascock, awards and daily news bulletins; and James Hackfield, entertainment. Hospitality and hotel arrangements are being handled by Mrs. Carmody.

Kenneth Buck, executive secretary of the association headquartered in San Francisco, has been aiding South Coast Chapter in planning for the convention.

Rapid Transit 'Clicks' on Abandoned Tracks

This is the Saga of the Skokie Swift — called "the world's fastest transit ride."

Skokie Swift is a rapid transit feeder line which carries Chicago commuters nonstop from suburban Skokie to Howard Street Station and trains bound for the Loop.

"Swifty" is in business with an assist from Chicago Transit Authority, Skokie Village and federal government officials who allocated more than $500,000 for the experimental service on a two-year basis.

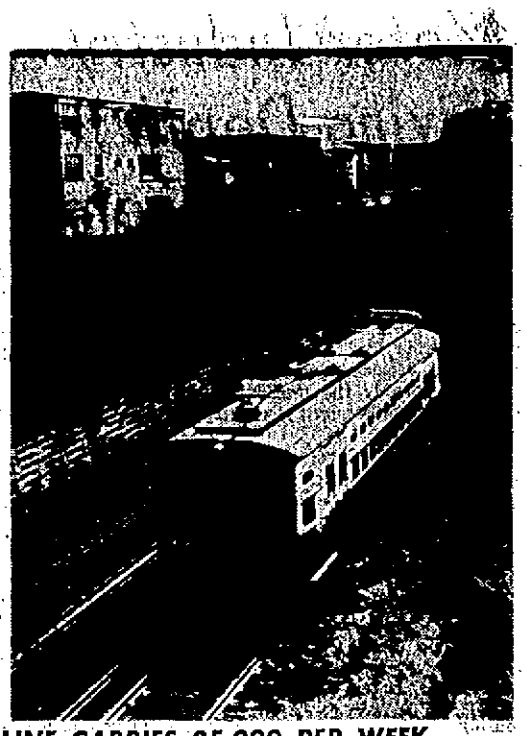

* * * *

THEIR ACTION followed last year's folding of North Shore Line commuter service between Chicago and Skokie. Chicago Transit Authority trains are now using the North Shore's rails and with whopping success.

On Swifty's first day some four thousand suburbanites swarmed aboard its cars. An average of about 25,000 people per week — triple the number of passengers carried by the old North Shore Line — are now riding the "carefree commuter" train.

Skokie Swift operators boast speeds of more than 70 m.p.h. over the five-mile route.

This speedy service is used by many enthusiastic driver-riders who "park-n-ride" from Dempster Street in Skokie. A 375-car pay parking lot there filled to capacity when Swifty first started, so Skokie officials established more parking space.

LINE CARRIES 25,000 PER WEEK

With rapid transit a harrowing problem in the Southland, the "Skokie Swift," which averages 25,000 Chicago commuters weekly, offers one solution. Cars speed to and from suburban Skokie to the Chicago Howard Street station at 70 miles an hour.

Land Demand for Urban Expansion Still Strong

Demand for lands for urban expansion is more than keeping pace despite the fact that the growing network of highways around major cities keeps adding to the supply of accessible sites, John T. Webster, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, said Saturday.

Webster based his remarks on a recent report by Jack Justice, Miami Beach, Fla., vice president, National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Commenting on data furnished by 130 Realtors on which NAREB's Department of Research spring survey is based, Justice said unrealistic zoning combined with a high rate of growth is cause for concern, composing the scarcity of sites that are both suitable for urban development and economically feasible.

* * * *

"AT THE SAME TIME, demand for land in rural areas is reported to be strong," Justice said.

"Farm operators are enlarging their holdings, city dwellers are seeking summer home sites, and investors are looking for property in anticipation of long term equity growth. Often more than one motive influences the purchase."

Most reporting Realtors are of the opinion that the present level of demand will continue, the report indicates. Some feel that it will increase. Conservatism is noted however. Buyers are said to be preceeding with caution, particularly regarding price.

A prestige development of World Wide Construction Co

$4 Million Townhouse Project for Rossmoor

When the original walled community of Rossmoor was developed several years ago, the basic concept was to provide outstanding single family homes within a virtually self-sufficient community replete with schools and a major shopping center.

Little did the developers realize that within this walled community there would be built one day an outstanding sub-community of fascinating townhouses.

Rossmoor Townhouses, the new $4 million project within the same city block which contains the Rossmoor business center, is the forerunner of the kind of popular home environment which experts predict will emerge in Southern California cities during the next decades.

* * * *

THE TOWNHOUSE development which has just opened, is the brainchild of Lakewood builder Bernie Solomon and William M. Ballon, a former Pittsburgh real estate developer. Their Jaymarc Corp. has created a grouping of townhouses where residents will be able to walk to a department store, bank, theater and similar conveniences.

Suburban dwellers are becoming disillusioned with the maintenance required on the one-home lot. They want a home with little outside upkeep, lots of recreation at hand, and a moderate price structure.

* * * *

"WHEN Ross Cortese, who was preoccupied with senior citizens development in nearby Seal Beach and elsewhere, agreed to sell us the land next to his shopping center in the original walled city of Rossmoor, we knew this had to be an outstanding location for our first Townhouse project," said the developers.

Rossmoor Townhouses have one of the largest swimming pools in Southern California, in addition to a special therapeutic pool and a separate children's pool. It has shuffleboard courts, an 18-hole putting green, barbecue pit and special private clubhouse. These are all maintained without extra charge to the owners of the townhouses beyond their regular monthly payments.

As Solomon remarked, "Our townhouses combine the financial advantages of home ownership with modern day leisure living."

* * * *

ARCHITECTURALLY, the townhouses are unique in their exterior elevations, appearing to the passerby to be single large mansion-type homes. Actually, there are four separate homes within each building.

Rossmoor Townhouses units contain two, three and four bedrooms, ranging in price from $19,950. Each has a private patio, two-car garage, and complete built-ins by General Electric in an all-electric Medallion kitchen.

Each family's home has its own sound-deadening double walls, separated by layers of rock wool and acoustical board.

The townhouses at Rossmoor have provided for adult residential areas where children will not be permitted. This, to insure peace and quiet for those couples who prefer it. The children's play areas are set off from the main center of things, and are easily accessible without the necessity of the children crossing any streets.

* * * *

WITH THE DEBUT of these luxury Townhouses, the walled city of Rossmoor, on Los Alamitos, north of Garden Grove Boulevard, now approaches the final stages in its maturing progress. There is little doubt that the complete walled community will stand out for many years to come as an example for the builders of the nation in the planning, development, construction and operation of a full-scale cohesive community.

From Long Beach, take Seventh St. to Los Alamitos Blvd., then left to the Rossmoor Center.

STATELY TOWNHOUSE
Although the above residence may appear to be a single-family mansion, it actually contains four separate townhouse homes in the new development in the city of Rossmoor. Note hidden entries to the four separate townhouses.

ROSSMOOR ENTRANCE
Impressive fountain entrance is shown for the $4 million Rossmoor Townhouse residential community adjacent to the Rossmoor business center in the original walled community.

Unusual Beach Community of Homes to Be Unveiled Today

HOMES ON BLUFF SITE
Tile roofs, curved streets and wide green areas give charm to the rolling Bluffs community overlooking Upper Newport Bay in Newport Beach. Just off Jamboree Road, north of the Coast Highway, the two and three-bedroom homes start at $22,500 and are offered for the first time by pioneer developers, George M. Holstein and Sons.

An unusual beach area community will be unveiled today when George M. Holstein and Sons hold the grand opening of their Bluffs development above Upper Newport Bay in Newport Beach.

Five furnished models will showcase the initial unit of homes on a 300-acre portion of the Irvine Ranch's Eastbluff area.

Priced from $22,500, the Bluff homes will offer a unique, full maintenance community concept. The Spanish tile and wood roofs offering variety along with winding streets and green park areas that have been graded to give owners of the one and two-story homes maximum view out to the sea, the pioneer building firm explained.

The Spanish-style homes present buyers a wide selection of two and three-bedroom, one-story, split-level and two-story homes.

* * * *

BELIEVED TO BE the first development of its kind anywhere in the United States, homes on the Bluff give the buyer the privacy of interior patios, the spaciousness of private parks and green areas, and offer the owner complete exterior maintenance, George and William Holstein of the building firm stressed.

Pools and parks will be completely maintained with a full-time management service also available to the Bluff owner who wishes maid, linen or other resort-like facilities.

* * * *

ONLY 200 of the Spanish styled home will be put on sale at the initial unit opening today following the over six months earth moving operation at the above-the-bay site that saw one and one-half million yards of earth moved at a cost of over $1 million.

To reach the Bluffs, take the Coast Hwy. to Newport Beach and turn at Jamboree Road. Sta yon Jamboree Road to Ford Road and go left (west) into Eastbluff and follow the new road to the Bluffs models.

GM Closing Plants for Model Changes

General Motors' three automotive assembly plants in the Los Angeles area have started to close down their assembly lines at the end of the 1964 model run.

During the run, which began last August, the production lines turned out 316,336 automobiles at the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly plant in South Gate and the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in Van Nuys.

The company estimated the economic contribution to the area at more than $150,000,000—in payrolls to some 8,000 plant employes and expenditures to more than 1,000 local supplier firms.

GENERAL MOTORS said local 1964 model production was characterized by full employment and steady schedules, bringing the average Los Angeles GM assembly line worker an annual income of more than $7,500, exluding more than $1,000 fringe benefits.

Some 5,900 production employes will be furloughed for varying periods during the model change-over, the company announced, with some employes leaving this week. Production workers will be recalled on a gradual basis starting the second week in August and all will be back at work at all three local plants by Sept. 1.

More than 2,000 employes will remain on the job throughout the change-over period to prepare for the 1965 model run starting in mid-August.

Public tours have been suspended at all three plants until October 1.

85,000 Swim Pools Seen This Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 85,000 swimming pools will be installed this year, according to trade sources. An estimated 69,100 pools were installed last year, of which 51,300 were for residential use.

Bozo, TV Clown, Will Appear at Fountainhead Home Today

Bozo, the entertaining Channel 5 clown will appear today at the Fountainhead development of homes in Fountain Valley. Bozo invites all his friends, young and old to join him there for a gala celebration that will include prizes, balloons, refreshments and a magic demonstration. "Bring the children out for an afternoon of fun with Bozo at Fountainhead Homes" invites Mesa Realty, exclusive sales agents for the Fountain Valley homesite.

Mesa announced many extras are now being offered at these popular homes.

Included at no extra cost are a GE dishwasher, GE clothes washer and dryer and GE console TV set.

* * * *

ALL OF THESE luxury extras are available free with a 10 per cent down payment on the homes. Models 503 and 504 are offered with these extras. In addition, front landscaping, front sprinklers, wall-to-wall nylon carpeting, custom draperies and complete read yard fencing is offered with just a $545 total move-in cost.

BOZO
To Entertain Youngsters

According to Mesa Realty, this has to stand as one of the unique and most complete new home buys in Southern California. Fountainhead offers three and four bedrooms, two plans with hearth fireplaces, and all of the custom-like extras you'd expect to find in homes costing thousands more, Mesa realty adds.

* * * *

FULL PRICE is just from $20,950 with $545 total move in and no balloon payments.

This 10 per cent down payment bonus plan may be applied to a purchase plan that allows no payments by the purchaser until January, 1965.

Mesa Realty invites all interested home buyers to visit Fountainhead and to compare all of the extras offered with any other area home.

To see the homes, take the Santa Ana Freeway to the Brookhurst turnoff. Turn right and continue south to Warner Street in Fountain Valley. Turn right (west) on Warner one mile to Fountainhead.

Meter Reader Passe

In Owosso, Mich., meter readers have been replaced by telephones which automatically "read" a meter. A telephone signal from the utility's receiver-center is sent to a small box of circuitry installed next to the homeowner's regular electric meter. A special data receiver at the utility records the coded reading.

May Ban Eastern Mushroom

State director of agriculture, Charles Paul has called a public hearing to consider a request by mushroom growers for a quarantine against eastern mushrooms.

The growers claim fresh mushrooms from the eastern United States may bring a virus disease called La France disease to California.

Paul said the hearing will be held Thursday in Sacramento.

The disease attacks the root system of mushrooms, but is harmless to humans.

Department of Agriculture plant pathologists say the virus may be spread by spores from affected mushrooms.

Paul said there is no evidence of the disease now in California, but it has been reported in eastern mushroom growing areas, particularly in Pennsylvania.

Four Dutch Haven Communities In Orange County Now Selling

IN SUNNY HILLS WEST

Pictured is an interior view in a Sunny Hills West home, one of four communities now offered by Dutch Haven in Orange County. The communities provide environment in hilltop or seaside living.

Custom architecture which enhances the appearance and quality of the home is among many features attracting homebuyers to Dutch Haven's four newest communities in Orange County.

The communities offer a variety of environment in their natural settings from hill-top to sea-side living. The Dutch Haven Marina Series, Newport-West, Sunny Hills West, and the Dutch Haven College Series are recording record sales through professional planning which has gained our company one of the finest reputations in the nation, Tom Rochelle, sales manager said. Rochelle attributed Dutch Haven's ability to produce superior value at lower cost, to the volume purchasing and advanced construction methods which are very necessary to maintain such a vast building complex.

Most recently opened community is the Dutch Haven Marina Series, on Edwards Ave. in smog-free Huntington Beach.

Homes at Dutch Haven Marina Series are three to four bedrooms and up to two baths in size. Prices start at $18,950, with VA, Cal-Vet and FHA financing available. Move-in cost to vets is $95.

* * * *

AMONG FEATURES are built-in Medallion kitchens with dishwasher, range, disposal, oven and range hood; family room, decorator fireplace with log lighter, wood shake roof with large overhangs, master bedroom suite and forced-air heating.

Newport-West, near the intersection of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Brookhurst, offers moderately priced homes right at the beach and offering full title to land.

Priced from $19,750, homes are three to four bedrooms with family room and three baths. VA no down, FHA and Cal-Vet financing are available.

Distinctive features of these houses are complete Medallion kitchens with built-in dishwasher, range, oven, range hood and disposal, full-sized beach lots, decorator designed fireplaces with log lighters, overhead boat doors on garages, wood shake and shingle roofs, outside "swim showers" and forced air heating.

* * * *

THE COLLEGE SERIES, on Edinger Ave. in Huntington Beach, is just a few minutes from the proposed Golden West Junior College.

Single level and 2-story plans are available, with prices starting at $20,950. Homes are three to four bedrooms in size with family room and up to three baths. VA no down, FHA and Cal-Vet financing are offered.

Sunny Hills West, in the picturesque hills overlooking the Fullerton Valley, is one of a very limited number of executive communities where veterans may select a home on VA no down terms. FHA and long-term conventional financing are also available.

Priced from $29,950, homes are three to 5 bedrooms with family room, dining room and up to three full baths. Floor plans include split level, two-story and single evel designs.

Incuded among the custom-type features are massive two-way fireplaces complete Medallion kitchens, oversized view lots, sunken living rooms and up to 2,400 sq. ft. of living area.

Tip on Welding Wins $6,000 for L.B. Man

TAKES TOP AWARD

Fanning out $6,000 worth of U. S. Savings Bonds is Luther M. Oliver, 53, Long Beach, who figured out how to improve a welding transformer unit and became the first West Coast employe to win the top award in the GM suggestion program. Congratulating him is E. D. Hamilton, manager of the GM plant, South Gate.

A Long Beach technician at the General Motors assembly plant in South Gate who figured out an easier way to do his job is $6,000 richer today because of it.

Luther M. Oliver, 53, of 3040 East Sixty-ninth, worked out a method for eliminating duplicate spot welding equipment on the assembly line—and became the first West Coast employe to win the top $6,000 award in the GM suggestion program.

Oliver, who has since been promoted to electrician foreman, submitted a suggestion on how to re-wire electrical control circuits so that a single transformer unit could be used for different types of welding guns, thus eliminating equipment, saving space, and making the job easier for spot welding operators.

* * * *

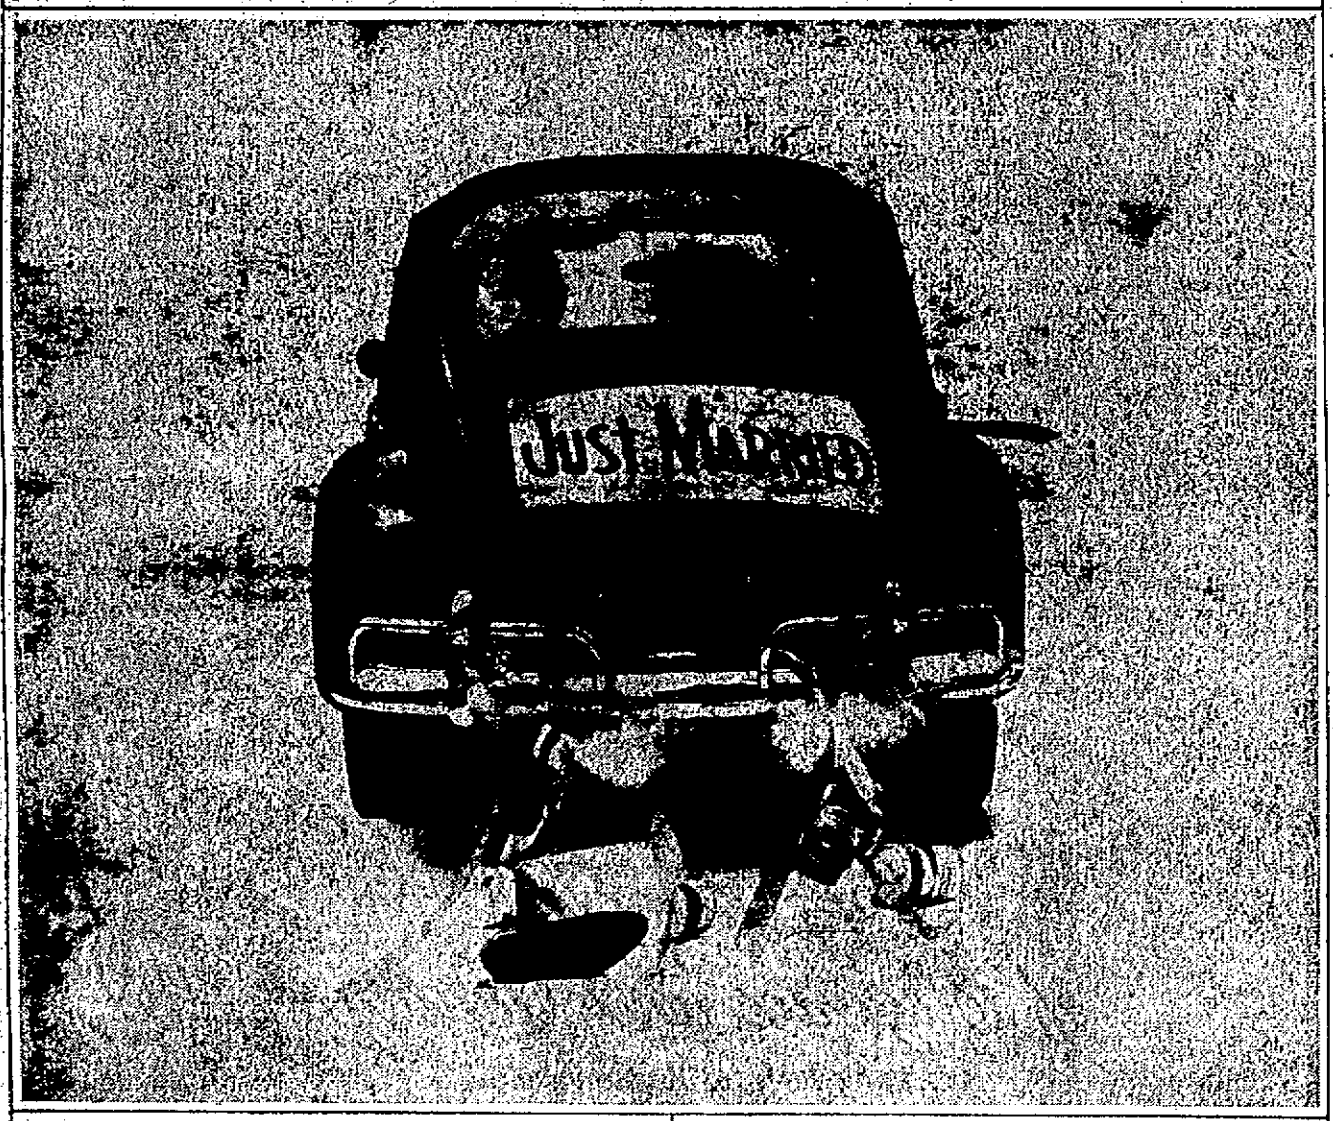

THE AWARD — $6,000 in U.S. Savings Bonds—was presented by Plant Manager E. D. Hamilton, who said Oliver's suggestion "demonstrates that the individual employe is in an excellent position to make constructive suggestions for the improvement of our products, our methods, and job environment."

Oliver is the first employe in GM's nationwide Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac assembly division to win a top award since the upper limit was raised to $6,000 last November, as well as being the first employe in any of GM's West Coast plants to hit the jackpot.

GM suggestion awards, presented for employe ideas on how to make their jobs safer and easier and at the same time improve the product and plant operations, totalled more than $7,000,000 last year, for 168,000 adopted suggestions.

In the Los Angeles area in 1963, General Motors plants adopted 2,681 employe suggestions and paid out $75,078 in local awards.

WINS 34,000 MILES OF TRAVEL

A group of Long Beach businessmen recently gathered to congratulate Ken Wenger, second from left, on the eve of his departure on a European trip. Wenger, prominent in Long Beach financial circles and division manager of Equity Funding Corp. in Long Beach, won over 34,000 miles of travel in the company's recent "Passport to Progress" contest. Shown are Equity division managers Dick Hunter, Wenger, Pat Gorman, Leonard Marder and Leo Murphy of Franklin Funds.

Here is a view of spacious living room from stair landing in one of Holiday Village town house models. Built by Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc., one of nation's largest publicly-held construction firms, homes are available in one, two, three and four-bedroom versions, some with custom fireplaces.

Colony Cove Has Outstanding View

Sparkling lights of ships and boats at sea is the scene at night from the living room windows of homes at Colony Cove, a bluff-top community one mile north of San Clemente, says Dick Winchester, director of marketing.

Built by the Douglass Construction Co., Colony Cove recently opened its third unit of homes with two bedrooms and convertible den, selling from $22,500 on conventional financing.

"This is ocean-view living at its best," Winchester said. "Few homes will match the scenic values of these at Colony Cove, and with the increase of hot weather, we have many buyers who are making purchases of Colony Cove homes for weekend and vacation living. The water in the swimming pool really is warmer than the temperature these days."

COLONY COVE also has its own clubhouse, two putting greens and a brook with waterfalls.

Every unit is built around landscaping that serves a purpose, whether it is one of the putting greens or the brook with its waterfalls.

In decors of modern, rustic, Mexican and Oriental, the models are open from 9:30 a.m. until dusk daily.

Holiday Village Town House Development Has Appeal

Holiday Village, Kaufman and Broad Homes' third town house development in Huntington Beach, is proving popular with the homebuying public, according to Jack Scougall, sales director. Sales are running at a record pace.

The project is at the corner of Brookhurst St. and Adams Ave., reached by the Santa Ana Freeway.

On completion, the development will contain 262 one, two, three and four-bedroom town houses, some with fireplaces. Prices will start at $10,950 with monthly payments of $85 which include principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

Underground utilities, landscaping, fenced-in patios, carpeting, and built-in ranges, ovens, refrigerators, washers, dryers and disposals are among the attractions.

* * * *

"THE MAIN THING which distinguishes a town house from an ordinary house," notes Scougall, "is that it shares common walls with the two houses on either side.

"That allows for better land utilization to make room for community park and recreation areas, and reduces exterior maintenance.

"Residents will enjoy the advantages of community living, and still retain all the advantages of individual home ownership, such as building an equity and being able to deduct the property tax and interest portions of their monthly payments from their income tax."

Facilities include a swimming pool, shuffleboard courts and a community clubhouse.

Anaheim Office Building Started

Construction has started on a $400,000 office building at 1717 South Brookhurst St., Anaheim, according to John Prins, vice president in charge of commercial developments for Robert H. Grant & Co., builder-developers.

Designed by James H. Hodges & Associates, the two-story, 20,000 square foot, reinforced concrete structure will be fully-carpeted, draped and air-conditioned. It will also provide an employes luncheon area.

Completion is scheduled for early fall 1964.

* * * *

PRINCIPAL TENANT will be The Colwell Co., one of the top three mortgage bankers in the country, who will occupy 7,500 square feet in the building.

"The facility will serve as our Southern California branch office covering Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties," said John Morgan, manager and vice president of The Colwell Co. in Anaheim. "Our operations will consist primarily of originating FHA, VA and conventional single-family residential loans."

During the past fiscal year the Anaheim offices of The Colwell Co. originated some $40 million in loans.

Lease negotiations for the new office buildings are being handled by Prins.

Belmont Savings in Big Gain

William J. Crawford, president of Belmont Savings and Loan Association, announced that the association's first half, 1964, net profit after taxes, according to unaudited accrual basis computations, amounted to $834,810, or $1.26 per share on 661,668 shares outstanding at June 30. Using the increased number of shares outstanding, this represents a 42% gain over $0.89 per share for the first half of 1963.

Dollar volume of loan originations for the first six months of 1964 totaled $27,598,336, compared with $20,271,055 for the like period in 1963, an increase of 36%. Book value per share increased from $5.46 at June 30, 1963 to $7.78 at June 30, 1964—an increase of 42%.

During the first six months, assets increased from $74,600,741 to $84,638,408—an increase of 13.5% for the half year.

Fans to Keep Chairs Cooler

This summer the most comfortable chair in the house is apt to have a fan built into its seat.

Six manufacturers are including this new concept of underbody ventilation in their chairs, reports Department Store Economist. Air is circulated through a special grid. The sensation is similar to air breezing over skin at a two m.p.h. clip.

The magazine of department store merchandising and management notes that in other applications—outdoor furniture, office chairs, institutional and public transportation seating—the grid construction is motivated by bodily movement. Each shift in position acts as a bellows to circulate air through grid to seat and back of chair.

Teele, of Rams to Address GG Realty Board

It's a change of pace program for Garden Grove Realtors Tuesday, when they meet at 7:30 a.m. at the Cape Cod House, 11861 Harbor Blvd., Garden Grove. Usually the talks concern real estate, but this week the speaker will be Jack Teele, publicity director for the Los Angeles Rams.

Prior to taking this position with the famous team in 1960, Teele worked for the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram.

A native Chicagoan, the speaker attended school in Long Beach, and is a graduate of Long Beach State. He travels in advance of the Rams, handling publicity, and enjoys a good game of golf whenever he can spare the time.

His topic is "Behind The Scenes — With Personal Glimpses of The Los Angeles Rams."

Teele will be presented by Art Guttman, program chairman.

Prestige Dwelling Offered in El Dorado Park

AN EL DORADO PARK ESTATE

Two-story home in El Dorado Park Estates located in a popular Long Beach suburb is shown here. Furnished model is open daily until dark.

"The path to luxury leads to El Dorado Park Estates," say officials of the Long Beach residential community.

"We are now offering to discerning buyers prestige dwellings filled to the brim with luxurious features," they added.

A step inside of any one of the large models and immediate elegance is felt and carried throughout the entire home.

The selection is excellent with three, four and five-bedroom homes available in one-story, two-story, split level and tri-level designs.

* * * *

THERE ARE MANY deluxe appointments included in the purchase price. Among these are custom designed electrical fixtures, marble-topped pullman lavatories, Hermosa tile in showers and to five feet over tubs, exotic planters and exterior ornamentation of stone, brick, wood, Dolomite, Palos Verdes, Bouquet Canyon or slump stone, and slate or terrazzo entry hall floors.

The "dream" kitchens feature lavish use of natural ash in cabinetry, all-electric built-in range, double oven, hood with fan and light and matching automatic dishwasher.

Quality construction is evident in the lath and plaster walls and acoustical type ceilings, concrete driveways, walks and paths, and vinyl floors in kitchen, service porch and some of the family rooms.

* * * *

THE NEIGHBORHOOD is a popular Long Beach suburb, directly accessible to complete shopping, schools, recreation and churches.

"These estate-like homes are sensibly priced, starting from $29,950," a spokesman said.

From Long Beach, drive east on Spring St., across the San Gabriel River to El Dorado Park Estates at Claremont, just east of the park.

Can Company's Earnings Soar

Earnings of Continenfal Can Company, Inc., for the first six months of 1964 were $21,024,000 or $1.71 per common share, highest in the company's history, Thomas C. Fogarty, chairman of the board, has announced. Earnings for the comparable period last year were $16,892,000, or $1.34 per common share.

Sales for the first half of 1964 also set a record of $577,996,000, up from $552,591,000 for the similar period last year.

Company directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock payable Sept. 15, 1964, to stockholders of record Aug. 21.

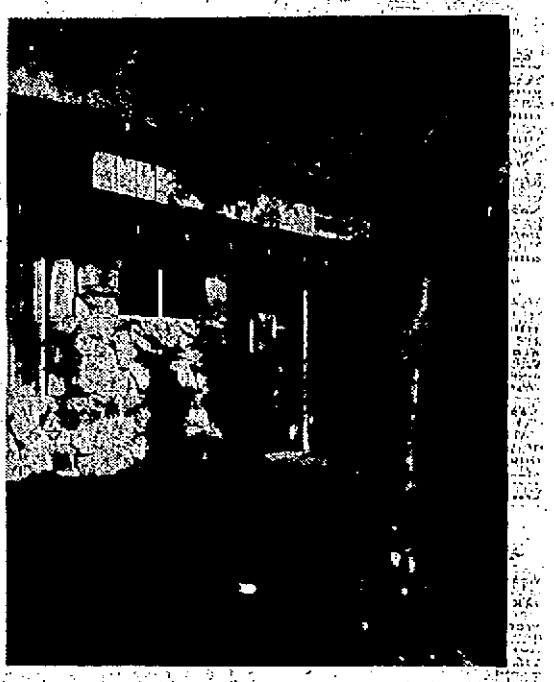

The directors also declared a regular quarterly dividend on the $3.75 cumulative preferred stock of 93¾ cents a share payable Oct. 1, 1964, to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

Ethics Discussion Slated for Realtors

Long Beach Realtors will hear a panel discussion on "The Court of Ethics" at the district board's Tuesday breakfast meeting, according to Ray Hazlet, program chairman.

Speakers will be Robert Stotler and Lakewood Councilman W. W. Smith, both Realtors. Breakfast time is 7:15 a.m., at the Crown cafeteria.

Truly Distinctive Homes Offered in Laguna Real

THE MONTEVALLO MODEL

This is one of the varied models of luxury homes offered in Laguna Real. A second-floor bonus room is found in this model, the Montevallo.

Design detail of Laguna Real's handsome dwellings, in colorful "Big Country" of the Laguna Hills, is carried further than usual, with the builder's determination to offer truly distinctive homes in a beautiful setting of 567 acres of rolling hills.

Homeseekers looking for special niceties, and who may feel even the ceilings of many houses leave something to be desired, will be pleased with the unusual, good-looking ceiling treatments of Laguna Real homes. Two-story Pamplona plans, offered in three exterior styles, have especially beautiful ceilings in the second floor's four bedrooms. With a new treatment of "coved" ceilings found in authentic Spanish architecture, these rooms achieve an increased feeling of spaciousness, and far more room interest than is possible with usual box-like ceilings.

* * * *

TO DEVELOP Laguna Real homes, Lou Laramore's World Wide Construction Co. employed architect Joseph Rickman of Costa Mesa. He designed a variety of one-story, two-story, and half two-story homes that are handsomely different inside and out. Architectural themes are drawn from rich Spanish architecture, adapted to today's standards of design.

Pamplona plans provide a first floor covered front porch, entry foyer, living room, formal dining room big enough for 12 or more, family room, breakfast room, Caloric built-in kitchen, a half-bath, covered side porch, and attached double garage. The living room fireplace is of textured brick, with a carved wood moulding and mantel. On the second floor are the master bedroom suite with private bath, two hallway linen closets, three additional bedrooms and a family bathroom with double basin built-in pullman.

* * * *

AVERAGE living area of Laguna Real houses is 2,000 square feet, with the Pamplona and other plans providing even more spaciousness. Each lot is encircled with a block wall fence; all homes are carpeted. Prices are $27,600 to $31,550 with $695 down.

Lots are 7,200 square feet, laid out around curving streets. Varied terrain levels of the rolling hills will be fully employed to add to the variety and attractiveness of the 2,000 homes. High above the Santa Ana Freeway, just south of El Toro, and across from Leisure World-Laguna Hills, Laguna Real is halfway between Los Angeles and San Diego.

Five furnished models are open daily. Take Santa Ana Freeway to El Toro turnoff, to visit Laguna Real.

Rossmoor Leisure World Luxury Units Available

There still is time to purchase a luxury share-ownership manor in the 15th and final unit now under construction at Ross W. Cortese's first "people-over-52" community, Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach, William G. Brangham, national sales manager, announced.

"Purchasers are taking advantage of the luxury Laguna Hills architecture which we are using in this last Seal Beach unit," Brangham said. "It's Laguna Hills luxury at Seal Beach prices," he added. "Many manors contain second-story view accommodations, the first to be constructed at the community."

* * * *

BRANGHAM STATED that nearly $2 million in sales have taken place in the first five weeks, indicating that the new owners are desirous to avail themselves of the unparalleled Seal Beach weather and a community which is enjoying a host of recreation and educational facilities.

Rossmoor Leisure World, Seal Beach, already is a bustling community of 10,000 active happy people. It contains an excellent golf course, three luxury clubhouses, an amphitheatre, and a $710,000 medical center—all bubbling with activity from dawn to dusk, with 54 societies continuing to enjoy their clubhouses long into the night.

* * * *

THESE LAGUNA HILLS designs at Seal Beach will be offered in 8 exterior garden styles.

Cortese, creator-builder of the Rossmoor Leisure World concept of retirement living, has received the "Award of Merit" from the editors of House & Home.

The manors for which Cortese received this award may be seen in this new unit at Seal Beach in one and two-bedroom styles, with one-bedroom units priced from $12,595 to $12,995. Two-bedroom manors are priced from $14,395 to $16,495. The average monthly payment is $145, subject to modification. All loans are insured FHA at 5¼% interest.

* * * *

THE MONTHLY payment also includes the use, free of additional charge, of the club houses, card rooms, dining facilities, the fine new golf course, the heated swimming and therapeutic pools, the intra-community transportation system to all areas, including the 12-acre shopping center; a 24-hour security guard; exterior maintenance of all manors, maintenance of streets, gardens and community buildings.

Also included in the nominal monthly payment is 80% of the retail value of medical costs, including in-home nurse calls, calls to the doctor's office at the community's Medical Center, complete diagnostic facilities, minor surgery at the Medical Center and services of all specialists, ambulance service and prescription drugs.

Down-payments for one-bedroom share ownership manors range from $1,059 to $1,085, and two-bedroom garden manors range from $1,175 to $1,309.

NEW MODELS OFFERED

Eight exterior styles from luxury Rossmoor Leisure World at Laguna Hills are being built in the final unit now under construction at Ross W. Cortese's pilot "people-over-52" community, Rossmoor Leisure World at Seal Beach. Here is one model.

Cerritos Circle Attractive

Excellent in design and ideal in location, Cerritos Circle Garden Apartments in Long Beach are attracting both buyers and renters.

The buyers are acquiring the duplex building for investments. The units are located at Terrylynn Place and Del Mar Ave., in the exclusive Los Cerritos area of Long Beach. Adjacent to Del Mar is Country Club Drive.

Architect C. S. Jones Jr. was awarded the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram's Merit Award of 1964 for his design of the apartments "for creating a new concept of living that fully meets today's needs."

The project, which contains 42 contemporary garden-type buildings was designed by Jones and built by Long Beach Construction co.

* * * *

ACCORDING to Jones: "A new design concept was employed at Cerritos Circle to create a sophisticated and architecturally significant pair of homes under one roof with privacy for each. By proper land planning, it was possible to put each building on an individual lot. By so positioning, community space was created with a social promenade."

Of contemporary architecture, the Cerritos Circle duplexes are highlighted by unusual architectural features which provide a variety of interior space. There is an abundant use of glass to create a free-flowing pattern of indoor-outdoor space. Ceiling-height doors, extensive use of natural (stained) redwood, combed stucco to create shadows and texture, and quarry tile floors inside and out give a sense of warmth, simplicity and repose.

* * * *

FEATURES of the units include radiant ceiling heat, carpets, drapes, dishwashers, built-in range and oven, refrigerators (in some units), eating and serving bar, walnut and birch kitchen cabinets, pullman, full-length bathroom mirror and ceramic tile. Each unit (one and two story buildings) contain 1500 sq. ft. They have two bedrooms, two and one-half baths, family room, dining room and individual patios and courts.

Cerritos Circle units may be rented for $225 and up per month. A duplex building may be purchased from $49,500 to $52,500 and can be purchased with furniture or any custom feature.

Town House Sales Continue to Climb

Homes currently are selling at the rate of 50 per month at Scottsdale Town Houses, a development especially designed for parents and children who enjoy outdoor family recreation together, Sales Director John Bollinger announced.

Scottsdale Town Houses is Ray Watt's strategically located condominium project in the South Bay area offering families the opportunity to have more time together, to enjoy more games and other recreational activities with their children and to have a finer home than family income probably would otherwise permit.

Home owners have more time to enjoy the multiple recreation facilities at Scottsdale, because so much work is done for them. They have no lawns to mow, water, weed or fertilize and no exterior to paint. The monthly maintenance fee, assessed by the elected Board of Governors, is to maintain the recreation facilities, gardening and exterior painting.

* * * *

FACILITIES INCLUDE an Olympic-size swimming pool, wading pool, playgrounds, basketball and handball courts and a $150,000 Town Hall, offering many recreation opportunities.

HARBOR VIEW ESTATES homes are only six minutes from the beach but only 25 freeway minutes from downtown Los Angeles. They are located one-quarter of a mile north of the end of the Harbor Freeway at Gaffey St. and Capitol Dr.

Features include wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, O'Keefe and Merritt built-in range and oven, In-Sink-Erator or garbage disposer and fireplace with gas log lighter. All eight remaining homes include a family room, four bedrooms, two baths and extra large closets.

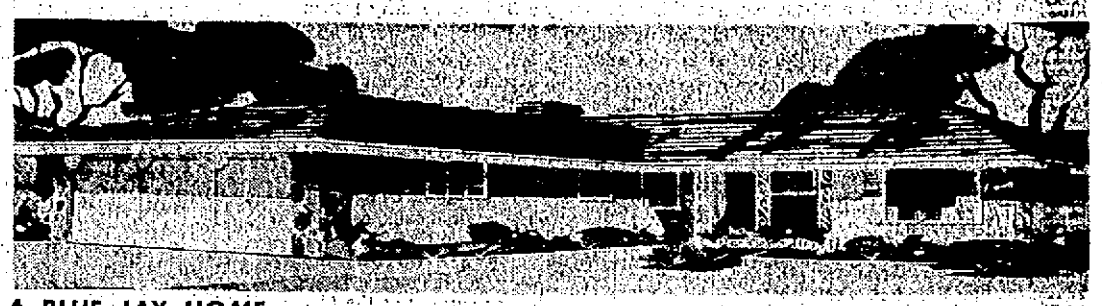

Prices of these attractive homes are from $24,995. Furnished models are open from 10:00 a.m. 'til dark daily.

ASK ONLY $1,250 DOWN

Harbor View Estates is nearing a sell-out but still has eight attractive homes left. Only $1,250 down, including all costs, provides immediate occupancy for buyers.

Fountain Valley Blue Jay Homes Observe Grand Opening Today

A BLUE JAY HOME

Built by Charles W. Hester, Blue Jay Homes in Fountain Valley will observe the grand opening today. The homes, one of which is shown here, are priced from $22,900.

Grand Opening festivities are scheduled this week end for Blue Jay Homes, the new Fountain Valley subdivision of Charles W. Hester. According to Hester, Blue Jay Homes will offer dwellings of three and four bedrooms, family rooms and two and two and one-half baths.

The homes have been given the Medallion Award for electrical acceptance, states Hester, and feature all-electric kitchens by Westinghouse with range, oven, dishwasher, disposal and range hood and fan. The homes have wall-to-wall carpeting of 100% continuous filament nylon, rear side yards with redwood fence and gate. Both baths feature pullmans and there is ceramic tile in the shower.

• • • •

BLUE JAY HOMES are priced from $22,900 and can be purchased with as little as $395 down plus costs. Monthly payments are from $130 which includes principal and interest. There are no balloon payments and Hester states that buyers will find it easy to qualify to purchase a Blue Jay Home.

Furnished models are at Cardinal and Slater and can be reached from Long Beach going out Seventh St. to Brookhurst, then south to Warner and right to Cannery then left to Slater.

Hillview Regency Townhouses Offer Luau and Entertainment

The public is invited to join the residents of Hillview Regency Townhouses at a festive island luau at 3 p.m. today. Foods of the South Seas will be served and entertaining will be the Tita Marsell Troupe direct from Las Vegas with authentic fire dancers, sword dancers and native hulas.

Sales activity continues spirited at Hillview Regency, the 10-acre, in-town Santa Ana Townhouse development, reports builder Tom Coughlin.

Currently, over 50% of the luxury two- and three-bedroom homes are occupied. Increasing homebuyer interest in the Townhouse concept results from the many on-site recreational advantages this new mode of living can offer over conventional single-unit dwellings. At Hillview Regency some three acres are devoted to such "country club" facilities as a nine-hole putting course complete with sand traps, shuffleboard courts, a 60-foot swimming pool with sun deck.

• • • •

THE HILLVIEW Regency Townhouse units offer a choice of two- or three-bedroom single-level studio units. All provide two bathrooms, sunken living room fully carpeted and draped, dining area and a built-in Caloric gas kitchen.

Over-all, the homes include up to 1,300 square feet of living space under roof and up to 350 square feet of fenced, private patio. Each home also includes a General Electric air conditioner and dishwasher, forced-air heat and vinyl tile floors. Three bedroom models feature large fireplaces.

Coughlin pointed out that the Hillview Regency buyer finances individually and receives a grant deed and policy of title insurance both to the home and to the pro-rata share of the common grounds and recreational facilities. The buyer reserves the right to sell or re-finance at any time.

Landscaping, gardening and exterior maintenance, such as painting and repairs, are serviced for all Hillview Regency homeowners by a staff of caretakers who are retained through a monthly fee.

Hillview Regency Townhouses are located at the top of Sherry Lane, three blocks north of 17th Street between Grand Avenue and Tustin Boulevard in uptown Santa Ana.

THE 'HOUSE OF IDEAS'

House & Garden Magazine's 1964 "House of Ideas" has been erected at Laguna Niguel adjacent to the fairway of El Niguel Country Club, as shown here. The public is invited to view the home and see the innovations offered.

Laguna Niguel Invites Public to View Its 'House of Ideas'

Laguna Niguel, the huge multi-faceted development just south of Laguna, began its public operations some three years ago. The Independent, Press-Telegram was one of the earliest to recognize the merit of the ambitious development, and has kept an interested public informed of the progress shown at Laguna Niguel.

Now the local editorial support and recognition of Laguna Niguel has begun to be felt nationally, according to Bill Beck, general manager of Laguna Niguel. He observes that the power of the press at the local level is, to a large degree, responsible for the recent selection by House & Garden Magazine of Laguna Niguel as the site for their 1964 "House of Ideas."

The Laguna Niguel Corp. built the "House of Ideas," a brilliant execution of the plans of architect Fred M. Briggs, AIA, in the Vista Del Niguel section. The home, representing the latest concepts in design, decorating, and use of construction materials, has been attracting thousands of Southlanders since it opened about four weeks ago.

* * * *

"WE AT LAGUNA NIGUEL are pleased and proud, of course," says Beck, "the August issue of the magazine gives 35 pages to the Laguna Niguel story. But we must recognize that the continuing success depends upon the help and encouragement of such publications as the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Vista Del Niguel, the site of the "House of Ideas," is situated on a fairway of El Niguel Country Club golf course and is one of the three major residential areas of Laguna Niguel now under extensive development by Laguna Niguel Corp. The others are the ocean view homesites of Niguel Terrace and the posh ocean-oriented homes of exclusive Monarch Bay. Vista Del Niguel homesites are priced from $14,000, while the homes of Niguel Terrace are from $45,200. The Monarch Bay residences, adjacent to the ocean above Monarch Bay Beach, begin at $56,000. The privileged residents of Laguna Niguel may enjoy the facilities of the El Niguel Country Club, the riding stables, and the private beach.

Beck invites all who are interested to visit Laguna Niguel to view the 1964 "House of Ideas." He adds that this fabulous home will be a source of inspiration to all who are seeking to beautify their present residence, or those who plan to build or buy a new home.

Growing of Sunflowers May Become Big California Crop

SACRAMENTO—The driver was passing through the San Joaquin Delta when he saw a huge field of weed-like plants with great yellow flowers at the top.

Intrigued with the thought that these looked like sunflowers, he made an effort to discover the owner of the field, the identity of the crop and the use of the product. But it took some doing.

For as the Council of California Growers reports, it was not that sunflower growers are shy—but rather that the crop needs so little personal attention that it is not easy to find the individuals growing them.

But in this case, the grower was found and acknowledged that, yes, these indeed were sunflowers. All of which leads the Council to point out that if Alf Landon ever decides to run again, he may find it more expedient to come to California for his State flower than to seek it in Kansas. Here in the water surrounded peat land "islands" of the Delta are thousands of acres of sunflowers.

* * * *

ONE COMMERCIAL producer, Vasco Giannini, said another grower in the area has nearly 2,000 acres of the big yellow flowers. Giannini and his brother raise several hundred acres annually.

"It is a fairly easy crop to grow," Giannini said, "and it has a pretty good market."

Most of the crop is sold for processing, salting and packaging in little five or ten-cent bags to be eaten with one's favorite beverage.

But, Gainnini said, a significant portion of the crop is processed for its oil. It provides a pure vegetable oil comparable to other seed oils. Still another use, of course, is for poultry feed—although this is not as common as once it was.

* * * *

OCCASIONALLY, growers say, sunflowers also are raised as shade for young turkeys. The tall, thick growing plants provide excellent shade in the hot central valleys. When the seeds mature and fall, they also provide some feed for the birds.

While sunflowers are not important enough to the state's agricultural economy to be listed in the state's compilation of 124 major crops, they do have some future prospects.

Giannini said sunflowers can be produced with a minimum of labor.

* * * *

"IF WE DON'T HAVE enough workers for our tomatoes and asparagus next year, we'll put in more sunflowers. Most of the work can be done with machines, even to harvesting."

O. W. Fillerup, executive vice president of the Council of California Growers pointed out that sunflowers are typical of the wide diversity of California agriculture.

"There are hundreds of comparatively unknown crops, like these, that help provide a balance to California agriculture — the state's Number One Industry," Fillerup said.

Location of Fashion Shores Homes Ideal

Attractive Fashion Shores homes are located within walking distance of the Huntington Beach State Park. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $23,900. Here is one model.

Families looking for homes seek not only a location that meets their everyday requirements—schools, transportation, shopping, etc.; but also a site that meets the esthetic needs of both parents and children, Mervin B. Johnson, builder of Fashion Shores homes in Huntington Beach, declares "This is why Fashion Shores has been so tremendously popular with the homebuying public," the builder continued. "Fashion Shores is within walking distance of the Huntington Beach State Park, and that fact alone insures three things to the buyer: (1) the weather will not be extreme in either summer or winter; (2) the beach provides a ready-made and immediate source of amusement and pleasure, and; (3) indirectly connotates that other sports and hobbies are nearby and convenient: fishing, boating, sailing, golfing, surfing, scuba diving, sunbathing, picnicing—as all of them are!"

FASHION SHORES one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $23,900, with every type of financing available for the convenience of homebuyers.

Features are side and rear yards completely fenced; nylon carpeting in all bedrooms, hall, stairway and living room; sunken living rooms and baths in some models; over 2,100 sq. ft. of floor area; Hotpoint all-electric kitchens with all built-ins; plus many more—both large and small.

The four decorated model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk with Walker & Lee sales personnel, under the direction of "Bud" Bennett, on hand to help.

From Long Beach: Drive east on Seventh St. Blvd. to Beach Blvd. (Hwy 39). Turn right to Atlanta Ave.; left on Atlanta to Cannery St. then right to the corner of Cannery and Hamilton Ave.

Thriftimart Has Net Income Gain

Roger M. Laverty, Sr., president and chairman of the board of Thriftimart, Inc., has announced that consolidated net income of the Thriftimart organization for the 13-week period ended June 27, 1964, amounted to $618,606, a 13 per cent increase over adjusted net income of $547,443 earned during the comparable period last year.

Income for the 1963 period has been adjusted to reflect the investment credit and federal income taxes on a basis consistent with that of the current year. Net sales amounted to $59,801,373, up $1,920,450 or 3.32 per cent over sales of $57,880,923 for the 1963 13-week period.

Thriftimart is operating 66 supermarkets in the Southern California-Nevada area. Although plans are being worked on for three new markets, the company's major emphasis at the present time is on modernizing older units so customers may be better served.

$10 Million Sparkle

NEW YORK (UPI)—American housewives spend more than $10 million a year to buy cleaning agents to give old ovens a new sparkle, according to Chemical Week publication.

Vegetable, Melon Crop Nearing End

SACRAMENTO (UPI) The California Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says that harvest of melons, tomatoes and other vegetables is nearly complete in Southern California. Harvest of lettuce, cabbage, celery and carrots is well underway with production generally expected to be less than the 1963 crop.

The cantaloupe harvest is nearing completion in the Blythe area and in Kern County. Shipments reached a peak in Kern County last week.

Watermelon harvest is practically complete in the Imperial Valley. Harvest of the melons has just started in Fresno County.

The tomato harvest is almost ended in the Imperial Valley, but early summer production is continuing in Orange and San Diego counties.

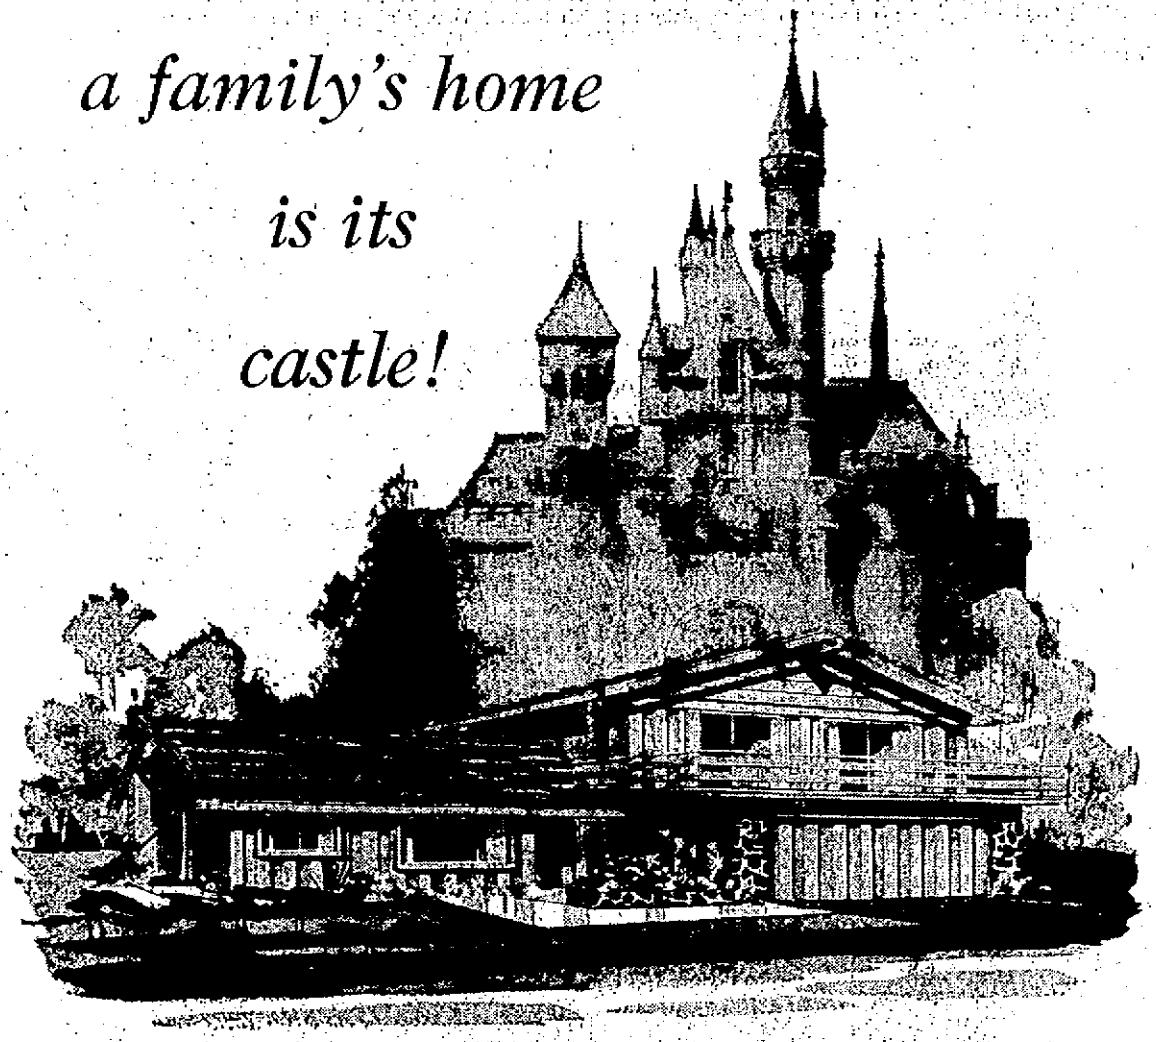

Picking of sweet corn is finished in Kern County and the harvest of carrots and celery is about half-complete.

Strawberry picking is continuing in the Central Coast district.

Another Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., Project

OFFERED BY RAY WATT

Among models available on low terms in Ray Watt's newest home development, Carson Estates, is this rambling, two-story residence. Veterans need only costs and impounds to buy these homes.

Carson Estates' Financing, Location Appeal to Buyers

The best new home financing in Los Angeles County and an unusually convenient location are combining to attract from 200 to 300 persons each weekend to Carson Estates, sales director Joe Spinato reports.

VA financing makes it possible for eligible veterans to move into spacious Carson Estates homes with no down payment whatsoever. Only small costs and impounds must be met. Both FHA and conventional financing are available. Home buyers under these plans may take possession with only small down payments and at reasonable interest rates.

* * * *

CARSON ESTATES is Ray Watt's newest fine home development in the South Bay area, located at the hub of three major Southern California freeways. Its almost instant access to the Harbor, San Diego and Long Beach freeways makes it possible for Carson Estates residents to work conveniently almost anywhere in the Los Angeles megalopolis.

Spinato said that a total of 122 family homes are rapidly being completed in the project. Designs include both one one two-story models, with the home buyer's choice of three or four bedrooms. All have large family rooms, concrete patios, and fireplaces with gas log lighters.

Carson Estates homes have wall-to-wall carpeting and Balanced Power kitchens, including Waste King built-in range and oven, dishwasher and food waste disposer.

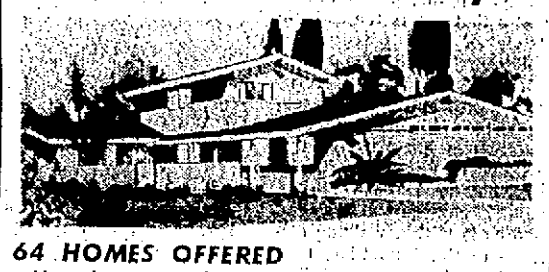

Furnished model homes are open from 10 a.m. 'til dark daily at 220th St. and Vera, one-half block south of Carson.

Hawthorne Firm Has Annual Meeting

Shareholders of Mattel, Inc., Hawthorne, toy manufacturers, meeting last week in Los Angeles, elected Joseph M. Kubert, vice president of Booz, Allen & Hamilton, Inc., to the company's board of directors and re-elected its six directors.

More than 300 shareholders attended the annual meeting, and voted to amend the company's by laws to provide for seven directors and to empower the board to fix the number of directors from six to nine.

Ballerina Homes in Preview Today

64 HOMES OFFERED

Here is one model of Ballerina Homes which will be seen today in a preview showing. This model has a large living room on second floor.

The preview showing of the new $2½ million development of the Ballerina Homes will be held today.

"The Ballerina's precision performance, her grace and beauty the joy and relaxtion in watching her, are all reasons she seemed to be the perfect symbol of our homes," said Ted Hudson, builder, who explained the pirouetting dancer which points the way to the new 64-home development in Huntington Beach.

These one and two-story homes are located and designed for a "Move to Perfection" for the active California family. The many needs of the family with children have been kept in mind. Within walking distance of the beach, sun decks on some models, and all homes on large lots, bringing real meaning to "California living."

* * * *

MANY MODELS feature a special "all purpose room." This spacious room with adjoining bath is separate from the main living portion of the house, which makes it ideal for a family room, a special room for entertaining, a guest room, or a teen-agers private haven.

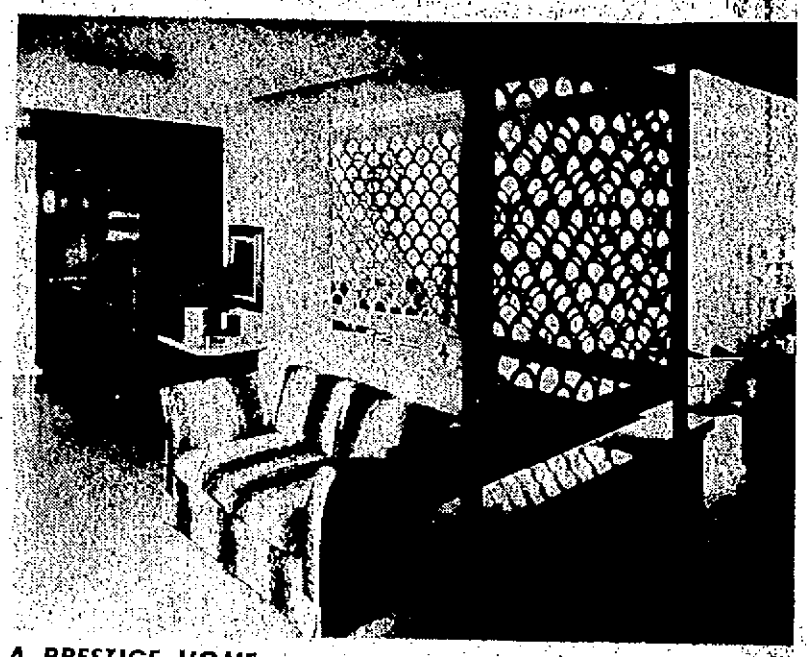

A special extra attraction in the two-story models that mothers will love is the electrically operated silent butler for conveying items up and down the stairs.

Baths gleam with chrome fixtures, ceramic tile, full-width plate glass mirrors, safety glass shower enclosures, double pullmans. Spaci-

Nylon sculptured carpeting in the living room, hall and master bedroom; sprinklers and landscaping in the front; complete back and side fencing are all included in the price of the home. Prices range from $23,900, square footage from a big 1517 to a gigantic 2,500.

Ballerina Homes are located on Bushard St., just off of Brookhurst. They may be reached by going south on Brookhurst from the Santa Ana Freeway, or turning onto Brookhurst from Pacific Coast Hiway.

Huntington Village Prestige Homes Close to New Freeways

A PRESTIGE HOME

Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach are conveniently located to the San Diego Freeway, now nearing completion as far east as Bolsa Chica Avenue. The one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $22,950. Here is an interior view of one model.

The proximity of any new home development to the freeway system is almost always uppermost in homebuyer's consideration when buying a new home, Dan Mytinger, sales director of Huntington Village Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach, points out.

"Prestige Homes is fortunate in that it is able to fulfill this need of homebuyers," the sales executive continued. "The section of the San Diego Freeway between Long Beach Freeway and Bolsa Chica Ave., in Huntington Beach, will open about Sept. 1. When open, this will bring a freeway to within a five-minute drive of Prestige Homes, insuring the very finest transportation to every other area in the Long Beach-Los Angeles Metropolitan area. Overpasses are also under construction on the San Diego Freeway between Bolsa Chica and Beach Blvd., to the east of Prestige Homes."

* * * *

"IN ADDITION, sections of the Garden Grove Freeway, the connecting freeway between the San Diego and Santa Ana Freeways, are opened as completed; further speeding traffic and relieving surface congestion," Mytinger noted.

Prestige Homes one and two-story, three, four and five-bedroom homes are priced from $22,950 with FHA, conventional and Cal-Vet financing available for the use of homebuyers.

Features include nylon carpeting, slate entryways, built-in dressers in master baths, wardrobes to 14' long, pantrys in the two story homes, Fireplaces, and Tappan built-in range, oven, dishwasher and disposal.

* * * *

PRESTIGE HOMES have been built by the Doyle & Shields Development Co., Inc., of Anaheim.

From the Long Beach area: Drive east on Seventh St. to Golden West St. Turn right to Edinger Ave., then right to Springdale St., and then left a short distance to the six newly redecorated model homes of Prestige Homes in Huntington Beach. The models are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

From Long Beach Area: Drive east on Carson (which becomes Lincoln Ave.) to Moody. Continue east to Model Homes.

From Los Angeles Area: Take Santa Ana Freeway to Valley View turnoff. South on Valley View to Lincoln, turn right (west) to Moody, then left to Model Homes.

Lake Park Location Appeals

Achieving a record amount of summer buyers, the locational proximity of Lake Park to major centers of employment, commercial and educational facilities, is cited as one of the main contributing factors, according to Michael L. Tenzer, marketing director and vice president of Larwin Co.

The $40 million, 2,000-home community, Tenzer explained "is close to major freeway vortexes and minutes from the area's large industrial compounds."

* * * *

TENZER ALSO noted that Phase II of Lake Park offers "not only the widest selection of two-story homes in Orange County, but also the lowest priced two-story models in that area."

Priced from $21,950, Lake Park Phase II offers three, four and five-bedroom homes with two and three baths. Twelve, all-new exteriors with three floor plans, including a den or family room and fireplace are included.

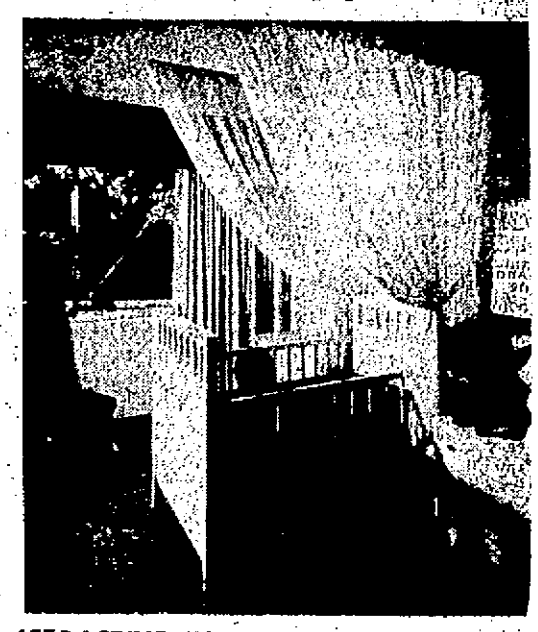

All models include breakfast bars, built-in kitchen appliances, disposals, double sinks, ceramic tile, sliding glass patio doors, wood-grained paneling and natural single roofs or optional hand-split cedar shakes.

* * * *

PROVING POPULAR is the Gramercy two-story model, with five bedrooms, three baths, fireplace, master bedroom suite with private terrace and large family room.

Lake Park homes are available through FHA, VA and conventional financing programs, with Cal-Vet also offered.

To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson to Moody.

ATTRACTIVE INTERIOR

Murray Opens Own Realty Firm

Dick Murray, formerly sales director of the new home division of Farrow Realty Corp., Garden Grove, announced the opening of his own real estate brokerage firm in Anaheim.

Murray Realty Co. will conduct sales in new home subdivisions for developehs throughout Orange County.

The firm will provide a "total package" to homebuilders, including land selection, home design, development layout, financing, escrow, merchandising, sales, advertising, promotion and landscaping.

Sears Catalogue Is Biggest in History

Reflecting the increasing significance of catalog shopping, Sears, Roebuck and Co. reports its new Fall-Winter book is larger, more colorful and is going to more homes than any other catalog in the company's 78-year history.

Now being distributed, the 1964 Fall-Winter general catalog:

Weighs in at five pounds and 12 ounces, and contains a record 1,764 pages—110 more than last year.

Has 594 full color pages, comprising more than one-third of the book.

Will reach 11 million families across the nation, compared with 10 million last year.

* * * *

THE INCREASED size and circulation, Sears said, are tangible evidence of the growing popularity of catalog shopping. New methods of catalog shopping and distribution account for the continuing trend, the company pointed out.

While Sears began as a mail order company, for many years the company's retail stores have accounted for the bulk of its sales. The catalog, however, continues to set new sales records each year, and in 1963, accounted for 23 per cent of Sears $5.1 billion volume.

Most of Sears catalog sales come through the catalog desks of retail stores, catalog sales offices, and—in large metropolitan areas — telephone sales offices.

The catalog, which contains more than 140,000 merchandise items, offers the most complete line ever presented in a catalog.

Apparel for the family occupies nearly 800 pages of the book, with the largest increase in space devoted to children's wear. Home furnishings, housewares, fashions and home improvement sections of the catalog also have added space.

Old Files; New Use

Dead record files have been converted to useful benches and work tables in a New Jersey firm's shipping and receiving areas, reports Industrial Distribution publication. The filing cabinets are placed on low, wooden supports to bring them up to table-top height. When the records are needed, they are handy.

Tour Talker Introduces Paris Sights

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

A new concept in sightseeing called the "Tour Talker" was introduced this month in Paris by American Express, and if it becomes as popular as many think, it might well forge a revolutionary link in the multi-billion dollar international tourist industry.

Specifically designed for use by individuals, families and small groups, "Tour Talker" is a compact, lightweight portable record player—carried like an over-the-shoulder strap bag—intended to provide a richly detailed personal tour at far less than the cost of a private guide.

Tests have shown the player to have "exceptional fidelity and reception" representing a major technical achievement through the incorporation of sophisticated controls.

UNLIKE WIRE tape devices used on an experimental basis, the machine utilizes an easily insertable 16 rpm vinyl record. The sightseer, whether on a motor coach, in a private car or on foot, may modulate the volume high or low, or listen to it with convenient earphones so as not to disturb others.

Nine tours, each routed to a famous sector or sightseeing area of Paris, have been recorded. Each was meticulously researched and is crammed with topical as well as historical information and anecdotes, and each is narrated by a professional announcer.

A record's concentrated playing time is one hour, although each tour is estimated at three hours duration, allowing for movement and viewing. The tourist simply sets his own pace. If he wishes to stop at any point, he can turn the machine off. When he turns it on again, the tour resumes exactly at the same point. With the flick of a switch, he can replay (and retrace) any part of the tour.

EACH RECORD sells for one dollar and becomes the traveler's permanent souvenir, to be replayed on any standard phonograph with 16 rpm speed setting.

"Tour Talker" was introduced in Paris because American Express' first overseas office was established there in 1895. Since then, its structure at 11 Rue Scribe has become a famous European landmark. In summer, 1,000 tour buses depart monthly from the building's curbstones.

American Express is so enthusiastic over the machine that it plans to put it into use in other of its European offices within the year.

Around the World With

DELAPLANE

"We would like to give a bon voyage party for friends going on a Pacific cruise ship. Do we arrange for a private table in the lounge and pay the waiter? Or what?"

JUST call the shipping line. They are all set up to do this for you—including hors d'oeuvre and a steward to serve if you like. (Tip him $5 to $10). Except on ships going only to Honolulu, the bar doesn't open until the ship clears port. You have the party in the people's room.

Do the lady a favor. Advise her to make ALL her hairdressing appointments the first day out. Especially for nights of special events such as the captain's dinner.

"We have two weeks in Hawaii and would like to visit a truly native island."

THE ONLY old Hawaii is on the little island of Niihau. It is privately owned, even to transportation to get there. The owners discourage attempts to visit it. The plantation towns on Molokai and Lanai are "native." But it's not Polynesian Hawaii.

However, you can go to the Polynesian Cultural Center—an hour from Waikiki on the quiet, windward side. This is new and an excellent showing — not only of Hawaii as it was but of other Polynesian cultures as they are: Tahiti, Samoa, Tongan islanders and the Maoris of New Zealand. It's $2 admission and $2.50 for a 25-course dinner from all the islands. Plus a big music-dance show.

'Are there any jobs for students overseas?"

I'VE SEEN ADS on this by International Student Travel Center, 39 Cortlandt St., New York City. They ask $3 for membership and registration. But I have no idea how good this is. Why don't you write first—without the $3—and see what they offer.

"Our cruise ship stops in Suva in the Fijis. Is there anything to buy there?"

SOME VERY good tortoise shell work. And some replicas in very good hardwood of the dishes the Fijians used to cook and serve your sailor great grandpa in. Makes a conversation piece salad bowl. That's about all.

". . . also anything to buy when we stop in Tahiti?"

PRETTY GOOD woven straw planters' hats. Shell necklaces. After that buy yourself a flower to put behind your ear and a bottle of Hinano beer. Tahiti is not a shopping place.

Old Times Return to Big Bear

Old times return to Big Bear Aug. 6-9 with the Old Miners Days and National Burro Derby, an event that always draws enthusiastic crowds from all over the Southland.

Big Bear Valley originally was opened by a gold strike. Revival of those roaring days will be celebrated with a Clementine fashion show, fast draw contest, log-sawing race, pancake race, turtle races and frog jump.

In addition, more than 80 burros and their foot-sore wranglers start at Apple Valley on the desert below and race 45 miles up the mountain to where the celebration is taking place.

Another notable out-of-town August celebration will be the Old Spanish Days Fiesta at Santa Barbara Aug. 12-15. It opens with a downtown costume breakfast, and includes a parade of elegantly costumed riders.

The Festival of Arts and Pageant of the Master continues each evening at Laguna Beach through Aug. 16. Thirty-four paintings and classic sculptures are recreated by living models at the Pageant.

R. W. ATKINS

A veteran of 14 years with the company, Richard W. Atkins has been promoted from manager of the Beverly Hills office to district travel manager of American Express, with headquarters in the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

Coffee Time

New on Santa Fe Railway's Super Chief is a complimentary "wake-up cup" of coffee to all passengers. The steward inquires the evening before how each passenger prefers his coffee, and at what time it should be served. The dining car waiter serves the coffee next morning.

Trailer Living

Families who like to mingle with the outdoors are ushered into a new world of camping and recreation by Burgess H. Scott and Franklin M. Reck of the Ford Times editorial staff in their new book, "The Ford Guide to Outdoor Living on Wheels" (Doubleday & Co., Garden City, N.Y., $3.95).

IN THE TRAVEL SPOTLIGHT

The Lonely Redwoods

One of California's largest and most beautiful redwood groves is so isolated that it has been visited by comparatively few persons and is relatively little known to the general public.

It is the Freeman Grove, located in the High Sierra wilderness area a few miles from Quaking Aspen, in Tulare County, about 45 miles east of Porterville.

Only way to reach the grove is by foot or horseback. Woody Hannam, operator of a pack station at Quaking Aspen, rents horses and guides to take visitors into the grove, a trip which takes an hour by horseback.

According to Hannam, the United States Forest Service has said this grove will be protected and saved for future generations. It has many young redwood trees, assuring continuing growth.

The grove presents a cathedral-like appearance with the giant trees towering skyward and the awesome silence of the forest envelopes the visitor in a feathery cloak.

According to Hannam, visitors who ride in to the Freeman Grove on horseback regard it as one of the most inspiring spots in the entire state.

TWO NEW HOTELS have been opened in Israel.

The Deborah Hotel, designed to accommodate orthodox-Jewish patrons, is located in Tel Aviv. It has 63 double rooms all with central heating, air-conditioning, bath, phone and radio.

The 72-room, 12-story Grand Guberman Hotel, in Tiberias, has roof garden, night club, cocktail bar, shopping facilities and art gallery. Every room overlooks the Sea of Galilee. Rates in effect until Dec. 14 range from approximately $9.65 for a single, full board, to $9, per person, daily, for a double, full board—plus 10 per cent service charge.

DUTCH HAVEN HOMES

symbol of finest quality and value

VA NO DOWN • FHA & CAL-VET TERMS

More than any other homebuilder's emblem—the nationally famed Dutch Girl symbolizes the finest in value and beauty. Only in a Dutch Haven Home, for example, are you certain of receiving quality exceeding the highest requirements of financing and construction. And only Dutch Haven includes in every home, as a matter of standard procedure, dozens of features normally found only in custom plans of far greater cost. Something Uncommon in Common

In mid-afternoon they began to arrive. In the warm, golden sunlight they played cards, knitted, lounged on the green grass. Children romped under the leafy old trees and pumped playground swings in great arcs. As shadows lengthened, picnic baskets were explored. At twilight, the tempo quickened. Crowds grew and, when all seats were taken, men and women and children pouring into Bixby Park spread blankets on the lawn where they could sit in the soft evening air.

The magnet that drew the thousands together was music—the opening of Long Beach Symphony Orchestra's free Pops Concert series on June 30 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Herman H. Ridder. The scene will be repeated Tuesday night when the second Starlight Serenade will be presented in the park at 8 p.m. With the softly lighted background of the new acoustical shell and an improved sound system, the music will create an evening of enchantment. Again, Lauris Jones will conduct the orchestra in a melodious program. Pianist Marilyn Neely will play Liszt's beloved "Concerto No. 1" and the fiery flamenco dancer, Vela Montoya, will interpret the seductive, exciting rhythms of Spain.

Debs Bow at Gala Ball

Entering International Ballroom at the Lafayette Hotel from a glittering silver and white coach decorated with shocking pink fringe and plumes, 15 daughters or granddaughters of members of Assistance League and Las Hermanas Auxiliary were introduced to society Saturday night by Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

Two heralds in pink satin livery announced the entrance of each debutante, who was met by her father and escorted to the stage.

A three-tiered Florentine fountain banked with rose flowers, a crystal chandelier, Doric columns and billowing white swags created a charming setting for the young women.

The Cinderella Ball theme was carried out in ballroom decorations of four

Shades of Ziegfeld! Here Come the Follies

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Women's Editor

MOVE OVER Dolly. You, too, Rudy. Your popularity in show biz may be topped by the yet untapped talents of smart young Junior League housewives or their husbands turned dancers, songsters or live wire comedians.

The news is out. After a 13-year absence from the Long Beach theatrical scene, league members and their husbands will again appear in one of their all-out musical song and dance extravaganzas in October known as Junior League Follies.

One way to get into the act—practice!

The show will be professionally produced and costumed by a New York production company, using hometown talent. In September they'll be here to have a talent party and set up the acts. Loralee Turner is follies chairman and her cohorts, now exhorting everyone to keep trilling or twirling in preparation for tryouts, are Marie Todd, Jane Began, Garnette Hedley, Doris Moore, Donna Halbert, Frieda Pritchard, Betty Bixby plus pictured Penni, vice chairman, and Martha.

No reason to doubt show, a two night stand (Oct. 23-24) won't be as hilarious as in other years when well knows of town frolicked in footlights. Tickets will go on sale in the fall; by curtain time should be scarcer than hens' teeth! All proceeds will be used for the league's many community projects.

A LAUGH, talk and be merry day it turned out to be when Everett and Irene Sawyer entertained for the entire Sawyer clan at one of the clubhouses near their home in Leisure World. About one half of those present were grandchildren or great-grandchildren (all live wires) for the Saturday afternoon into evening gala day.

WITH EXPECTATIONS as high as the sun at noontime Wilma Hastings drove off, by herself, for a stay at the health spa in Tecate, Mexico. After the 150 mile drive to reach it she discovered she had been assigned to a room which shared bath facilities with five other rooms. No cup of tea for fastidious Wilma so she said, "Gracias, no," and drove back up to the Golden Door. No room. Tried another favorite hideaway. No room. Tried another on the seacoast but it was deserted, dark and eerie.

She still didn't want to admit defeat and drive back here but it was so late she felt skittery about trying any other place. Weary and disappointed, she came home, lugged luggage to door. Now came darkest moment of all. Lock was stuck. After studying every possible way to get in, she finally gave up. Re-wrestled suitcases to car and went to what she thought was good downtown motel. Gent at desk, feet up, gave her a direct answer with a question: "Don't need any help, do you?"

She did some more bellboy duty and got in her room at 1:30 a.m. It had its own bath, but not much more to offer in line of refinement.

RIDES IN the sky and an orbiting good time on the ground made Monday anything but blue when Betty and Larry Hunt (Air Oasis) hosted Executive Secretaries Firm Night. About 175 guests gathered at their anything but plain plane dispensary at the LB Airport for cocktails and dinner.

They had eight planes on almost constant shuttle flights for those who wanted the sky rides. One craft was piloted by Charlie Severson (at party with wife, Margaret) and co-piloted by Dixie Millie (there with husband, Noble).

Others in the large and well known crowd of execs and wives were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Van Kamp Sr. (it was learned through Kathy Shea; E/S from the Van Kamp Co. that the cannery is noting its 50th anniversary this month), Charles and Connie Campbell, Marilyn and Jim Crooker, Bill and Shirley Gillis, Myrl and Nancy Ott, Rosemary and Robert Westmyer, Roland and Dena Robbins and daughter, Linda, Hal and Hattie Lewis and Linnell and Burr Dilday.

THIS WEEK will be wrapped up with a smile time party when Ann and Sid Exley entertain at a cocktail and buffet party Friday. Special honorees will be Barbara Bixby and her beau, Bob Henry.

UNIQUE vacation and a great one has just been concluded by Marge and Roy McCullough. They flew to the Northwest and then whisked over to Victoria, B.C., where they met Kay and Lyman Farwell of Newport Beach. The Farwells, there for the summer with their deluxe motor sailor, Kawamee, took the McCulloughs on a spectacular cruise up the inner Canadian waterways along Vancouver Island.

AS OLD saying goes, the silence is deafening at Clare and Lynn Hossom's house—and they're not keen on the quiet at all. No ma'am. They've been head of the gayest madhouse—but all is back to normal. Daughter and son-in-law, Sherry and Ward McDonald, were here from Fresno for a week to watch the Dragon Olympic trial races. Other daughter, Linda Redeker, flew in from Phoenix with 10-month old baby daughter, Cynthia, to spend a few days before husband, "Bud," also arrived. The two went up to San Francisco for convention, leaving little Cynthia with the Hossoms. They returned for a long last weekend, for family-all-together gaiety. Beginning of week, the most welcome houseguests in the world had to return to respective bailiwicks.

PROBABLY wildest baseball game of the season was played last Sunday, not at Chavez Ravine, but at Whaley Park. It was a game between a team of T-shirt league players (in the 8 to 10 year age group) the Bobcats, and their mothers.

Betty (Mrs. Dick) Hammer was pitcher. She was good—but not good enough. Moms were out-hit, out-run and out-witted, losing 10 to 3. All this is a total of just 3 innings!

Others who developed stiff muscles and shattered egos on the kind of a diamond that is not a girl's best friend were Flo (Mrs. Kenny) Richmond, Phil (Mrs. Tom) Comiskey, Barbara (Mrs. Karyl) Napper and Nancy (Mrs. Charles) Malloch. Star of day was Lucy (Mrs. Pat) Estes. Not only did she manage to make leather and hickory meet—she actually hit a homer.

THE WESTERN hoedown was way out at Griffiths' Gulch last weekend when Dr. Bob and Deonne, seen below with Dee (Mrs. Sumner) Trent (center) had a square dance and barbecue.

At a barn in the country? No, in their own home in College Park Estates! And contemplate this—they filled the living room (sans furniture and carpeting because they're redecorating) with bales of hay to make the scene authentic. Deonne arranged to borrow six bales (120 pounds each) to park around. Getting the bales to the house and safely returned was quite a transportation problem. But what really was the biggest chore of all was cleaning up the scattered hay next day!

Dancing was a riot as guests, all pretty square about square dancing techniques, did their best to follow the zippy calling of Roberta and Jack Kemp.

One yippee-ki-yi happening of night was surprise reunion of guests Jean and Jim Preston and Marie and Ted Baird. All classmates in college in Colorado Springs, they hadn't met since moving to Long Beach—in fact, having lost track, they didn't know that they all did.

A few others in big crowd who DID know each others' whereabouts were Nancy and Joe Byrne, Joni and Bill Clark.

There was lots of mulch at the Gulch.

Poolside Fun for Chi O's

Honoring actives who are spending the summer in Long Beach, Chi Omegas will gather Thursday at 11:30 a.m. for a brunch and pool party at the home of Mrs. Willis B. Blenkinsop, 3934 Ann Arbor Road.

Included among the honorees are Harriet Anne Berkley, Sharon Ludlam, Joan Galloway, Judy Conger and Mary Baker, UCLA; Norma McCarey, a June graduate of San Jose State College now residing in Long Beach; Else Britt Jonson, UC, Santa Barbara; Diane Carner and Kitt Neasy, USC. Any Chi Omega summering in the area is invited to share in the festivities. Co-hostesses for the occasion are Mrs. Alex Day, 327 Roycroft Ave., and Mrs. E. W. Johnson, 3927 Lewis Ave.

Reservations may be made until Tuesday.

Sisterhood Elects New Officers

Mrs. Samuel Schreiber was reelected president of Sisterhood of Temple Beth-El and will be installed at the temple, 853 Linden Ave., Aug. 2 at 2 p.m.

Others taking office include Mmes. Ben Aronson, Lenard Starr, Sam Susser, Morris Smollen, Morris Resnick, Abraham Blumenfield and Samuel Schreiber.

Claretian Guild

Claretian Guild will sponsor a luncheon at noon Wednesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave., with cards to follow. Canasta, 500, bridge and pinochle will be played. Mrs. Elizabeth Elsken is in charge. Visitors are welcome.

Pack a Picnic for the Pops

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

What could be more appealing than a picnic under the stars, food that's 'out-of-this-world' yet still under the stars, and a wonderful musical program to follow? That's what is in store for you at the Pops Concert Tuesday night at Bixby Park.

All the details—all those things you want to know about the concert—are answered on the front page of this section today . . . we're only giving a few suggestions about the food.

True, many families prefer hot dishes with all the accompaniments, but we find our greatest number of inquiries are "what's new in sandwich fillings?"

Here are a few suggestions: Some are spreads, while others of the hot variety, can be prepared at home, transported hot to the park, with each member of the family compiling his own sandwich. REMEMBER . . . after you have mixed your spreads, keep them refrigerated until time to leave for the park.

● Crisp bacon, sliced cheese, tomato and lettuce with mustard and mayonnaise, fashioned into a triple decker on white and whole wheat bread.

● Chopped chicken, almonds, celery, and onion with salad dressing, spread over a pineapple slice topped bun half. Sprinkled with cheese and broiled.

● Beef steak cubes, whole onions, pickles and fresh mushrooms kabob, grilled and served between slices of garlic-butter spread French bread.

● Tuna, minced onion, avocado and lemon juice, with lettuce and tomato slices — served on toasted white bread.

● Frankfurters and sauerkraut in mustard spread long buns.

● Sliced turkey, cranberry relish, and lettuce on buttered, cracked wheat slices.

● Peanut butter and blackberry jam on buttered whole wheat.

● Shrimp and hard cooked egg with horseradish mayonnaise in grilled long buns.

● Boiled ham, crumbled crisp bacon, and cole slaw on whole wheat.

● Baked beans, sweet onion slices, and catsup on pumpernickel.

● Cream cheese and chopped ham on date-nut bread.

● Salmon salad with chopped egg, onion and green pepper on toasted white bread with lettuce and tomato garnish.

Mrs. Travis Montgomery

Couple Wed in Alhambra

First Baptist Church of Alhambra was setting for the Saturday night wedding of Carol Lynn Newland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Boyd Newland of Alhambra, to Travis Arnold Montgomery, son of Mrs. Everardo Gomez and John H. Montgomery of Long Beach.

An ecru linen sheath with a detachable train and eyelet embroidery trim was worn by the bride. Patricia Griffin was maid of honor and Ginger Fujita, Peggy Sterrenburg, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Ronald Smith were bridesmaids.

Michael Clark served the bridegroom as best man. Ronald Smith, Laureen Wasserman, Dr. Robert Smith and William Montgomery seated guests.

* * * *

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Long Beach City College and a senior at California State, Long Beach. Her husband graduated from Millikan High School and CSLB.

On their return from a wedding trip to San Francisco and Lake Tahoe, the couple will reside in Long Beach.

Oswald Jacoby
Deception as Needed

The late Sidney Silodor of Philadelphia was one of the greatest players of all time. Although Sidney was noted for soundness and simplicity, he could and did use deception when necessary with deadly effect. Here is one of his greatest hands.

Sidney knew that West was not the sort of player to lead from a king against a slam contract, so Sidney went right up with dummy's ace of diamonds and dropped his queen as a false-card.

Then he led a trump to his ace and finessed the jack on the way back. This was the wrong percentage play because you don't normally finesse for the queen when you hold nine of a suit, but there was method in Sidney's play.

It happened that West held the queen, so Sidney's worries were over. He drew the last trump and went right after clubs. When the queen dropped nicely, Sidney wound up making a grand slam.

● IT REALLY is unfortunate that East did not hold the queen of heart. Now no one will ever know if East would have played the king of diamonds in the face of Sidney's earlier queen play and beaten the hand or shifted to a spade and let Sidney make the contract anyway.

Sew-It-Yourself

...it's SO couture!

High fashions for home designers (some pictured below) will be modeled during special Vogue-Forstmann Show, Tuesday, 2:30 P.M., at Buffums'

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON
I, P-T Fashion Editor

This year, more American women than ever before are buying tracing wheels and tailor's hams; are puzzling over tuckers, quilters and fagoters; and are trying their hand at slot, bevel and flat-fell seams.*

And this is no so-so trend, say the experts.

Fact is, in '64, more American clothes horses than ever before will be sewing their own to break a national all-time record.

In their race from pattern to piece goods to notions counters, they'll spend an estimated billion dollars on sew-it-yourself supplies.

NOT LEAST of the pace-setting trends is an increasing interest in haute couture patterns, fabrics and techniques and the creation of sew-your-own originals such as those pictured on this page.

Vogue's designer pattern series—now offering some 50 styles by 18 well-known designers like Lanvin, Pucci, Jacques Heim, and Forquet—is reported to be selling very well. Costing from $2 to $3.50, they're luxury items compared to the 65 cents to $1.50 for the not-so-original.

There's also a reported upsurge in sewing class enrollments, where an at-home couturier learns such high fashion techniques as how to back a hem with lambswool to avoid a sharp crease, how to put in an inner belt at the waistline and insert a zipper by hand. They are told firmly that the secret of high fashion sewing is hand finishing and careful construction.

Furthermore, she's taught a whole new fashion language (most often with a French accent) that includes such words as Givenchy (Parisienne designer), discotheque (latest in dance dresses) and abaisse (lowered as hem or waistline) . . .

So, today, the home designer can not only dress in high fashion, but can discuss it with aplomb (self-assurance, self-possession and poise). She can have an original (hers)—and for only a fraction of the price tag.

After a Fashion

*A tracing wheel is for marking fabric, a tailor's ham is a cushion to iron on; tuckers, quilters and fagoters are sewing machine attachments.

JACQUES HEIM'S lithe young suit (left) in Fleur de Lis wool flannel showing flurry of pleats and worn with knowing air. . . . Forquet of Italy designs masterful coat with body-conscious lines and reefer influence, both enhanced by hand-loomed wool in black, pewter and white. . . . A sweeping gesture of formal elegance in sculptured white wool. . . . New pants suit by Galtizine of Italy in new stretch fabric "Plux X." All are made from Vogue International Couturier patterns in Forstmann's wool and will be featured, along with 28 other sew-it-yourself creations at Buffums' Downtown Fashion Show Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Christopherson

Golden Anniversary for Christophersons

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edmond Christopherson will honored at a golden wedding reception in Recreation Community Center.

Although their actual 50th wedding anniversary will be observed Dec. 16, they are celebrating earlier to enable relatives to travel here during the vacation months.

Married in 1914 in Centuria, Wis., the Christophersons have been Long Beach residents since 1928. Their home is at 1325 Granada Ave.

* * * *

ALL six of their children were graduated from Poly High School and all reside in Southern California. They include Marion Dwight, Fred Ralph and Carleton Louis, all of Long Beach; John Orlon, La Habra; George Allen, Seal Beach, and Mrs. H. J. Dunn (Betty Bernice), Anaheim.

Three sons served in the Navy during World War II, and two served in the Army. The Christophersons have 24 grandchildren.

A native of Racine, Wis., Christopherson was employed for almost 30 years by the Southern California Edison Co. His hobbies are deep sea fishing and woodworking. His wife is a native of Waverly, Iowa.

60 Navy Wives to Be Feted

Wives of some 60 junior Navy officers will be entertained Thursday, 7 p.m., by the Armed Forces hospitality committee of the Chamber board room.

Clair Carmody, chairman, will introduce panel members for a program geared to acquainting wives of navy personnel with the City of Long Beach.

* * * *

MISTRESS of ceremonies will be Mrs. Rayfond Rodgers. Panel members include Claire Andrews, Mae Mathers, Pat Domino, Fred Black and a navy chaplain.

Topics to be discussed: volunteer work, recreational facilities, employment opportunities, navy services, local cultural and art facilities.

Janie Perry, hostess, will be assisted by Sue Ellis and Catherine Low in serving refreshments.

Bettering the relationship between the Armed services and the community is one of the major purposes of the committee. Informing newly arrived Navy wives of what Long Beach has to offer them and their families is part of the program.

They Seek Rainbow's Gold

Looking for the gold at the end of the rainbow to benefit the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation are Mrs. Delmer Woodworth, Jack C. Satariano, past president of Long Beach Chapter; and Mrs. Wayne B. Walker, president. A dance, themed "Rainbow of Hope," will be sponsored by the group Friday from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. at Petroleum Club to raise funds for the foundation. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Joseph C. Miskiel Jr. or tickets purchased at the door. Roger Bacon and his orchestra will play for dancing.

Buffet Will Honor Goldenwed Pair

In celebration of their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Mhyrwyn Edwards of Long Beach will be honored at a buffet supper today at 5 o'clock in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Monroe S. Yunker, 1540 Ramillo Ave.

Assisted by their daughter, Susan, the Yunkers will welcome close friends and relatives of the pair.

The honored couple met in Santa Barbara and were married there July 25, 1914. A retired civil engineer, Mr. Edwards was born in New Jersey and came to California by way of Canada in 1913. Mrs. Edwards, the former Bertha Dorsey, was reared in California and received her schooling at Los Angeles Normal, USC and Santa Barbara Normal.

DURING THE early years of their marriage the Edwardses lived in various cities in California. In 1922 they moved to Newport Beach where Mr. Edwards was resident engineer for six years.

They came to Long Beach in 1928 where Mr. Edwards served as assistant public service director and city engineer for a number of years. At the time of his retirement he was engineer for a Long Beach contracting company.

Mr. Edwards is a former member of Pacific Coast Club, Los Seranos Country Club, Cirgonians, Azusa Masonic Lodge, American Association of Civil Engineers, Santiago Rifle Club and was a charter member of the Santa Barbara Rifle Club.

While in Newport Beach Mrs. Edwards was a member of Ebell Club and served as its president.

Brunch Attracts Guests of Ebell

Designer Pattern

A COOL CASCADE of circular ruffles is fashion's freshest, most feminine detail—as pictured in Printed Pattern M108. The diagonal neckline is a favorite Radiant design feature and the most slimming for the fuller-bosomed, half-size figure. Below the waist, all is slenderness. Note the back of the skirt—see how paneled seams create a nice flow of smoothness over the hips.

Pinted Pattern M108 is available in Half Sizes 12½, 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½. Size 16½ requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send ONE DOLLAR for Printed Pattern M108 to Independent, Press-Telegram, Pattern Department, P.O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N.Y. (Add 15 cents for each pattern for first class mailing and special handling.) Please print plainly YOUR NAME, ADDRESS with ZONE, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

"THE SOUND OF MUSIC"—that's me after only one session at the Hammond (two keyboard, if you will) Organ. The amazing thing was that I really could play a recognizable tune within a few minutes . . . several others quickly followed! (And you won't find many around with as little musical training as me—none. . . .) It's almost as simple as a parlor trick and has a great deal more entertainment variety to offer. Really is fun—especially since you do play right away. If you're bored with TV and/or you've always had a secret ambition to play (but you thought you couldn't) . . . have Bob Pierce (who had the world's first Hammond Organ) show you this unique system that has started innumerable people playing at HAMMOND ORGAN STUDIOS OF LONG BEACH, 2188 Lakewood Blvd.

Hall-Sturdevant Ceremony

Mrs. Alan Gaylord Hall

In the presence of their families and close friends, Patricia Jean Sturdevant and Alan Gaylord Hall spoke wedding vows Saturday evening in Booth Chapel of First Congregational Church.

Following a honeymoon in San Francisco, the couple will be at home in September in Tucson, Ariz.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vivian Bailey Sturdevant, 219 Loma Ave., and the late Dr. Matt C. Sturdevant. Her gown was of all-over embroidered organdy over taffeta with square neckline. Her illusion veil was attached to a halo of seed pearls. In her bouquet were stephanotis, lily of the valley and white orchids.

* * * *

MATRON OF honor was Mrs. John W. Hutchison of Long Beach, and best man was Paul A. Brown of Phoenix, Ariz. Bruce J. Vermazen and John Jolliffe ushered.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Hall of Glendale. Their son was graduated with distinction from Stanford University and received his MA in English literature from UC, Berkeley.

After graduation from Wilson High School, the bride was graduated from Stanford and received her master's degree in library science from UC, Berkeley.

Mrs. Hal G. Johnson

Lake Tahoe Honeymoon Follows Rite

Michele Elaine Moritz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Edward Moritz, 3734 Kallin Ave., spoke wedding vows Saturday noon in St. Maria Goretti Catholic Church to become the bride of Hal Gary Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gale Henry Johnson, 3551 Faust Ave.

The bridal gown was of Alencon lace over organza and taffeta, and a circular arrangement of seed pearls held her silk net veil. She carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

* * * *

DIANE NELL was maid of honor, and Karen Johnson and Adrienne Benton were bridesmaids. Robert Snow served as best man. The 250 guests were seated by James Hayes, Keith Moritz, Vernon Kraus and Gary Harbor.

After a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, the couple will be at home in August in Bellflower.

Both were graduated from Millikan High School. The bride attended LBCC and the bridegroom was graduated from Los Angeles Trade-Technical College.

To Play Cards

Hostesses of Service Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will sponsor a card party at Monte Vista Masonic Temple, 1120 E. Market St., Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. There will be entertainment, games and refreshments. Lydia Shelton is chairman.

Altar Dates Are in the Offing

On Sept. 5, Patricia May Jones will become the bride of Lee James Sneller. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Jones of Lakewood, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sneller of Palos Verdes Estates.

The bride-to-be attended CSLB and in the fall will continue her education at UCLA.

The prospective bridegroom was graduated from Stanford University where he affiliated with Delta Chi fraternity. He is now studying at USC.

Debutantes Presented to Society

huge columns with extending silver glittered branches hung with blinking lights and crystal prisms.

Wrought iron coach lanterns adorned with gardenias, crystal prisms and pink flowers centered the dinner tables.

Preceding the ball, a social hour was held in the French Room, which also was decorated in the Cinderella theme with a large revolving slipper carved in ice and banked by shocking pink roses, gardenias and net.

* * * *

THE DEBUTANTES, gowned in white and wearing medallions presented by the league, carried bouquets of gardenias and pink rose buds. They gathered with their escorts and stags on the terrace for a pre-ball punch party, chairmanned by Mrs. Earl Lundhigh.

Greeting guests at the annual mid-summer social event were Dr. and Mrs. James V. Keipp and Mr. and Mrs. Myrl Ott. Others on the hostess committee were Mmes. Calvert Strong, chairman; John W. Brooks, Gilmer Millie, Charles F. Severson, Marvin P. Clark, William J. Gillis, Gilbert Karste and Chris Conway.

* * * *

NOBLE MILLIE, master of ceremonies, welcomed guests and introduced Mmes. Keipp, Assistance League president; Melvin L. Campbell, founder of Long Beach Chapter; F. James Kirby, president of National Assistance League; and Ott, general chairman of the ball.

Edward Lovell, chairman of the men's floor committee, had as his assistants: Carl Brooks, George E. Wilcox, William Yankie, Lewis B. Kean, Raymond Peterson and Harvey Hartzel.

Other members of the ball committee included Mmes. Dean Gilmore, David N. Eagleson, Charles Campbell, Albert Code, Jerome Young, Lewis F. Seapy, Kenneth Berkaw, Gilbert Karste, Calvert Strong, Marvin Clark, James J. Nagle and Richard A. Walker.

Cheryl Walston Wed to Ronald Wiener

Mrs. Ronald K. Wiener

In a gown of silk organza trimmed with jeweled Alencon lace, Cheryl Lynne Walston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Walston of Lakewood, became the bride of Ronald Kent Weiner Saturday morning in St. Cyprian's Catholic Church.

Completing her ensemble, the bride's headdress was an Alencon flower with pearl tear drop attached to a fingertip length veil of silk illusion.

LaDonna Walston was her sister's maid of honor, while attendants were Doris Bernstein, Jacqueline Kurtz, Mary Arnan Harrison and Mrs. Thomas Blanch. Tami Murdock was flower girl.

* * * *

CONRAD VON Blankenburg was the best man to the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. John R. McTee of Torrance and J. E. Wiener of Beverly Hills.

Ushers included Jack Avery, Morris Gregory, David Stilwell and Thomas Blench.

After a wedding trip to Santa Barbara the couple will drive to Alaska where they will reside for a year while the bridegroom is serving with the Army at Fort Greeley. Eventually they will return to Torrance to make their home.

The new Mrs. Wiener was graduated from Lakewood High School and attended LBCC. She represented Long Beach in the California contest for Miss Universe contest in 1963.

The bridegroom attended El Camino Junior College and Brooks Institute of Photography, Santa Barbara.

Home Is . . . Where the Heart Is

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

It was a beautiful summer day in Houghton Park. The sharp twang of tennis rackets accented the happy cries of climbers on the jungle gym. Two young men gracefully threw a bright yellow ball back and forth. A young mother rested against a fragrant pine tree while her baby tried out a few tentative steps in the lush grass.

INSIDE THE clubhouse, the auditorium was still gay with red, white and blue streamers from the Fourth of July. A group of 10, 11 and 12-year-olds dramatically re-enacted a story that had just been read to them by a recreation director.

In a glassed-in alcove at the side of the room, Mrs. Stanley W. Houghton talked about the furniture and relics on display there that she has presented to the city.

On Feb. 28, 1925, Stanley W. Houghton and his sister, Eliza Houghton, presented three acres to the City of Long Beach for the portion of the park where the clubhouse now stands.

Former Houghton farmhouse.

The tract included the home, out-buildings and garden of their father, Col. Sherman Otis Houghton, and was intended as a memorial to him.

THE FURNITURE Mrs. Houghton has given for display was used by the pioneer family in their former home.

"Father," said Mrs. Houghton, referring to Col. Houghton, "sat at this desk when he was a Congressman in Washington in 1871."

After the British burned the Capitol in 1812, the Congressional chambers were refurnished and each Congressman was given one of the elaborately carved desks.

When the desks were replaced in 1879, the Houghton desk turned up in a second-hand store. A friend of the colonel's happened to see it, with name plate still attached, and retrieved it for him.

Other furniture in the display includes a carved sofa with tapestry upholstery, three charming chairs of the same era, a marble-topped sideboard and a delightful pier glassed dresser.

Also on exhibit is the dainty embroidered gown in which Stanley Houghton was christened and a large, colorful picture, oil painted, yarn embroidered and framed in gold, stitched by a cousin of the family.

For many years, the Houghton family farmed 79 acres of land, purchased in 1896, that is now a North Long Beach residential area.

Stanley Houghton's mother was the daughter of Capt. George Donner, leader of the famed wagon expedition that was caught in a blizzard in the Sierras on the trip from Missouri to California. Most of the travelers died, including the captain and his wife. Mrs. Houghton, then a child of 4, was one of the few survivors.

Arriving on a sailing vessel that had traveled around Cape Horn, Sherman Houghton made and lost two fortunes before he was 25.

He fought Mexicans, grizzlies and Indians; was a vigilante and won fame as a lawyer by being instrumental in having the Supreme Court reverse its decisions on important land grant cases.

As a member of Congress, he secured the first appropriation for Long Beach Harbor and breakwater.

Stanley, one of eight children, had an adventurous life as a young man. Among his exploits was the capture and fatal shooting of a Mojave Desert desperado in Oro Grande, Calif., where he was justice of the peace.

Following his return to the Long Beach ranch in 1913, Houghton became a member of Long Beach City Council, Rotary Club, Boy Scout Council and the Society of California Pioneers; a director of the Chamber of Commerce and the Improvement Association of North Long Beach.

When he returned, Houghton brought a bride, the former Dove Cavett from Austin, Tex.

"He said many times that he was always surprised that he married a little Johnny Reb,"

Examining the inkwell of the desk at which the late Col. Sherman Houghton sat in Congress are Mrs. Stanley Houghton and her neighbor, Jimmy Evans. Desk, sideboard and other furniture from the former Houghton residence are on display at Houghton Park Clubhouse, a gift to the city from Mrs. Houghton, long time local resident.

twinkled the petite Mrs. Houghton.

Mrs. Houghton, widowed in 1951, now lives in a modest home across the street from Houghton Park and her former residence. Among the few sentimental reminders that she has kept are her bedroom furniture; a towering hand-carved headboard on a double bed that looks very small in comparison with modern beds; marble-topped dresser and bureau; and a small occasional table in the bright, airy living room that has, as its base, a baluster from the stairway of the old Houghton home.

"I LOVE to look out at the park," said Mrs. Houghton. "I can't imagine living anywhere else. See that double row of palm trees there? That was our old driveway leading from Myrtle Avenue up to the house."

Between the trees two boys in cut-off blue jeans and bright striped T-shirts were chasing each other with wild comanche yells—in and out, in and out, in and out—as Mrs. Houghton waved good-by.

WHY GROW OLD?

Select a Hair Style That Flatters YOU

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Monsieur Marc is one of America's top hair stylists. When asked what it is like to do the gorgeous Elizabeth Taylor's hair he said, "Miss Taylor is very pleasant to work with and I have styled her hair myself several times, but now I send someone else from my staff when she is in New York because it is practically a full time job."

"One must wait, wait, wait while the lady finishes her bath or talks on the telephone or chooses clothes. It is hard to devise new styles for her because she has tried practically every style, and while her hair is lovely and curly, this makes it difficult to work into the popular straight styles. The elaborate hairdos she wears in photos are built with several hairpieces, but she actually prefers a simple, casual look."

• • • •

MONSIEUR Marc has had many celebrity clients, such as Rosalind Russell, Renata Tebaldi, Eva and Zsa Zsa Gabor, Rita Gam and Doris Day for her film "Tunnel of Love." His absolute favorite is a gray-haired lady who is 95 years old and insists on wearing her hair Beatle fashion.

This tall Parisian-born stylist, who looks like a distinguished diplomat, says that American women are too prone to copy hair styles they see on others without studying their own face to see if the style will suit them. His answer to the complaint that one must often wait at a popular salon is that women who require elaborate hairdos for evening should say so when they make their appointments so that the stylist will know how to schedule his time.

• • • •

MONSIEUR Marc finds that American women have healthier, stronger, thicker hair than French women, and attributes this to better nutrition. They are more vitamin-conscious. He also feels that the mixture of nationalities plays a part. This stylist definitely feels that gray hair is aging "except for women with very pale, smooth, translucent complexions." He also said, "Most men, even if they don't admit it, prefer their wives to have softly colored hair rather than all gray."

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

In addition to $1,000 in cash prizes, there will be a $150 award for the best local scene painted by a non-resident for Catalina Island's fifth annual art exhibit Sept. 19 and 20.

Paintings in all media will be accepted, but there will be no facilities for the display of sculpture. There is a $2 registration fee for each painting.

Entries must be delivered by hand to the exhibit Saturday, Sept. 19, before 1 p.m. No freight, express or parcel post shipments will be accepted and a commission of 10% will be charged on all sales.

Monday through Friday, Sept. 14 to 18, bus rides to the island interior will be provided by special reservation for non-resident artists wishing to paint entries for the "Best Catalina Scene" prize.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Catalina Art Association, P.O. Box 235, Avalon.

FREDERICK BLACK, director of Long Beach Museum of Art, and Ben Messick, Long Beach artist, judged the Dutch Village fourth annual art show presented by Lakewood Art Association and sponsored by the Dutch Village Chamber of Commerce. Cash prizes totaling $740 were awarded.

First prize winners were Madeline Cook, traditional oil; Evelyn Carpenter, non-objective oil; Vesta Carton, water color; and Louise James, mixed media and graphic. The popular award, chosen by public vote, was won by Carman Smith.

Second and third prizes were made in each category and a number of honorable mention ribbons and free memberships were given.

AN EXHIBITION of European and American landscape painting from the 17th through the 19th centuries will be on display in the West Room of Fisher Gallery at USC through Friday. Chinese jade from the Florence M. Quinn collection is on view in the lower Quinn Gallery. Both shows are open to the public Monday through Friday from noon to 5 p.m.

The USC galleries will be closed during August and will reopen Sept. 14.

STRIKING examples of the brilliant, exotic forms of life found in oceans of the world make up the "Jewels of the Sea" exhibit at Los Angeles County Museum.

Specimens from the museum collection include the chambered nautilus, giant helmet, cowries, sea fans, murex and cone shells from the waters of Japan, the Philippines, Mexico, India, Samoa and the United States.

The exhibit will continue through Sept. 27. Museum hours are Tuesdays through Sundays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., closed Mondays.

NEWLY - DISCOVERED stone sculptures from temples of ancient India will be on display through Sept. 4 in UCLA's Dickson Art Center. Twelve of the pieces were discovered during an archaeological expedition conducted last winter by UCLA and the Rajasthan State Government. They were found among ruins of previously unknown temples, some more than 1,000 years old.

One, a pink sandstone carving of the Hindu deities Siva and Parvati, came from a 12th century temple at Ramgarh. A large head and torso and a draped female figure were found among massive ruins in Nithor.

The exhibit also includes Indian sculptures recently given to the university by Dr. and Mrs. George Lehner of Bel Air and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schneider of New York.

ART WORKSHOPS for talented secondary school students will be given by the University Extension at UCLA this fall. Young students must have artistic ability or interest and must be recommended by their art teachers, counselors or principals.

Saturday workshops are scheduled in drawing, painting, oil painting and sculpture. Classes will begin Oct. 3 at the Extension Art Studios, 1043 Westwood Blvd. Applications must be filed no later than Sept. 18; applicants will be notified of their selection by Sept. 23.

ROMERO FAMILY

Celedonio Romero and his sons, guitarists from Spain, will play classical and flamenco music in concert Saturday at 8:30 p. m. in Redondo Union High School. Pictured (from left) are Celin, Pepe, Celedonio and Angel. During their first season in this country they have performed on three network television shows, played with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Society, given two Town Hall concerts and recorded three albums. Tickets for the Saturday concert are on sale at Mutual Agencies.

'Alchemist' Will Open Saturday

The Elizabethan satire, "The Alchemist" by Ben Jonson, will open Saturday at Off-Broadway Theater, 211 Lime Ave., and will play Thursdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m.

This Theater Workshop production will be performed in commedia style, after the famous commedia del arte troupes of the Reanaissance theater of Europe. A group of strolling players will move onto the bare stage and in a matter of minutes improvise a stylized setting and costumes from the bits of material they bring with them.

* * * *

Don Tuche, formerly with the Actors Workshop in San Francisco, will direct this performance by the resident company. Jeff Tambor and Rickar Rekow have major roles. Also in the cast are Pamela Dunlap, Jeff McNeilledge and David Kettles.

"The Alchemist" concerns the activities of two, notorious London confidence men who prey on the foolish and gullible. The play has been produced repeatedly since it first delighted audiences in Shakespeare's time.

To Star on Bills in Bowl

Opera star Marilyn Horne, formerly of Long Beach, will appear Thursday and Saturday nights in Hollywood Bowl.

The week's programs will open Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. with Milton Katims conducting and Eugene Istomin as piano soloist for Beethoven's "Concerto No. 4." Also on the bill will be Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7" and the "Leonore" overture. Katims is conductor of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra.

* * * *

HENRY LEWIS will make his Bowl debut Thursday conducting an operatic program starring Miss Horne, Enrico di Giuseppe, tenor, and Sherrill Milnes, baritone. The program will include arias, duets and trios from "Norma," "William Tell," "Le Prophete" and other operas.

Marilyn Horne

The Friday night "extra" will be the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra with featured singers and performers.

* * * *

JOHN GREEN will conduct the annual Rodgers and Hammerstin program Saturday. Vocalists will be Miss Horne, soprano; Peggy Coburn, contralto; Chris Lachona, tenor; Bruce Yarnell, baritone; and the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Met Opera Schedules L.A. Dates

Metropolitan Opera Company will give 14 performances in Los Angeles Music Center during the 1965-66 season. S. Hurok will manage the coast-to-coast bookings for an extended national tour that will include the entire West Coast.

The repertoire will include "La Traviata," "Cenerentola," "Susannah" and "Carmen."

Featured singers will be Polyna Savridi, Maria Kaltsi, Louise Pearl, Dorothy Krebill, June Genovese, Robert Bennett, Eugene Talley-Schmidt, James Farrar, John Fiorito, William Justus and Michael Kermoyan.

The opera company will also make appearances in Tucson, Phoenix, San Diego, Fresno, Berkeley, Sacramento, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver.

Pre-Cinema Entertainment

The Lyton collection of pre-cinema forms of entertainment and two films on this same subject are featured at the Lytton Center of the Visual Arts, 8150 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. "The Voyage of Mr. Q" is a color film that combines magic lantern imagery with modern animation techniques and describes a day in Paris. The second film, "The Glory That Grew Up" traces the experiments in creating an illusion of motion to the birth of film. Admission is free. Hours: Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Undertakes New Enterprise

By RACHEL MORTON
I. P-T Music Critic

Major and Minor Notes

In the nearly 20 years that I have resided in Long Beach, the thought has often crossed my mind that, were I not so actively engaged in things musical, I would have liked very much to have become a concert manager in this very fertile area. It was, therefore, with much satisfaction that I talked the other day with one who has become just that.

Mickey Ruetschi (pronounced Ritchie) is the wife of one of Long Beach's outstanding musicians, Charles Ruetschi, concert pianist. Born and reared in Cleveland, Ohio, Ruetschi was already a prodigy at the age of 12. For many years he was affiliated with Columbia Artists as a concert pianist, and he traveled extensively on nation-wide tours as soloist and accompanist for such outstanding artists as Donald Dame, Helen Olheim, Brian Sullivan and many others.

* * * *

BUT IT IS of Mrs. Ruetschi I am writing particularly. She, too, was born in Ohio, but later moved to Washington, D. C., where she was a fashion co-ordinator for specialty shops.

She recalls with pride a high light in her professional career when she produced a fashion show for the Republican Convention in Washington. All her models were United States Congressmen and their wives. It was a highly successful coup!

Coming to Long Beach five years ago, Mickey Ruetschi, being closely associated with her talented husband's musical life, decided to use her professional experience in the entertainment world, rather than continuing in the fashion field.

* * * *

"I SAW MUCH potential talent hereabouts," said Mrs. Ruetschi, "and also a demand for good entertainment. The need was great, and I felt I might help as liaison between the two—and so, I have become a booking agent."

For many years George B. Hunt & Associates of Los Angeles have been active in all phases of entertainment. Happily and fortunately for us, Mickey Ruetschi has become affiliated with this well-known agency. This gives her a wide choice of entertainment material to select from as well as giving her valuable contacts for those wishing to buy entertainment. (The Ebell Club of Long Beach has already signed contracts with Mrs. Ruetschi for five programs for next season.)

* * * *

"MY REAL interest," said she, "is in giving opportunity to young talent. I, myself longed to be a singer but my ambition was never realized. This is why I have such an interest in promoting promising young artists. Of course, I handle professionals as well. Also, I learned that there has been no accredited agent in this area for years."

The many clubs, organizations, societies and churches in Long Beach which are constantly giving programs of entertainment would do well to consult with Mickey Ruetschi.

Harvey Film at CSLB

"The Running Man," starring Laurence Harvey, Lee Remick and Alan Bates, will be shown Saturday at 7 and 9 p.m. in California State College, Long Beach, Little Theater sponsored by Long Beach Film Society.

Carol Reed directed the movie, which is photographed in color in rural Spain. The suspense thriller concerns an insurance fraud, murder and a faithful wife.

A short companion feature will also be shown.

Next on the film society's summer series is "Umberto D," to be followed by "A View From the Bridge," "Kanal," and "The Balcony."

Orchestra in Concert

The department of music at California State College, Long Beach, will present the summer session orchestra in a concert Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Little Theater. There will be no admission charge.

The program will include "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor," Handel; "Symphony No. 35" (Haffner), Mozart; "Lieutenant Kije," Prokofieff; and "Emperor Waltzes," Strauss.

Oregon Festival

Ten musicians from the Los Angeles area, including Peter Christ, oboist, and Gretal Shanley, flutist, of Westwood Wind Quintet will be among members of the 1964 Peter Britt Music and Fine Arts Festival Orchestra performing Aug. 9-22 in Jacksonville, Ore.

Arthur Carah Heads Cast for 'Pinafore'

Lakewood Philharmonic Association will present Gilbert and Sullivavn's comic opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," July 31, Aug. 1, 7 and 8 at Long Beach City College Auditorium.

Tickets are on sale at Humphrey's Music Company, 135 E. Third St., Rose's Hardware, 4132 Viking Way, and Bixby Knolls Music Center, 4508 Atlantic Ave.

* * * *

ARTHUR CARAH as Sir Joseph Porter heads the cast of performers. Other principal singing roles are filled by Silvio Barto as Capt. Cochran, Larry Laraway as Ralph, Lynn Carol as Josephine, Ruthanne Lorenzen as Buttercup, Charles Raitch Jr. as Dick Deadeye, Millicent Treadwell as Cousin Hebe and Joe Pat Williams as the Boatswain. Henri Scanlon directs.

Further information may be had by calling Norman Kreitzer, general manager, 4540 Leverside Ave., Lakewood.

Student Artist's Work Shows Great Promise

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Judy Leiker appears to have a tiger by the tail from the evidence in her one-man show at Atelier 7. This gallery at 3316 E. Seventh St. is open from 1 p.m. to midnight; the present show continues through Aug. 16.

Miss Leiker, who is a senior at CSLB, shows a selection of drawings, paintings and graphics. The latter include a very large and successful woodcut, serigraphs, lithos, and an interesting small collagraph.

The work is characterized by an eagerness to experiment with brush, pencil, pen, crayon and etching tools to find any possible way to express a surging talent. The range is uneven, as a student's work should be, from the original and controlled "A Very Proud Fellow" (5-foot high woodcut of an ostrich) to the loose, dynamic and not-very-sure figure drawings.

* * * *

THE ARTIST has much to say in figure drawing, still life, animal life and abstract composition. She adds her own rich insight to keen observation. She enjoys a degree of mastery of the media she uses. She understands the difference between the quick and the dead in composing.

But Miss Leiker has, with a few notable exceptions, yet to resolve all these elements. As a consequence, many of her compositions are over-complicated . . . too many colors, too many forms vying for the viewer's eye, too many strokes (perhaps because she isn't sure yet which the right ones are).

* * * *

IN INSTANCES when color or subject matter are limited, these faults disappear. As I indicated, the ostrich is a very grand work. Another is "Alley Row," a lively litho in which there is much white space, while her canyon strokes are congruent and meaningful. An oil painting of glowing abstract forms in yellow on white is most successful.

There is every indication that as she continues to work Miss Leiker will extend her mastery over any content or media she chooses. This is an exciting show of dynamic achievement and great promise.

'FIRST WE'LL MAKE A GRAPEFRUIT CAKE, THEN . . .'

Homemade cakes and pies, including tastebud-whetting egg nog mold and sauerkraut cake among others, will be prepared in Gamma Phi Beta kitchens for the sixth annual dessert-bridge Wednesday at 1 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Clubhouse, 101 E. 28th St. Here Mrs. Richard Cabe, Mary Ann Ryan and Mrs. Charles Bennett gather for a dessert making session. Proceeds will provide scholarships for California State College, Long Beach. Mrs. John O'Brien is chairman of event, sponsored by Long Beach Gamma Phi alumnae, and Mrs. Bennett, 3834 Myrtle Ave., is ticket chairman. Miss Ryan, Mrs. J. Malcolm Johnson and Mrs. John Zaepfel are others on committee.

Naples Music School on Community Slate

Music and dance from Naples School of Music, under direction of Roy Campbell, will be presented Monday at 8 p.m. in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Featured soloists on the community program sponsored by Long Beach Recreation Department, will be Mike Schmidt, boy soprano of the Mitchell Boys' Choir; Danny Smith, pianist; Jane Jacobson, soprano of the New York Musical Theater; Joel Valdivia, guitarist, and Bob Campbell, teen-age tenor.

* * * *

A GROUP OF girls will present a ballet excerpt from a Tschaikovsky theme.

Instrumental and vocal arrangements, will be presented by the Port Town Singers.

Carl H. Robertson will lead community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m., with Regina Beam accompanying.

The Tyo Orchestra will play for old time and square dancing following the stage show. Joe Marshall will call.

The free program is open to the public.

Greek Theater to Offer First in Summer Series

First of the Greek Theater's international festival series this summer will be the Viennese production of "Wiener Blut" (Vienna Life) which opens for its American premiere Aug. 3 and will play through Aug. 8.

The company of outstanding stars from the leading stages of Vienna's theaters is coming directly from the Austrian capital for its first engagement prior to a coast-to-coast tour.

The melodious score by the "waltz king," Johann Strauss, ranks as one of his best-loved works. This production, by impresario Harald Hoeller, will be lavishly staged.

* * * *

A COMPANY of 65, including corps de ballet, chorus and principal artists, will perform. Tony Niessner, one of Vienna's most renowned stage authorities, is responsible for direction of the entire production. Choreography is by Fred Meister and will include his classic, "Blue Danube Waltz Ballet."

The libretto by Leon and Stein concerns a multi-faced marital mixup of the sort possible only in the fanciful world of Viennese operetta.

"Wiener Blut," last of Strauss' operettas, has been a world-wide favorite since its premiere in 1899.

O'Connell Signed at Melodyland

Songstress Helen O'Connell has been signed as an added attraction on the Liberace show, which plays a one night engagement Aug. 10 at Melodyland Theater.

Starting as a teenage singer with the Dorsey Brothers Orchestra, the vocalist became a recording star.

Liberace will present a new program, backed by an 18-piece orchestra and wearing a completely new wardrobe which has been described as "smashing."

"Bells Are Ringing," starring Gordon and Sheila MacRae, will close at the Anaheim theater Aug. 2.

Players Issue Casting Call

Readings will be held Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. for "Seven Nuns In Las Vegas" at Hillcrest Nursery, 1517 Anaheim St., Harbor City, by a newly organized group, the Hillcrest Players.

Anyone wishing to participate as a performer or in production is invited to attend.

Play Plays On

The run of James Baldwin's play, "The Amen Corner," appearing at the Coronet Theater, Los Angeles, has been extended for six weeks, according to Frank Silvera, producer-director.

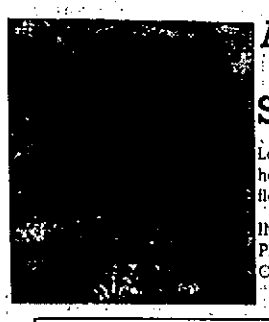

Also on view for theatergoers at the Coronet is an exhibit of the work of Hugh Harrell, New York artist and founder of the Soul Gallery in Greenwich Village.

GAR Auxiliary Meeting, Cards

Women's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to GAR, will sponsor a card party Tuesday at Veterans Memorial Building, with luncheon served at noon.

The auxiliary will meet at Veterans Memorial Building Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. with Rose O'Neil presiding.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

He Operates World-Wide

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I-P-T Food Editor

We find him difficult to chronicle on paper. But of one thing you may be sure, none of his life has been spent putting in comas and semicolons.

Today's Chef of the Week, Melvin A. Casberg, M.D., might actually be described as a world citizen with world interests. He has made eight trips around the world, leaving each port better for his having been there. Presently, he is on his second "tour of duty" on the surgical staff of the Harriman Jones Medical Clinic. He had served as chief-of-surgery at that hospital in 1946-48.

Casberg was born in Poone, Bombay Province, India. His dad, a builder, was supervising the building of a mission hospital, and training schools for the orphans of India. His grade school days were spent in the Himalayas, and his high school, in the mountains of South India.

* * * *

COMING then to California, Casberg enrolled at the Los Angeles Pacific Junior College, before receiving his A.B. degree at Greenville College, Greenville, Ill., his M.D. at St. Louis University School of Medicine, and his LL.D at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo. He returned to Greenville for a D.SC honorary degree.

Casberg completed both his internship and his residency in surgery at St. Louis City Hospital. He became a Diplomate of the National Board of Medical Examiners in 1937, and a member of the American Board of Surgery in 1946. With his training completed, he and Mrs. Casberg (Olive), and their son and daughter, returned to Punjab, India, to reorganize the Christian College which his father had built. He was later appointed surgeon in-chief of the Umri Mission Hospital in India.

* * * *

CASBERG'S World War II service would furnish material for a book. Serving with the U.S. Army Medical Corps, he was with the 21st General Hospital staff in the North African invasion. Following that he was sent to the China, Burma, India theatre, where he served as station surgeon at Chungking, China, under Gen. "Vinegar" Joe Stillwell. While there, he was the personal physician of Generalissimo and Mme. Chiang Kai Shek. And, as a member of an intelligence group, he roamed the hills of China with Chinese guerrillas. It was fight-and-run experience which continued both day and night.

Returning to the States, Casberg became surgical consultant at Wakeman General Convalescent Hospital in Indiana. He was discharged in 1945, after changing his captain's insignia to that of a lieutenant colonel.

* * * *

FROM 1947 through 49, Casberg was senior attending surgeon at Harbor General Hospital, and a surgical consultant to the surgeon general of the Army. Then he was called back to St. Louis University as Dean of Medicine of the Medical School, and as associate professor of surgery.

Casberg spent the first four years of the "fifties" in Washington, D.C. as chairman of the Armed Forces Medical Policy Council, Department of Defense, as assistant secretary of defense (health and medical) under President Eisenhower, and as a visiting professor of anatomy, Howard University School of Medicine.

Casberg served as consultant to the Army Chemical Corps for three years, at Dugway Proving Grounds, Utah, before going to the University of Texas as president of medical affairs.

* * * *

PROBABLY one of the most rewarding phases of his entire career was having as a student, and a friend, the late Dr. Thomas A. Dooley. One of the last social visits Dooley made was at the Casberg home in Texas. Our "chef" now has the honor of serving as vice president of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation, Inc.

Casberg's scientific society memberships are many. To mention a few, he's a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the American Association for the Surgery of Trauma, of the Association of Surgeons of India, and of the Society of Medical Consultants to the Armed Forces and the Air Force Clinical Surgeons Association. Honorary-wise, he belongs to the Alpha-Omega Alpha (medical), The Alpha Epsilon Delta (premed), and to the Sigma Xi (scientific).

Casberg has been given the Gold Medal of Honor, Military Medical Service of France decoration: and was presented the Civilian Award from the Department of Defense, U.S.A.

* * * *

HIS INTEREST in the advancement of medicine extends all the way from India, to Washington, D.C., to St. Louis, Mo., and to the State of California. He has served as chairman, Section of Military Medicine, American Medical Association. He is a member of the Board of Governors, American National Red Cross, of the Medical Advisory Council, MEDICO.

Were the Casberg family to gather for a reunion, it would include daughter, Guinn, her husband, a Presbyterian minister in El Paso, Tex., and their little daughter and son. Also, Melvin Casberg II, who will finish medicine this summer at Galveston, Tex., his wife and two sons, one of whom is Melvin Casberg III. Son, Ronald, 17, at home, will be a senior at Wilson High School, come fall.

When he finds time for doing as he pleases, he hunts, swims or weeds the garden. The latter, he insists upon doing himself, for he believes it should be done surgically. And, while he's wonderfully void of all "fussy little habits", he is fastidious to the 'nth degree.

Our "chef" loves to write—both fiction and medicine. We forgot, of all things, to ask if he could cook. Anyway, here's his recipe, straight from India.

INDIAN CURRY

1 Leg of lamb—cut in one-inch cubes

Melvin A. Casberg, M.D.

½ bottle Spice Island curry power
1 tsp. cummin seed
½ tsp. garlic salt
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. ginger
Mango chutney
Fresh or frozen pineapple chunks
Banana bits
Salted cashew or almonds
Flaked coconut

Mix spices and saute with lamb in oil until well browned. Add two cans bouillon and water to cover meat mixture. Boil for 2 to 3 hours. Cool and skim off fat. Serve hot with rice and

Take Hubby Along

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Is it fair for a husband to go out without his wife when we are on a very limited budget? Whenever there is a little money for a night out, he goes by himself! I'd say that was good cause for wives to stray to other pastures.

It gets pretty tiresome listening to children all day long and counting pennies every payday. I wouldn't mind it if he stayed home and counted pennies with me, but since he won't, I'm about to do something drastic.—FED UP

DEAR FED UP:

I hear from many a wife who feels the same way you do. In fact, I can't begin to tell you how many letters are signed "Fed Up." (Some of these are from husbands, I might add.)

Anyway, next time there are some pennies for a night out, you plan ahead; arrange for a baby sitter or exchange same service with a friend, and YOU arrange the night out taking hubby along as escort. Won't he be the surprised one???????—M.M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Husbands! I wonder why women tolerate them!

Been married 30 years, my husband and sons are my whole life. But my husband is most possessive and jealous. All these years he has accused me of indecent acts with young and old men—any man who is nice to me or smiles at me. He is rude any time we chance to meet any of the men I work with.

Believe me, I'm not flattered by his actions — I'm downright disgusted! A woman my age making her husband jealous makes me just a little sick. How can he see sin where there is none? What gets me is I'm not the kind of woman men give a second glance to and my husband knows this.

I love the guy but he sure gives me a big pain! Thanks for listening.—MOUSEY

DEAR MOUSEY:

Has it occurred to you that your husband might just want to be a little jealous of you? If you're as mousey as you claim, maybe after 30 years of marriage he'd like to feel he had a somewhat less mousey mate.

I'd stop going out of my way to pacify him. Let him get jealous. He'll be happier if he does.—M.M.

Don Lorton of Long Beach won $1000 in cash and an all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. for him and his wife for a black-and-white picture of his poodle in last year's Snapshot Contest!

Amateur Photographers Just One Snapshot May WIN $1,000.00 FOR YOU! $200.00 IN U.S. SAVINGS BONDS AWARDED HERE WEEKLY in the Newspaper National

SNAPSHOT CONTEST

Sponsored by the Independent, Press-Telegram

Any black-and-white or color print taken after July 1, 1963 is eligible. Put your name, address and classification on the back of your snapshots. Address them to Snapshot Contest Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Avenue, Long Beach, Calif. 90801. Send no more than 4 prints each week. SEND YOUR CONTEST ENTRIES NOW!

Judging for the 1st week's contest will be conducted on Monday, July 27. All photos received by that date will be entered in the 1st week's contest. Winners will be announced each week in Southland Magazine starting Sunday, August 2 and continuing each Sunday thereafter to and including Sunday, Sept. 6 . . . a period of 6 weeks.

EXPENSE PAID TRIP TO WASHINGTON! Winners of each of the 8 top awards in the U.S. will receive $1,000 each and will be flown to Washington, D.C., with one member of the family, all expenses paid, for the final awards luncheon. In addition, there will be special sight-seeing tours, receptions, dinners and accommodations at one of the Capital's finest hotels.

PRIZES! More than $31,000 Awarded! A $25 U.S. Savings Bond will be awarded by the Independent, Press-Telegram to each winner in each of the 8 categories every week during the 7-weeks contest . . . a total of 48 prizes!

The eight best-of-winners photos will be entered in the Eastman Kodak Co. National Snapshot Contest in Washington, D.C. where they will compete for a total of $31,000 in cash awards. Top prizes in each of 8 categories . . . 4 in black-and-white and 4 in color . . . (1) Babies and children; (2) Teen-ager and adult activities; (3) Scenes and special compositions; (4) Animals and pets, will be $1,000 in cash; second prize winners will receive $500; third prize winners, $250. In addition, 120 Special Merit Awards of $50 and $25 will be given.

SNAPSHOT CONTEST RULES

1. The contest is strictly for amateur photographers. Anyone is eligible excepting employees of this newspaper, or employees of any newspaper participating in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, employees of the sponsors and their families, and individuals who, personally, or any members of whose families are engaged in the manufacture, sale commercial finishing or professional use of photographic goods.

2. Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1963 are eligible. Black-and-white and color PRINTS accepted only.

3. Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No print, enlargement or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negative from which they are made or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4. To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the picture entered. (See classes.)

5. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED. Do not submit negatives with your prints. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted). This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6. At the close of the contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $31,000.

7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8. It is not permissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the twenty-sixth annual (1964) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one of more than eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

CLASSES

A. BABIES AND CHILDREN—One or more youngsters, to be judged for cuteness, expression of character, or mood. Subjects may be engaged in any activity or interest. Adults may appear if they are not the principal interest.

B. ACTIVITIES—Teen-agers or adults. They may be engaged in any activity outdoors or indoors, at any season: occupations, hobbies, sports, and recreations; any picture that tells a story of an interesting phase of everyday life. Children may appear if they are not the principal interest.

C. SCENES AND "TABLETOPS" Judged for scenic or pictorial appeal—landscapes, marine views, historical spots, street scenes, buildings; or unusual "still-life" subjects including "tabletop" or miniature arrangements.

D. ANIMAL LIFE—Household pets, farm animals, forest wild life, zoo animals, etc.; any situation in which the aforesaid subjects are of principal interest.

Color Entries Will Be Judged in the Same Four Classes Listed Above.

IMPORTANT: If you send a picture which you expect to enter in the contest and in which a person or persons appear, be sure to get their names and addresses. This is necessary because, before your picture can become eligible for entry in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, the written consent of such recognizable person or persons to the use of the picture for advertising purposes must be obtained.

Q. Is it true that astronauts John Glenn and Alan Shepard are all washed up as pilots?—G. Thompson, Baton Rouge, La.

A. Glenn is improving but still suffers dizzy spells. Shepard has recovered from his dizzy spells but still suffers a hearing loss and can fly only as a passenger.

Q. Is Judy Garland nuts?—Ann Bremer, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Not psychotic—just emotionally unstable.

Q. Where does Pres. Johnson get his energy? Does he take pep pills?—D.B., San Diego, Calif.

A. No, he swims every day before lunch, takes an after-lunch nap, is then raring to go.

Q. The man with the black eye patch who poses for Hathaway shirts—who is he?—Mrs. Roslyn Miller, Youngstown, Ohio.

A. There have been two such models: The first was Baron George Wrangell, who quit when he was refused extra pay for using his patch photo in advertisements of women's shirts; the second is Mr. Colin Leslie Fox, a former London bookmaker who quit school at 14 and is introduced on U.S. promotion tours as Lord Hathaway.

Q. Is it true that Sir Douglas-Home, British Prime Minister, has only three shirts? — James Gordon, Chicago, Ill.

A. According to Lady Douglas-Home, "My husband possesses three shirts — one on, one off and one at the wash."

Q. Several months ago Sonny Liston was charged in Denver with reckless driving in a car carrying a 7-shot, 22-caliber pistol. What disposition if any was made of these charges? —Geo. T., Portland, Ore.

A. Liston pleaded guilty to the driving charge, "no contest" to the weapons charge. He was fined $600, given a 30-day jail sentence, which was suspended.

Q. Is it true that Gen. Eisenhower refused to appear with Gen. Montgomery on the CBS D-Day program? —E. Evans, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. The suggestion was made to Eisenhower, but knowing how argumentative Montgomery can be, Ike reportedly turned it down.

Q. President Charles de Gaulle's term of office expires in 1965. Will he run again for President of France? — Anne Rossiter, San Antonio, Tex.

A. Undoubtedly, if his health permits.

Q. Can you tell me what's happened to Olga Ivinskaya, close friend of the late Russian writer, Boris Pasternak?—G.H.S., Syracuse, N.Y.

A. In 1960 she was jailed because of her friendship with Pasternak. The Soviets imprisoned her on trumped-up charges, claiming she illegally used royalties from his famous novel, Dr. Zhivago. Recently Soviet writers have asked Khrushchev to free her, which at this writing he is considering.

Q. Buddy Ebsen, who plays Jed on TV in Beverly Hillbillies*—how old? Married? If so, how many children?—Ann Carruthers, Phoenix, Ariz.*

A. Ebsen, 57, married, is father of 5.

Q. Is it true that our Army and Navy will soon recruit only bachelors?—D. E. Russell, Dorchester, Mass.

A. The Pentagon is considering one such proposal. An all-bachelor service force would save the government over $20,000,000 annually in family allotments.

Q. I've read that Darryl Zanuck failed to make a star out of his previous two protégées, Bella Darvi and Juliette Greco. Now he's trying with his third: Irina Demich. Is this so, or publicity for Demich? — F.T.L., Hollywood, Calif.

A. True. He has cast her in Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines, in a role originally scheduled for Britt Eklund, wife of actor Peter Sellers.

Q. Will Richard Burton leave Elizabeth Taylor for that Swedish blonde in N.Y.?—M. H., New York, N.Y.

A. Mr. Burton wouldn't do a thing like that.

Q. Do they still serve rum in the British Navy to all hands?—Ron Humphrey, Paw Creek, N.C.

A. Yes. "Up Spirits" is piped daily as the traditional pre-lunch drink in the Queen's Navy.

Q. How long was Adlai Stevenson married, and when was he divorced?—James Cable, Miami, Fla.

A. Adlai Stevenson was married to the former Ellen Borden for 21 years, was divorced in 1949.

Q. Can you tell me how much singer Andy Williams earns each year?—Bess Lavalle, St. Louis, Mo.

A. It changes radically from year to year. In 1964 he will gross approximately $1,000,000.

Q. The woman in the prologue to Mike Wallace's TV show, Biography*—is she Greta Garbo as I maintain or Dorothy Kilgallen as my friend maintains?—R. Winkler, St. Louis, Mo.*

A. You are correct. It's Garbo.

Q. Isn't Gen. Thomas Power, commander of our Strategic Air Force, compelled to retire by law in 1964? And isn't his possible replacement, Gen. Walter Sweeney, stationed at Langley Air Force Base, not March Air Force Base? —H.T., Washington, D.C.

A. Right in both instances, although Defense Secretary Robert McNamara could keep Power (above) on if he were so inclined.

Q. Who said, "The art of medicine consists of amusing the patient while nature cures the disease"?—Helen Newsom, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Q. Is actor James Mason about to reconcile with his wife, actress Pamela Mason, because he cannot afford the alimony?—D.V.G., Des Moines, Iowa.

A. Mason says he may go broke, but says reconciliation is out of the question.

HIGH-PRESSURE OXYGEN:

medicine's latest way to save lives

When Richard Donawa, an 18-year-old auto accident victim, was admitted to Bellevue Hospital, New York, a few months ago, his case, although serious, appeared routine. His left leg had been badly crushed in the accident, and the wound was filled with sand and paint flecks. Surgeons cleaned out the wound, then cut away the torn and mutilated tissues. In accordance with standard procedure, Richard was given a tetanus shot and sent to the recovery room.

At this point, it seemed as though Richard would recover normally. But then an infection flared up in his leg. At first doctors feared they might not be able to save it. Soon they were also battling to save the boy's life.

Yet today Richard Donawa is healthy—and will soon walk out of the hospital on both legs. For thanks to an exciting new medical tool called hyperbaric oxygenation, doctors were able to pull him back from the brink of death.

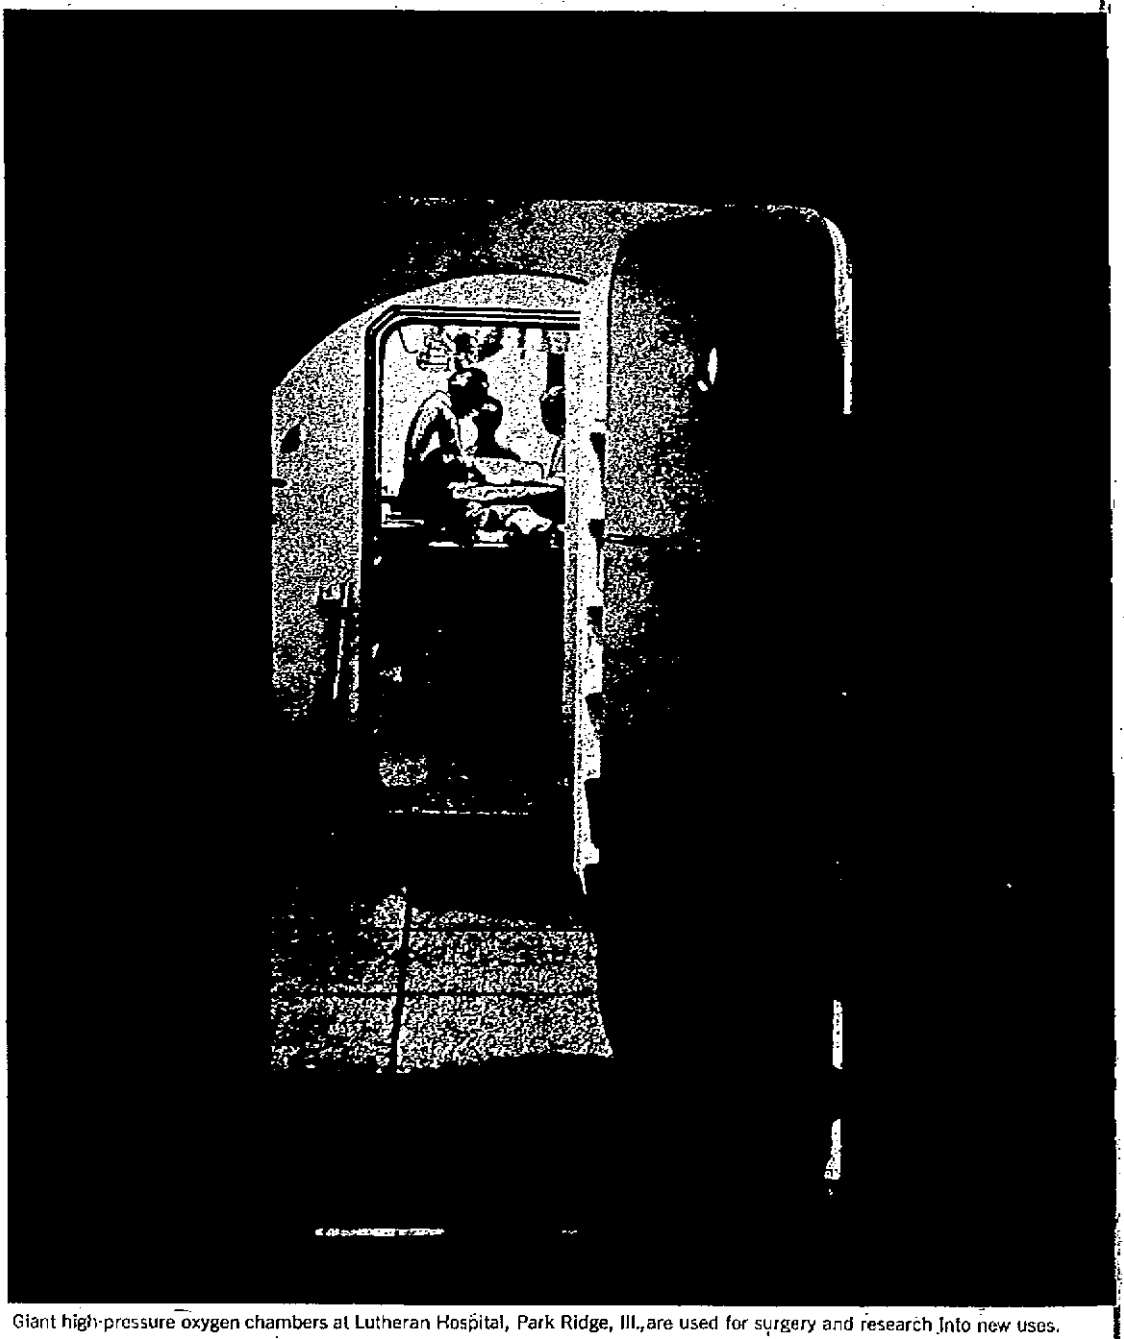

Richard, however, is only one of the recent beneficiaries of this newly rediscovered medical technique. Hyperbaric oxygenation, a method of treating patients with oxygen under abnormally high pressure, is also making headway against several other of mankind's most damaging ills. It has been used to save the lives of victims of carbon monoxide poisoning and tetanus. It has helped to preserve the lives of "blue babies" and to permit delicate operations on other infants. It has made surgery possible for old people and other high-risk patients. And it may even hold out hope against certain forms of America's two great killers—cancer and heart disease.

THREATENED BY GANGRENE

But the case of Richard Donawa saw one of the most dramatic uses of HPO. Shortly after his accident, doctors detected the presence of gas gangrene in Richard's leg. This destructive infection, caused by bacteria that had invaded the wound at the time of the accident, threatened to destroy the remaining muscles and tissues. And if unchecked it could spread throughout the body and cause death.

Antibiotics were pumped into the youth to halt the spread of the infection. But after four days the doctors at Bellevue were forced to admit failure. The gangrene could not be halted by conventional therapy. The only recourse seemed to be amputation.

Then, with the drama of a last-minute reprieve, two young interns, Drs. Herbert Berkoff and Gerald Broock, recalled reading that HPO had cured gas gangrene cases in other hospitals. Under this technique, pure oxygen at 3 times the normal atmospheric pressure is administered to the body, so that the cells receive 20 times the normal amount of oxygen. Since the gangrene-causing bacteria cannot live in air, the tremendous increase in oxygen kills them off faster than any other known method.

For Richard, however, this still was only a faint hope. For hyperbaric oxygenation requires the use of a special steel chamber similar to the pressurized caissons used by tunnel workers, and none was available at Bellevue. Then Dr. Roy Klaus, chief of cardiovascular surgery at Bellevue, remembered that Mt. Sinai Hospital had been doing experimental work with a small chamber. He telephoned Dr. Julius H. Jacobson II, a Mt. Sinai expert on hyperbaric oxygenation. "Bring him over immediately," was the reply.

The patient arrived at Mt. Sinai shortly before 6 P.M., was admitted, examined and sped into the small cylindrical chamber. "I thought it was going to be like an iron lung," recalls Donawa. "You know, where your head sticks out. But they pushed me in this thing, head and all, and then the door was cranked shut and I was alone and scared."

Dr. Jacobson opened the valve on a tall oxygen bottle. The gas, under 45 pounds pressure per square inch—which is 3 times the normal pressure—hissed through a hose into the tank. For two hours Donawa's body was drenched with oxygen. Then he was taken out of the chamber and four hours later returned to it. This schedule was continued for 36 hours, until tests showed that the infection had been finally and irreversibly beaten and Richard Donawa's leg and life had been saved.

Hyberbaric oxygenation is not actually a revolutionary new technique, nor was it always a scientific one. The first man to use it was an English physician named Henshaw, in 1662, in the belief he could cure all respiratory ills. The idea failed to attract anything but scorn. Attempts in the 18th and 19th centuries to use oxygen under pressure were unsuccessful.

USE IN OPERATING ROOM

Then, in 1959, Dr. Iete Boerema, a Dutch surgeon, built a complete operating room within a pressure tank at the Wilhelmina Clinic, University of Amsterdam. Boerema proved that oxygen under pressure would provide surgical patients with a much higher than normal reserve of oxygen and could be the difference between life and death under the knife. If administered to the patient in vastly increased quantities, oxygen served to keep him alive during dangerous surgery, which sometimes temporarily cuts off blood that normally carries oxygen to the cells.

Boerema's success with difficult open-heart surgery set off a chain reaction of medical interest in hyperbaric oxygenation. One of its first uses was in "blue baby" operations. At Boston's Children's Hospital, a full-size hyperbaric chamber, first built in 1932 by the Navy as a research tool to investigate caisson disease—the bends—has been installed for such surgery. Dr. William Bernhard and Dr. Robert Gross have performed more than 40 operations on "blue babies"—so-called because they are born with defective hearts which deprive them of blood-borne oxygen, tinging the tiny bodies blue and causing death. The hospital's 29-foot-long hyperbaric oxygen chamber brings the infant's oxygen level up to almost normal before and during surgery. As a result, the team has been able to operate successfully on infants only 12 hours old who might never have survived otherwise.

For the aged and gravely ill who normally would be classed as "poor-risk" surgical patients, because of prior strokes or heart attacks, HPO offers an added safety margin. These patients normally cannot withstand the drop in blood pressure or hemorrhage that may accompany surgery. HPO, however, may deliver enough oxygen to the body to enable the poor-risk patient to withstand the hemorrhage as well as the drop in blood pressure.

Against cancer, high-pressure oxygen seems to have solved a major problem in the radiation treatment of tumors. Explains Dr. Orliss Wildermuth, director of the Tumor Institute of Swedish Hospital, Seattle: "The lack of oxygen in the blood supply of a cancerous growth results in resistance to X-ray treatment, but still allows the cancer cells to flourish. The lack of oxygen, however, can be overcome by HPO, thus restoring sensitivity to X-ray treatment. The high-pressure oxygen, however, does not increase the response of normal tissue to X-rays."

The number-one killer in America, heart disease, may also prove susceptible to treatment in hyperbaric chambers. Recently, a British physician, Dr. A. J. Moon, successfully treated a 56-year-old man who had gone into severe shock after a heart attack. Normal treatments failed to bring him around, and his condition was so poor that his blood pressure dropped to a point where it could not be recorded. Dr. Moon installed him in a hyperbaric oxygen chamber for two hours. His blood pressure quickly rose to over 100. The treatment continued for several days, and, Dr. Moon reported, he recovered uneventfully.

This was one of the first recorded uses of HPO against a very common disease of the heart, myocardial infarction, which is caused by the sudden failure of the arteries to feed blood to the heart itself. One of the great unknowns of infarctions is the length of time the blood supply may be cut off before the muscle is actually damaged. Conceivably, if patients are rushed into an HPO chamber soon enough after a heart attack, the high-pressure oxygen delivered directly to the heart tissues may reduce scarring or prevent its occurring at all.

Animal experiments at New York's Mt. Sinai have been extremely encouraging. Two groups of animals were given artificially induced infarctions. One group was untreated, and only 13 per cent survived. The second group of animals were placed in HPO chambers, and the survival rate soared to 76 per cent.

POTENTIAL IS GREAT

No one is prepared to say just where the uses of hyperbaric oxygenation will lead. Mt. Sinai is installing a giant 45-foot-long chamber capable of containing a full-scale operating suite as well as a treatment lounge. Other hospitals—Lutheran General, Park Ridge, Ill.; Duke University, Durham, N.C.—have going installations which are key units in the search to plumb all the benefits of HPO. Some experts are convinced we have not even begun to realize fully the actual potential and versatility of HPO. Mt. Sinai's Dr. Jacobson declares: "We have only scratched the surface. Hyperbaric oxygenation is potentially as important a tool as blood transfusions or antibiotics. Especially as a research tool, HPO can teach us much."

One of the first lessons, already well absorbed, is the care which must be exercised in hyperbaric oxygenation therapy. The dangers of HPO are not solely to the patient. There is the threat of fire. In addition, prolonged exposure to oxygen under high pressures can be toxic to some people. The bends, of course, are also a distinct threat. Like divers, medical personnel in HPO chambers must undergo a slow decompression to avoid the bends.

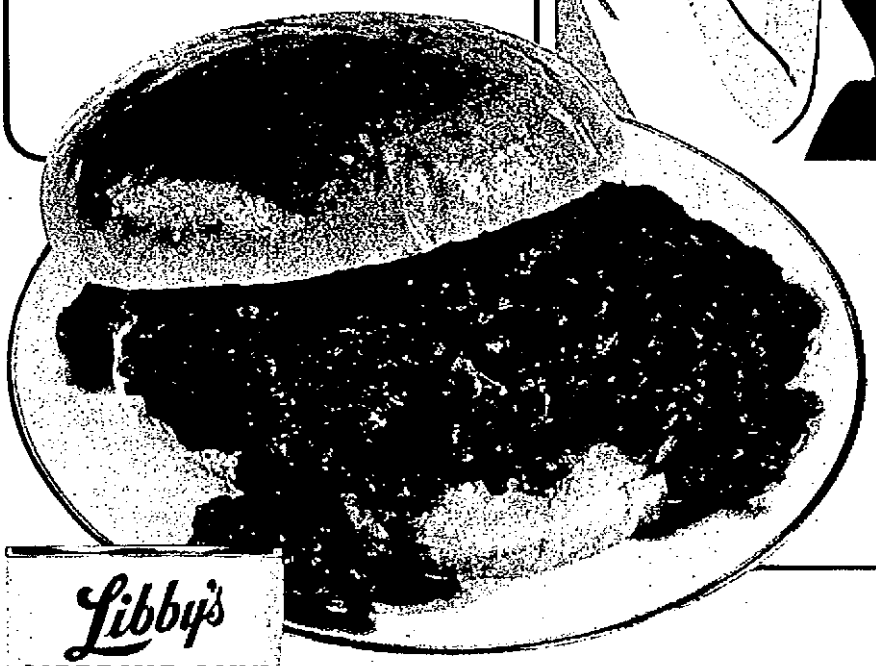

Despite some drawbacks and the great amount of search that still lies ahead, many scientists are convinced that hyperbaric oxygenation can be a true wonder tool in the battle against the ills of man.

GET IT BY THE CARTFUL FOR INSTANT ENTERTAINING AND HANDY-DANDY FAMILY FARE

On location for Lord Jim, female lead Daliah Lavi, statuesque Israeli actress, is subject of mute admiration by Cambodian girl.

Daliah Lavi

WOMAN OF THE WORLD

by LLOYD SHEARER

LONDON.

Twelve years ago Hollywood star Kirk Douglas was working in a small Israeli village north of Haifa, filming a motion picture called The Juggler.

One afternoon a girl of 10, tall for her age, with the blackest hair and the most luminous, sloe, black-brown eyes, gracefully slithered up to Douglas and Swedish actor Christopher Kent. Sweetly she invited them to her tenth birthday party.

Impressed by the child's poise and exotic beauty, Douglas asked questions. Readily the girl replied.

Her name, she said, was Daliah Lewinbook. Her mother was a German refugee, her father a gardener descended from a tribe of Caucasian Gypsies. More than anything else in life, she wanted to become a ballet dancer.

Douglas and Kent walked home with the girl. By the time her party was over, the Hollywood star was so taken by the 10-year-old that he asked her parents if he might adopt her. He pointed out the many advantages she would enjoy in California, the fine prospects of her developing into a top ballerina.

"She's too young to leave us," Daliah's father decided. "Maybe when she's older."

Two years later, Douglas, involved in a divorce and faced with many personal and professional problems, wrote Daliah and explained that while he could no longer adopt her, he had arranged through Christopher Kent for a Swedish family to take her.

Thus, at 12, Daliah Lewinbook went to live with her new parents in Stockholm. She stayed with them four years, studied dancing and acting, got her first job as a dancer with the Stockholm Opera Company.

Last week Daliah Lewinbook (now Daliah Lavi), 22, a veteran of 15 films, finished acting with Peter O'Toole, Curt Jurgens, James Mason, Paul Lukas and Akim Tamiroff in the screen version of Joseph Conrad's famous novel, Lord Jim, certainly one of the major motion pictures of 1964.

'INCREDIBLE MIXTURE OF EVERYTHING'

"My life," she told me as we shared a glass of warm English beer in her Chelsea flat, "has been an incredible mixture of everything. I was born in Israel of German and Gypsy blood. I had another set of Scandinavian parents. I was raised in hot and cold countries. When I was 16½ and my real father died, I returned to Israel and worked as a bathing suit model. Then I was offered a film contract and became an actress, although I've always wanted to be a dancer.

"When I was 17," she continued, "I married a Frenchman and lived in Paris. This marriage lasted only two years, during which I made five films. In 1961 I worked in my first American picture, Two Weeks In Another Town, with Kirk Douglas.

"I speak English, Swedish, Hebrew, French, Italian, German and Arabic, and my home now is in Rome. That's where Richard Brooks, the director, saw me in an Italian film and signed me for Lord Jim.

"I've just fallen in love with an Irishman—he does the stunts for the stars in films—and I guess my home from now on will be here in London, because that's where he lives. I guess you might call me a woman of the world."

People who know Daliah well—Peter O'Toole is one of them—call her an enormously talented "kook," a complex young woman who paints, dances, sculpts, is more interested in buying antiques and artifacts than clothes and cosmetics, but who nevertheless has a sensible set of values.

"To me," Daliah says, "the three most important things in life are health, wealth and love—not necessarily in that order. But with me, health comes first. I'm tall—5-feet-8—and I look strong, but I'm not. I'm weak and I fall sick easily, so I crave good health.

"As for money, I need it to support my mother and a younger brother and sister, and I guess that's why I act. I like acting and it pays well, and they say one day I will become a big star. But I don't really care about an acting career. I'd rather be a dancer.

"But never before have I been this happy. You see, for the first time in my life I'm in love in a new way. With this man I don't consider myself at all. I think only of him, of that big, strong, red-faced Irishman you see sitting there watching the horseraces on television."

She got up, shuffled over to his chair and ever so lightly kissed the handsome stuntman on the forehead.

WOMAN IN LOVE

"I like to refer to myself," she admitted, "as a woman of the world. But the truth is," she added, "that all women newly in love are simple, giggling, young girls. I'm no exception."

As a woman in love that statement is undoubtedly true of Daliah Lavi. As a motion picture actress it's not. Unique in her exoticness, photogenic from every angle, generating a dark, semioriental type of sex appeal, she offers new qualities to the American and Canadian film-goer. Executives at Columbia Pictures feel strongly that what Lawrence of Arabia did for Peter O'Toole, Lord Jim may do for her—lead her to stardom.

At this moment, however, stardom is farthest from her mind. Ecstatically, tempestuously, recklessly in love with a stuntman whose name cannot be revealed because he is not yet fully divorced, Daliah Lavi is soaring on Cloud 9.

Let's hope it lasts.

Something new has been added to bananas to make them more delicious than ever before. Swiss cheese, grated and folded into stiffly beaten egg whites, makes long-time-favorite banana scallops a special flavor treat. Wrap the thick batter around banana pieces, then coat generously with cornflake crumbs and fry quickly. When served hot, banana scallops make a perfect accompaniment to assorted cold cuts for a light summer supper.

by Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

1¾ cups grated Swiss cheese
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 bananas
Packaged cornflake crumbs
Vegetable oil

Combine cheese, flour, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Fold in egg whites. Cut bananas in ½- to ¾-inch slices. Coat each slice with cheese mixture (don't dip; pat around banana slice to coat evenly); roll in crumbs. Pour oil in skillet to depth of 1½ inches; heat to 375°. Fry scallops in oil until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve immediately. Makes 10-15 scallops.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

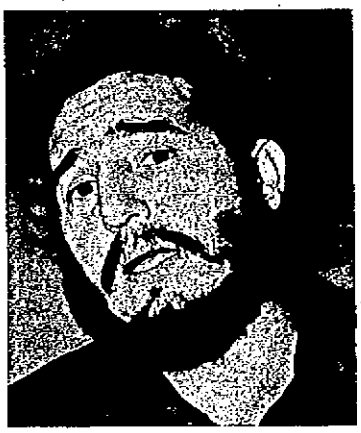

Because of volume of mail received, PARADE regrets it is unable to answer queries about this column.

ULCERS. Supposedly an ulcer is a badge of success brought on by work and worry in a competitive society. From Sweden and Dr. Fritz Karlstrom comes a report which negates that assumption. Dr. Karlstrom examined 184 ulcer-affected children in 40 Swedish clinics, discovered that in 47% of the cases the ulcers occurred in those children whose fathers also had ulcers. In short, suspicion is strong that the ulcer tendency is hereditary.

ODDS. Bookies throughout England are giving 5 to 1 that in the next general election, most probably in the fall, the Labor Party will win, Harold Wilson will become Prime Minister and the steel industry will be nationalized.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE. If you'd like to work for the government, best bet as regards pay is the federal government. Uncle Sam pays much higher wages than state or local governments. On the average, each federal employee receives $559 a month, each full-time state or local worker $457 a month. There are an estimated 13 federal civilian employees for each 1,000 Americans. There are 9.7 million government employees in this country, approximately 2.5 million on the federal level.

PARENTS AND PROMISCUITY. Parents are to blame for their teenagers' sexual promiscuity. So claims Dr. Mary Calderone, a New York City specialist on public health. "There have been many surveys on adolescent sexual activity," she recently declared at the national convention of the PTA. "You pay your money and you take your choice. But the facts are that the excellent studies by Christianson of Purdue University show that one out of every five U.S. brides is pregnant on her wedding day...We have done a half-baked job on sex education..." Dr. Calderone advocates a full factual educational program from first grade to senior high school. "We have in the last 15 years," she said, "lifted all forms of discipline and control from our teenagers and substituted nothing for them."

FIDEL CASTRO: HE NEEDS DRUGS.

DRUG SQUEEZE. Cuba is trying desperately to get large supplies of American drugs. The $29 million in U.S. drugs delivered in the prisoner ransom are gone. Most of the older doctors who remained in Cuba when Castro came to power are familiar with U.S. drugs and do not like to prescribe the medicines available in Havana from Russia and Czechoslovakia. Our Commerce Department, however, by imposing a strict license procedure, has halted the shipment of drugs to Cuba and will okay only a limited amount of pharmaceuticals. We are afraid that if bulk shipments are sent in, Castro will use these to bargain with and influence other Latin-American countries.

NEW LOOK. Soviet Russia is in the throes of an economic revolution. Premier Khrushchev has abandoned many of the fundamental concepts of traditional Communist dogma, going ever further away from the Marxist-Lenin line. He is advocating pay raises as worker incentives and an investment in the chemical industry "that will result in a net profit of 15 million rubles." For a dedicated Communist to talk in terms of profits -- that's revolutionary indeed. The Nuclear Age, the failure of Russian agricultural policy, the education of the younger generation, the increasing demands of the Soviet consumer for more goods, have compelled Khrushchev to enter more and more into the sphere of capitalistic economics. Mr. K. is finding out that in an educated society, Communism does not work.

DIVORCE IN BELGIUM. Under study by lawyers, judges and marriage counselors is the Belgian divorce procedure, purportedly one of the world's best. Belgian law accepts divorce by mutual consent, with neither of the parties declared legally guilty. The procedure, however, is not quick. Before the divorce is granted, all contentious questions of alimony and child custody must be settled. Then the parties must appear before a judge on four different occasions without their lawyer. On each of these occasions the judge seeks to reconcile the couple. These four appearances take place at three-month intervals over one year. If a reconciliation is not effected, a divorce is granted. There is no guilty party.

THEY WORKED A DAY FOR JFK

■ Tens of thousands of boys and girls, young men and women, are sending their earnings for a day's work to help build the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

Even today, 10 weeks after PARADE's open letter to America's youth to work a day for JFK as a tribute to the late President, the mail continues to pour in.

Participating in the project are hundreds of schools and the local units of such national organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Club, Little League and Campfire Girls. In one instance, a whole town —Girard, Ohio—pitched in. But the overwhelming response has been from

These four young girls from Tupper Lake, N.Y., staged a Beatle play which raised $3.25. They dressed up as Beatles, performed in pantomime to the accompaniment of Beatle records. Their mothers also joined in the festivities and sold popcorn and soft drinks.

Seven-year-old Joy Anderson of Citrus Heights, Calif., was paid $3.90 for catching 78 ladybugs on her mother's roses. Mrs. Kennedy is grateful to Joy and to the thousands of other youngsters who did a day's work for the library project.

the individual teen and subteen, who demonstrate how resourceful, creative, intelligent and good-willed are America's youth.

The photos on these pages are a small sampling of the more than 100 ways—from collecting pollen for anti-allergy use to digging worms for grandfather to fish—in which the money is being earned.

Mrs. Kennedy is tremendously impressed with the letters accompanying the nickels, dimes and dollars, and she plans to send a personal thank-you note to each contributor. Many of the subteen letters are both humorous and original. Those from the teenagers repeatedly express gratitude for being given the chance to take part in a worth-while project. As Rita Mastrogiacomo of Endicott, N. Y., explains: "It will give us a chance to prove ourselves worthy and willing, the way many of us are when we are given the proper chance." PARADE will publish some of the best letters in an early issue.

Many groups—among them hundreds of private camps—are planning work-a-day-for-JFK projects during the summer. You, too, can still participate. Send your letter and the earnings of a day's work to Kennedy Library Fund, Parade, Box 1640, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Thirteen children from Bonneville, Ore., third- through fifth-graders, held a community car wash at the site of the Bonneville Dam. All of the youngsters are members of Girl Scout and Boy Scout groups. Profit for their day's work was $6.55.

Test your talent

WIN ONE OF THREE $595 COMMERCIAL ART SCHOLARSHIPS PLUS CASH PRIZES

For many years Art Instruction Schools has conducted art talent contests. These contests helped to uncover new talent for the many fields of commercial art. Hundreds, who are successful commercial artists today, started their exciting careers by sketching the famous "draw-me" heads. With these triplet drawings our professional artists can evaluate the trainable talent you may have.

As you try each of these drawings you'll probably find Susan the easiest to draw because she is a simple draw-me-type profile. The sketch of Marlene is "full-face"; the planes of her face are equal and symmetrical. Donna may be the most difficult for you to draw. Hers is a "three-quarters profile", using perspective to give the illusion of depth. Even if you feel you could only draw Susan, we can train you to draw the others.

Because of the varying degrees of difficulty of each of the heads your drawings of the triplets will be individually judged as three separate contests, cash awards plus scholarship prizes go to the winner of each contest: $25 for Susan, $50 for Marlene, and $75 for Donna.

Draw one or "triple your fun" and draw all of the triplets. Make your drawings, in pencil, larger or smaller than those above. If you win one of three commercial art scholarships you'll receive a complete home study course in advertising art, illustrating, cartooning or painting. You'll be taught by professional artists from America's largest home study art school, Art Instruction Schools. Even those who do not win will receive an honest professional appraisal of their talents. Entries for these three contests must be in before August 31, 1964. None can be returned. Our students and professional artists are not eligible. Start your drawings now; mail your entry today.

my favorite jokes

by Norm Crosby

EDITOR'S NOTE: Norm Crosby, who a few years ago laughed himself out of the shoe business in Boston, is today one of the fastest-rising comics in show business. Since his big-time debut last year in New York City's Latin Quarter, Crosby has worked every day. He has appeared at the famed Copacabana in New York, the Elegante in Brooklyn and at all the popular Borsht Circuit resorts in the Catskills. He has also worked on stage with Sammy Davis, Jr., Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Johnny Mathis and others. Last Christmas, Crosby made his television debut on the Garry Moore Show. As a result of that comedy engagement he was signed to appear on most of the other TV variety programs. Originally an advertising manager for a large retail shoe chain, Crosby insists that telling such jokes as the following "is a much better living."

Comics always make fun of marriage, but it has been proven that married life is healthy. Statistics show that single people die much more quickly than married folks. Therefore, if you are looking for a long, slow death—get married!

While I was appearing at a hotel in New York's Catskill Mountains, a little dog ran on-stage in the middle of my act. I was absolutely amazed when he sat up and asked me if he could do a few numbers. "Certainly," I said, and stood dumbfounded as the puppy sang and danced and did impressions. A few minutes later, as the audience applauded wildly, a big black dog ran up on stage and picked the puppy up in its mouth. Noting my look of surprise as it was being carried off-stage, the pup grinned and said, "She's my mother —wants me to be a doctor!"

Women today are not only wearing wigs to fool their menfolk, but they use all sorts of artificial gimmicks. My uncle's first two wives deserted him, and he had enough stuff left over to make himself a third!

■ ■ ■

Where else but in America could a young man start to work in a big factory as a shipping clerk, two weeks later become a salesman, one month later a sales manager, six weeks later junior vice-president in charge of sales, two months later senior vice-president in charge of production and at a board of directors meeting the following month be made senior vice-president at a salary of $100,000 a year? It actually happened to a friend of mine. And at the board meeting, the president of the company shook my friend's hand and asked if he had something to say. "Thanks," said the new tycoon.

"Is that all you can say?" thundered the president. "This is a momentous day in your life!"

"Yes, that's true," answered my friend, "so tonight I'm going to celebrate. Tell Mom I won't be home for dinner."

In a lodge in the Catskills lives an old Indian handyman who is supposed to possess a fantastic memory. One of the doubting guests told him about a brother who had visited the hotel three years previously, and he asked if the Indian could recall what the brother had for breakfast.

"Eggs," answered the Indian.

"He's a fake," said the guest. "Anyone would say eggs for breakfast."

Two years later the same guest returned to the lodge and saw the old Indian sitting on the ground. He walked up to the old fellow, raised his hand and said, "How."

The Indian answered, "Scrambled."

Two matrons were discussing the art exhibit they were viewing.

"I like abstract paintings," said one, "but I can't have them around the house. After all, I have a 16-year-old daughter at home!"

"But why should that make any difference?" asked the other.

"Well, you must remember," answered the first, "that with those abstract things, you never know for sure whether or not they are decent!"

Pedigreed poodle: "Do you have a family tree?"

What Makes a Woman CHOOSE SUCH A LIFE?

You see her walking down the street, and you wonder about her.

She isn't fashionably dressed like other women. She wears no lipstick, no make-up, no high heels or nylons. Instead of a "perky" hat, her head is covered by a hood and veil. Her dress is a billowing, full-length habit that bears little resemblance to feminine fashions.

And as she passes by, you realize that here is a woman different from others not only in dress . . . but in her entire way of life. Here is one who has deliberately turned her back upon the worldly pleasures which other women seek and enjoy. And perhaps you wonder why a woman should give up all this to become a Catholic nun.

Is it because she is afraid to face the world and its responsibilities? Is it because she lacks talents that other women possess and, therefore, seeks shelter in the convent? Or does she choose the life of a nun because she thinks it is easier and more secure than life in a world of fluctuating economic conditions?

No—a nun who will knock at your door asking for alms for the poor surely is not afraid of the world. A Catholic sister competent to teach in a school . . . and often highly gifted in the arts and languages . . . is surely not lacking in talents. Nor can anyone who has seen a Catholic nun mothering the sick in a hospital believe that she is lacking in the maternal instinct.

What is it, then, that prompts a woman to turn her back upon the pleasures and luxuries of the world for a life of poverty, chastity and obedience. How is it that hundreds of thousands of women do this . . . many of them coming from well-to-do families which could supply their every need and wish? What is the spark that fires their zeal for God, and for humanity?

The answer is, of course, that the heart of a nun is filled with the desire to serve God. And that desire is the product of her Catholic Faith.

Perhaps you would not or could not become a nun, or a priest, or a religious of the Catholic Church. Perhaps you would not even want to be a Catholic. But if you wish to inform yourself concerning the teachings and beliefs of the Church which can inspire such magnificent sacrifice and service, write for free Pamphlet No. PR-25. It will be sent immediately and nobody will call on you.

2. Pictures that have been made after July 1, 1963, are eligible, black-and-white and color PRINTS accepted only.

3. Black-and-white snapshots may be made from any brand of negative type black-and-white film, but not from color transparencies. Color prints may be made from any brand of color film. Any make of camera may be used. No print, enlargement or transparency more than 10 inches in the longer dimension will be accepted. No art work or retouching is permitted on prints or on the negative from which they are made—or on transparencies. No composite pictures, such as multiple printing or montages are eligible. Pictures should not be mounted or framed.

4. To enter the contest, mail no more than four prints each week as you desire, within the contest dates, to this newspaper's "Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor." On the back of each picture print your name and address clearly in ink, and the class in which you wish the pictured entered. (See classes.)

5. Photographs entered in the Snapshot Contest become the property of the Independent, Press-Telegram and The Orange County Evening News and NO BLACK-AND-WHITE OR COLOR PRINTS WILL BE RETURNED.

Do not submit negatives with your print. Keep negatives of color or black-and-white prints until requested by the Amateur Snapshot Contest Editor. (Only original negatives and transparencies accepted.) This newspaper and the sponsors of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards assume no responsibility for negatives, prints or transparencies.

6. At the close of contest, this newspaper will submit eight pictures (one in each class) chosen by its judges as the best entered in its contest, in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, where they will compete with entries from other participating newspapers for cash prizes totaling a minimum of $31,000.

7. All pictures shall be judged in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards on general interest and/or appeal. Photographic quality, although important, may not necessarily be the deciding factor. The decision of the judges shall be accepted as final.

8. It is not premissible to enter pictures in the contest of more than one newspaper participating in the twenty-sixth annual (1964) Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

9. Before receiving the newspaper's final prizes in one of more than eight classifications, the entrant must submit the original negative with print and sign a statement that his picture, or any closely similar picture of the same subject or situation, has not been and will not be entered by him in any snapshot contest, exhibit, or salon where prizes are awarded, other than the one conducted by this newspaper, and has not been and will not be offered for publication in any manner.

CLASSES

A. BABIES AND CHILDREN—One or more youngsters to be judged for cuteness, expression of character, or mood. Subjects may be engaged in any activity or interest. Adults may appear if they are not the principal interest.

B. ACTIVITIES — Teen-agers or adults. They may be engaged in any activity outdoors or indoors, at any season; occupations, hobbies, sports, and recreations; any picture that tells a story of an interesting phase of everyday life. Children may appear if they are not the principal interest.

C. SCENES AND "TABLETOPS" Judged for scenic or pictorial appeal — landscapes, marine views, historical spots, street scenes, buildings; or unusual "still-life" subjects including "tabletop" or miniature arrangements.

D. ANIMAL LIFE — Household pets, farm animals, forest wild life, zoo animals, etc.; any situation in which the aforesaid subjects are of principal interest.

Color Entries Will be Judged in the Same Four Classes Listed Above

IMPORTANT: If you snap a picture which you expect to enter in the contest and in which a person or persons appear, be sure to get their names and addresses. This is necessary because, before your picture can become eligible for entry in the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards, the written consent of such recognizable person or person to the use of the picture for advertising purposes must be obtained.

OUR COVER

America's national pastime being what it is—in a flourishing state that creates sports idols by the dozens—just about every growing youngster has an ambition, secret or loudly declared, to become a major league baseball player. And whether the kids are 7 (as redheaded Terrence Hunter is) or 17, they argue with the umpire. And even though he's only 7, Terrence gets the usual reply from Umpire Donn Seaman. It's all part of the game, junior or major leagues, and the juniors are stressing the development of the boy in sportsmanship as well as skill in the diamond game. For the story of the men who help youngsters grow up to be ball players—big league or little—see "Big Daddy of Little Baseball" by Jerome Hall on Page 8.

NEXT WEEK

The world turns its attention to Long Beach within a few days now as this city prepares to entertain the loveliest girls in the world for the International Beauty Congress Aug. 5-15. Hence the question, "What is a beauty queen?" For those who have an eye for beauty and like to make a prediction on the outcome of the contest, Southland next week gives some statistics on past beauty pageants here—past performances, the race track devotees would call it—that might help to pick a winner. Watch for it next Sunday.

In "The Night of the Iguana," Sue Lyon leaves behind the lollipop and the heart-shaped glasses of "Lolita."

MOVIES

'Lolita' Grows Up

HAVING reached the ripe age of 17, Sue Lyon has left behind the heart-shaped sunglasses and lollipop of "Lolita," the film which made her famous, to play a seductress in the Ray Stark production, "The Night of the Iguana." And the man in the case is none less than Richard Burton!

Presented by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Seven Arts, this is the much-talked-about screen version of the Tennessee Williams play, which was voted the best play of the 1961-62 season by the New York drama critics. It was filmed on locations in Mexico, largely in the isolated little fishing village of Mismaloya on the Pacific coast.

Blonde, blue-eyed Miss Lyons finds herself in distinguished company in "The Night of the Iguana," in which she not only plays dynamic love scenes with Burton but also faces the competition of such established actresses as Ava Gardner and Deborah Kerr. And this in only her second motion picture. All three women become romantically involved with Burton in Tennessee Williams' sensuous story which revolves about a defrocked minister who, as a tourist guide, leads a group of schoolteachers on a trip in Mexico, but Miss Lyon, as the youngest of the tourists, gets there first.

ALTHOUGH she is still a teen-ager, her role as Charlotte Goodall in "The Night of the Iguana" marks a more mature Sue Lyon in more ways than one. For one thing, she is no longer Miss Lyon in her private life. Shortly after the picture was completed, she became the bride of actor Hampton Fancher III, who had been frequently at her side during the location filming in Mexico.

Perhaps the greatest experience she gained from working with highly successful professionals in "The Night of the Iguana" was an added poise and assurance.

SINCE HER meteoric rise to stardom on the heels of "Lolita," the question most frequently asked of Miss Lyon is whether she felt that the role of the nymphet had distorted her life.

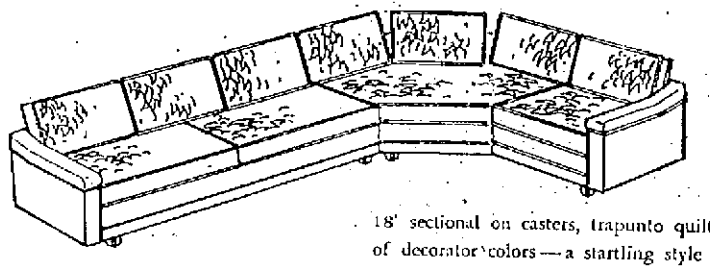

"Have you ever heard of anything so absurd?" she said.

In 1960, Sue was taken to see the casting director assembling players for "Lolita." She was referred to producer James B. Harris and director Stanley Kubrick. Sue knew there were hundreds of aspirants for the plum role and did not expect to get it. In fact, she rather clowned her way through the interview and it was this nonchalance which formed the basis for her being chosen.

"However, the girl in 'The Night of the Iguana' is not like Lolita," said a critic. "Lolita was a young girl who was curious and wanted to know. This girl, Charlotte, already knows."

Joss House 'Beneath the Clouds'

By Dorothy Parcel

"Chi Wen," carvings of fish with upturned tails, on rooftop are supposed to protect this old joss house.

"THE TEMPLE Amongst the Forest Beneath the Clouds" lies along a winding path shaded by locust trees in the center of Weaverville, Calif. The Joss House is almost the only reminder of the thousands of Chinese who lived and worked and fought and died in Weaverville during the mining days of the 1850s. Many tourists traversing U.S. Highway 299 between Redding and the coast stop off to view the gilt-incrusted interior of the temple or the contrastingly bleak priest's quarters next door will bring thoughts of black-coated, queued Chinese, trotting single file through the alien wilderness.

Now a State Historical Monument, the Joss House (a temple of worship), was deeded to California by Moon Lee, a son of one of its builders, and is open to the public daily. Under the Division of Parks and Beaches, restoration and research into the history and structure of the Joss House is continuing.

THE BUILDING'S unusual architectural plan includes two parallel gables and a frame exterior painted to resemble tile. Over the entrance a cornice board is decorated with brightly painted carvings of butterflies, flowers and vines.

The building replaced the original Joss House, destroyed by fire in 1873. To ward off a similar catastrophe, the front gable has carvings of "Chi Wen," fish with upturned tails. Most of the furnishings were saved from the fire and again occupy their proper places in the temple.

Inside the temple, a faint spicy odor of incense lingers in the faded folds of tapestries once vibrant with hues of red, blue, green and gold. Still discernible on the tapestries are lions, phoenix and butterflies. Suspended from the strangely pointed ceiling above the altar are lamp shades painted with scenes of Chinese life. On pedestals, rich with gilt and carving, rest clay idols of wealth and medicine.

IN CONTRAST to the temple, the priest's cell is austere. A narrow aisle separates a cot made from rough boards covered with a thin pad from a table. A charcoal stove, a trunk under the bed and a rough cupboard complete the furnishings.

Timid around other miners, the Chinese frequently quarreled among themselves. One of the great "Tong Wars" was fought at Five Cent Creek, near Weaverville. For several months the clans from Hong Kong and Canton disputed about mining claims. These disputes were settled by fierce gestures and shouting until, finally someone was killed and invitations to a war were issued. Several Chinese lost their lives, as well as some of the bystanders, but the Hong Kongs were the heaviest losers. There was a victory celebration in the camp of the Cantons and the Battle of Trinity County was officially over.

Although the men who built the Joss house are long dead, bowls that held incense and burnt prayers are cold and the colors in the tapestries are softened by time, the imagination will trace black clad, pigtailed figures kneeling before the altars or sitting quietly on benches in the temple waiting room.

Lights.. Camera.. Action!

By Sheri C. Neville

INVITE friends over for an evening of your best home movies and more often than not you will end up spending that evening alone. That is, unless you are fortunate enough to be a member of the Long Beach Cinema Club—in which case you may find yourself having to beat enthusiastic friends, neighbors and relatives away with your tripod!

Founded in 1937, the Long Beach Cinema Club offers such a diversified program of meetings, workshops, field trips and opportunities to share and view each other's films—that even the most avid amateur movie maker would be envious.

Originally, the club was started by a group of enthusiastic Long Beach area residents desiring to promote local interest in amateur movie making. Now, 27 years later, the organization participates in such philanthropic pursuits as the making of service films for community agencies; documentary films for civic and service groups, ad infinitum.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for membership, one needs only a movie camera; a certain amount of free time; and a sincere desire to create films which are as near perfect upon completion as possible. There are nominal yearly dues for memberships—associate members pay even less.

Among the 75 active and associate members are students, professional people, bus drivers, baby sitters and homemakers—ranging in ages from 18 to 80.

What binds this unique group of people together? Why do they return eagerly month after month? Year after year? Common interest, individual and group participation; variety and good organizational planning provide the answer.

One or two members recall, with a bit of nostalgia, their first "home" —the Belmont Police Station in Belmont Shore. The club now meets on the first and third Wednesday of each month in the modern Houghton Park Clubhouse, Atlantic Avenue and Harding Street in North Long Beach.

MEETINGS consist of many things. Members sometimes devote an entire evening to the viewing of films which they or their guests have prepared. Afterwards, discussion, praise and constructive criticism are offered.

Other nights are given over to educational talks and demonstrations by members or guests from other clubs (the Long Beach Cinema Club is one of eight groups which comprise the Southern California Association of Amateur Movie Clubs). Special "professional" dimensions were added to a recent meeting when a television film editor addressed the group.

Workshops are an essential and vital function of the club's program. Here, beginning members receive help and instruction from wiser, more experienced movie makers. Time is spent editing films, making titles and recording sound. Alone, such tasks can be nerve-wracking; together, they can mean an evening of fun and accomplishment.

FOR SOME members, the greatest enjoyment in the club is found in the shooting of group scenarios (or skits). Planning is the keyword here. Together, they decide upon a story idea. A script is then written and distributed to all members. This done, a film director is chosen and a cast (usually made up of club members) is lined up. Make-up and costuming are taken care of by individuals in the club having special know-how and talents in these areas. Whether "shot" at the clubhouse or while on special field trips—these story films provide exercises in technique not found in any other form of movie-making.

Numerous anecdotes concerning past scenario shootings float reminiscently through the air of club socials. Members speak of the western they filmed in Calico Ghost Town, Yermo, (when "a stranger from back East got so excited that he asked permission to join the group and remained throughout the day"); a production called, "The Necklace," starring a girl from Community Playhouse (it won a bronze medal from Better Home Movie Making magazine), and a recent session of retakes ("a stagehand pulled a bit too hard on the cord attached to an actor's wig and it went flying up, up, up . . . 'til it finally became lodged between curtain rods above the stage—unretrievable!")

LONG BEACH and Harbor area history can be found in the film libraries of individual club members. Warren Nash, club historian, has recorded for posterity such memorable events as the last trip of the Pacific Electric cars through city streets; Terminal Island's ferry, the Islander, bidding its final adieu, and many more.

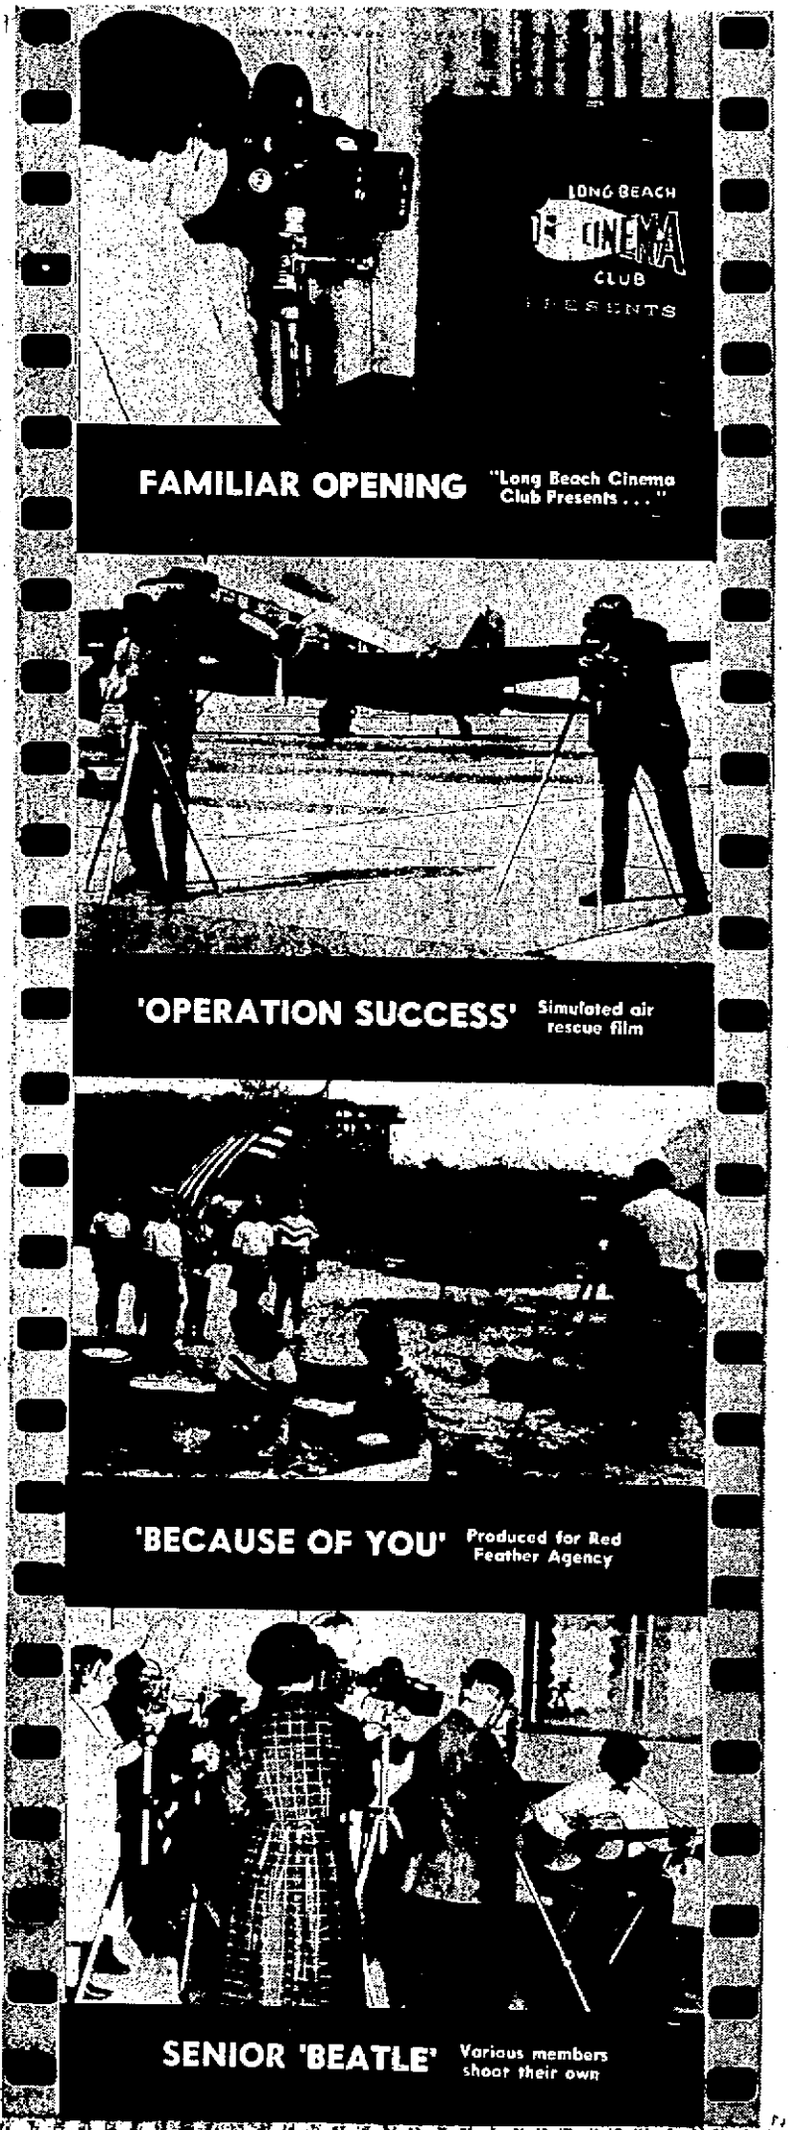

Other enthusiasts prefer local sporting events, parades and beauty pageants. One member, specializing in travelogues, has journeyed to far-off Africa in search of new material. Ninety per cent of the club members produce sound movies, either recorded at time of filming or dubbed in later by assorted methods. Cameras and equipment vary in value, and many members work with both 8 and 16-mm. outfits.

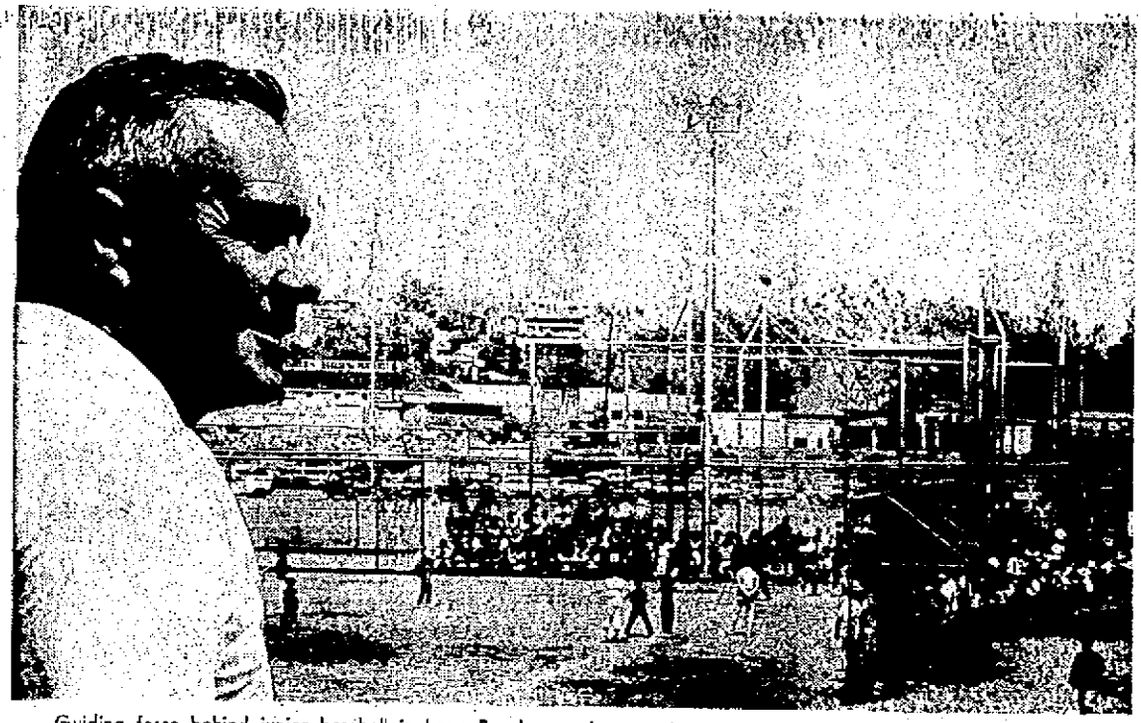

Perhaps the club's most amazing facet is its members' extensive philanthropic and service film activities. Requests pour in continually from community agencies, public service groups, and so on. Whenever possible, these are filled immediately by willing and energetic members.

Two such club productions received Norris Harkness Awards from the Photographic Society of America in the category of Outstanding Community Service. "A World of Their Own," completed for the Exceptional Children's Foundation, shows the history and purpose behind the school—making it a tremendous aid in fund-raising.

The other award-winning documentary was made to fill a request from Long Beach's 8646th Air Force Reserve Recruiting Group. Film was supplied by the Air Force, cameramen, by the Long Beach Cinema Club. Subject: a simulated air rescue, enacted at a local air field.

Guiding force behind junior baseball in Long Beach area for many years has been Charlie Brown, organizer of one of nation's first kid leagues.

The junior league manager has saved the majors with his time and know-how

Big Daddy of Little Baseball

One of many former professional baseball players who devotes much time to teaching youngsters to keep their eyes on the ball is Chuck Stevens.

THROUGH the pages of sports history the villains have been the Colosseum's lions, St. George's dragon, the Black Sox, the basketball "fixers" and little league managers.

Few have been the voices raised in support of the lions, fewer still for the Black Sox. But rarest of all has been a kind word for the little league manager.

He has been characterized as the study by a governmental agency in association with the national physical fitness program found that the caliber of man teaching the kid baseballers is at least as high as the teachers the lad has for geography and arithmetic and the rest of his schooling.

And young fellows in Southern California have the additional advantage of learning their baseball from men who know the game, professional ballplayers.

By Jerome Hall

oaf who badgers little kids because they strike out, the slob who swears at umpires every time his ego spills over. He's the overweight grump who never outgrew his boyhood ambition to be a major leaguer. He's . . . well, he's all sorts of nasty things.

Each time the subject of kid baseball is dissected in print, the villain is the same—Big Daddy of little baseball, he's often called.

But just so he won't be batting .000, here's a kind word for the beleaguered chap.

THE KID BASEBALL manager is a man to be saluted, usually a good father, often a pillar of the community and it has been said by spokesmen for major league baseball that the little league manager breathed enough life into our national pastime to keep it from dying.

That's quite a record for a no-good, short-tempered, child baiter.

The ugly image was acquired a decade ago and there probably was some truth to it, but great changes have taken place among the little leaguers. Those who run junior baseball teams are no different from those men who run Boy Scout troops. A

"WE'VE GOT HUNDREDS of players teaching kids during the off-season," says Chuck Stevens, secretary-manager of the Professional Ballplayers Association, "and hundreds more former pros coaching kid teams in just about every league in these parts."

This is baseball country, the game's incubator. This is where there's a baseball college for kids all year 'round.

"I've seen five or six major leaguers at once coaching at a clinic in Long Beach," says Stevens. "The best school I ever saw was run by Charlie Brown last winter for the recreation department and it was free."

Brown has been a guiding force behind Long Beach and Lakewood junior baseball for many years and has been teaching the game to youngsters for 33 years. He started one of the first kid leagues in the nation. He has founded and developed several Long Beach and Lakewood leagues.

BROWN, IN HIS capacity with the Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Department, comes into contact with more junior league coaches than any other man in the country, probably (this spring he held clinics for 2,700 coaches) and he says, "They're good men. The bad ones are weeded out in a hurry. It's no problem telling which ones you don't want around. Kids are great judges of adults' character."

Great strides have been made by the junior leagues in eliminating what they've been most severely criticized for—emotional stress to win. Some leagues have substituted a sportsmanship trophy as top award. This is a plot against over-zealous coaches. If there is a bad-conduct report, the kids point an accusing finger at the coach for losing the trophy.

"This has been a great idea and I think it's going to catch on a lot more," says Bob Fitzpatrick, a leader in the 11-school, 1,000-boy citywide Catholic League.

There has been a marked change within segments of kid baseball that have been regarded as high-pressure. The Little League, with headquarters at Williamsport, Pa., is quietly ordering its regional directors to cut down on the exploitation of the youngsters. "Everybody's getting down to reading our constitution and abiding by it," said one Little League spokesman.

EVEN SO, the people in junior baseball know that even now there are scathing reports on "high-pressure competition" being prepared. "It makes as much sense to say there's too much pressure in learning to play baseball correctly as it does to say there's too much pressure in learning not to squirt your oatmeal or teaching a kid how to hold his fork properly," says Stevens, a Long Beach high school product who rose to the majors and was a star first baseman for the Hollywood Stars.

"Baseball itself is not the important thing in all this," says Charlie Brown, though it can't be overlooked altogether in this day of the $100,000 and $150,000 bonus babies. "The important thing is the boys, that they are being taught. There are things about growing up that kids just have to learn and it seems they can learn them better on a baseball field.

"Even if all a kid ever learns on a ball diamond is to say 'yes, sir' and 'no, sir' it's a big lesson and an important one. Baseball is just the trig-

THOSE DEADLY JONESES

They built their picnic fire in the wrong spot. Result: A stately forest exploded into a raging inferno.

BY MIRIAM R. ANDERSON

ONE HOT July day John Jones, Mrs. Jones, and their two boys enjoyed a mountain picnic. Before they loaded their car to leave, John used the last of their small water can to douse the small campfire he had made. With a glow of satisfaction John told his family: "All the litter is picked up and the fire out!" For John tried to be a law-abiding resident of his newly adopted state of California.

Actually, a more dangerous visitor had never passed through the lovely forested canyon that he chose for his picnic. What he did not realize until it was too late was that he never should have started a fire there in the beginning. He was within an extremely dry and explosive area of the San Bernardino National Forest where fires, as in all National Forests, are strictly prohibited, except in specified places. The Jones family had parked their car in one of the few spots not visible to the patrolling forest ranger. From there they climbed, all alive with the spirit of adventure, up a steep and isolated canyon. The lovely spot did not look dangerous to John.

YET HIS VISIT cost the government hundreds of thousands of dollars. It took the life of a fire fighter. It wiped out thousands of acres of forest and invaluable watershed, and forced evacuation of, and loss of property for several residents. Where the searing, tree-high flames leaped the highway, a blackened gruesome vista of ruined land and stark tree skeletons was left to meet the eye of future visitors.

The Jonses left an ember smoldering far down in the "duff," under the dampened ground surface. It was not a big ember, but it was a sturdy one and for several days it ate its way slowly into the duff. When a Santa Ana wind came up, the ember was fanned into a new strength and smoke rose from the spot. But this occurred at night when the area was invisible to the lookouts on two adjacent peaks. So thus was Forest Fire Flora born, with all factors in her favor to become one more devastating and shockingly expensive fire. A full week was needed to tame her, in spite of heroic efforts of 500 firefighters, plus all the know-how of today's skilled fire-fighting methods.

INCREDIBLE? Ask the nearest U. S. Forest Service office. In the frightening holocaust named Flora, every element was against quick control. The dreaded Santa Ana winds; the fact that the fire took off at night; the already tinder-dry canyon, with the sweep of stately forest in the path of the winds; the low humidity. Because of these factors, Flora raged into a fire storm —with giant trees exploding under their sap weight—and went on into a crown fire, which leaped from one treetop to another. (A major crown fire has been known to outrun a fast horse.)

John Jones prided himself on being a good citizen. Yet Flora would never have been born had John built his fire in a proper spot—a guarded state park picnic ground.

But the fact remains: he should have known! The Jones family often watched "Smoky, the Bear" on TV. They had seen the familiar warning, "Douse your fire—then stir—then douse again." John just omitted the last two instructions. He was new to the district, it is true. He wasn't much of a reader, so he missed newspaper items, one of which, on that fateful day, listed fire conditions as "extreme." His boys had not yet joined Boy Scouts, where they would have received the training he lacked. That he could have missed seeing the many roadside warnings seems incredible. But he did! With devastating results.

TODAY, a $20 million-a-year program is in effect, in research and experimental programs, to cut down the staggering loss of forest fires.

According to Don Bauer, forest supervisor for the San Bernardino National Forest, "the only good fire is the one that never started." He added, "The training of the public in safety fire prevention is one of our first responsibilities," because many fires start as a result of not knowing.

The aftermath of forest fires is of immediate concern to every resident and taxpayer. The shocking loss of watershed due to burned-over areas endangers communities in lower locations in the event of flood. The loss of life and property, recreation areas, and the tremendous cost can be cut down first and foremost by public awareness.

Increased vigilance by mountain travelers is of first importance. The signs, "You Are Now Entering Such and Such National Forest" should mean, Use extra caution, Mr. Traveler. Be fire conscious! For these are your trees, your recreation spots, and ultimately—your bank account!

CALIFORNIA State Forester F. C. Raymond reported 2,649 fires in 1963, which burned an area of 32,053 acres, at a cost of $545,818. This was an all-time low in state forestry annals, due to late spring rains. The U. S. Forestry Service totaled 420 man-made fires in the same year in California national forests, plus 2,132 land fires, which sums up to 5,201 fires, exclusive of city and county reports.

The fire-fighting handbook says: "Fire is composed of fuel, air and heat. Remove any one of these elements and fire dies." Modern techniques in fighting fire includes the use of chemicals, with improved equipment; helicopters to spot, observe and report fire; the use of radio and walkie-talkies, and an added and not too well known factor. This is the remarkable organization and administration of the men in the agencies whose lives are spent in the fight against fire, on the local, state and national levels.

THE DEPARTMENT of Agriculture, under which the U. S. Forestry Service operates, makes this thought-provoking statement: "Fires in the forests annually cause serious damage to watershed, soil, timber, recreation and forest resources. These resources are indispensable to a growing population and economy. California has both. There are no other forest or watershed areas in the United States that have as critical a combination of fuels, dry weather, long fire season, and concentrated human use. There are few areas in the world that have as complex a combination of these factors as does Southern California."

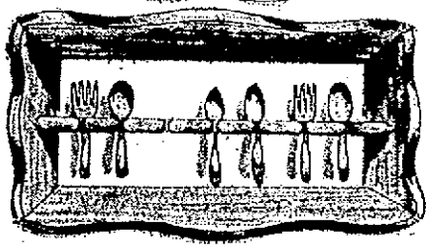

Here in the natural resources of one of America's last frontiers are wildlife, helpless and trapped in forest fires. Here are the recreation spots we stand so much in need of in today's pressured living. Here, too, are the spiritual resources of beauty, quiet, and space; all of which are wiped out—for our lifetime—by one forest fire.

Carelessness and lack of knowledge cause most forest fires. Therefore basic safety measures while within a national forest, or deeply wooded area are, as outlined by the U. S. Forestry Service:

1. Never throw burning tobacco or other material from cars.
2. Crush cigarettes out in an ash tray.
3. Put out campfires completely. Throw on water, stir, then soak again.
4. Smoke only in a safe place, never when walking or riding trails.
5. Never leave a fire unattended.
6. Put out small fires. Report a bigger one at once.

These simple measures may save your life. They surely will cut down the number of devastating forest fires.

Cheongsam, Not Topless Swim Suit

World's Sexiest Feminine Attire

By Hoyt McAfee

WHILE THE current U.S. controversy rages over the topless swim suit—and countless American girls ponder the question of "Do I dare wear it?"—many other parts of the world regard us with sly amusement.

I refer to Scandfinavian lands, the French Riviera, and Mallorca in particular. Topless swimming suits long have been familiar sights on secluded beaches and among hideaway coves in those areas of the globe. But, as some observers have remarked, they project a girl in somewhat the same light as a stripper in a burlesque show.

In so doing, connoisseurs of feminine beauty insist, they deprive her of these potent assets—mystery and intrigue. Many discerning men of wide travel experience proclaim the high-slit, away-up-there cheong-sam a more intriguing garment. In "The World of Suzie Wong," Nancy Kwan wore a very modest one.

A GIRL watcher has to invade the Wanchai District of Hong Kong and the East Hastings Street area of Vancouver, Canada, to view the cheongsam in all of its runaway glory. Free-wheeling Chinese girls go gliding and strutting by sheathed in this garment—one slit clear up to their hips! As might be expected, they attract a bomb-burst of male attention and admiration.

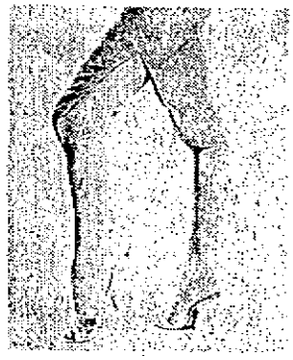

A short while back an American girl—Trudy Tavares of San Francisco — branded the very high-slit cheongsam as "much too daring a garment for me." A cocktail waitress, she reported for work in a subdued version of the attire. Frowning, her boss instructed her: "Have it slit higher!"

When Trudy complied, male patrons of the cocktail lounge responded with loud whistles and shouts of delight. Made to feel self-conscious by their feverish attentions, she—in a self-protective move—donned a slip underneath the cheongsam. That dampened the ardor of San Francisco males for Trudy and made them loose interest in the cocktail lounge where she worked.

Her boss insisted that she wear the provocative cheongsam sans slip. Trudy refused and was fired.

BUT IN LONDON recently, the cheongsam touched off an even greater furore. One day 500 pretty Caucasian stewardesses (all employes of his company) met at the front entrance with their storm banners hoisted.

Heatedly they protested the "unfair competition" of several Chinese and Eurasian stewardesses the airline had hired to stimulate a livelier interest in its overseas service. Naturally, the trim Oriental girls reported for work in very high-split, revealing cheongsams.

Topless swimsuits lack true allure and mystery, say the beauty experts. This is how the cheongsam gets whistles.

When one of them went wiggling by toward a waiting plane, the spokesman for the the fuming Caucasian girls remarked: "How in blazes can an American or British stewardess compete with a sex bombshell like that?"

Observed the airline president: "That's an interesting question. I can supply a cogent answer to it. Since hiring the cheongsam-clad charmers, our overseas' business has almost tripled!"

AT SUCH blue-ribbon beauty pageants as Miss International in Long Beach, Miss Universe in Miami, and Miss World in London, Oriental contestants know how to become the magnet of admiring male eyes. Those who show up attired in a seductive cheongsam bring reporters and photographers bounding to their sides.

Once, I saw a Chinese sex-pot named Vivian Cheoung exert her magic with the cheongsam—one split away up yonder! Entered in the beauty contest as a representative of Hong Kong, she lost to her competition in the home-stretch drive. Despite that, she received more attention—and press publicity—than the winner and all the other contestants combined.

In the waterfront area of Hong Kong's Wanchai district, local Romeos, U.S. sailors, seamen, and male travelers spot a sign which intrigues them. It reads: "Suzie Wong Night Club And Bar." That hot-spot goes all-out to duplicate the atmosphere of "The World Of Suzie Wong," as well as the carefree behavior patterns of that movie's dancing girls. Shore Patrol officers round up all U.S. Navy men and herd them out of the "Suzie Wong Night Club And Bar" at midnight—7 nights a week!

HISTORICALLY, the cheongsam as a garment for wear was fashioned shortly after the downfall of China's Manchu emperors. A few Chinese young women appeared in public decked out in it. Its popularity spread. No Chinese girl dared risk censure, however, by parading in a cheongsam with a high slash above the knees. Restraint was the ruling force, the watchword, in that era.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Time and Patience Decorate a Dwelling

By Stella George

NOTHING was left to chance in the interior decorating scheme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hammond, 3252 Ruth Elaine Drive, Los Alamitos. Mrs. Hammond engaged the services of Aurora Fournier, interior designer, many months ago and, over a period of time, the decorating has emerged into the state of perfection which had been the goal.

When certain decorating achievements are desired, patience is required. An item may appear to be desirable in a store window or room display; in the home it may be all wrong. A chair or lamp for a desired place might have to be replaced many times before just the right one is found. Mrs. Hammond had the necessary patience, and there is nothing makeshift or temporary in any room of the home.

Off-white wool turf carpeting, thick, lustrous and long-wearing, extends from the living room into the formal dining room. A filigree screen divides the entry from the living room. Above the gold sofa at the far end of the room is a painting of a French street scene. Color tones in the painting are accented here and there.

TWIN CHAIRS flank the hi-fi which faces the fireplace and paintings are hung above them. Near the fireplace is a chair upholstered in copper silk. A planter sits to one side of the fireplace at floor level.

The high-backed chairs in the dining room are unusual: the back is curved in toward the seat of the chair, a comfortable arrangement. A crystal chandelier hangs above. The entire decor is contemporary to a certain extent; however, Miss Fournier employs certain periods in such a way that she calls her decor "eclectic."

A large, functional kitchen, with a big window set above the sink and viewing pool and patio, adjoins the dining room. On the other side of the kitchen is the family room. Here again, furnishings were chosen with great care.

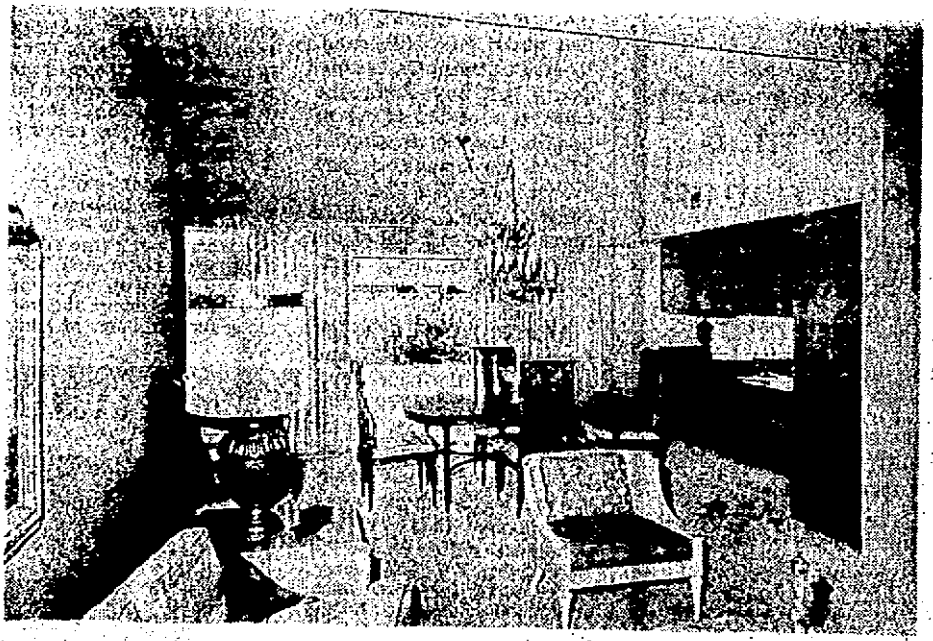

A STRIPED SOFA faces two small coffee tables with a low bench at right angles to the sofa. A black contour chair and hassock are across the way.

The master bedroom is a decorator's delight with a custom Roman mural on the wall behind the king-sized bed, with its filigree headboard and quilted silk spread.

The den has flowered drapes and matching wallpaper on the wall portion which shows around the drapes. An out-sized desk, drawers, bookshelves, magazine rack, and knick-knack shelves make the room functional.

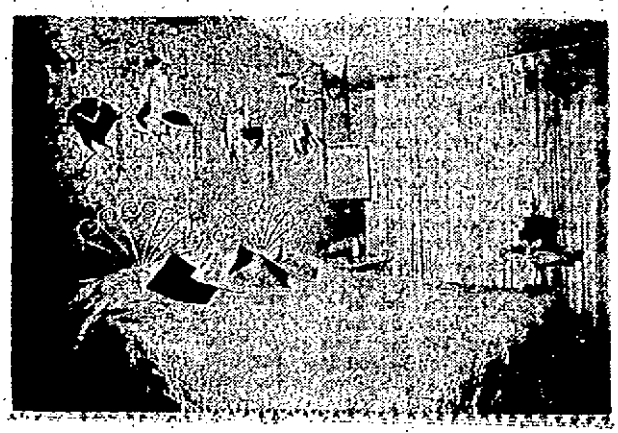

The large pool is curved in a semblance of the figure eight. Surrounding plants and shrubs were carefully selected.

The front yard is carefully landscaped.

Dining room and kitchen view pool and patio through large windows. Kitchen is at right background above. Chairs in dining room have novel form.

Four rock lifts and the armor rock on top are shown in this cross section drawing of harbor dike outside area.

'Rock Busters' Blast for a Dike

By Frank H. Black Jr.

"WHAT comes down must go up!"

That has been the saying in the Port of Long Beach ever since the "rock busters" have been blasting down a couple of mountains on Catalina Island for rock to be used to build the dikes for the new 310-acre Pier J.

Power shovel loads quarry waste, torn from the face of Catalina Island cliff, into truck for transfer to a barge.

In all, three million tons of rock will be used for the 4.5 miles of dike that will contain the 33-million-cubic yards of sand and silt that is being dredged from the Outer Harbor for the pier, which will be the largest man-made structure of its kind in the world when it is completed early next year.

The rock is barged across the Catalina Channel from two quarries on the island. Riverside Cement Co. has one quarry half way down the north side of the island at Empire Landing; it supplies 12-inch maximum rock and quarry waste. The Connolly-Pacific quarry at Pebbly Beach on the east end of the island provides armor rock, as well as quarry waste.

ARMOR ROCKS weigh from one to 15 tons each and are used on the upper, outside areas of the dikes to protect the pier from the infrequent heavy seas that occur inside the federal breakwater. The 12-inch maximum rock is used to form the pyramidal sections on the inside of the dike. And quarry waste ranges from rock dust and small chunks to 1,500-pound pieces; the waste is used in a variety of places in the four different lifts of the dike.

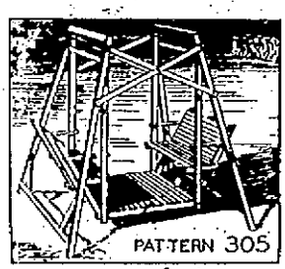

The rock, which is a high-grade form of granite known as rhyolite, is obtained by blasting off the faces of the cliffs in the quarries. On March 27, one of the largest blasts in the history of Southern California was set off at the Empire Landing Quarry. This explosion was developed by 175 tons of ammonium nitrate — stacked in a series of "coyote tunnels" reaching back 150 feet into the base of the cliff—and it brought down 1½ million tons of rock, which is nearly a three-year supply and enough to fill Dodger Stadium.

Once the blasting is finished, the power shovels and the 20-ton dump trucks move in and transport the rock to the waiting barges in several ways. If it is armor rock, the giant boulders are lifted in a sling by a crane into the trucks, one rock usually to a load, then trucked to another sling which delivers it to the barge.

THE 12-MAXIMUM rock is produced by running rocks of assorted sizes through a crusher-separater operation; then a conveyor loads directly to the barge. Quarry waste is dumped by the trucks into a 20-ton skip box that is swung out to the barge by a whirley crane.

On a round-the-clock basis, a fleet of five tugboats tows the rock barges to the Pier J site where four barge cranes, three with clam shell buckets and one with an orange peel bucket, dump the rock along the perimeter of Pier J.

You Make It

You may remember a swing like this from childhood days. What fun it was for youngsters! Their elders loved it for gentle rocking, too. Now you can make one for your own yard. Pattern 305, which lists materials, gives dimensions and shows construction steps, is 35 cents. This pattern also is in the Lawn and Garden Furniture Packet No. 37 which contains four patterns all for $1. ger, just a means of teaching and influencing.

"All these dads that come out after work and on Saturdays devote a lot of time to the program. They could use that time at a part-time job or taking a nap, but they lend a hand to help the youngsters instead. You'd be amazed how many former pro ball players are coaching these teams.

"I know one team," smiles Brown, where a guy who used to play for the New York Giants is just an assistant coach."

Walter Mails, former major league pitching star now one of the big leagues' foremost spokesmen, credited little league managers and their players with saving the majors from lagging interest. "They've brought the family back to the ball park," he told a Southland civic group recently. "The little leagues have saved baseball."

Now another season draws toward a close. The T-shirt leaguers move up a notch, the Pony Leaguers become Colt Leaguers and the Rotary Leaguers rotate. District playoffs are under way and area championships will be decided soon.

A social phenomenon that is uniquely American is ending. Millions of moms are returning to the kitchen. Pops are hanging up their caps.

Kid baseball season is almost over.

Somebody ought to say thanks to the pops.

Cheongsam

Two, the dam burst. Uninhibited young Chinese women in Hong Kong revolutioned the cheongsam. They'd go to a clothing store and insist: "Measure me. Make me a cheongsam which will cling to my body. Keep the garment short—an inch, or two, or three above the knees. As for the slit along the side, let it go away up!"

In Hong Kong, this daring new style captured the imagination of thousands of bored, date-less, and man-hungry girls. Their mothers were shocked by the "wicked" (their word for it) new garment and many of them forbade their daughters to wear it.

However, the taboo merely served to lend the cheongsam a "forbidden fruit" quality and resourceful Chinese girls of independent minds found ways to circumvent the restriction. Male attention proved to be the clincher and Hong Kong mothers were powerless to crush the revolt or stem the tide. Thus the cheongsam (the wilder version of it) became one more fascinating reason why men of spirit and adventure found Hong Kong's old native quarter such an exciting place.

THAT APPLIED equally to Chinatown (East Hastings Street) in Vancouver, Canada. In that colorful district, young Chinese girls of charm, allure, and sexiness sauntered like birds of joy in cheongsams slashed to improbable heights.

They made a sensational hit with American seamen, convention-goers from everywhere, and Hollywood movie troupes. For example, one movie company spent a week in Vancouver to film scenes along East Hastings Street. When it came time to leave, the director discovered that 21 male members of his troupe were "missing."

Finally, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police had to be called to help round up the "strays."

IN HONG KONG, a girl sheathed in an eye-catching cheongsam faces her biggest test when she saunters down to the wharf to board the across-to-the-mainland ferry. A cute face, trim figure, and cheongsam won't, by themselves, fire up curiosity or excite male interest. For there—where men long have been exposed to the cheongsam's influence—it takes something extra special to turn heads.

A girl has to learn the art of "wiggle-waggle." This consists of making her slinky garment ripple from the left to the right side of her hips, then back again, in provocative rhythm—revealing, in the process, an expanse of creamy thigh. It's a triumph for her when males suddenly swing their heads around and murmur approvingly.

Such a compliment means that the cheongsam siren has what we Americans call "It," "Oomph," and "zeppo whambo." It further demonstrates that, on her, the cheongsam becomes even more seductively the world's sexiest garment.

Golden Roasted Turkey

Preseasoned and ready for roasting, this boneless roll of turkey meat is a modern convenience in the preparation of food. It may be roasted in the oven or turned on the rotisserie for informal eating. It's equally good either way.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Home Economics Editor

LITTLE DID that king of birds, the turkey, ever think he'd end up as a boneless roast. But one of the rewards of modern living is a boneless roll of turkey meat, preseasoned and ready for a golden roasting. Bake it in the oven and serve it for Sunday dinner, or let it turn on the patio rotesserie for informal buffet eating.

Turkey steaks are delicious, too, and minute-cookery is involved when pan-broiling tender, juicy turkey steaks. Take them right from the freezer and whisk them onto a hot butter-brushed skillet to cook quickly for only a few minutes on each side. A bit of lemon juice gives them just the right fillip.

Boneless Turkey Roast

Leave roast in original wrapper and thaw in refrigerator from 1 to 2 days, or under running cold water. Remove wrapper and leave string in place while cooking. If roast is not preseasoned, rub with salt, ac'cent and pepper. Use ½ teaspoon ac'cent per pound of turkey. Place on rack in shallow baking pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is in center of meat. Brush entire roll with melted butter or margarine. Place in preheated 350° F. oven. Baste or brush occasionally with melted butter or margarine, especially any dry areas. If roast becomes too brown during roasting, cover with loose tent of foil. Continue roasting until done. Roast meat thermometer should register 170° F. to 175° F. Pan drippings may be used for making gravy.

Prepare roast as for oven roasting. Insert spit rod through center of turkey roll. Insert skewers firmly in place in roast and screw tightly. Test balance. Meat must balance on spit so it will rotate smoothly throughout the cooking period. Place spit on rotisserie. Brush roast with melted butter or margarine. Follow manufacturer's directions for rotisserie temperature setting; roast until done. No further basting is necessary.

To test for doneness, insert a meat thermometer in center of roll, being careful not to touch spit. Thermometer should register 170° F. to 175° F. In either method of cooking, allow roast to stand 20 to 30 minutes to absorb juices. Remove string; use a sharp knife or meat slicer and slice thinly across the roast.

Timetable for Cooking Boneless Turkey Roast:

Purchased Ready-to-Cook Wgt.	Oven Degrees	Interior Temperature	Guide to Total Roasting Time*
3 to 5 lbs.	350° F.	170° to 175° F.	2 to 2½ hrs.
5 to 7 lbs.	350° F.	170° to 175° F.	2½ to 3½ hrs.
7 to 9 lbs.	350° F.	170° to 175° F.	3½ to 4 hrs.

*Shorten cooking time approximately ½ hour for rotisserie cooking.

*Lengthen cooking time approximately ½ hour for cooking rolls from the frozen state.

Tender Turkey Steaks

Melt ½ tablespoon butter or margarine for each turkey steak in hot skillet. Use ½ teaspoon ac'cent per pound of turkey steak, sprinkling over both sides of steak before placing in skillet. Add frozen or thawed steaks, cover, and cook over minimum heat for 10 minutes. Turn, season and continue cooking, for 10 minutes longer. Serve immediately with wedges of lemon.

Recipe of the Week

SALADS intrigue many a gourmet, and chicken salad, long a favorite, is also winner of this week's $5 prize. The recipe, submitted by Eleanore Cataldo, 350 Marina No. 41, Seal Beach.

Chicken Salad

- 8 chicken thighs or 4 breasts, baked and allowed to cool
- ¼ cup of American cheese chopped in small pieces
- ½ cup cubed celery
- ½ cup of canned crushed pineapple
- ½ cup of slivered almonds
- ½ tsp. of paprika
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ cup of salad dressing

Bake the chicken pieces at 350 for 45 minutes to 1 hour. Allow to cool then cut into small pieces. Combine the chicken pieces and all other ingredients. This mixture can be put in individual tart shells, in a pie shell or served on lettuce leaf. Will serve 6.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

There are many decorative uses for this easily made shiprigger bench, a combination table-storage item.

By Ed Fleming

WHAT makes an interesting woodworking project?

Three essentials of interest usually stand out. First, the project should be a simple, straightforward one. Second, it should be one that doesn't strain the budget, And last, the end result is one that is highly attractive and useful.

The Sketchbook design Shiprigger Bench meets all these qualifications with flying colors. The nostalgic, early American bench makes an excellent side table anywhere in the home.

The project is an easy one. The average woodworking enthusiast can complete the job with hand tools on one rainy Saturday, excluding the polished finish. Working from the Sketchbook step-by-step instructions, drawn details and parts and materials lists, the bench takes shape easily. We show you in the plan how each part cuts from the standard pieces of pine lumber.

The sturdy bench is an economical project. The cost in knotty pine lumber is moderate. You might possibly have some of the lumber on hand now that could be used to great advantage in making this.

THE FINISHED shiprigger, with its "seat" top and single drawer beneath, plus the spacious storage in front, is useful and interesting. How it evolved is a conversation piece in itself. The bench came about in the days of wooden ships and iron men. One of the wisest (since he rarely went to sea) and handiest of sailors was the shiprigger. With his gear stowed in his bench, he climbed aboard the moored vessel to stitch and braid, tug and tuck the many stays and hawsers the mightly ship carried. As seen in the photo, the soft V-shaped hollows on the front and sides of the bench came from the shiprigger continually pulling tough, heavy hemp hawser lines over the sides to work on them.

To order, specify Shiprigger Bench Design S-169 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812.

'Dowry' of Allergy Possible

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

MARRYING someone with an allergy appears to make you more susceptible to an allergy, a new study indicates.

Two Iowa City researchers studied 1,975 persons with asthma or hay fever in four population groups. Findings included:

From 20 to 30 per cent of all adults who developed asthma or hay fever as adults did so after marriage to partner who already had one of the conditions.

Incidence of asthma and hay fever was three times greater among those with spouses with these conditions than among those with normal spouses.

The report is in the Journal of Clinical Investigation.

A NEW DRUG study shows that drug treatment alone or in combination with psychotherapy is more effective in the treatment of schizophrenic patients than psychotherapy alone.

The drug used in the test was one of the phenothiazine family: thioridazine, trade-named Mellaril.

The finding is based on a study of 150 schizophrenic patients in nine Veterans Administration hospitals.

Psychotherapy is the formation of mental impressions through communication with the patient. Schizophrenia is a severe mental disorder marked by loss of contact with surroundings and personality disintegration.

A PROPOSAL by the American Heart Association that the general public reduce its consumption of fat has drawn plaudits from some physicians, criticism from others.

The AHA suggests "reasonable substitution" of vegetable oils and other polyunsaturated fats for saturated (animal) fats, under medical supervision.

Even the AHA admits there still is no proof that altering the diet will prevent heart attacks or strokes.

Yet it contends that there is "evidence" that suggests a relationship between the amount and type of fat consumed and the incidence of coronary artery disease.

MALE BABIES are far more likely than female babies to develop "staph" germ infection, a Pittsburgh researcher has told the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Specifically, male babies have four times as many staphylococcal lesions in the diaper area as do female infants, says Dr. Horace M. Gezon of the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School of Health.

Dr. Gezon says the difference is believed to be due to an inhibiting factor in the urine of female babies. However, the evidence is not conclusive, he emphasized.

TRANSVERSE incisions in the abdomen are less likely to cause pulmonary complications and an aftermath of pain than are vertical incisions, a study at Harbor General Hospital, Torrance, shows.

One hundred patients slated for gall bladder or bile-duct operations were assigned vertical or transverse incisions at random, according to a report in Archives of Surgery.

Dr. Nicholas A. Halasz says that 20 per cent of patients who got vertical incisions developed pulmonary complications in contrast to only 2 per cent of those receiving transverse incisions. Pain was greater in the group with vertical incisions.

Wine on the Moon

Dr. Jack Green (above), who teaches lunar geology as one of his subjects at USC, thinks the moon's surface might well be used for growing grapes for wine-making.

By Lou Jobst

THE LITTLE old winemaker is going to be a big man on the moon.

Space scientist Dr. Jack Green of La Habra, who teaches lunar geology at USC, believes the face of the moon if a perfect place to plant grapes.

The 35-year-old research scientist contends that most of the moon craters are the result of volcanic explosions. Green says man can grow vineyards on even the most forbidding volcanic terrains.

"Lanzarote, the easternmost of the Canary Islands off the Atlantic coast of Africa, is an ideal model of what a volcanic moon might be," asserts Green, who is also a research geologist-geophysicist with North American's Space Sciences Laboratory, Downey.

"THE ISLAND has no rainfall. Most of it is bare rock and cinders.

"Because there is no rain, a novel agricultural technique has been improvised. The peasants seek out areas of volcanic ash and build a stone fence of basalt around each seed they plant.

"In this way the volcanic soil absorbs moisture from the night air and the wind-deflecting stone fence reduces evaporation during the day."

Because of this and other reasons the people of Lanzorote are called "Magos" (magicians) by other Canary Islanders.

IN ADDITION to grapes the Lanzarotians also grow wheat, tomatoes, tobacco and corn in volcanic ash gardens.

Green believes a lot of anti-moon exploration people simply lack faith in man's ingenuity or imagination.

One of the basic arguments is that man won't find anything to eat or drink.

"Our present space program treats men as mere puppets and forgets that man is creative and can make something even out of nothing," asserts Green.

Look at the Canary Islanders, says the scientist. They were plunked down in a waterless wilderness and produced a perfectly delectable beverage—wine.

HOW YOUR CHILD LEARNS

A 10-to-1 Return

By Howard E. Kent

QUESTION: "Many youngsters are going to make the decision this summer not to continue school next fall. And why shouldn't they decide in favor of a job? Haven't they got a pretty good argument if they intend to work? After all, think of the valuable work they'll be doing over the next several years, the taxes they'll pay and the money they'll be earning while other kids are going to school classes at public expense. Isn't this a factor the educators and the politicians forget when they moan about the "drop out"?

ANSWER: When it sends a young person to school, society is not wasting money. It is investing in human capital.

Standard Oil Co. is not noted as a promoter of bad investments. So consider the following remark by that company's chief executive officer, M. J. Rathbone:

"Take two boys graduating from the eighth grade, one of whom goes on through high school and college, while the other leaves school and goes to work. The cost of the college man's extra eight years of schooling, plus the wages he would have earned if he had spent those years in a job, might total as much as $25,000. But experience shows that his lifetime earnings once he does go to work will exceed those of the grade-school graduate by an average of $280,000. That is better than a 10-to-1 return on his investment. . . .

"The most important capital that any economy possesses is in the skills which people carry around in their heads."

It's a hard economic fact that the youngster who continues his schooling usually does more for his own future and for society than the one who quits early to get a job.

QUESTION: Was "educational TV" just a fad that's dying out?

ANSWER: Far from being a dying fad, educational TV is making vast strides. Between now and next June, reports the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, 65 new educational television stations are expected to go into operation.

Cards for Company

By Frances Edelman

Unlined index cards may be creased, trimmed with foil and made into place cards.

WHEN guests are invited to sit down to a luncheon or dinner, hostesses have noticed they feel better when seats have been assigned to them. Making place cards can be a creative satisfaction, and they are easy to do.

Unlined index cards measuring 3x5 inches are suitable for this project. They may be creased lengthwise at the center so as to stand by themselves, as shown in the accompanying illustration.

A simple and elegant card can be made by banding the edges narrowly with aluminum foil. First mark a one-fourth-inch border with a ruled pencil line on the index card face. Cut half-inch strips of foil. Apply a thin line of liquid glue along the penciled border and spread it thinly with the finger tip, (keep a damp cloth handy for fingers). Place the foil at the pencil line, smoothing it flat. Either square or mitre the corners. Press the foil to the underside of the card after adding the glue.

FOILS ARE now available in blue, green, red, gold and other combinations of colors for gift wrapping. These may be substituted for the silver foil, so as to match or blend with any table decor.

If foil is not on hand, use a pen, a colored pencil, a crayon or felt marker pen to make a series of diagonal border lines, sketch flowers in corners of card or draw symmetrical or asymmetrical designs around the card, leaving room in the center for the name.

Cinema Club

Six club members, headed by John J. Lloyd, were strategically spotted in various ground locations to give greater depth and feel to the motion picture. Used locally as a training and public relations aid, this particular film, there is reason to believe, may some day gain even greater stature and more widespread use.

ACCORDING to Everett Hosking, Sunday editor of the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, the movie has received a new sound track and has been re-edited into a 12-minute film suitable for television and/or recruiting. Eventually, it will be forwarded to the Pentagon where it will be decided whether or not to adopt it for use throughout the United States.

Naturally, all Cinema Club members haven't the time, opportunity, or actual ability to shoot films earmarked for national importance. Nor can all members gain the prestige which must naturally come to makers of such a movie.

Every club member can, however, gain a certain measure of experience and ease in the handling of his movie equipment; the opportunity to share his hobby with people of like interests; knowledge of new products and methods in the field of movie-making; education, participation, and often the chance to serve his fellow man.

When you think about it—that's quite a bit, isn't it?

He Created Frank Merriwell

GEO. F. KENNAN
Author of "On DEALING WITH THE COMMUNIST WORLD," based on Elihu Root lectures (Harper & Row, $3).

COL. JOHN PARR, explorer, romantic and heroic rebel from a long line of prosaic Parrs, climbs to the top of the Andes and discovers a lost tribe, living primitively but under a code of peace and coexistence superior to "civilization."

"THE WINTER PEOPLE" (Simon and Schuster, $4.50) by Gilbert Phelps is a story within a story. Parr's great nephew, David Parr, inherits the adventurer's journal and injects himself, as well as the colonel, into the narration, which is literate science fiction or, perhaps, a midwinter night's dream.

Phelps maintains the distinct styles and characters of the two Parrs as they probe the significance of their Utopian villagers who, for example, wage symbolic war with a nearby community to release hatred without bloodshed.

Here is provocative and stimulating imagination—and not disproved.

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

LIKE Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn and Horatio Alger, Frank Merriwell became one of the best known figures in American literature. He was a super hero to generations of American boys.

Calling a boy "a regular Frank Merriwell" was part of the U.S. idiom and produced, for millions, the image of a healthy, straight-shooting athletic hero who used truth, honor and fair play to outfight and outwit scallawags.

But virtually nothing—until now—is known or has been written about the man who created Frank Merriwell and his no less unusual fictional brother, Dick.

The story of this remarkable man who produced the fabulous nickel and dime novels for nearly 20 years is told in "FRANK MERRIWELL'S FATHER," an autobiography by Gilbert Patten edited by Harriett Hinsdale, assisted by Tony London (University of Oklahoma Press, $5.95).

This is no mean biographical study since Gilbert Patten, whose pen name was Burt L. Standish, wrote books which have had a terrific impact on the molding of American character. The Merriwell books—which first appeared in 1896—have sold 500 million copies. Merriwell was a prototype of the all-American boy—succeeded in later times by Jack Armstrong, Andy Hardy and others—and is still an important part of Americana.

Patten had not completed his autobiography—a story almost as exciting and unbelievable as the exploits of the Frank Merriwell boys—but it has been possible, from his papers for novelist Hinsdale and motion picture producer London to complete his story.

SOCIAL historian Harry Golden believes John F. Kennedy should be called our "second emancipator president" because of his total and effective commitment to the destruction of segregation.

For years, from his ringside seat in Charlotte, N. C., Golden has watched and recorded the struggle for racial equality, with special interest in the administrations of the contemporary presidents.

The result, "MR. KENNEDY AND THE NEGROES" (World, $4.95), is in typical Golden conversational logic, based on fact and news events. Harry Truman lost southern votes because of his civil rights stand and the author notes Dwight Eisenhower was virtually silent on the subject, while white supremacists vented their hatred, instead, on Justice Earl Warren.

Golden contends that the American Negro will achieve his ultimate objectives because Kennedy used the power and prestige of the presidency in a personal crusade, abetted by brother Robert and the clergy of the three major denominations.

Somehow, you get the idea that Golden's other books set the stage for this one.

ESSAYS and comments on the late president by 51 authors, journalists and world leaders comprise "A TRIBUTE TO JOHN F. KENNEDY" (Encyclopaedia Britannica distributed by Atheneum, $5.) Editors are Pierre Salinger and Sander Vanocur, with a dedication by President Lyndon B. Johnson and foreword by Theodore Sorensen. Included is a watercolor painting by Mrs. Kennedy reproduced from the original which the president kept near his desk. Net proceeds go to the John F. Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass.

Lowering the Language Barrier

By Virginia M. Crill

TIMES when neighbors communicated only with sign language could be returning. No longer, however, because of a difference in origin but because the speed and ease of travel rushes the language barrier on wings of a jet.

Adults of all ages — from the young married to the active retired—yearning for the pleasures of vacation travel or temporary foreign living experiments, recognize the importance of learning one, or perhaps even two foreign languages. For the old familiar viewpoint of "We'll never be able to travel abroad so why study another language?" no longer is a reasonable question. "Go Now, Pay Later" plans transport people swiftly anywhere on earth. Many who prefer the family auto find Spanish - speaking neighbors only a two-hour drive away.

IN MEXICO as in other foreign countries the larger shops employ English speaking clerks. But the best bargains abound on the small side streets. If you don't know at least a little Spanish, shopping through them may become as dull as watching a stage play or TV drama with the sound equipment broken.

A few months of study in new methods of presenting foreign languages will result in much pleasure and perhaps lower prices as well as you ask, "Cuanto vale, por favor?" and then listen carefully and perhaps ask the clerk to repeat answer more slowly as you attempt to understand it.

And the clerks happily repeat more slowly. Even those who speak English well seem pleased by a visitor trying to use their language and are happy to aid him.

On a side street in Ensenada, a Long Beach woman found a small store that specialized in parrots. Yellow parrots, green parrots, and vari-colored parrots of all sizes and types obviously young and eager to talk.

IN THE U.S., parrots are relatively expensive, but the woman wanted one. With her struggling, newly acquired Spanish and the few words of English which the proprietor knew, they had almost arrived at an agreement of $20 for a particularly attractive bird when her husband reminded her of the border quarantine. The proprietor was ready for this problem. He explained carefully in mixed Spanish and English how it could be handled.

Sadly the lady decided to let him keep both his bird and smuggling lesson. She was not yet ready to become a criminal.

But she enjoyed the bartering. With her husband following r e s o l u t e l y, wondering what she might want next, she made friends as well as purchases and returned home that evening thoroughly tired as well as equipped with enough exotic perfumes and linens to take care of the next half-dozen birthdays and wedding showers to which she might be invited.

She also continued to enjoy the study of Spanish. She plans person-to-person practice of the language more often and in various other places. She and many other adults particularly appreciate the new improved method of teaching languages as compared with the methods used only a few years ago.

THE THEORY that since Latin is the base of many languages it must also be the first new language studied, has now been replaced with the idea of teaching live languages by living, useful methods. They are taught by phrases and sentences orally in class, connected with everyday objects and habits. The old method of drillwork in reading and writing but little oral use has nearly disappeared.

A woman who well knows the difficulties and advantages of learning another language as an adult is Mrs. Georgina Ragone, adult education Spanish instructor of the Long Beach Unified School District. Until five years ago she lived in Argentina, and learned English only after moving here. Very much in favor of the new teaching method for languages, she says "The new approach in teaching foreign languages to adults is based mainly on a child's way of learning. Just as a child first hears words and attaches meanings to them long before he learns to read and write, so adults are taught, by sound and speaking practice of words and phrases, learning their meanings and using them in class practice as they progress. They use the books as little as possible except for home study."

BECAUSE of this new educational approach to languages, many adults, once discouraged with the old drill method, are studying a new language. They eagerly look forward to foreign travel — both short visits and retirement stays—as a challenge to their ability to understand and communicate. As speed and ease of travel increase, boundaries disappear.

The morning cup of coffee with a neighbor would suddenly taste very bitter if not accompanied by a cheery "Hello." The shopping trip to the local market would become drab and uninteresting if we could only buy and were denied the pleasure of greeting friends and neighbors along the way. So trips in the rocket-age future also may become drab and friendless unless we studiously lift the other expressions of communication besides our own.

Jet travel and more opportunities to go places increase adult desire to learn one or more languages. Above, Mrs. Georgina Ragone teaches conversational Spanish class.

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90812, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give genealogy on BONNER—J.B., Anaheim.

J.B.: BONNER is an Anglicized French surname first used eight centuries ago as Bon-Air." This denoted "kind, courteous, civil person," and had the same source as the modern term "debonair." Quaint 14th century marriage vows in Britain state, "In sykenesse and in helthe, to be boneere (bonair) and buxum in bed and at bord tyll deth us depart." Ancestors include William Le Bonere of Oxford, 1273. The Bonner shield is red, decorated with an ermine covered crescent, wreathed with a circle of gold birds. The family motto is "Forever faithful." Two American towns were named for early Bonner settlers, Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, and Bonner Springs, Mo.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain DISHON.—R.A., Long Beach.

R.A.: DISHON is an American spelling of the French surname Dijon. This name originated as the town-name Dijon, in Burgundy, France, where the family originated. Dijon was first called Divionem by the Romans, a term believed to signify "divine locality."

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on MAGEE.—A.B., Long Beach.

A.B.: MAGEE and Maghee are Scotch, although the lineage later moved to Ireland. The forefather was Eymor MacEye, meaning "son of the man with strong intellect." This Gaelic chieftain lived over eight centuries ago. The family shield is black, emblazoned with three silver leopard faces. Magees of Ireland lived in Donegal and Tyrone.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please publish data on HOLGUIN.—M.H., Garden Grove.

M.H.: HOLGUIN is an old French surname developed from a Teutonic warrior title used many centuries ago. Holguin began as "Hold-win" meaning "gracious and benevolent friend or protector." There can also be a Spanish source for Holguin, with the meaning "sons of the merry-maker."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give information on MARTINEZ.—A.M., Long Beach.

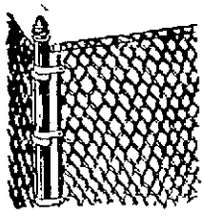

A.M.: MARTINEZ, meaning "sons of the warlike one," is a development of the Roman Latin baptismal name Martinus. The Martinez lineage were among high Spanish nobility. Their coat-of-arms from medieval Castile has a green tree on a small green hill centered on a gold shield. Around the shield's border is a blue stripe decorated with eight silver stars. Ignacio Martinez, born in Mexico City in 1774, was commandant of the Presidio of San Francisco, 1822-1827.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give genealogy on CARLISLE. —R.M., Long Beach.

R.M.: CARLISLE was inherited from an ancestor from the north English town of Carlisle in Cumberland. Carlisle, a descriptive term, devolved from the Celtic-English words "Caer-lug," meaning "fortress - tower," combined with the Latin word "Vallum" for "wall." The complete name interprets figuratively as "fortress with towers on its walls." The town name emerged from Caer-lug-vallum to Caerluel, then Carlisle and Carlyle. The family shield is gold, emblazoned with a red cross.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like data on LEONE.—V.V., Bellflower.

V.V.: LEONE is Italian, meaning "lion." This name was first adopted in medieval times by the family ancestor from the striking insignia emblazoned on his battle shield. This shield, granted at Padua, has a gold-crowned, silver lion centered on a blue background.

Short Course in Facts on Fido

By Eleanor Avery Price

WITH SO many breeds of dogs having fascinating ancestry; with humane organizations working around the clock to help unfortunate animals; and with pet ownership being the largest hobby in the nation, one wonders why there isn't a course on some school grade level about animals. (In San Francisco, the SPCA has a teaching representative, Dale Robbins, who goes from classroom to classroom helping children with their pets.)

How many children, for example know there is a tiny butterfly dog, the Papillon, that appears in paintings dating to 1688? Or that there is a little monkey dog, the Affenpinscher, that comes from Germany and whose blood flows in the Brussels Griffon? For that matter, how many children ever heard of a Brussels Griffon?

French butterfly dog, the Papillon, is of an ancient origin. This one owned by Fran-Oaks Kennel, Temple City.

THE FOLLOWING is a brief selection of material on dog data. Just for fun, check with your child (or yourself) to see if he has somewhere along in his school studies learned some of these facts.

Five dogs in this country are entitled to the label, "Made in America." They are the American water spaniel, Boston terrier, Chesapeake Bay retriever, black and tan coonhound, and, more recently, the Alaskan malamute.

Plains Indians used large dogs as pack animals before the Spaniards brought horses to the West in 1540. Kootenay Indians of British Columbia, having no word for horse, called the first horses "elk dogs."

Egyptian pharoahs had sculptures of favorite dogs placed in their tombs. Alexander the Great built and named a city in honor of a large, courageous dog named Perites. King Henry VIII sent 400 war dogs to aid Charles V of Spain in his war with France.

A GREAT DANE named Genesk saved the life of Frederick the Great of Prussia by giving a warning of the approach of a band of Cossacks. William of Orange was once saved by a spaniel, Pompey. A Newfoundland saved Napoleon from drowning when the emperor fell from a boat in his escape from Elba.

King Christian I of Denmark was deserted during a plague by all except his dog, Wild Bret. Thisbe, pet of Marie Antoinette, killed herself when not allowed to visit her mistress in prison. A spaniel owned by Mary, Queen of Scots, hid beneath her mistress' robe when the queen went to her execution.

Several years of records of Sir Isaac Newton's discoveries went up in smoke when his beloved greyhound, Diamond, accidentally upset a candle on his desk.

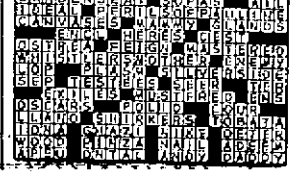

George Washington, upon learning that the dog belonging to his adversary, Gen. Howe, had been captured at the outpost line, promptly ordered the dog sent back to Howe under a flag of truce.

Theodore Roosevelt had more dogs than any other president, and he fancied unusual pets, among them a kangaroo.

Carefree Daisy

Gerberia Jamesonii is better known to gardeners as the African daisy, considered by many as the most elegantly textured and sophisticated of all daisy types.

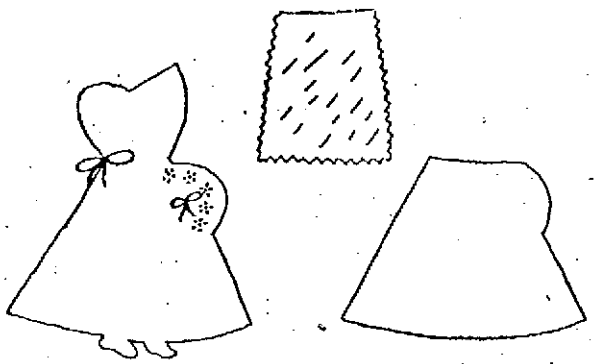

There is a choice of varieties . . . the gray-green basal, small cluster of leaves can be in a lobed or cut style. The slightly curving stems are a graceful support for the slender petaled daisies of about four inches in diameter. You can have single or double blooms in shades of yellow, white, cream, pink, coral, deep rose, pale orange, and red.

These blooms will grace garden or house border from May to December and also make delightful indoor accents in cut flower arrangements, as they are exceptionally long lasting.

These lovelies are relatively carefree. Place them in an area that affords some shelter from wind. Give them good drainage. Place them in the ground with no less than ¼ inch of the crown showing above the soil. Water deeply but infrequently.

Every three years they should be divided in the springtime for a neater appearance and healthier plants. Plant them singly or in clusters of harmonizing colors.

Needle-Book for One Who Sews

Sunbonnet Baby pattern for a bright needle-book. She measures 5 inches from tip of bonnet to skirt edge.

By Elsa DeBra

WITH SO MANY days throughout the year for special family gift-giving, there is a time, no matter what month, to make the one who sews a bright needle-book to slip as a surprise into her mending basket. She will adore it, not only because you made it, but because the sunbonnet baby pattern—a replica of Eulalie Osgood Grover's characters Mollie and May—brings nostalgic memories of early reading and drawing days in grade school.

First select brightly colored felt and cut into a Sunbonnet Baby, by pattern shown in the accompanying illustration. Leave it plain. Or why not make her bouquet of solid french-knots with narrow lace gathered full around it? And also lace on the edge of the bonnet. Other decorative possibilities, sequin or bead-trimmed, perhaps, will come to you.

NOW CUT another felt piece by the pattern—a skirt only, from neck down, omitting head and feet. This makes a firm back for the needle-book. Now cut, with pinking shears (so it won't ravel), from pattern shown, several smaller inside pieces out of scraps of heavy woolen material. Use plaids, or stripes in loud colors. Stick these pieces full of assorted sizes of needles, pins and safety pins.

Now you're ready to put the book together, like a sandwich. Whip these inside pieces to the felt backing, at neck only, then whip the back to the main Sunbonnet Baby, also at neck. The pieces fit together neatly.

Needles or pins can't get lost or misplaced while housed in this ever-ready felt book.

Fuchsia Code

When the fuchsia hybridizer finds a new variety worthy of introduction, he is faced with the decision—is it to be classified as upright, or trailing? This is very important to the best of fuchsia hanging basket fans thirsting for new color combinations to enjoy. Obviously, they are going to be displeased if the new release fails to send out gracefully arching branches displaying myriads of flowers best enjoyed from below.

The result of the hybridizer's decision can be found on the labels of the fuchsias on display at the nursery. The symbols TR or HB indicate that the decision favored trailing or hanging basket type. Other symbols on these label's give further information about the variety: C-red means the flower petals (or corolla) are red, and S-white means the sepals (wrapped around the petals) are a contrasting white. With this information you can pretty well picture the flower before the plants are in bloom.

Rest easy with flameless electric air conditioning

No doubt about it! You know you've made the wise, modern choice when you air condition with clean, quiet, flameless electricity. So far ahead in comfort, so easy to afford and maintain—electric air conditioning is the overwhelming choice in Southern California.

Clean as electric light. Electric air conditioning filters the air of dust and pollen. So quiet, you're aware of nothing but pleasant coolness. It's the only system that keeps both temperature and humidity in ideal balance.

Simplest to install. With electric air conditioning there is no need for an unsightly cooling tower or plumbing. It's the only kind that can be added to an existing heating system with little or no remodeling.

Far easier to maintain. Electric air conditioning doesn't need the frequent service calls that other systems require.

Thriftiest to buy. Only with electric air conditioning is there the right size at the right price for every need. You can be sure of ideal cooling and economical operation at low Edison rates.

Planning to buy a new home? For better living today and lasting value in the all-electric future, look for the GOLD MEDALLION HOME AWARD. It's given only to new homes that meet a specific list of modern electrical requirements, plus proper insulation for ideal, economical air conditioning.

Soon You May Use a Space Phone

By Walter Finch

YOU CAN phone your gadding wife in Paris or your aging mother in Dublin, you can watch a "live" telecast of a bull fight in Madrid or a ski meet in the Alps, all via commercial communications satellite, all in your American living room, and all by 1965.

That, says Dr. Allen E. Puckett, vice president of Hughes Aircraft Co., will be the impact of "Public Satellite No. 1," the world's first commercial communications satellite, which Hughes is building for the Communications Satellite Corp. The reverse will of course also be true, with Europeans being able to talk to America and watch American telecasts, he added.

"The satellite, called Early Bird, will be completed less than a year from now and be ready for launching a month later," Dr. Puckett said. "It will enable the average citizen to place telephone calls via space and view direct transatlantic television broadcasts by 1965.

"This will mark the real beginning of the Space Age for the man in the street," he added.

A Comsat Corporation contract with Hughes calls for two satellites and spare parts costing approximately $8 million.

"AWARD OF the contract to build the commercial satellite followed the unprecedented success of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Syncom satellite," Dr. Puckett said. "This satellite has logged more than twice as much communications time as all other American satellites combined."

Comsat's first commercial version of Syncom, Dr. Puckett reported, will be able to handle a volume of traffic equal to that of all transatlantic voice cables now in use. It will be capable of carrying 240 two-way telephone calls simultaneously, or could carry TV broadcasts or a combination of telephone, teletype and wirephoto transmissions.

"This satellite is the first step of a global system that will permit anyone to pick up a telephone and call another party on any other continent," Dr. Puckett said.

In "hovering" orbit, 22,300 miles "up," the first public communications satellite will look something like this artist's sketch. It will have phone and television impact.

Outdoor Screens

Vines are nature's outdoor screens, needing only the assistance of the home gardener to bring their beauty and utility into play, covering a blank wall, softening a harsh line of fence or providing overhead shade in warm weather.

Nearly every home garden can use a vine, but what kind and how to employ it are propositions that are more complex than may at first seem. For instance, for a concrete or brick wall choose a clinging type such as Boston or other climbing ivies, creeping fig or Virginia creeper.

For trellis or pergola, try wisteria or grape, evergreen bougainvillea or honeysuckle. Silver Lace vine is another. For fence or roof overhang, Armanda clematis is good but needs guidance with string or cord. Giant Burmese honeysuckle or blood-red trumpet vine are good on lattice.

Deadline Now for Azalea Pruning

By Joe Littlefield

There is no set rule for pruning azaleas as to how to cut the branches, but experts agree July is deadline.

SOME azalea specialists suggest last time azaleas may be pruned is no later than about July, in order to allow plenty of time for new growth to develop, mature, then flower.

However, there seems to be specific pruning rule for these plants. Decide where you want to cut to shape the plant, then cut. Just below the cuts, new growth will appear. Azaleas are one of the easiest of shrubby plants to prune.

The most important factor for successful azalea culture is firmness of the planting medium around the root. If the material is loosely packed, the plants rarely grow well or bloom their best.

To correct loose planting, firm the planting medium with your fingers, not with round end of trowel or shovel handle. Finger firming causes the peat moss or peat and leaf mold mixture to pack much tighter, thereby catching and holding moisture so the roots get all the water they need. And, more important, the plant food grains don't filter through the planting medium, but generally stay put, and supply all the food value for the plant roots.

Azaleas, like the camellias, and other shade loving plants need periodic foliage baths for best growth.

ONE OF THE garden vegetables that are problem plants for many gardeners are tomatoes. Lush plants often show many blooms but these drop off before forming fruit.

Some gardeners use one of the sprays recommended to set fruit, and this probably helps. The successful factor for setting lots of fruit mainly is warm nights and hot days.

We tried growing tomatoes several times. Those we planted early in July produced the largest crops!

WHY DON'T YOU try try growing a few? Plant them right away. One hobby-gardener had exceptionally good crops of tomatoes by planting them differently than most gardeners do. He set them in the bottoms of 6x6-inch holes. As the plants grew he filled soil around the trunks to the garden level. This factor helped the plants produce more roots which grew out from the soil covered trunks, hence sturdier growth. He harvested bumper crops of tomatoes.

Tomatoes are highly sensitive plants to fungus diseases. Gardeners can help the plants by regularly dusting them with one of the pesticide-fungicide products recommended for fruits and vegetables.

When the Gardener Goes Vacationing

Conscientious gardeners have their qualms about their home grounds when they go away for vacation trips. Here are some suggestions that will help to ease such worry:

Our rainless summers guarantee us good weather for our vacations but solve no watering problems during our absence, so it is a good idea to irrigate thoroughly beforehand and avoid moisture loss by mulching plants and shrubs.

Several good mulching materials are available from California Association of Nurserymen members. The list includes peat moss, shredded bark, shavings and steer manure. Let them provide the one they think best for your garden.

The strategy against vacation moisture loss is to first build a shallow basin around the plants you irrigate once a week or oftener, then fill with a slow stream of water. Pour or shovel in the mulch from the bag until the basins are full, then irrigate again to moisten the mulch. Be sure to check the mulch for thorough wetting.

Flower beds that have just been planted should be mulched between plants. First, cultivate lightly, then spread the mulch to a depth of one-half to one inch, then irrigate with a stationary sprinkler. Test the soil with a stick to assure yourself that moisture has penetrated to a depth of three or four inches.

Well-fed lawns do not require as much water, so give the grass in your garden a light feeding with a well-balanced lawn food, liquid or dry, before you leave. Soak the food in thoroughly. And don't forget to mow before you go!

Bugs don't take vacations in summer—only in winter. Use a good general-purpose insecticide recommended by your nurseryman, applied with an efficient hose-end or pressure-tank sprayer. Scatter snail pellets in flower beds and under shrubs.

Large house plants may be thoroughly soaked before going away. Small indoor plants likely to dry out quickly may be enclosed in freezer bags slipped over the top and tied under the pot. Set them in a place shaded from direct sunlight.

Garden Clubs

South Coast Orchid Society will hear a talk by John Miller, grower of orchids, on Phalaenopsis, the "Moth" orchid, at a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park clubhouse, 31st Street and Santa Fe Avenue. The public is invited.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . . make use of all the blooms this time of year and lavishly decorate your home with cut flower arrangements. Now you can enjoy these garden prizes both indoors and out.

To determine if you are watering in sufficient amounts, insert a sharp stick or other implement into the ground. If it doesn't show moisture to a depth of three to four inches, additional watering is needed.

Cushion mums are now available in gallon cans at your local C.A.N. nursery. For a quick lift of color, buy these delicate plants now.

Dampen the soil or walks with water around your begonias and fuchsias on hot days. This raises the humidity and helps cool the soil around them. A fine spray applied directly on the plants is, of course, the best arrangement.

ANDY GASSAWAY
The Good Land

AT TIMES we live in a mad absurd world with far too many people scurrying around trying frantically to get ahead and caring very little about what's happening to the next fellow in the race.

But among us there are still some who believe in the old fundamentals, who don't neglect their friends and principles as they forge on to success. Foremost among these is a man named Andy Gassaway, whose big kindly face is well-known to hundreds of Long Beach citizens. Andy started out 15 years ago with a tiny cafe at 643½ Pine Ave. which he called Andy's Hotcake House. Although he maintained impossibly long working hours for himself, he always had a smile for his patrons and did his very best to give them the finest quality foods. Each year he donated vast sums to charity. His high standards brought Andy more and more success. Repeatedly he expanded the size of his restaurant. Recently Andy's long-time hopes and aspirations culminated magnificently as he reopened the Hotcake House and revealed changes making it one of the finest, largest restaurants in town. Smiling happily, Andy disclosed such improvements as a broad, elegant exterior; a longer serving counter displaying more of his food treasures; a new salad-sandwich area and two checker-cashiers to speed service. But, more important, Andy revealed that he has not forgotten the people who made his success possible. His prices (just about the lowest in town) have not been increased. And Andy's philosophy of thankfulness to God and kindness to your fellow man can be seen throughout the restaurant, from the "good land" mosaic out front to the Flag flying proudly on his roof.

(Closed Sundays, Andy's is now open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.)

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

Doctors are in for a ribbing on television next fall.

Steve Franklin thinks it's a healthy situation.

Steve plays an intern in "Tom, Dick and Mary," one of the three 30-minute situation comedy segments of NBC-TV's upcoming "90 Bristol Court."

As Dick, Steve is a doctor who can't do anything right. He can't order aspirin without consulting a medical dictionary to check the spelling.

It's a new-type role for a familiar television face.

In the long-lived "Dobie Gillis" series, Steve played Chatworth Osborne Jr., the rich boy. In "The Lieutenant," he was Lt. Sam Panosian. In "Mr. Novak," he plays Jerry Allen, music teacher.

And he feels the part of the bumbling intern is a good prescription for him and for the public.

"WE NEED A COMDEY about things we take so seriously as 'Dr. Kildare' and 'Ben Casey,'" he said.

"A sense of perspective can be reached by making fun of most anything."

Steve hopes the program will be accepted by the American Medical Assn. in the spirit in which it's offered — that spirit simply being humor.

"However," said Steve, "doctors are just people, not arbiters of faith.

"They're subject to the same doubts and inadequacy everyone else is.

"A fun show about them is healthy and in the tradition of the French playwright, Mollere, who ribbed them in the 17th century with his play, 'The Doctor, in Spite of Himself.'

"Personally, the only doctors I have anything against are those who don't take pleasure and gratification from their work."

STEVE TAKES PLEASURE and gratification from his work. He does more. He takes comedy seriously.

There are several reasons.

First, "blessedly," he feels his talents lie in the field of comedy.

Second, he doesn't feel that everything on television or the movies or the stage must be a problem play.

Third, he feels that comedy can entertain and, at the same time, serve a social function.

"Every man must dignify his profession," said Steve. "I would like to think I'll reach a plateau where I'll express myself socially the way Charlie Chaplin did with his 'Modern Times.'"

HE KNOWS he has not yet reached that "plateau," although the comic-medic role might be a step toward it.

Ironically, Steve, a scholastic-scholarship student, started his college career at Cornell University in New York as a pre-med major.

After appearing in several college plays, he decided on a professional acting career instead of majoring in medicine.

"I thought I'd have more talent as an actor than as a doctor," he said.

As a combination, actor-doctor, Steve hopes the operation will be a success.

'SEA HUNT' AT FAIR

No Waterloo for Lloyd Bridges

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Lloyd Bridges is finally resigned to staying psychologically wet.

For four years, he swam around in a diving lung making 156 episodes of Sea Hunt, a highly successful syndicated series. Then the show stopped production and Bridges became a regular on network television with an anthology series, The Lloyd Bridges Show.

But that show was not a success ("I guess Richard Boone and I have proved that there is not much chance for an anthology series to be a hit on television," he smiled), so Lloyd spent the next season making guest appearances on other people's shows.

* * * *

MEANWHILE, Sea Hunt goes on, and Bridges says he stays "psychologically wet."

He has an interest in a Sea Hunt exhibit at the Travel and Transportation Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. His voice narrates the show, which consists of three skin-divers—a good guy, a bad guy and a beautiful girl—and one personable rubber octopus.

"These swimmers do a pretty realistic version of a typical Sea Hunt show. Mike Nelson is searching for treasure, and he meets a girl, an octopus and a villain," Bridges paused and smiled.

* * * *

"THAT'S THE KIND of plot I used to fight against when I was doing the show. I thought we could do scientific and education shows which were also entertaining. But the sponsor wanted straight adventure. I can't blame them. Trying to be too artistic on television is a mistake. Viewers want to see physical action which is relaxing. If they want deeper entertainment, they will go someplace else.

"It's just that always finding a beautiful girl skindiving was so coincidental. The girl's father was always an oceanographer, but he wasn't in the water, she was."

Sought for Concerts

Though Jack Benny claims to be only a mediocre violinist, he is widely sought for concerts, for which he plays a $25,000 Stradivarius.

SPECIAL

ISSUES & ANSWERS—Sec. of State Dean Rusk gives the LBJ administration's views on foreign policy issues raised during the Republican convention. Topics during the 3 p.m., ch. 7, quizzing include Viet Nam, Cuba, Berlin, nuclear weaponry and "extremism."

HARLEM: Test for the North—Edwin Newman is anchor man for an examination of New York City's riot-torn Harlem at 5 p.m., ch. 4. Chet Hagan-produced hour will try to show the background of Harlem—why the unrest that recently has erupted into violence and rioting.

OPEN END—A question which in many areas is already answering itself is probed by Whitney Young, Jr. (Urban League), Dr. Martin Luther King, the leader of the March on Washington, Bayard Rustin and three other civil rights leaders, in a discussion of the possibility of civil rights violence this summer, as David Susskind moderates at 11 p.m., ch. 5. Included in the picture are the Black Muslim movement, violence on New York subways, accusations of police brutality in Harlem and the place of the white liberal in the Negro Revolution.

Pan and Fan Mail

Why was "Blast-Off," the space-quiz series that aired only three weeks at 9:30 a.m. on channel 11, taken off the air?

Gerry F. Beychok, Long Beach

Couldn't get off the ground.

* * *

I understand that four Elvis Presley movies have been purchased for television.

One of them, "Loving You," has been shown.

Could you please tell me when the others are scheduled to be shown and on what channel?

E. Youngs, Lakewood

"Loving You" was shown a total of 13 times on channel 9. The same channel will nightly show Elvis in "King Creole" the week of Oct. 19.

* * *

Channel 7, which has the other two Elvis movies, has "Kid Galahad" slated for airing on Nov. 15 and "Follow That Dream" scheduled for Jan. 24 next year.

* * *

In a recent "Wagon Train" episode a 50-star Flag was used.

Was this an accident, purposely done or was it pure stupidity?

It seems to me that a 90-minute western spectacular could afford to use the correct props.

Frank Whitney, Long Beach

Floyd Farrington, who checks the props for Revue Studios, says you've got stars in your eyes, Frank.

His department has Flags from every period in American history, he maintains. And they "never" goof in the Flag department or on "Wagon Train."

* * *

So how does Bob Parker know anything about the teenagers of today—he never has them on his show if he can help it, it seems.

He has thoroughly denounced the whole generation.

If that is the way he feels, then why shouldn't our attitude be resentment and aloofness?

If he and more people like him tried to understand and help us, why then he could help us to get out of those subways he mentioned.

Diana Petersen, Long Beach

Understanding is a two-way street.

Barker, according to the story that ran in this magazine last week, didn't denounce the whole generation. To the contrary, he commended some teenagers as "well-mannered, bright kids."

SPECIAL

VACATION PLAYHOUSE —Jim Novak is a wolf! At least James Franciscus plays a Madison Ave. version as he tries to maintain his bachelor status against cleaning-mending-cooking marital plot of a petite French actress (Suzanne Pleshette). Pilot film, made prior to Mr. Novak's" debut and after Franciscus' departure from "Naked City," could be better than the average for this summer anthology of rejects. At 8:30 p.m., ch. 2, it was produced by Norman Lear and directed by Bud Yorkin, and features Jack Weston, Fifi D'Orsay and J. Pat O'Malley.

HOLLYWOOD AT NIGHT —Herschel Bernardi hosts an hour-long night on the town, from the Sunset Strip to intimate cafes, with more than 20 production numbers spotlighted at 8:30 p.m., ch. 5. Seen performing at the clubs where they entertain the paying guests are Ruth Olay, Jack Costanzo, the Page Cavanaugh band, Bud and Travis, The Condors, Calvin Jackson, Terrea Lea and the Kip Walton Trio.

NEWHART IN FRESH TV START

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Bob Newhart returns to television this fall in a series called "The Entertainer," which it had better be or Robert will be looking for another job.

Newhart, one of the top cerebral comedians, appears on the new CBS-TV series with Carol Burnett. Between the two of them there should be a lot of laughs.

This is Bob's second series. His last one went off the air in 1962 and he's spent more than half his time since then traveling around the nation working nightclubs and colleges.

The personal appearance road is a tough one for a comedian, especially Bob who would prefer to be home with his wife and young son in Hollywood. The series changes all that.

* * * *

"I WANTED to get back on television," he said. "I think I belong more on TV than I do on the road. My stuff is low key—I'm not a screamer. It belongs more on television than nightclubs."

Newhart and Miss Burnett will appear occasionally in a comedy skit for the series, but they are not to be considered as a regular team. Bob will still do the monologues which made him famous.

It won't be easy; television rarely is. Comedians are a prominent part of video's graveyard and Newhart knows this.

"I have the luxury now of going on the road and trying out a monologue," said Bob, explaining how he brushes up for his infrequent television appearances.

* * * *

"FOR INSTANCE, I tried out the monologue I used on Jack Paar's show five or six times on the road."

He hopes to be able to do the same with material he'll be using in 27 out of the 36 "Entertainer" segments.

"When the series starts I think I'll go out one night a week to a college or a club and try material we'll be doing in the show," he said. "That way we'll get some idea how it will work.

"Recently I was down in Palm Springs and talked with Harpo Marx. He told me the brothers used to go out on the road and try out scenes before they used them in a picture. They would never put something in a picture if it didn't work on the road."

Such testing can give you some insurance against a flop performance, said Newhart.

"It's better than going out there and not having an idea how the monologue is going to work," he said. "I've gone on with a piece of material that I thought was sensational and got seven minutes of silence.

"And I've also used a piece of material I planned to throw away and found that it was great."

All of which proves that television comedy is no laughing matter — especially when nobody laughs.

SPECIAL

STAR PARADE—The Marines really landed at CBS Television City, as 1,050 of them take part in Meredith Willson's third hour-long special at 10 p.m., ch. 2, a musical salute to young America. A thousand Marines from Camp Pendleton (given compensating liberty the weekend after taping) join in a musical physical fitness exercise drill of push-ups and straddle jumps, and in a flag-waving medley of patriotic songs, reminiscent of George M. Cohan. Also featured are the 50-man official Marine Drum and Bugle Corps from Washington; singers Jack Jones, Vikki Carr, Joe and Eddie and The Young Americans; plus saxophonist Fred Hemke and Presidential assistant Brooks Hays with his Arkansas-flavored political humor. (Final Willson hour will be a repeat of an earlier special on Aug. 31.)

TELEPHONE HOUR—Florence Henderson is singing hostess to a group of rising young stars in the first of series' new theatre-in-the-round summer format to continue until Oct. 6. Opener, at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 4, features British singer-comedienne Shani Wallis, pop singer Ethel Ennis, jazz pianist Bobby Troup, Canadian singer Doug Crosley, Met tenor Rolf Bjoerling, teenage concert violinist Glenn Dicterow and dancers Liane Plane and Allen Knowles.

VACATION FROM TV 'GRIND'

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

So Merv Griffin Spends It on Summer-Stock Stage

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Merv Griffin is "on vacation," but you'd never think so from the surface evidence.

The personable performer is appearing five mornings a week on his "Word for Word" NBC television show as usual, and if you range widely enough around the Eastern seaboard, you also can find him on some theater stage six nights a week, not to mention a couple of matinees.

"But to me," Griffin said, "it is like a vacation to get away from the television grind for a few weeks and travel around to these summer stock theaters and play in 'Broadway.' Julann, my wife, and our son, Tony, who is four years old, go with me, and, since I enjoy doing the play, it is like a holiday."

* * * *

THE FACT that Griffin still appears regularly on his own created-and-produced program, "Word for Word," is possible because he worked overtime in June to put on video tape enough of these shows to span the July-August period.

"And it was quite a chore there for a couple of weeks," Griffin said. "You see, we started the play June 15 at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, Pa., for a two-week engagement, and all during that time I was coming back to New York daily to tape the television advances. Part of the time I commuted by helicopter. But that double-duty is now over, and I can relax just doing the play."

* * * *

GRIFFIN will get a pair of really carefree weeks the latter part of August after his nine-week tour in "Broadway" ends at the John Drew Playhouse in East Hampton, Long Island.

But why does a well-employed and financially assured star want to racket around like this when he might be having a really relaxed summer?

"I enjoy it," Griffin said. "You know, I'm not a theater personality. I was a singer with bands, I did some movies work and I got into radio and television.

"Last summer, I took a chance at appearing in the stage comedy, 'The Moon is Blue,' for Mike Ellis at the Bucks County Playhouse. I'm not bragging when I say we set a record for reciepts in a theater that is now in its 25th season and that has had a lot of real stage stars. I guess that did it, I got bitten by the stage bug.

"And you know something. The only reason people came to see me then was because of that afternoon television hour I had on NBC that the network cancelled a little over a year ago.

When Lovable Jane Socks Youngster, All Is Forgiven

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jane Wyatt, the serene mother of "Father Knows Best," slugs a kid in a new television show, but that won't dispel her image as lovable Margaret Anderson.

Anyone who belts a kid actor can't be all bad, and such is the case with Miss Wyatt.

But she is so firmly established in the minds of televiewers as the ideal housewife and mother that she could spend the rest of her career strangling smallfry on television with impunity.

JANE WYATT

"I played the role of Margaret Anderson for six years," she said during a lunch break at Universal Studios. "And the show has been running ever since (four years). Everywhere I go people call me Mrs. Anderson. And because I played Robert Young's wife, they frequently refer to me as Mrs. Young. It's all very confusing."

* * * *

FOR HER ROLE in NBC's "Project 120," a two-hour special titled "The Window-Makers," Miss Wyat has donned a blonde wig to help disguise her identity. But it won't help much. She still looks like Margaret Anderson.

"I have no objection to being so closely identified with that role," she smiled. "She was a generous, intelligent and decent woman. I'll always be thought of in that light.

"Even the crew members of this special I'm doing call me Margaret from time to time. I don't mind a bit."

In private life Miss Wyatt is Mrs. Edgar Ward, and she has been married 29 years. She is the mother of two sons, Christopher, 27, and Michael, 20. Christopher recently made her a grandmother.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to her own family, Jane considers herself mother by proxy to the youngsters who portrayed her children for 234 segments of "Father Knows Best." She corresponds regularly with Elinor Donahue (now Mrs. Harry Ackerman, and Billy Gray.

"They call me from time to time just to talk things over," Miss Wyatt said. "I find it very flattering.

"And, of course, Bob Young and I have remained good friends since the show went off the air. He is a wonderful man and a really terrific father to his own children."

* * * *

"THE WINDOW-MAKERS" will be seen this fall and later released in Europe as a feature movie. In it Miss Wyatt plays a disagreeable maiden aunt who is stuck with three orphaned children, one of which she socks in the kisser, as noted earlier.

It isn't the first time Jane Wyatt-Margaret Anderson has departed from her sweet-as-honey image. In a recent segment of "The Virginian" she played a psychopath who murdered her daughter.

You'd think that would have been enough to blow the Margaret Anderson bit for good and all.

"Not so," said Jane. "I guess I'm one of the few actresses in Hollywood who can get away with murder."

The summer warmth sometimes makes all our tempers short. This is particularly true if the foods selected at a store don't measure up to what we expect when we prepare them at home.

Many of you have had the experience of purchasing some ground beef or pork sausage that looked o.k. in a store, but when you got it in the frypan at home, you ended up with very little meat and a lot of fat.

And how many times have you wound up at home trying to eat fruits and vegetables that just weren't as nice and fresh as they appeared to be at the store?

All of us here at CHERRY AVE. FOOD & LIQUOR MART, (1429 CHERRY AVE. —1½ blks. north of Anaheim St.) are intensely dedicated to not letting this sort of thing happen to you, our customers.

We like to think we do a pretty fair job of this, because new customers seem to keep coming back regularly, and to tell their friends and neighbors about our cheerful, friendly store, and the high quality foods and low prices we offer.

For instance, in our meat department (THORNDIKE'S FINE MEATS), we put just enough fat for flavor (and to cook it with) in our pork sausage and ground beef items, and NO MORE! That and the special painstaking way we use only the finest eastern corn-fed pork and season it just right must be why many folks come from considerable distance regularly to buy it. They claim they haven't found the quality duplicated anywhere else at ANY price.

Our fruits and vegetables have to be field-fresh or we just won't offer them to you.

Alongside Del Monte and all the other great national brands we carry at lowest competitive prices, the only private label we carry is Springfield, whose quality is attested to by the hundreds of grocers who belong to the gigantic Certified Grocers buying cooperative.

It's a lot of trouble to stick to standards like this, but we think it's well worth it!

SPECIAL

CHOOSING A CANDIDATE —How Sen. Barry Goldwater and his forces achieved their convention victory is told through editing 120,000 feet of film taken starting last March in New Hampshire. Highlight is an extensive, and frank, interview with Goldwater, embodying his own interpretation of the strategy used. Full-hour news special, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 4, also looks ahead to how the Democrats will select their Vice-Presidential candidate.

WORLD FAIR DIARY — NBC correspondent Edwin Newman takes a look at the New York World's Fair, offering his personal advice to fairgoers based on his own tour of the fairgrounds, during an hour-long color special at 10 p.m., ch. 4. In a fun-and-pun-filled look at the major exhibits and pavilions, from the trouble-ridden Belgian village to a 95c, 3-min. log flume ride, Newman notes the good-natured patience of tired Americans whiling away the long waits in lines by reading, taking pictures, having lunch or just meditating.

★ SPECIAL

STEVE ALLEN SHOW — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, first woman to win election to both the House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, first 3-term woman Senator and now first woman placed in nomination for President by a major political party, joins Steve for some candid conversation about the GOP convention at 11:15 p.m., ch. 5. She discusses her appeal to the voting public, male prejudice she has encountered in Washington and her disagreement on most issues with Sen. Barry Goldwater. The Chad Mitchell Trio, which Wednight offered the banned-on-radio "Barry's Boys," returns with a new song ribbing JBS.

CARMEN PHILLIPS is involved in a drama about a bachelor running from marriage during "Destry" at 7:30 p. m. Friday, channel 7.

Sports Today

FIGHT OF WEEK, 10 p.m., ch. 7, has tapes of tonight's 10-round middleweight Garden bout between Jose Gonzalez and former champion Dick Tiger.

MAKE THAT SPARE, 10:45 p.m., ch. 7, has Johnny King challenging last week's Schroeder-McCoy winner.

Local Area Students Win Scholastic Bout

Whittier College recently won the title of "Retired Undefeated Champion" on the Sunday "GE College Bowl" color series.

Representing the college on the television program were Janice Keike Takahashi of La Mirada, Chester Arthur Larue Jr. of Anaheim, John T. Guidas Jr. of San Gabriel and Joellen Mann of Sacramento.

To earn the title, the Whittier students in scholastic competition consecutively defeated representatives of five other colleges. They earned $10,500 in scholarship grants for Whittier College.

Law Clerk

William Tallman, district attorney on "Perry Mason," has worked as a law clerk, laborer, auto salesman and tennis professional.

Launch Air Traffic Watch

The helicopter air watch is coming to Orange County on Monday, courtesy radio station KWIZ (1480) and a Santa Ana new car dealer.

Traffic congestion, rapidly a rising problem throughout metropolitan Orange County, and the adjacent Long Beach area, will be broadcast daily to motorists during peak traffic hours.

Raymond T. McKenzie, general manager of KWIZ, said four Hughes 300 helicopters will patrol freeways and major traffic arterials throughout the area, and will advise motorists of adverse traffic conditions.

Heading the traffic monitoring operation will be Maj. Chuck Weitzel Jr., retired Marine air ace, a veteran of 22 years service.

Also being considered, air watch officials reported, is the possibility helicopters may be used to fly doctors to accident scenes where heavy traffic would delay ground rescue operations.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is fiberglass FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION
Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglass FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

Fiberglass brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS
FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN
FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

LICENSED & INSURED
Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc. is a state licensed Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach & Orange County area. I apply for Accumulative Accident Insurance, to become effective day policy is issued, and dated. I understand that it takes about 10 days to issue a policy and agree (1) to pay the premium of 65c per month; (2) designate person who collects for my newspaper as my messenger to deliver premium to above office; (3) that policy will automatically expire if I fail to pay premium when due. Insurance does not cover persons who have lost both hands and feet, or the sight of both eyes.

☐ FOR FIRST POLICY IN FAMILY—Send no money, pay carrier 65c each month at the same time you pay for paper.

☐ FOR EACH ADDITIONAL POLICY IN FAMILY—Enclose $7.50 Annual Premium with each application.
